DEAR SIRS,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN,—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,

Your obedient humble servant,

GEO. W. STRATHY, MUS. DOC.,

Professor of the Chair of Music of the University of Trinity College, Toronto, &c.

"The Man in the Moon."

From the earliest period of history many people have believed that a man really inhabitated the moon; some thought he was made of green cheese, while others had their doubts about it—be that as it may, whether there is a man in the moon or not, there is no doubt in the solid fact that is a man, and alive to the requirements of his many customers, and having determined from his first commencing business to use nothing but the Very best of Material in the manufacture of his Harness and other Goods in his Line, and by strictly adhering to this rule, his business has increased so rapidly that he has hard work to fill all the orders that are daily pouring in upon him, thus showing that the Farmers specially, and the public generally, fully appreciate the work turned out at his shop. All work made under the supervision and instruction of competent and skilled workmen, at

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 13, 1882.

The Elections.

We are requested to announce that arrangements are in progress for meetings of the Liberal party in East and West Peterborough at an early day, the precise date of which we are not in a position at present to definitely announce. It is desirable that as many friends of the party as can possibly make it convenient will be present at the meetings, due notice of which will be given.

"Hard Up for a Defence."

We do not propose to pay any attention to the efforts of the Review to prove that in taking the position it took on the trade question twelve years ago and the position it takes now, it has been uniformly consistent. In order to make out his case our contemporary claims that his twelve-year-old article has been garbled, and in order to do him the most ample justice we shall supply all the portions that on its own showing have been omitted. They are as follows:—

"That we should adopt a policy, a National Policy if you please, calculated to protect our own interest is beyond question. . . . That it is desirable to afford every reasonable encouragement to those disposed to engage in the manufacture of any of the many articles for which the country is suited is also beyond question. . . . Our political creed with regard to the question of tariff may be briefly stated to be, first that duties shall only be levied for the purpose of revenue; secondly, that in their imposition they shall be made to bear as heavily as possible on the luxuries of life, and as lightly as possible on the necessaries of life, particularly those which the country cannot produce, and thirdly, that a proportionately heavier duty should be placed upon the manufactured article than on the raw material from which it is made, in order that incidentally encouragement may be afforded to the manufacturers."

Now we leave our readers without hesitation the task of deciding for themselves, whether the position of the Review has been misrepresented by the omission of these passages. To our thinking they are amongst its strongest endorsations of the policy of the Opposition of to-day, and as such they might, with perfect fitness, have appeared in the columns of the most anti-Tilley-tariff journal in the Dominion. Everybody wants a sound "National Policy, calculated to protect our own interest;" and everybody is willing "to encourage those disposed to engage" or already engaged, in the manufacture of articles for which the country is suited. Every Liberal journal in the country and every member of the Liberal Opposition in Parliament will subscribe heartily to the three principles of taxation the Review laid down as its own in 1870, namely, (1) that duties should be levied for the purposes of revenue only; (2) that they should be made to bear as heavily as possible on the luxuries and as lightly as possible on the necessaries of life; and (3) that a proportionately higher duty should be levied on the manufactured article than on the raw material from which it is made. We shall take another opportunity of discussing the question whether the Tilley tariff or the Galt-Cartwright tariff best fulfils these conditions, our present object being simply to do the Review the justice it is entitled to, by quoting its own opinions of twelve years ago fairly.

Besides taking refuge under a charge of "garbling" the Review puts forward in its own defence the plea that it has a right to change its opinions even to the extent of taking up a position on the trade question "diametrically opposite" to the one it occupied on All-Fool's day in 1870. No one would dream for a moment of denying it that privilege, but all who read its sensible opinion forcibly and tersely expressed in 1870, and its absurd views expressed to-day, in a halting and half-hearted style, must be allowed to form their own opinions as to whether the Review was arguing honestly in 1870, or in 1882, or in both years. This point like the former, we unhesitatingly leave the electors to decide for themselves, simply advising them to read carefully the utterances of both periods and compare them. We cannot help also submitting that our contemporary's line of defence is not very effective, when in one part of his article he rests this justification on his right to alter his opinions, and in another, on the plea that he has never altered them at all. It would have been better for himself either to have frankly admitted the change of view and justified it, or to have argued that there was no change, and not to have attempted both lines of defence.

No part of the Review's article of Wednesday last, is more worthy of the attention of all who wish to get at the truth in this trade controversy, than the portion explaining its attitude towards the farmer in 1870, and its attitude towards him now. In order to get at the true inwardness of our contemporary's refutation of his own arguments, we reproduce the latter in full:—

"But to us, the greatest absurdity in the whole scheme of the Protectionists is that of the farmer and the coal of Nova Scotia. We fancy a great many of these gentlemen "see through it" quite well but then to carry out their own game they must not only scratch each other's backs, but they must try, or make the farmers believe they are trying, which amounts very often to the same thing, to protect him. Does any sane man believe that the imposition of 25 or 50 cents duty per barrel will put a single penny into any farmer's pocket? If so we would like to know how it is to be brought about? What is to be done with the surplus grown every year in the Dominion? If the price of wheat is to be advanced by the duty, who is going to buy the surplus at this enhanced price, and send it out of the Dominion at a loss? By the imposition of such a duty millers may make something, but the farmers of Ontario not a cent, while the consumers will have to pay that much more for their flour, the greatest part of which will go in paying freight, and then in order to make the increased price in the staff of life palatable in Nova Scotia, a duty is to be imposed on coal, so that we may be compelled to buy their coal in return for their buying our bread, and just with about the same result—we will have to pay an additional price, the duty, whatever it may be."

The Review contends now that the reasoning in this extract was entirely wrong in 1870, and bases its contention on the fact that there is not a surplus of wheat grown every year in the Dominion for export. This is a virtual admission that the reasoning is correct whenever there happens to be a surplus, and as there will always be more wheat raised than we can use after the North-West begins to export, it follows that the above appeal to the farmers is sound for every year. But even if we never had a surplus for export at all, its reasoning is peculiarly appropriate under the operation of the Tilley tariff, for an essential feature of the present Government's fiscal policy is that they have obtained from Parliament the right to throw off the duties on breadstuffs whenever there is a deficiency of home-grown wheat. In other words, this protective, paternal Government has asked and obtained power to prevent the farmer from being protected by the tariff in the only years in which he can possibly be protected, that is to say the years in which we do not grow enough wheat for home consumption and are compelled to import it. When there is a surplus, therefore, a duty on wheat or flour, no matter how heavy it may be, cannot put a cent in the farmer's pocket, because the price of what he has to sell is regulated in the foreign market; when there is a deficit a duty on wheat would enable him to get better prices, but he is to be prevented in those years from getting them by the temporary removal of the duty. The Review, in 1872 asked the farmers of Peterborough to vote for Grover and Cluxton if they desired to have their industry developed by judicious encouragement and protection; we ask the farmers of Peterborough now to judge the Conservate candidates in the coming contest by the position in which they are placed by the Tilley tariff. They see the Government displaying the utmost anxiety to protect every interest but their own and that of the lumberman, who is their natural ally. They see heavy taxes placed on the necessaries of life which go to increase the cost of many articles they cannot avoid purchasing. They are heavily fined in order to enable the manufacturer to make money, and they see also the protection held out to themselves in one hand stealthily filched away from them by the other. They see the grain duties so fixed that in the only years when they could profit by them they are to be taken off, and they see the duties on wool so arranged that nearly all the enormous quantity imported comes in duty free, in the interest of the woollen manufacturer, though the United States wool grown is highly protected by the fiscal system there in force. The Tilley tariff injures the farmer by adding to the cost of his living and then insults him by pretending to protect him while it actually does nothing for him.

Water Works.

In view of discussions respecting a water supply for our town the following will prove of interest.

The London Water Commissioners are having a systematic investigation made as to the quality of the water used by those who are not supplied from the city system. The revelations show that a great deal of impure water is used, and it is possible that a by-law will be passed in the Council closing up the wells.

It is very generally admitted that the present water supply of the centre of this town is impure and dangerous to health, the wells being in close proximity to sources of impurity that must filter into some of them. This applies more particularly to Ward No. 2, a ward which pays, we believe as much taxes or nearly so, as the other three Wards. Nearly all the hotels and business places are in it, and it is to be hoped that the Company and town will take decided steps to secure pure water for those in the Ward who are compelled to use water, so that the ratepayers of this Ward may have a supply for use as well as for fire purposes. Should a fire occur on such a day as Tuesday, with only the means we now have for subduing it—what would be the replace the buildings that would be destroyed, and now when times are brightening, surely we have a right to ask the Council to act promptly. The Water Company say the works will be in order by first to fifteenth July next, if they are afforded any reasonable inducements. If this is not done we may be another year before we get any adequate supply for fire protection. In the mean time the responsibility rests on the Town Council, a responsibility not to be lightly considered, as one fire might prove disastrous to the very best portion of the town. The dust yesterday was horrible and must have caused considerable loss to merchants, but it is nothing to the loss that would be entailed by a very small fire in or near the business centre of the town, while any large conflagration would cause a loss to our citizens of more than would supply fire protection to the whole town for two years. The difficulty with the Council appears to be that in protecting the centre of the town the rest of the town will be unduly taxed. As we have said the business portion of the town now pays more than one-half the taxes, but when we consider that the majority of the mechanics, salesmen and business men living in outlying portions gain their daily bread in or near George street, and are dependant on these doing business there for the payment of their wages, we can see what a calamity it would be to them if the business places were burned up. Besides being thrown out of employment themselves for months, most of their fate of our town? It would take years to employers would be sadly crippled if not ruined. We hope the Committee will act promptly, economically, and wisely, and advise the Water Company with as little delay as possible to furnish a supply, at any rate, for protection against fire, but by no means losing sight of a supply of pure water at as early a day as possible—taking care also that the expense be as moderate as shall be consistent with the best interests of the ratepayers.

The Boundary Vote.

The Conservative party managers in Ontario have committed themselves thoroughly to the policy of playing into the hands of the people of Quebec in the boundary dispute. They have put on record in the Ontario Parliament more than once their opinion that the award of 1878 was a fair and just one and that it ought to be ratified by the Dominion Parliament. They assisted in passing an Act in the Ontario Parliament in 1880 intended to give effect to that award. Compelled by the attitude of Sir John Macdonald to surrender the position they formerly took, they are now engaged in the pleasant task of eating leeks all round and constraining the rank and file of the party in convention assembled to do their share of leek-eating along with them. It needed only the late vote in the House of Commons to complete the humiliation of the party. That vote took place on a motion of Mr. Plumb, which ignores altogether the fair award of 1878, and proposes a new arbitration on the same evidence by either the Supreme Court or the Privy Council. As this new arbitration would be in itself no more binding than the old one, as the French Bleus would be as strongly opposed to a new award as fair to Ontario as the one made in 1878, and as Sir John Macdonald will be just as dependent on these same Bleus for political existence as he ever was, it is evident that the step proposed by Mr. Plumb is one which this Province could not assent to, apart altogether from the wrong and insult heaped upon her by the policy of repudiation which has been adopted at Ottawa. Not until now has the hand of the Dominion Government been fully displayed. We know now what we have to expect, if Ontario, at the approaching election, fails to do her share in the work of turning out the present administration and putting one in that will do her justice. The Conservative representatives from the Midland District, to do them justice, were not unanimous in voting for the disgraceful capitulation to French Bleu dictation. Those who voted were:—

CAMERON, (Victoria.)
BOWELL.
GUILLET.
McQUADE.
WHITE, (Hastings.)
WILLIAMS.

Those who were ashamed or afraid to vote with their associates, were:—

HILLIARD.
BURNHAM.

The Liberal members who voted to sustain Ontario's rights, were:—

BLAKE.
BROWN.
COCKBURN.
CROUTER.
GLEN.
WHELER.

Take Your Choice.

For ground and lofty tumbling the editorials of the Review on the subject of the N. P. beat anything that the world has ever witnessed before. It has not been uncommon for the organ to get on the fence and teter there, until it received orders from headquarters upon which side to fall, as was also the case in the Boundary Award, but never before has it acquired the political dexterity of occupying both sides of the fence at the same time. If the editorial had not been couched in such a serious vein, appearing as it did on the morning of April 1st, we should have concluded that it was intended for an "April fool" upon its readers, based upon the idea that, "you pays your money and you takes your choice." Some one may be so uncharitable as to think that the organ has received orders from the Minister of Interior to manufacture opinions to be used in bolstering up the Government in all the frauds that are being committed, or for the purpose of making its opinions conform to his. But such a thought should not be entertained for a moment, for its consistency would never be surrendered for such a paltry consideration as that.

LABOR AND THE N. P.

The result of careful inquiry as to the rate of wages paid to artisans under the revenue tariffs of 1872 and 1878, compared with that paid under the present protective tariff, shows that while wages are slightly better than they were in 1878 (a result due to the revival of trade not only on this continent but in the motherland) they are no better than those paid in 1872, when the cost of living was much less. The following is a comparison of the wages paid in Toronto per diem at the periods named:—

	Jan. 1872	Jan. 1878.	Jan. 1882.
Bricklayers	$2 75	$2 00	$2 50
Carpenters & stair-builders	2 00	1 50	2 00
Gas and steam-fitters and plumbers	1 75	1 00	1 75
Hod-carriers, &c.	1 50	1 25	1 50
Stone-cutters	3 00	3 00	3 00
Masons	2 50	1 75	2 25
Painters	1 75	1 50	1 75

Editorial Notes.

It is stated that the Prince and Princess of Wales will visit Canada after next season, coming by way of New York.

The Bill to legalize marriage with a deceased wife's sister passed a final reading by an unexpectedly large majority in the Senate on Tuesday. The vote stood, 40 to 19. The growth of public sentiment in its favour has had its influence.

Of 265 Ontario farmers interviewed on the N. P., 247 condemn it, to 18 who favor it. And why should not the farmers condemn a policy which—bringing them in not a penny of additional money—increases the price of everything they have to buy?

Sir Jobbery Tupper has met with another accident of circumstances. As Minister of Railways he was in negotiation for the purchase of one hundred second-hand coal hoppers of B. Burland, Montreal, for the Intercolonial at $228 each, when a sudden conscientious qualm caused him to draw back because the inspector had reported that the cars were unsuitable for the road and might jump the track. His conscience did not trouble him long, and although the inspector's report still existed the purchase was made, and the public money squandered.

Whitby Chronicle:—"Even the Orange men of Ontario, pledged party men as most of them are, cannot shut their eyes to the outrage put upon this Province by Sir John Macdonald in the matter of the Boundary Award. An address to the brethren on the subject is being circulated over the signatures of leading Orangemen. It makes out a strong case in its charge that Sir John Macdonald has maintained his position so long, but by the continual surrender of the interests of Ontario to the jealousy of the solid majority of Quebec."

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company have issued a new set of regulations which will for the present govern all the sales of land. In order to prevent speculative purchases of their land they have raised the nominal price to $5 an acre, one-forth of the purchase money to be paid at the time of sale and the balance in five years with interest. The rebate for land brought under cultivation is very large, being in fact three-fourths of the original five dollars per acre. Failure to fulfil the conditions as to the time and amount of the payments made by the settler entail, as before, absolute forfeiture, and it is now added that the option reserved to the Company of resuming the forfeited lands "it not to interfere with or to supersede the ordinary legal or equitable remedies" they may have for the recovery of the purchase money with interest. Unwilling to deal with the troublesome question of squatters' claims, the Syndicate by the new regulations give the purchaser of their land the option of either ejecting anyone who may have squatted on it or of giving up the land.

Lindsay Post:—The poor old Review is so completely confused and humbled over our exposure of what the Globe calls its "shabby" conduct in garbling and its complete somersault on the protection question that it hides its head under the "different management" blanket, and "goes the whole hog" in claiming for the tariff the good times of the present day. As well claim credit for the N. P. for the advance in barley at Oswego the other day. The Review declines to give the statements of the manufacturers, which fully met all its contentions, on the ground that "it must decline to assist in the dirty work of misrepresenting the condition of the country." That's a nice way to get out of a difficulty; but it is a characteristic way....Since the above was writen the Review has returned to the subject and essays a defence of its article reprinted in the Post last week. Our cotemporary's principal defence is that the article in question appeared on the first of April, 1870! Well, we frankly admit there is something in that plea. The date is ominous and significant. We would advise our cotemporary in future not write or print articles on the first of April in any year. By this present plea it writes itself down with Dogberry.

The proper slope in writing is at an angle of fifty-two degrees, and the proper pen for the purpose is one of Esterbrook's. Samples free on application to the Esterbrook Steel Pen Co., 26 John St., New York.

Mr. Peter Vermett, Hochelaga, P. Q., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me of rheumatism after I tried many medicines to no purpose. It is a good medicine." Just think of it—you can relieve the twings of rheumatism, or the most painful attack of neuralgia—you can check a cough, and heal bruised or broken skin with a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, costing only 25 cents.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Mr. Rutherford, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, presented and read the following report:—

1st. That we recommend that—hydrants are required for fire protection, and that the ratepayers be requested to indicate to the Council where such hydrants should be placed, in order that the Water Company may be enabled to proceed at once with the construction of the same, and that nothing in this recommendation will compel or bind the Council to pay for hydrants unless asked for by by-law 437, amending the same.

2nd. That 500 feet of "Eclipse" hose be ordered at $1.40 per foot, and that the clerk be authorized to rescind the order to Merry Weather and Co.

(Signed) A. RUTHERFORD, Chairman.

Mr. Rutherford in moving the reception of the report said that as there was not a quorum at the last meeting called of the committee, he had not thought it advisable to recommend the number of hydrants. There were two acts under which the Council could take action—the general one, levying a local tax, and a special Act passed at the last session of the Legislature, giving the Council power to locate the hydrants, and provide by general tax for their cost.

Mr. Poussette seconded the motion for the reception of the report, and moved that Mr. D. G. Hatton be heard before the Council in reference to the capacity of the hydrants.

Mr. Hatton said the water works company were now arranging for the commencement of the work, and that the contract for the pipes had been awarded to R. Laidlaw & Son, of Glasgow. The company had employed Mr. Surtees of Ottawa to take levels of the town and prepare plans for the works. He had also submitted a suggestion as to the number of hydrants which would be required for the protection of property in the town. The company now asked the Council to state upon what side streets pipes would be required, so that pipes might be ordered, and in laying the main pipe from Hilliard's dam to Wolfe street, joints might be placed at the intersection of the several side streets on which pipes would be required. The company had ordered twenty hydrants to be placed on George street, and if others were required for side streets they would have to be ordered. Valves would have to be placed in the pipes at intervals, and these would have to be built in with cedar. A sufficient number had been ordered for George street, but as the side streets would require smaller ones it was necessary to know if the Council intended to have the works extended beyond George street. The company, of course, were bound to put down a 12 inch main from the source of supply at Hilliard's dam to Brock Street, a 10 inch main from Brock to King, and an 8 inch main from King to Wolfe street, and the town was not bound to take any hydrants, yet the company thought it their duty to lay the matter before the Council, so that if they wished to have the work extended, the company could make the necessary arrangements to have the work done this year, as if not ordered this summer the work could not be proceeded with till after the 15th of April, next year. To lay the main pipe as required by the By-law, 10,000 feet of pipe would be required, and if the plan submitted by Mr. Surtees was adopted, 5,000 feet extra would be required. This entailed a large outlay of money. The cost of laying the pipes alone would be $10,000, as the specifications required that they should be laid six feet below the surface of the street. The pump house and wheels would cost $14,000. The pumps would have a capacity of 600 gallons per minute, or a total capacity of 1,750,000 gallons per day. For domestic purposes there would be a pressure of 50 lbs to the square inch and for fire purposes 150 lbs. There had been a cry raised that the system was in the interests of the heavy ratepayers, but this was not so, as for five dollars a year a sufficient supply of pure water for the domestic requirements of an ordinary household could be had.

Mr. Rutherford asked why Mr. Gamble, the chief promoter of the company, had withdrawn.

Mr. Hatton explained that Mr. Gamble had proposed to place a 30 inch turbine [illegible] but then the Company had been advised by different practical men that this power would be insufficient, and they resolved to increase it. This, together with the fact of the stringency of the By-law led Mr. Gamble to withdraw, and the Company now was composed of ratepayers of the town, another strong fact to dispel the cry at one time raised that the town would be at the mercy of a Yankee company. In conclusion, Mr. Hatton said the pipes were expected here during the month of May, and unless some unforeseen circumstance should occur the works would be in operation by the 1st of July.

On motion, the Council went into Committee of the whole on the consideration of the report. Mr. Wilson in the chair.

Mr. Poussette said he had not given the matter any special consideration, but thought the Council should take action to afford protection to every house in town. If not done in this way he feared petitions would not be sent in for hydrants until after a fire had occurred. He believed it better to take the hydrants from the company at once. Merchants on George street might petition for hydrants to protect George street, but adjacent property might be left unprotected, and thus endanger that which was otherwise protected. About 60 hydrants would be required and their cost, he held, should be equitably divided over the who town.

Mr. MacNaughton had not changed his mind since the matter was up for discussion. Then it was said that only those who petitioned for water should have to pay for it. He didn't think it just that those in the outskirts of the town should pay for the protection of George street.

Mr. Denne asked if hydrants were only placed upon George street would the whole town have to pay for them?

The Mayor—That remains for the Council to say.

Mr. Poussette advocated the putting down of hydrants for the whole town or not put them down at all. By a local tax the town, as a whole, would only have a very limited protection. The town of Sarnia had a similar system of water-works to that about to be located here. They were now paying a handsome dividend and would in a year or two produce a larger revenue than would pay the interest.

Mr. Mensies supported the By-law on the ground that those only who used the water should pay for it, and he did not wish to see this arrangement changed. He thought an Act should be procured making the landlord and tenant pay jointly for the fire protection to the building and contents. He did not think the Council should take the responsibility of locating hydrants for the town.

The Mayor thought the town held the same position towards the Water Company as it did with the Gas Company. They could arrange for the use of the hydrants for a number of years for a fixed sum. He was prepared to support a scheme to take a hydrant for each of the churches, and one for the public buildings on the Market Square, and for watering the streets, but would not support a general scheme at present. He thought some little encouragement should be given the Company, and for this purpose would favor the town taking the hydrants he had mentioned. Before taking others he thought a public meeting should be called and the matter left to the vote of the people.

Mr. Richardson would adhere to the terms of the by-law and let those who wanted the water pay for it. From the remarks made by leading citizens he had thought these gentlemen would be only too glad to have the chance of obtaining protection by means of petitioning for it.

Mr Alford favored a general tax, and thought there was no ratepayer who would object paying his mite towards the protection of George Street. As the Company was composed of residents of the town, he thought it should be dealt with liberally. The Company did not ask the town to take the hydrants, but to state where they would be required.

Mr. Denne thought a general system should be adopted.

Mr. Rutherford said that in a short time the present tanks in the town would need repair, and this was another reason why he thought the Council should not give the matter the cold shoulder. He did not favor the whole town paying for hydrants for the benefit of sections. He thought the only true way to do was to make the system general. The system would provide water for domestic purposes, and as the water to be provided, had been pronounced very pure by two of the best scientists in America, he thought it desirable to have the system extended throughout the town.

Mr. Poussette asked what was the cost of our present system of fire protection, and if hydrants were put down only where petitioned for, would the town have still to pay for the maintenance of a fire engine.

The Clerk said the cost of the present system of fire-protection was about $1500.

Mr. Mensies said while water-works might prevent a fire spreading, they would not prevent the building in which a fire occurred, from being destroyed, and instanced the large fires in Chicago, New York and other cities where the best water-works systems were in operation.

Mr. Rutherford said last year the cost of our present system was over $2200. The steam fire engine was now badly out of repair and would cost two or three hundred dollars to renew the fires and make the necessary repairs. In a short time it would have to be replaced by a new one, which would entail a large outlay, but which would be obviated by a general system of water-works.

The discussion was brought to a close by the submission of the following motion, which was carried, two other amendments having been proposed and withdrawn:

Moved by Mr. Poussette, seconded by Mr. Alford,—That this Committee recommend that the question be referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, to ascertain and report to this Council the number of hydrants required for the efficient protection of the whole town from fire, and the best terms upon which the water company would be prepared to supply hydrants.

On motion the Committee rose and reported progress as per resolution passed.

The first portion of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee was allowed to stand over and the second part adopted.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.

The auditors, Messrs. Pearse and Hall, handed in their report for 1881, an abstract statement of which was read by the Clerk, showing a surplus at the end of the year of $2,842.01, after paying all outstanding accounts, or providing for their payment.

PRINTING.

The Chairman of the Printing Committee, in reply to Mr. MacNaughton, said the Clerk had been getting the work done so far at the same price as paid last year, and that he would call the Committee together this week.

OPENING STREETS.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr Poussette,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to have all the streets of the town opened to the public.—Carried.

AN ENQUIRY AND EXPLANATION.

Mr. Denne asked how much had been received, in compliance with a resolution on the books, for the use of the Council Chamber, and was informed by the Clerk that one dollar had been received. He wished to know why it had been refused to a meeting of ratepayers last Monday evening, although the dollar had been paid for it.

Mr. Beavis said he did not open it because he had not received an order to do so. When the dollar had been paid him he had consulted Mr. Poussette, who was acting Mayor, but that gentleman would not take the responsibility.

Mr. Poussette did not consider he had the power to grant an order, and if he had he did not know whether he should have done so, as he did not consider the meeting in question one of a public or benevolent character, but rather of a private nature.

Mr. Rutherford said he did not blame Mr. Poussette but he did blame Mr. Beavis for usurping his authority.

Mr. Cahill did not think the cause of the opponents of the by-law suffered much. They had the use of an adjoining room, which was comfortably heated and lighted and quite large enough to accommodate all who attended.

REMOVING STONES OFF STREET.

Moved by Mr. Richardson, seconded by Mr. Mensies,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to have the large rolling stones removed off the principal streets of the town.

MRS. DUGAN'S ALLOWANCE.

Moved by Mr. Poussette, seconded by Mr. Wilson,—That the allowance to Mrs. Dugan be continued until otherwise ordered by the Council.—Carried.

THE MARKET BY-LAW.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Richardson,—That the hour prohibiting forestalling on the market be changed till eleven o'clock in the forenoon, and that the corporate seal be attached to this resolution, to give it the effect of a by-law.

Mr. Poussette said the Market By-law, passed at a late meeting of the Council fixed the hour at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Rutherford said he was informed that some of the hucksters bought up everything on the market, and that others who wished to respect the By-law could get nothing when noon came.

Mr. Poussette said that the law as it stood at present, does not prevent the farmer from going to the hucksters, but merely prevents the hucksters from buying before a certain hour.

Mr. Cahill said for several years the hour had been fixed at eleven o'clock and it had been found to work well. Last year the hour had been changed to half-past ten, but this did not work so satisfactorily. He thought the motion should be allowed to carry.

The motion was carried.

MIDLAND RAILWAY STOCK.

Mr. Denne asked if any action had been taken to find out if the statement made by the auditors last year that the town held £30,000 stock of the Midland Railway was correct, and where the auditors received their information.

The Clerk said the matter had been referred to the Finance Committee, but no action was taken in the matter.

Mr. Denne said, he would take the matter up at the next meeting.

FILLING UP SPAULDING'S BAY.

Mr. Cahill gave notice that at the next meeting of the Council he would move that steps be taken for the filling up of Spaulding's Bay.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

PORT HOPE.

The Brakemen's Benevolent Association of Port Hope, was organized a few days ago, and the following officers elected:—President, H. Rosevear; Vice-Presidents J. McLean and W. Rowden; Secretary, W. Wood; Treasurer, R. G. Foster; Tyler, M. Mongraw; Executive Committee, G. Pethick, F. Haskill and Thos. Rowden.

The John McCarty, of Port Hope, who was credited by the Rochester press with having been hanged there a few days ago, came to town on Tuesday to show his friends that such a fate had not been his. From his personal appearance one would be safe in coming to the conclusion, that he had never been charged with any infraction of the laws of any land.

Port Hope is enjoying the advantages of a protective system. A Chinese wall is constructed around the town in the way of toll-gates. Every through-fare, except one, is barred with those relics of barbarism. South Monaghan trade used to belong to Port Hope. The toll-gates on the Rice Lake road are driving it to Peterboro'. Thousands and thousands of dollars are being lost to Port Hope annually. Free roads from the north would create an old-time boom in Port Hope. Surely there can be an agitation got up that will work to the advantage of the town in this matter, 'ere it is too late.—News.

WINNIPEG.

Oxen are better for the first work of the farmer than horses. They don't absolutely require oats, which are hard to get at 90 cts. per bushel. They can stop work and fall to eating grass and go right to work again. They stand the exposure and hardship, and want of stabling better, and they don't get sick and die off like imported Ontario horses which are suddenly exposed to hardship.

The oxen imported from Minnesota are the best, as they are better broken and better walkers than Ontario oxen. Oxen cost from $175 to $200 a pair, and good ones cannot be got for less.

Waggons with broad tires suitable for this country with splendid boxes and well made $90. Breaking ploughs, 12 inches, $21. Iron harrows (very light) $20. Seeders, 12 rows, $85; fourteen rows $90. Self binders $350. Fanning mills $45. Best mowers $90. Hay rake $40. Discount for cash 5 to 10 per cent. Lumber at Brandon can hardly be got. It is worth $35 a thousand feet. A man should come without women or children, and when he has his house up and things comfortable then bring them on.

During the first year a medium crop of oats and potatoes can be grown. And with deep ploughing wheat can be grown, but it will pay better to grow oats and buy wheat. Some say the sod is not rolled so well when a crop is put in the first year. Good cows are worth $60 to $90.

When a man has his buildings up and his family on hand, cows, chickens, pigs, &c., may be bought but not till then. A man going in early in spring has to buy hay at a very high figure. I would advise a new settler to bring as little as possible the first year, as there is a dead loss in being cumbered with what takes time and money to import and to support, until proper preparation is made for the keeping of stock and stuff brought in.

A man must appear personally at the land office to take up land. He is often at a loss where to go and where land is open for settlement. Let the intending settler come alone, select his land, employ some one to break for him, cost of breaking and backsetting $7 an acre. Having done this get up suitable buildings and then move out in March of following year, while the sleighing is good, first having seen to it that he has on hand a good supply of wood and hay. Then his family and stock will be saved much hardship.

Looked at from a farmer's stand point, ease of work and value of crop, it is without doubt a grand country. Gold can be taken out of the soil easier than ever it was obtained in California or Australia.

Stock do well; eating grass and hay, not straw, all the year round makes large cattle, and with fair shelter in winter the hardship of housing and feeding is more than compensated by the unfailing quantity of good hay generally available.

Men who have good farms with houses, barns, orchards, (with no mortgages) in Ontario had better stay there, but men who are cramped and oppressed and driven to their wits' end to make a living, should lose no time in coming to a land which will give bread and to spare to millions. VIATOR.

EMIGRATING TO THE NORTH-WEST.

A large party of English farmers—some 300 in all, left Liverpool last week for Canada, intending to take up land in the North west. The party took with them about half a million dollars to invest in land, implements, stock, &c. They were with few exceptions unaccompanied by their families, these remaining behind till homes are prepared for them. In our humble opinion these people are making a grand mistake. Good improved farms, with all the conveniences of civilization, can be obtained cheap in Ontario, much nearer markets, and with conditions more closely assimilated to those they have left behind. There is a grand opening for tenant farmers in Ontario. On the same vessel, the Circassian, a large number of young women sailed, to take positions as domestic servants.

SLEEPING ON YOUR SIDE.

Dr. Delaney says if you sleep on your right side your dreams will be old and faint remembrances; the dreams are apt to be childish and illogical; sleepers on the right side also compose verses. They send them to the newspapers the next day. Sleepers on the left side dream intelligent dreams about recent events. So if a man wants to dream what his wife used to say to him and about him before they were married he must sleep on his right side; if he wants to dream of what she says to him now, he must sleep on his left side. By all means sleep on the right side.

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

THE OLD CHURCH BELL.

BY COL. W. H. SPARKS.

Ring on, ring on, sweet Sabbath bell!
Thy mellow tones I love to hear.
I was a boy when first they fell
In melody upon my ear;
In those dear days long past and gone,
When sporting here in boyish glee,
The magic of thy Sabbath tone,
Awoke emotions deep in me.

Long years have gone and I have strayed
Out o'er the world far, far away,
But the dear tones have round me played
On every lovely Sabbath day.
When strolling o'er the mighty plains
Spread widely in the unpeopled West,
Each sabbath morn I've heard thy strains
Tolling the welcome day of rest.

Upon the rocky mountain's crest,
Where Christian feet have never trod,
In the deep bosom of the West
I've thought of thee and worshipped God!
Ring on, sweet bell! I've come again
To hear thy cherished call to prayer,
There's less of pleasure now than pain
In those dear tones which fill my ear.

Ring on, ring on, dear bell! ring on!
Once more I've come with whitened head,
To hear the toll. The sounds are gone!
And ere this Sabbath day has sped
I shall be gone, and may no more
Give ear to thee, sweet Sabbath bell!
Dear church and bell, so loved of yore,
And childhood's happy home, farewell!

OTTAWA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Well, marriage with a deceased wife's sister is again a settled matter so far as the House of Commons is concerned; the bill passed by sweeping majorities and has gone up to the Canadian Lords for confirmation before it can become law. Some of these old gentlemen (it would be convenient to call them old women) appear disposed to wrestle with the mighty question, and they may throw out the bill. You see these old — gentlemen (?) are not permitted to touch any really important legislation, any measure in which the Government, as a Government, is interested, so when a bill of the kind under discussion comes up they make a show of independence, and at times kick the poor movement to death There is a good deal of money spent in this Dominion for which the people who pay do not get much value. But there is no as the money spent in keeping up this body, whose usefulness has decidedly gone, if it ever had any use. Few people can see any use that it has ever been. All who look into the public accounts see that it costs a very large sum annually. The way the present Senate is constituted under our constitution—the British North America Act—must always preclude it from being a useful body. The independence that springs from responsibility to the people is wanting. Whether it is desirable to have two bodies is a very debatable question, but the question of the desirability of either remodeling the present Senate or wiping it out, is a question some and not a few people here, where we can see the way the thing runs, are of the opinion that it is not debatable but an undeniable fact.

Amongst the incidents of the last week is the attack made by Sir Charles Tupper on the Hon A. Mackenzie. Did you ever have to harangue in a popular meeting, say, make a stump speech. He can do this. He has what some people would consider great advantages: a great flow of words and elasticity of conscience that permits him to stretch wonderfully, in fact make any statement that will suit at the moment. This is all very fine on the stump, but it is an awful mistake to introduce it into a House of Commons speech. That is the mistake that Sir Charles is always making, but then if he corrected that he would not be Tupper, and if not Tupper he would be nobody. When I go to the House and listen to him roaring out and pounding his desk, I never can help asking myself what else can you expect from a man with a face like his. If there was a manly, honest soul behind, it would have just cause of complaint against its house of clay. Then to think of Tupper alone, of all other men in Parliament, making accusations of dishonesty against Alexander Mackenzie. One might understand his doing it on the stump down in Cumberland, it would be a bold thing to do even down there, but to do it on the floor of the House of Commons is really astounding, and gives one a first-rate idea of the calibre of the Members. These men to a man know that Mr. Mackenzie is and yet they could applaud a man that has been dubbed the "high priest of corruption," when he was pounding his desk, and throwing his mud at an honest man. Such a scene was a disgrace which every honest, fair-minded M.P. should have frowned down, but a great many of our M.P's. are neither honest (politically) nor fair-minded and so they applauded, and when Sir Charles dared to do what he did, he gauged the Government following at a pretty low figure every other way save as to numbers. Then he had a go at Mr. Gordon Brown. Under ordinary circumstances it is a cowardly thing to attack a man who could not defend himself in the arena when the attack was made—but that is Tupperism. In this case the party attacked has a powerful means at hand whereby to defend himself and has used it with effect, the Globe which is cordially hated by the tribe of Tupper.

ABSOLUTELY ABOVE SUSPICION OF DISHONESTY

The gentlemen, lay and clerical, who were seeking to get control of

and to get an Act of Incorporation as the Presbyterian Church in Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland, have been very properly doomed to disappointment in both cases. When the Rev. Principal Grant said, in opposing the Incorporation Act, that if they would get authority from the General Assembly of the Church in Scotland to say that it was desired by them, that they should get the Act, he would cease to oppose. He killed them before the Committee. Members of the Committee very naturally said:—What, are we to incorporate a body claiming another body as its parent, when the parent refuses to acknowledge the child? Hardly. So they have meantime stepped down and out, and its to be hoped that prayer and fasting will bring them to another mind.

THIS BEING THE LENTEN SEASON

fashionable people—and you know we are all pretty much fashionable people down here—have been a little subdued in their festivities. No dancing, but lawn tennis, skating and tobogganing, has been the rage. It is a little difficult to understand a fashionable audience, and to know just how they draw the line. We do know where, but why? at the place they do, bothers me. This winter, and during the lenten season just at its close, we have had a good many afternoon "at homes," from four to six o'clock. This style of thing, with people who have good rooms, is cheap, harmless, and intensely stupid. Now a five o'clock tea "kettle drum" would be a real enjoyment to a moderate number of ladies. Just think of sitting comfy round the tea urn, and discussing the fashions, their servants, and other women's husbands. Even a man can understand how delicious this must be, but a man would be hardly equal to making the most of his opportunities. But I know your readers are not all in fashionable circles—in society, as it would be put here—so I will just tell them how to run an "at home," from four until six, p.m. The first requisite is, of course,

A HOME WITH DOUBLE ROOMS.

Size is the great thing; no need to make provision to seat your guests. They are expected to stand around and look happy. The lady—and if she has an averagely presentable husband he joins her—takes her place in her reception parlor, and as everybody does not keep men servants about, you can hire a man from the hotel who has the needed regalia. Your friends arrive, and, as at an evening party, are shewn to a room to take off their heavy outside wraps, and, coming down in all their war-paint, hand their cards to the hired man, who, in stentorian voice, announces Mr. and Mrs. and the Miss Jones, who will come in, shake hands, and you smile, and they look happy and smile also. In one of your rooms you must provide light refreshments, tea, coffee, ices, cakes, sandwiches, etc. It is a good deal cheaper than champagne, turkey, etc. Your friends will come, they will stand around, they will partake of your light refreshments and go away home after two mortal hours, and say it was

LIVELY AND ENJOYABLE.

You must, of course, have engraved cards, intimating that Mrs. Jones will be at home on a certain day from four until six. The engraver will fix that up in regular form for you.

There is a

DIVORCE CASE BEFORE THE SENATE.

We will not mention names, but in cases of this kind, when there is a young and pretty woman in the case, and of course there must always be a woman interested, the attention she gets from these gay old chaps in the Senate is much to be admired, and the zeal with which they go into the generally savoury investigation is highly commendable, and provided the woman is young, good-looking and well dressed, the man is voted a brute, and stands but a poor show, if he be the complainant. If the woman is complainant the man is bowled down suddenly.

THE ELECTIONS.

Every one has made up their minds that we are to have an election early this summer. It may be delayed a little on account of the state of things in Quebec, which are not considered satisfactory, but urge your friends, who are the friends of good, honest government, to organise and be ready for the conflict.

GRANGE MEETING.—At the last regular meeting of Morning Star Grange No. 520, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—Moved by D. J. Henderson, seconded by James Petrie, that we, the members of Morning Star Grange No. 520, regret to observe the difference of opinion that exists between some of the members of our Order in connection with the Mutual Aid Association, which has been so fully discussed in the public print. Resolved, that this Grange in session do hereby fully endorse the opinion held by our worthy Brother, Mr. Thos. Johnston, that the said Mutual Aid Association, as set forth by the members of the Board of that Company and their paid officials and servants, is calculated to mislead, and should be owed down by the whole Grange institution, and we are glad to see that our worthy Master has the energy, perseverance and pluck, to express his opinion of this company and its management, knowing the torrent of abuse that would be heaped upon him by those who form part of the Board, and others, (hangers-on,) who are interested in a mercenary way in the success of this company, and we are unanimously of the opinion that it would be well if we had more Thos. Johnston's in our Order and fewer aspiring men, then there would be less fear of some of the members being led astray. That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Peterborough EXAMINER for publication.

WEATHER NOTES FOR MARCH.—The closing of March has more reminded us of winter than spring. In fact, this month, as a rule, has been cold, stormy and blustering although the downfall has been light compared with other years. Snow fell on 8 days to the depth of 11¼ inches, and it rained on 7 days to the depth of 2⅜ inches making a total depth of 6¼. The lowest temperature was on the morning of the 15th, the thermometer standing at 3° above zero, and the highest on the evening of the 29th, namely 24° above. Total average at sun rise and sun set for the month 25 1-31° above zero. One noteworthy fact during the month was the absence of fogs, with only one exception on the morning of the 26th and then only lasting about two hours.

FOR WEAKNESS AND GENERAL DEBILITY FROM ITHIEL PEASE, of North Searsmont, Me. "It gives me very great pleasure to inform you of the benefit received from the use of Peruvian Syrup in my own family. My wife, for the past ten years, has been in feeble health—very much debilitated generally. Last spring she concluded to try a bottle of Peruvian Syrup, and was so well pleased with the result continued its use until three or four bottles had been used, and she is now in better health than at any time for ten years, and has increased in weight from 110 pounds to 126½. I have employed physicians, and used a great variety of patent medicines, to the extent of hundreds of dollars, and I know she received more benefit from the Peruvian Syrup than all the rest together. My sales of the Syrup are very large and constantly increasing, and I do not hesitate to recommend and even warrant it to give satisfaction." Sold by all druggists.

FROM N. PULMER, M. D., AUBURN, N. H. "Although averse to countenancing patent medicines, I cheerfully make an exception of your very excellent lung preparation—Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. This preparation I have used in my practice for more than ten years past, and have always found it to be of more effectual service than anything within my knowledge. I recommend it with the greatest confidence to those subject to coughs and pulmonary complaints." 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

A Spicy Case in which a Love-Sick Student Got "Stuck."

SOME FOR BLIGHTED HOPES—THE LETTERS.

At the Elgin Assizes, last week, an action was brought by Bertha Price, daughter of F. Price, of St. Thomas, against Lemuel J. Clarke, M.D., formerly of Iona, but physician practising in Michigan. Mr. Horton opened the case for the plaintiff, and detailed to the jury how at Woodstock, when attending school, they had been struck by cupid's dart and an engagement was the result. The learned counsel produced a package of love-letters, from which he read, to show how the spark had at first become kindled and how feebly it flickered before it finally died out. The first missive he read had as many splints and plasters on it as a man who had been taken out of a telescoped train. It was written with lead pencil, and looked as though the plaintiff and defendant had written on it alternately. In otherwords it just looked like the billet doux the boys on the fifth form used to write to the girls, in the olden time, and which the girls used to chew a bit and fire back into the boys' faces. As becometh a man who is surcharged with love from his ears all the way to his boot tops, and whose heart is only just big enough to hold the girls he adores, he sends his first pleadings in the language of the post, or what would pass for such under the circumstances:

Here then a heart to beat with mine,
A hand with mine to clasp,
A kiss to make the engagement sure
And love to make it last! L. C.

DEAR FRIEND,—Those lines I wrote while sitting here thinking of you, but if you decline, of course I dare not insist on further transactions. The poetry is original and from deep recesses of my very heart. L. C.

The plaintiff did not fire this back at the defendant's head, as is usually the case, but thought such poetry evolved out of the deep recesses of a big heart, should be reciprocated, and turning up one corner of the missive she wrote the following and sent it back:

Lem, you say that actions speak louder than words. You must know my heart by this time. Forgive me, but I do love you. Do not deceive me. BERTIE

Another letter some time after, which shows how the flame burns, is as follows:

Think you I dare deceive. Of course you know full well my heart wanders in other directions at present for satisfactory reasons, and perhaps I have been forward in writting to you as I did, but for all, I do love you and my hope is that it may yet increase, though for each of us perhaps further consideration would be advisable, yet you I cannot deceive. I never deceived anyone as yet that I knew of. I think I know your heart. L. C.

"True love never did run smooth," since the world and Bertha and Lem had their difficulties; but they proved insurmountable. Lem has gone home to Iona, and while attending to the practice of a physician who is absent, he repents himself of having fallen in love without having considered the matter better. He sits himself down and indites the following to "Miss Price." The inscription is very cold. The girls who used to get hugged and kissed Sunday nights some thirty years ago, would have mittened the Doctor if he had not shown more gush:

IONA, April 8th, 1880.

MISS PRICE,—I received your very short note last night, and can quite readily understand your disposition. Cannot say what I had better prepare for when meeting you, but as an honest person will, at my earliest convenience. The explanation asked for simply is this—I do not think I have misused you, nor have I ever thought of doing so, but you know that engagements have very often to be broken because of circumstances surrounding individuals, and not only that, but I have taken you at your word, viz: that when I got tired calling on you I was to let you know. I did so; what is the result? Only your great flustration. Respecting you meeting me on the market to talk over this serious affair as you call it, I did not think of doing the like, but that I might have the pleasure of walking down home with you— * * * many other things you have told me respecting your welfare which have proven to be moonshine * * *

LEM. CLARKE.

P. S.—All the letters I have written I wish to get, also my ring; you may have yours and your letters so far as I have kept them.

This is how the fair plaintiff gives it back to him:

ST. THOMAS, April 13th, 1880.

DR. CLARKE,—Your note of the 8th received last Friday. Your reason for wishing to break off your engagement is not satisfactorily explained, although you seem to think you have given me the reason. Your letters are those which one might expect from a school boy who is just attempting to write and not from a person in your exalted position, and your remarks in regard to not knowing where my home is, and the reason you assign for wishing to meet me on the market, are such as a person would expect from one who is a fit subject for one of our public institutions. My disposition is one that would not permit me (although I am sensitive) to go to one that has treated me as you have, with tears and on my bended knees, and supplicate a continuance of your esteem and affection, and if I have shown my disposition you may have to act at some future day very differently from what your mind governs you. You talk about disposition. Take the beam out of your own eye first, etc. Why, Dr. Clark, do you think for one moment that I, a young lady, would take such insolence from you or any other man, and not murmur? No, indeed, I could not. I would not give much for a lady who had not a temper, I mean enough to fight her own way through this world. Your letters I will keep till I have no further use for them and they have served my purpose, but you can have your ring when you return me mine at my own home.

BERTHA E. PRICE.

Under date of April 15th, 1880, the recreant lover shows the working of his mind by addressing his lady love as "Bertha Price." There was no taffy or plaster either before or after the name, and the loving maiden felt her heart melt within her as the name "Bertha Price" stood out cold and stiff at the top of the epistle. The first sentence was a stunner:

I presume you think you have put a climax on correspondence from a trash of a note from you. Your ladyship, if you please, I consider my letters as good as yours any way you please, although I do not re-write mine, as my brain is not so imperfect as yours.

In one corner of the letter is the following:

If you cannot read it, take it for granted that it means business, and the end is not yet for a few days.

The plaintiff testified that her recreant lover was married last fall, and was now practising medicine in the state of Michigan. The defendant had never had her permission to break off the engagement.

John Clarke, father of the defendant, testified that his son was practising medicine in Michigan. He was not aware his son was engaged to plaintiff until last October.

Fred Price, father of plaintiff, swore that when his daughter received the letter from defendant, breaking the engagement she was made very ill.

There was no defence. Mr. Macdougall would not appear in the absence of his client.

His Lordship summed up the evidence in a brief manner, and the jury brought in a verdict for plaintiff and $100 damages, after being out nearly three hours.

SANDERSON'S

A NEW QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY SONG.

BY ALFRED TENNYSON, ENGLAND'S POET LAUREATE.

This song was sung March 16th, by Mr. Stanley, at St. James' Hall, and is proposed to be sung throughout the colonies on the Queen's Birthday. It runs thus in Tennyson's draft, though it has been slightly altered for the sake of singing:

"HANDS ALL ROUND."

First pledge our Queen, this solemn night,
Then drink to England every guest,
That man's the best cosmopolite,
Who loves his native country best!
May freedom's oak for ever live,
With larger life from day to day;
That man's the true Conservative
Who lops the moulder'd branch away.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

To all the loyal hearts who long
To keep our English Empire whole!
To all our noble sons, the strong
New England of the Southern Pole!
To England under Indian skies—
To those dark millions of her realm!
To Canada, whom we love and prize,
Whatever statesman hold the helm.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great name of England drink, my friends,
And all her glorious Colonies round and round.

To all our statesmen so they be
True leaders of the land's desire!
To both our Houses, may they see
Beyond the borough and the shire!
We sailed wherever ship could sail,
We founded many a mighty State,
Pray God our greatness may not fail
Through craven fears of being great.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

HE WAS FOND OF TEA.

THE SMARTNESS OF A SINGULARLY SMART YOUNG MAN.

Though the person who communicated the following vouches for its truth, it is to be hoped, for the sake of the hero of the tale, that there may be some slight discrepancy in the narrative. A young man, a very young man, too smart for Peterborough, thought it would be the proper thing to do to make a small presentation to a friend who was leaving town, and with this object in view he went round among the acquaintances of the departing individual and obtained subscriptions to the amount of $5 for the purchase of the testimonial. This was all right and most praiseworthy in the solicitor of the subscriptions—but mark the sequel. This young man quite forgot the precepts of his youth, installed into his system at Sunday school, and hied him away to a certain tea store in town, invested the $5 in ten pounds of tea, and obtained, as a gift with the tea, a handsomely bound copy of Dickens' works. The young man has now sufficient tea to keep even Dr. Johnson going for six months, and the other young man became the recipient of a volume of Dickens' works, presented with much eclat and gush. In the words of the æsthetic Bunthorne: "What a singularly pure young man this pure young man must be."

"De most remarkable case uf berseverances dot I efer see," said Mr. Hoffenstein the ready-made clothes dealer, to his assistant Herman," was dot uf Maurice Lowski vat keep a redail grocery sdore in Vicksburg. He vas selling mackerel to people in the country, ven anoder man puts up a sdore in de town und sells mackeral by de wholesale, und his name vas Schwartz. No matter how low Schwartz sells de mackeral, Maurice Lowski puts dem down to de gustimers dwice so low, and gets all de drade. Maurice, you know, Herman, vould dake oud some uf de mackerel from each uf de kits und fill up mit salt, you know, und he makes money by his berseverance. Ven Schwartz finds out vat Maurice Lowk vas doing, he get mad und dells de people dot Lowski vas a old rasgal. Maurice don't lose his berseverance, you know, und he dinks dot he vill drive Schwartz oud uf de pianess before much longer. He drys several blows, you know; but don't can make Schwartz go vay. Vell, von day Maurice Lowski sees a mule mit a vort on his leg vot belongs to Schwartz, und he goes to him und says, 'Schwartz, if you blindfold dot mule so he cant see noding, you can take a red-hot iron und burn de vort off his leg.' 'But he vill kick his heels oud,' said Schwartz. 'No, he won't do anyding but stand und dremble, if you blindfold him; but you must not forget to do dot,' says Maurice Lowski. Schwartz, de old fool, you know, Herman, he blindfolds the mule and burns de vort mit a red hot iron. Vot you dink? De next minute his frents pick him up so dead he don't know vot struck him, und Maurice Lowski get all de pianess—shust by his berseverance."

A DEAD GIVE AWAY.

One good church member sold another good church member a town lot. Church member No. 1 got a better chance and determined to back out of his bargain. Church member No. 2 came to get the papers for his lot when No. 1 denied that he had ever sold the lot.

"You did," said No. 1.
"I didn't."
"You did!"
"I didn't."
"You did!"
"You're a liar!"
"You're a liar!"
"When did I ever sell you that lot?"

MANITOULIN.

THE CHARACTER AND RESOURCES OF THE ISLAND.

A correspondent writing from Providence Bay, Manitoulin Island, says he has been a resident of the Island for four years and is well satisfied. The climate and the land is good; there is plenty of building material, pure water, a good market near by, and "therefore," he says, "we think we are as well off as the most of the settlers in the North-west. We see by nearly every newspaper we take up that hundreds are going to the North-west to seek homes for themselves and children. Now we claim that a man, with a few hundred dollars, can do better here than in the United States or the North-west. There is plenty of land to be bought for from $3 to $20 per acre, according to improvements and situation. There are good farmers here and room for more. This country is destined to be one of the best stock-raising and sheep-farming districts in the Dominion; wherever there has been grass seed sown it has done remarkably well. The red and white clover does well here on shallow land, and cattle and sheep are only slightly troubled with flies here. In 1880 the crops were not good, but in '81 they were generally pretty good. The bush fires did a great deal of damage. Carnarvon and Campbell are the best townships on the Island. There is a rushing business done here in railroad ties and telegraph poles, and good prospects for coal oil, which will be tested this summer. Wheat is worth $1 to 1.12; oats, 50c.; barley, 70c.; peas, 75c.; corn, 60c.; hay, $10 to $12; potatoes, 50c.; pork (fresh) 8 to 10 c., meas, 15 to 18c. per pound.

SALTING STOCK

Colonel Curtis writes: Our practice has been for years to keep a tight box under the shed in the barnyard, in which there is a constant supply of salt. The cows help themselves to this, eating as much as they like in winter and summer. The salt being always accessible, the cattle are never salt hungry, and consequently never eat to much, thereby causing unusual thirst, which is the case when they are fed salt periodically. In winter this is injurious, hence we cannot recommend the practice of putting brine on straw to induce the cattle to eat it in order to get the salt, because the effect is to create an unusual thirst. When stock have free access to salt they taste a little every day, which gives tone to the stomach and helps to make a steady and healthful appetite.

We use coarse salt, preferring it to the fine, as it does not dissolve so readily and does not absorb moisture so freely, which causes it to waste. We have used rock salt, but gave it up on account of its high price. The coarse salt answers just as well, not costing half as much, and not dissolving much faster. Our salt box does not have to be filled oftener than once a month, which is quite a saving of time as compared with the system of salting occassionally; besides, there is no forgetting. In summer time a tight box is placed in the field, and salt put into it for the cattle to help themselves. Rain falling into the box does no harm, as it only dissolves the salt, and the stock take a lick of the brine instead of the salt. As the salt does not evaporate (only the water) from the heat of the sun, there is no loss. This plan of salting stock is the least troublesome, and the most economical and safest.

COQUETTING WITH CONSUMPTION.—Some people, troubled with coughs seem absolutely to coquet with consumption—now encouraging it by a total neglect of medicine, and again attempting to stave it off with ill-chosen cough remedies. How much wiser to eradicate it at the outset by using Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Promtitude in the use of this medicine cannot be too strongly urged upon those consumptively inclined, in a climate so severe during the winter as our own. The public generally as well as the medical fraternity, is acquainted with the value, as a remedy for lung and throat troubles, of the purified oil of the Cod's liver. United with it in this standard Emulsion are the finest tonics in existence, namely, lime and soda hypophosphites, of which the chief component, phosphorus, is an incomparable nutrient of the blood and invigorant of the system. Nothing builds up a broken-down system and enables it to resist the inroads of pulmonary disease like this leading preparation. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, soreness and weakness of the chest, are among the bodily troubles which it overcomes, and in scrofulous affections it has been used with great success as a remedy. Sold by all druggists, at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Prepared only by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Canada.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an INCURABLE LUNG DISEASE OR CONSUMPTION. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but ACT DIRECTLY ON THE INFLAMED PARTS, allaying irritation, give relief in ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, CATARRH, and the THROAT TROUBLES which SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 42-26ins.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separating it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cur they will be ready to recommend Putnam' Painless Corn Extractor to others.

VARIETIES.

The golden sovereign makes less noise in a contribution box than a penny piece—principally for the reason that it is seldom put in.

"Kaiser" Machine Oil is the standard for quality, warranted not to clog or gum. Ask your dealer for it. Manufactured by Clarke & Huggart, Woodstock, Ont. 5-26t.

RHEUMATIC REMEDY.—There is no better cure for Rheumatism than Hagyards Yellow Oil used according to directions on the bottle. It also cures Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Bruises, Lameness, and all wounds of the flesh. All dealers sell it, price 25 cents. 15-2t

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as its name implies, invigorates and strengthens the hair. It not only restores the original color to gray or faded hair, but by its stimulating action at the roots, produces a vigorous growth, and gives it that beautiful lustre which results only from a strong, healthy growth of the hair.

The late Thos. Hood, driving in the country one day, observed a notice beside a fence, "Beware the Dog." There not being any signs of a dog, Hood wrote on the board, "Ware be the Dog?"

SORE THROAT.—Apply Hagyard's Yellow Oil and take inwardly according to directions. Yellow Oil is the best remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Bruises, Burns, Frost Bites and all lameness, inflammation and pain. No household should be without it 13-3t

Dynamite was recently discovered in the Czar's fire-wood. He must have been stealing fire-wood from some of the neighbors. We didn't know Alex. was that kind of a Czar.

Mr. C. E. Riggins, Beamsville, writes: "A customer who tried a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery says it is the best thing he ever used for biliousness and dyspepsia, to quote his own words, "it just seemed to touch the spot affected."

"What is meant by the pomps and vanities of this world?" asked a Sunday-school teacher. "Them flowers on your hat, mum," replied the quick-witted scholar.

TIMELY WARNING.—Now is the season for sudden colds and distressing coughs, treat them with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, it cures influenza, asthma, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all pulmonary complaints leading to consumption. 15-2t

"No," said a member of a Vermont parish with emphasis, "Jackson hain't got the qualifications for deacon. Why durn it, I've cheated him on a hoss-trade myself."

LAME BACK.—Lumbago, Kidney complaint, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, and all pain and inflammation are speedily cured with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. Croup, sore throat, colds, burns, scalds, bruises frost bites, chilblains and all wounds of the flesh are quickly healed by Yellow Oil. 12-2t

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP" were the memorable words of Commodore Perry. We repeat, "Don't Give up the ship," poor, despairing invalid, but try Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures others, why not you? It renovates, regulates and tones all the organs of secretion, and restores lost Vitality. 15-2t

Clear enough—First English gentleman (looking at a railroad time-table)—"Bill, why do they say p.m.?" Second gentleman—"That means penny a mile." First—"And what does a.m. mean?" Second—"Why, 'a penny a mile, of course.'

HOW TO CURE A COLD.—Upon the first feeling of chill or shivering remain indoors if possible, bathe the feet in tepid water, gradually increasing the heat as long as it can be comfortably borne, drink freely of warm ginger tea or sage tea, to induce perspiration, and take Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam according to directions on the bottle. Hagyard's Balsam cures coughs, asthma, and bronchitis. 15-2t

Presence of mind.—A few Sundays ago a Western church was discovered to be on fire, but the preacher, with great presence of mind, said nothing about it. He merely remarked:—"This building is heavily burdened with debt, and I wish some one would lock the doors until the amount is raised." Everybody volunteered to do the locking, and as everybody forgot to come back there was no panic, and no one was hurt.

HAD SUFFERED MANY PHYSICIANS and grew no better but rather worse. Mr. D. H. Howard, of Geneva, N. Y., after dismissing his physicians, tried nearly half a gross of the various blood and liver remedies, advertised, with no benefit; when one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him of Paralysis and General Debility. At the advanced age of 60, he says he feels young again, and is overjoyed at his wonderful recovery. 15-2t

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.—In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we can vouch for as being a true and reliable remedy, and one that will do as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidney and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & Macdonald.

NINE PHYSICIANS OUTDONE.—It is generally considered a pretty difficult task to outdo a physician, but the following will conclusively prove where nine were completely outdone:—Mrs. Helen Pharvis, 331 Dayton St., Chicago, Ill., was treated for consumption by nine physicians, and all pronounced her case incurable. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and convince yourselves. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

FOR EVERY PERSON.—Everyone suffering from painful corns will be glad to learn that there is a new and painless remedy discovered by which the very worst class of corns may be removed entirely in a short time and without pain. PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR has already been used by thousands, and each person who has given it a trial becomes anxious to recommend it to others. It is the only sure, prompt and painless cure for corns known. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is sold everywhere.

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE vital organs ordinarily destroy life by tissue starvation. To mitigate and cure, promote nutrition, that is what WHEELER'S Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya is for, a formula expressing the crystalizing experience of logical medical work, and worthy of confidence, whether introduced to the patient by physician or journal. When you elect to be your own doctor, discriminate between a really valuable medicine devised in practice to meet a daily want in all forms of debility, and pretentious, puffed-up nostrums intended only to impose upon the credulity of fools.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN

On the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Local News Record.

LEFT OVER.—A communication from Mr. Thos. Johnston has been left over until next week. Received too late for this issue.

THE DUST upon George street during the past few days, has been almost intolerable, and pedestrians and merchants alike are wishing for snow, rain or the watering cart.

PLUMES.—Miss E. Delaney has received over 700 beautiful plumes of the choicest qualities, which are being disposed of at marvelously low prices. The ladies are invited to call and inspect them.

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 48-tf.

THE RINK.—Although announced last week that the rink was closed for the season, the cold snap of the last few days has had the effect of having the rink again opened to skaters and curlers, although how long the ice may last is a question very difficult to determine.

HORSES SHIPPED.—The Port Hope Guide says:—Messrs Ferguson & Haw shipped another car load of horses to the Montreal markets last Wednesday night. They were very fine animals and should bring a good sum. They were bought in Peterboro' and Lindsay.

ANOTHER NEW LAND COMPANY.—The Canada Gazette contains an application from Valancey E. Fuller, John Proctor, Reginald Æ, Kennedy, of Hamilton; Geo. A. Cox, of Peterborough; and Robert Jaffray, of Toronto, for incorporation as "The Hamilton Land Company;" chief place of business, Hamilton; capital stock, $100,000.

EXPORTATION OF STOCK.—The drain of horses and cattle from this country is very great at present. One or more car loads of horses are shipped from here every week for the states, and about an equal number of cattle for the Montreal and English markets. Dealers complain of a scarcity, and find it hard to obtain suitable stock, high prices having to be paid for inferior quality.

GOOD FRIDAY.—The day was generally observed throughout the town as a general holiday. Services were held in the Episcopal, Methodist and Catholic churches. On the streets everything was quiet, although a large number took advantage of the fine mild weather to have an airing. During the afternoon the Firemen's band gave an open-air rehearsal of sacred music, which was listened to with pleasure by a large number of the citizens.

THE MISSING LINK.—The contractor for the "missing link" between here and Omemee is getting everything into shape for the early and speedy construction of the road. There are now a large number of men at work at some of the cuts, which we are informed will be between 40 and 50 feet deep. The steam shovels and a large number of additional men will be put on in a short time. It is said that to span one of the gullies a treatle work bridge 1,300 feet long and about 75 feet high will be required.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Saturday night last as the express train from Peterboro' was passing Campbell's Bridge, about one mile south of Garden Hill, a man named James McIlroy, about 80 years of age, was run over and cut to pieces. It seems that Mr. McIlroy had been visiting friends at Oakhill and was returning to his brother's, Mr. Alex. McIlroy, lot 7, 6 con. Hope, by the railway track, which was the shortest way, and thus met his death. Deceased was for many years a resident of Hope, but at present was residing with his son-in-law at Cold Springs Hamilton. An inquest was held, and a verdict in accordance with the above facts returned. No one in connection with the railway was in the least to blame.

THE ROYAL HAND BELL RINGERS.—On Wednesday evening next, through the large guarantee list given Mr. Singleton, our citizens will be afforded the treat of an entertainment by the above celebrated company. The plan of the hall is now open at Davidson's bookstore, and we would advise those wishing to reserve seats to apply at once, as there certainly will be a great rush as the date draws near. The entertainment will be a rare treat, and we have no hesitation in saying the company will be greeted with a bumber house. In connection with these first class entertainments, we may say that a guarantee list is now open at Davidson's bookstore, to secure the appearance of the Bernhard Listemann Concert Company, for one grand concert in the Opera House, on the 2nd of May. The company is composed of eight artists, lady vocalist and impersonator. Four of them being former members of the Mendelshon Quintette Club, and two of them members of Theodore Thomas' celebrated orchestra. The list will remain open for three days. Admission 50 cents, reserved seats $1.00.

THE CAR WORKS BY-LAW.—The official statement of the result of the voting on the car works By-law will be found in our Town Council report.

SLIGHTLY EXAGGERATED.—There were exactly 116 emigrants left Millbrook on Tuesday of last week with the Snowdon party for the North-West. Quite a difference between 116 and 500.

VALUABLE LOTS FOR SALE.—Mr. Dumble will sell in lots the property north of Smith street, from Jas. W. Fitzgerald's residence to the Communication Road. Time of Sale will be shortly announced

POSTPONED.—The entertainment to take place to-night at St. Luke's Schoolroom, Ashburnham, has been postponed. It will be held on Monday evening next, the 17th inst., at 8 o'clock, when an excellent programme will be provided.

TENNYSON'S LAST.—Mr. Tennyson has effused once more, and his latest production, "Hands all round," a birthday song for Queen Victoria, is published in another column, not so much because the poem is beautiful, for it isn't, as that Mr. Tennyson is Mr. Tennyson, P. L. If he does not achieve something better soon, we shall be compelled to shut down on him, and write a poem ourselves.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Judging from the programme, the entertainment in the Baptist Church on Friday evening, the 14th inst., will be a success. The proceeds are in aid of the Sunday School and the friends of the church and school will no doubt assist by attending the concert. The admission fee is small, 25 cents for adults, and 15 cents for children under twelve years.

Y. M. C. A.—The annual meeting of the Young Mens' Christian Association was held last week, when the following officers were elected for 1882:—

President ..... J. F. Jeffers
1st Vice-President ..... J. A Hall
2nd Vice President ..... E. W. Cox
Secretary ..... J. W. Minore
Asst. Secretary ..... J. Richardson
DIRECTORS—Messrs. Turnbull, Grey, Nesbitt, Brayshaw, Roger, Watson, Gilbert, Grundy, Clarke, McElwain and W. W. Johnston.

W. W. JOHNSTON & Co.—Through inadvertency we omitted to mention sooner the removal to new premises of the well-known dry goods firm of W. W. Johnston & Co. Their new shop—T. Menzies' old stand, one door north of Dr. Taylor's drug store—has been fitted up specially for their trade, and now that their new stock of spring and summer goods have been placed in order, presents that handsome appearance characteristic of the Peterborough dry goods store. Previous to their removal, with a view of clearing out their old stock, they announced a genuine clearing sale, and so successful was it that they disposed of nearly the whole of their former stock, and now open out a comparatively fresh assortment in all their departments. In several of their lines extra special value is offered, while the general stock is held at such figures that close cash buyers cannot fail to be satisfied. Our lady readers who have not as yet paid the firm a visit in their new premises, should embrace the first opportunity at their disposal of inspecting the goods which have been purchased with a special view to meet the requirements of the firms already very extensive trade.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

Mr. C. W. Sawers purchased the residence of the late A. Hall, on Brock street, from the estate for the sum of $850.

Mr. John Campbell, of South Monaghan, sold his farm of 200 acres to John and Robert Mounsey, of Alnwick, for the sum of $11,000 cash.

Both of these sales were made through Mr. D. McLeod of this town.

PERSONALS.

Mr. T. M. McFadden left for St. Louis on Thursday last.

Mr. W. Milline of Lindsay was in town on Friday last.

Mr. J. R. Stratton has been appointed D. D. Grand Master of Peterborough Lodge No. 111, I. O. O. F.

Rev. Mr. Snider of Victoria College Cobourg, occupies the pulpit of the Methodist Church on Sunday, instead of Rev. Mr. Workman.

Mr. Alf. Tate, of the Engineers department of M. R. R. left on Monday for Virginia to act as private secretary for Mr. Blackwell, late Engineer to the above road.

We are pleased were able to state that Mr. R. Nimmo, who has been confined to his home for the past three weeks with a severe sickness is able to be around again.

The Rev. Mr. Workman's many friends in Peterborough will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his recent severe illness as to be able to be out again.

On Thursday last Messrs. Wm. Chrow and J. W. Johnston left for Winnipeg, and on Tuesday evening Messrs Samuel and Robert Green took leave of Peterborough for the same place.

THE BOATING CLUB.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club was held in the Boat House on Monday evening last. The attendance was not large. The President of the Club, F. J. Lewis, Esq., occupied the chair, and Mr. W. H. Budden acted as Secretary, in the absence of Mr. A. H. Macdougall. The Treasurer, Mr. W. H. Budden, presented a statement of the receipts and expenditures for the past year, showing the receipts to be, including a balance from the year previous, $274.09. The expenditure was $260.93 leaving a balance on hand of $13.16. Mr. E. J. Toker and Mr. R. E. Wood, were appointed Auditors, to examine the accounts and to report at an adjourned meeting of the club, to be held on Monday evening, the 17th inst., for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. Messrs. R. E. Wood, G. C. Rogers, R. Orr, C. Shaw and Geo. Hatton, were appointed a committee with powers to add to their numbers to confer with the cricket club with reference to the usual sports on the 24th of May. Messrs. R. McLeod, E. A. Peck, J. C. T. Lacey, and W. R. Watson were balloted for and accepted as members of the club. A committee composed of Messrs. R. E. Wood, G. C. Rogers, E. B. Edwards, A. J. Belcher, and E. H. D. Hall, were appointed to select two from their numbers to attend the annual meeting of the Amateur Oarsman Association at Toronto. The meeting then adjourned.

Prince Leopold was to have been married this month, but owing to increasing ill health, the ceremony has been postponed till June, and may never take place. Much sympathy is felt for the Princess Helena of Waldeck, his betrothed, who has had her marrige postponed several times.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

An adjourned meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, was held in Hastings on the 5th inst. Messrs. Torrance, Bell, Sutherland and Bennett, ministers, and Messrs. Roxburgh and Douglas, elders, were present. The minutes of the last moderant of the regular meeting in Peterborough were read. The application of the congregation of Hastings for separation from Norwood was first considered. It was found that the parties interested had been notified to attend. Messrs. Fife, Peters and James Fowlds were heard in support of the application. There was laid on the table a subscription list to the amount of over $600 on behalf of a settled pastor, should the request of the congregation for separation be granted. Messrs. Roxburgh, Anderson, Burgess, and Finlay were heard on behalf of the congregation of Norwood. These brethren stated that the congregation of Norwood would not oppose the separation and that they themselves were prepared to contribute $700 per annum toward a settled pastor. After lengthened conference among themselves, and with the Presbytery, the congregation of Hastings intimated their purpose also to contribute $700 towards a settled pastor in the event of their becoming an independent charge. It was then moved by Mr. Sutherland, seconded by Mr. Bell, and carried unanimously,—That inasmuch as the Hastings congregation requests a separation from the Norwood congregation and guarantee a minimum stipend of $700 to a settled pastor, and inasmuch as the Norwood congregation offer no objection to the separation, and has also guaranteed a minimum stipend of $700 (with manse) to a settled pastor, the request be granted, the separation to take effect on the 16th inst., and the Presbytery expresses satisfaction with the liberal spirit manifested by both congregations. Mr. Bennett was appointed to preach in Norwood and Hastings, on the 16th inst., and to notify these congregations of the action of Presbytery in relation to them. Mr. Sutherland was appointed moderator of the session of Hastings, and Mr. Bennett moderator of the session of Norwood during the period that these congregations may remain vacant. They were authorised also to take the usual steps so soon as the people shall be prepared to call. Mr. Stevenson, ordained missionary at Minden, received instructions as to the steps to be taken in the way of obtaining an addition to the eldership in Minden and Kinmount. A circular was read from the Clerk of the Presbytery of Kingston to the effect that it was the intention of that Presbytery to ask leave of the General Assembly to receive as a minister of the Church the Rev. Godfrey Shere, formerly a minister of the Nova Scotia Methodist Conference. The Presbytery adjourned to meet again in St. Paul's Church Peterborough, on Tuesday the 2nd of May, at 2 o'clock p. m., and was closed with prayer and the benediction.

WATER WORKS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

DEAR SIR.—Will you insert the following in your valuable paper and oblige the ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough very much.

I hope, when giving the Car-Works By-law its third reading, that the amount will be filled in by the Council, with forty thousand dollars instead of twenty thousand dollars, as the law allows forty thousand dollars to be given as bonuses to manufactures by the town of Peterborough. Also, as the law now stands, the Council have full control of the waterworks. I would recommend that six hundred hydrants be taken by the Council from the Water Company; it will only cost the town yearly the trifling sum of thirty thousand dollars each and every year. I do not like to see any Company starting in town deals beggarly with, both the Water-Works Company and the Car-Works Company should be handsomely dealt with.

Yours, etc,,
A RATEPAYER.

Peterborough Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, April 13th, 1882.

Receipts of grain continue fair, price of Wheat and Barley again declining, particularly Barley; it has got a black eye. Wheat is selling freely at $1.25 for fall, spring selling from $1.26 to $1.27. Goose Wheat brings $1.11 to $1.12½. In Barley the advance has flattened out, the market went wild for a few days, some extra samples, sold at 85c with lower grade from 75 to 85c, the price now may be quoted at 75c to 80c for No. 1, and other grades 70 to 75c. Oats in good demand at 40 to 41c, few offering. Peas not offering freely, worth 75 to 76c. Rye, very little offering, price 75c. Fresh butter, rather more offering, price easier may be quoted at 22 to 23c. Eggs came in with a rush Saturday, and could not be sold to consumers, the bulk of them were bought for shipment at 12½ to 13c. The market is inactive not likely to be over 12c.

SATURDAY.

Fresh pork still offering, prices unchanged. Fresh mutton selling 7c to 8c, with veal worth 6c to 7c, some very fine offering. Potatoes continue firm, a good few offering worth 80c per bag. Maple syrup selling from $1.00 to $1.20 per gallon, some very good offering.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE STEAMER "DORA" is now plying between this place and Harwood. The Lake and rivers are entirely free from ice. The steamer "Fairy" is lying on dry dock, she is still out of repair, as she sustained considerable damage by cutting through the ice last fall on her last trip.

Mr. Joseph Elmhurst, whom we mentioned a few weeks ago, as having sustained a severe fracture of the knee cap is able to be around again.

THE MERCHANTS of this place have all returned from the Montreal and Toronto markets, and are making quite a display of new goods.

THE TRAINS are now running on time, carrying the mails all along the line.

THE NEW STATION is about completed, and the council is building a road and bridge, so that the time is fast drawing nigh when passengers will be able to receive shelter.

CUPID is shooting his darts around here and we belive has a few more to shoot.

We received a visit from Mr. Wm. Edington, formerly of this place, but now of Cobourg, last week. He intends moving his family this week.

TRENTON.

Navigation has opened at Trenton, and the two daily are now running regularly to Picton. A number of schooners have arrived and are loading at the wharves.

The new Gilmour saw mill is now nearly completed, and will be ready to start by May the 5th. The average daily cut will, it is claimed, be over 900,000 feet.

At the meeting of the Directors of the Central Ontario R. R., held at the Company's head office in Picton a few days ago, it was decided to at once push forward the extension of the road from here to Madoc and the iron mines.

A bold attempt at burglary was made in Madoc recently by a couple of desperate characters, who were captured after a severe struggle and lodged in Belleville lock-up.

The proprietors of the Ontario Central R. R. will commence the extension of the road westward in a few days. They intend building a telegraph line of two wires at the same time.

The recent trouble in the R. C. Church here, about which the Association Press has made such a fuss, has, in reality, amounted to nothing, and it is said was brought about by some interested party.

Messrs. Gilmour & Co. have erected an immense bottle-shaped structure near the new mill, in which all the sawdust and other refuse will be burned, instead of being thrown into the bay and allowed to rot as formerly.

It is said that Messrs. Gilmour & Co. are not satified with the working of the electric light in their mills, but this, no doubt, is due to the fact that there is no one around the establishment who thoroughly understands its management.

PORT HOPE.

WATERWORKS.—The by-law for the extension of the waterworks proposes to extend the pipes to the west as follows:—From Beamish's mill to Bedford, Seymour, North, Pine, Walton streets to Mehennit's corner, thence north on Brunaly to Sullivan street. In the east part of the town, from Walton street to Mill, King and Ward streets, across Bloomsgrove avenue to Ontario street. It is proposed to lay 8,000 feet of pipes, the western section having a little more than half. The entire cost will not exceed $10,000. Such a system of protection from fire cannot but be appreciated by property owners.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday morning as Mr. Wm. Harris, jr., of the Lake Shore Road, was firing a breach-loading gun at a hawk, the cylinder exploded, a piece of the iron striking him with great force on the forehead, and the powder filling his eyes. Medical assistance was procured at once, but it is yet a serious question whether his eyes are not fatally injured.

BURNED.—Mr. Thos. D. Staples' mills, and premises, owned by Mr. Jas. Morrow at Fleetwood, were destroyed by fire last week.

The Port Hope Times says that its readers will regret to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Wm. Staples, of Millbrook, which took place at his residence on Thursday morning.

Mr. Shaw, of Port Hope, intends to ship 100 head of cattle from Port Hope to St. Clair Flats, where he will pasture them for the summer.

OMEMEE.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—On Saturday night last, Mrs. Edward Dancey, while crossing King street, met with a very severe accident, by being knocked down and run over by a span of horses, owned and driven by Mr. Wm Gardiner. The driver states that he did not see any person on the road and the first intimation he had of anything being wrong was the jolt of the wagon. On going back he found Mrs. Dancey lying in an insensible condition, and on being carried home it was discovered that her left ear was split in three places and the head bruised; on the right side there was an ugly bruised spot.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday, Mrs. Henry English, who lives a short distance from Omemee, slipped and fell, strking her side on the step at the door, receiving severe injuries.

SPRING SHOW.—At a meeting of the Emily Branch Agricultural Society it was decided to hold the annual spring show of stock on the 27th of April, in the village of Omemee.

RETURNED.—Mr. John Bailey Reeve of Emily, and Mr. D. Storey, of the same township, returned from Manitoba last week.

VESTRY MEETING.—At the Easter meeting of Christ Church, the following officers were appointed for the current year: Messrs. I. McNeely and Wm. Adams, re elected church wardens; Messrs W. S. Cottingham and I. McNeely delegates to the Synod; Mr. Cottingham, vestry clerk; Mr. McNeely, treasurer; Messrs. Wm. Curry and Robert Grandy, auditors.

DUMMER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

COUNCIL MEETING.—Council met at Warsaw on the 31st March, 1882. Minutes of last meeting read and signed. A petition asking for an enlargement of S. S. No. 11, was read. On motion no action was taken until such time as the land petitioned for is settled, and the parties thereon have children that would be benefitted by the change. An application was made by George Peters for the purchase of the old town hall and land attached. On motion an abatement of $1.44 against personal property of Chas. Kilbank, and $2.63 against the personal property of Ira Stephens was made to Collector, as there is no real property to return said taxes on, and the parties have left the Township. $7.45 as arrears of taxes on lot 27, Con. 12, was abated to George Grant on condition of his doing road labor to that amount under Mr. Drain, Com. Collector made out and swore to his list of Abatements $83.41 which he was unable to collect. An abatement of $8 was made on the taxes of Thomas, and Thomas J. Ritchie, in lieu of making 6 rods of crossway and doing 2 days Statute Labor. On motion Alex Gardner, Collector, was allowed $10, for paying over School Money to Treasurers of Belmont and Douro, and other troubles in collecting. The Reeve and Clerk were appointed a committee to meet the Reeve and Clerk of Douro to arrange and settle as to the just proportion to be expended on the Boundary by Dummer and Douro respectively. By-laws passed, one in duplicate to establish a road, and one to appoint Pathmasters, Pound Keepers and Fence Viewers. Council adjourned to 26th of May next, to meet in Warsaw as a Court of Revision.

HASTINGS.

The dwelling of Mr. Howard, of the Star, vanished in smoke and flames on Wednesday morning last. The loss is estimated at $500.

Mr. John Lancaster, senr., died on Saturday, the 8th inst., at the ripe age of 72 years. The deceased gentleman was one of the oldest inhabitants in the Township of Otonabee. He was born in Lancashire, England, in 1807, emigrating to Canada in 1831, settling in Otonabee, where he continuously resided up to the day of his death

Mr. John Clark, of Seymour having declined the nomination as the Conservative Candidate for the Ontario Legislature, Mr. Wm. Wade, of Brighton township will be the nominee of the party.

John Hays, Credit P. O., says:—"His shoulder was so lame for nine months, that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and although three months has elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since."

Mr. Perpetus Boileau, Ottawa, says:—"I was radically cured of piles, from which I had been suffering over two months, by the use of Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I used it both internally and externally, taking it in small doses before meals and on retiring to bed. In one week I was cured, and have had no trouble since. I belive it saved my life."

BRANDON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

April, 11th, 1882.

THE EXCITEMENT in Brandon has been high all winter and is steadily on the increase. A daily express train arrives now and will likely continue if the "beautiful" does not impede. A great deal of delay has occurred lately on account of drifting snow between Winnipeg and here.

TWENTY-TWO CAR-LOADS of stock arrived in Brandon to-day, and the streets and yards appear to abound with cattle alone. Some of the stock, however, present indications of rough usage on the way. Some of the weaker ones are worthless on arrival.

IN CANVAS.—A large number of canvas houses, some of miniature size are being rushed up continually. Some of the tents are very comfortable and the larger ones are used as boarding places and hotels. There is more erecting of canvas than of wood as the latter is very scarce on account of the amount of all kinds of stuff going over the road and the snow blocking of the trains.

LOCATING.—Parties are daily leaving Brandon for the south and west, some settlers going out to locate and others to look at land intending to make entries, while quite a number do the necessary business on arrival, choosing from the map.

BUSINESS with carpenters and mechanics is a little dull as very little chance has been for shipping necessary material for building.

SCARCITY OF PROVENDER.—It will be difficult moving westward with teams for some time as there is considerable scarcity of provender on the way.

LIVELY TIMES and movement westward is expected when spring is fairly opened and railway extensions are commenced.

BOBCAYGEON.

NAVIGATION.—The Bobcaygeon Independent says that on Saturday last Capt. Bottum had the Eva out for the first trip of the season. A run was made up Sturgeon Lake to see how the ice was. It was found at Jackson's Island. During the little outing a distance of three miles was covered in fifteen minutes, and the machinery was not fairly settled to work either. On Wednesday, another trip was made, and Sturgeon Point was reached, but a field of ice from the Point to the mouth of the river blocked the passage to Lindsay. Pigeon Lake was cleared out Monday, and the Eva made a trip to Bridgenorth on Thursday. Next week the Captain will run his regular daily trips to Lindsay, leaving here in the morning. In the busy season two trips will probably be made. A boat is to be placed on the Peterborough end.

SMITH COUNCIL.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. All the members present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Moved by Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. McIlmoyl,—That the Council of the township of Smith grant the sum of $15.00 to be expended on the boundary line between Smith and Lakefield, northward from the 8th con. line; providing the village of Lakefield give a like sum, and that J. C. Carveth be commissioner to superintend the expenditure of the same.—Carried. A By-law appropriating the sum of $800 to the general repairs of the roads and bridges in the municipality, and appointing commissioners to superintend the expenditure of the same, received its several readings and was signed and sealed. The following claims were ordered to be paid, namely: J. Young, for support, attendance and removal of Mrs. Parsons to P. P. Home, $7.00; R. Chowan, for repairing road, $1.00; Henry Graham, for repairing road, $1.00. The Council then adjourned till Monday, the 29th day of May, then to meet as a Court of Revision on the assessment roll.

Mr. R. A. Harrison, Chemist and Druggist, Dunnville, Ont., writes:—"I can with confidence recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure for Dyspepsia, Impure Blood, Pimples on the face, Billiousness and Constipation—such cases having come under my personal observation."

It is wonderful that a subtle miasmatic person should produce that peculiar condition of the system which prevails when alternate chills and burning heat freeze and scorch the body at regular intervals, and it is no less wonderful that medical skill has been able to reach and expel this poison from the system, as Ayer's Ague Cure always does.

The railway fusion agitation in England still continues. The Daily News thinks that in view of Mr. Osler's assurance that the fushion of the Great Western and Grand Trunk companies will not affect the construcion of the Ontario and Quebec Railway there is no need of hurrying the agreement. The London agent of the Midland calls attention to the fact that another Toronto and Ottawa connection, independent of, but friendly to, the Grand Trunk, is being provided, and that with this information before them the public will scarcely think a third line (the Ontario and Quebec) necessary. The prospects of fusion are not thought to be so bright as a few days ago.

A PROLIFIC SOURCE OF DISEASE.—A trifling indiscretion in diet may lay the foundation of confirmed dyspepsia, and there is no fact in medical science more positively ascertained or more authoritatively asserted than that dyspepsia is the parent of a host of bodily ills, not the least of which is contamination of the blood and the maladies of which that is the direct consequence. Their original cause is, however, thoroughly eradicated from the system by NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, a medicine which only requires regularity and persistence in its use to cure dyspepsia and the many ills that arise from it. No deleterious mineral ingredient is contained in it, and though its actiou is thorough in cases of costiveness, it never produces griping pains in the abdominal region, or weakens the bowels like a violent purgative. It invigorates the system through the medium of the increased digestive and assimilative activity which it promotes, and is also a most efficient remedy for kidney complaints, scrofulous and all diseases of the blood, female weakness, &c., &c. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 20, 1882.

The Chinese Question.

According to general expectation the President of the United States vetoed the bill restricting the immigration of the Chinese, which had passed the Congress and Senate by large majorities. But the matter is by no means at an end. Already a new bill has been introduced by Mr. Miller, of California, which is intended to exclude the inhabitants of the Flowery Empire for ten years, while the original measure prohibited immigration for twenty years. In spite of the accumulation of business, this bill is expected to pass the Senate before the session is over. When the President's veto message was taken up in Senate, twenty-nine Senators recorded themselves in favour of passing the bill over the veto, and twenty-one were on the other side, the rule, however, is that a two-thirds vote is required and so the bill was dropped. Every vote but one against the bill was Republican, while only six of this party voted in its favour. And yet at the very last National Convention of the Republican party a resolution passed which stated that "the unrestricted emigration of the Chinese was an evil of great magnitude," and should be restrained and limited "by the enactment of such just, humane and reasonable provisions as will produce that result." The President did not base his disapproval on any "broad grounds" such as we often hear from stump orators about the liberty of the country, and keeping the doors wide open, and welcoming all comers of every creed, and race and nationality. His main objection was well taken, viz., that twenty years suspension of immigration was virtually prohibitory, and as such, was a violation of the treaty of 1880, and a breach of national faith. He naturally expressed his apprehension of the injurious effect upon American commerce with China that such legislation would necessarily produce, and stated that hitherto great benefits have accrued to the Golden State and its industries through the employment of Chinese labor.

Of course the bill is the outcome of the prejudices existing on the Pacific coast against the Celestials, not so much either for their barbarous or immoral habits, as because they tend to cheapen labor. Discontent has been very deep and widespread in this latter respect in California for some time past, and the people of that State were as one man in demanding just such legislation as was contained in the disapproved bill. It is clear, however, that the Chinese themselves have the whip hand in this matter. Barbarians, i.e. all outsiders, are only permitted to enter the ports of that country as a matter of courtesy, and this favor could be very readily withdrawn. Were such a measure as that proposed in the United States to become law, the commercial interests of the latter country would soon suffer the penalty.

Commercial policy, therefore, would be one strong ground for vetoing the bill. Another reason was to be found in its being solidly supported by the Democrats. The President has a right to ascertain whether it is a measure for which the Republican party would want a President to be responsible, and which they would themselves approve. So political policy was against it. But in addition to this there is the higher ground of national policy and national justice. The Government is bound to act towards China upon principles of real honor and fairness. Not that the United States has always done so, or even professed such a true policy, but that her position as a civilised and Christianised nation demands it. On this policy being pursued the country may expect to get her due in commercial and other intercourse with the nations of the earth, and so be able to maintain peace and good will within her own wide borders. The President's step was, therefore, taken wisely, though it will be met with strong opposition, and no doubt the end will be as we have said, that another anti-Chinese bill will speedily pass and wait his decision once more. The general feeling is that the Mongolian must go, that immigration on a large scale from China cannot be permitted, and that though the President has, for the time being, saved the good name of the country, some such restrictive measure in the interests of skilled labor must yet become the law of the land. This is a somewhat strange commentary on the speeches of those who boast of freedom in the land of the Stars and Stripes, and of their country's power to assimilate untold millions from the old world.

The Deaf and Dumb.

The eleventh annual report of the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville, for the year ending 30th of September, 1881, has reached us. From it we learn that during the year 296 pupils were under instruction, 164 males and 132 females. Since the opening of the institution over 550 pupils have been under treatment and instruction. Their ages range from 6 years to 25. The county of Peterborough furnished 2 pupils during the past year, and Hastings no less than 13. Almost all the pupils were admitted free, only 25 out of the total number being supported by their friends. The Superintendent wishes us to state that there will be room for a number of new pupils when the institution re-opens in September next, after the summer holidays, and that immediate application is desirable. He also wishes it to be known more widely that liberal arrangements have been made for the education and improvement of persons deprived of sight and hearing. All mutes who reside in Ontario, between the ages of seven and twenty years, are admitted to all the privileges of the institution free of charge, being furnished with tuition, books, washing, lights, fuel and everything necessary, except clothing and travelling expenses, if their friends think they are unable to pay the sum of $50 yearly. The institution cost the province $36,596.89 last year, being an average of $157.63 per pupil.

Editorial Notes.

THE Hamilton Times says:—It is announced from Ottawa that Mr. Smith, a son of Sydney Smith, Q.C., of Cobourg, is the general political agent of the Conservative party. Where, oh! where is the young man with the eye-glasses and the "lisph?" Has he been boycotted because of his mismanagement of U. E. funds? Alas! how the mighty have fallen.

THE Deceased Wife's Sister Bill passed its third reading in the Senate on Friday last and only awaits the sanction of the Governor General to become law. The Senate are to be congratulated upon the good sense it has shown in bowing to the popular will on this question. The majority was 38 to 11. The Bill will undoubtedly receive the Royal assent, though Senator Trudel gave notice of appeal to the Governor General not to sign the Bill, and said if he did an appeal would be carried to the foot of the Throne. The thanks of the Dominion are due to Mr. Girouard for the persistent way in which he has devoted himself to the promotion of the bill.

THE exodus from Canada to the United States for the twelve months ending June 30th, 1881, was 125,391. It will now be in order for the Review to explain how it is that they have permitted the exodus to grow to this enormous number when their predecessors only allowed an exodus of 30,000 annually. The great, undeniable fact stands on record and cannot be refuted, that according to the official returns of the Washington Bureau of Statistics, which were quoted by the Tories in 1878 as absolutely reliable, the emigration from the Dominion increased from 28,194 in 1877-78, to 125,391 in 1880-81. It is too late in the day for the parties who used the Washington statistics in 1878 to prove their case, to set up the defence in 1882, when the same statistics are brought up in judgment against themselves, that they are a fraud and beyond the possibility of belief. The public cannot be gulled by such a lame defence.

THE Ottawa Citizen commenting upon an article in the Free Press of that city—says among other curious things:—"Instead of regarding the strikes as an evidence of hard times, we look upon them as evidence of prosperity in industrial circles, and so do most people, who take the trouble to look below the surface." Of course, we are prepared for all kinds of absurd things in defence of the N.P. from journals enjoying the patronage of the Government, which originated the oppressive tax upon the very necessaries of life, but it seems silly in the extreme to point to hundreds of starving workmen parading the streets of a large city, and demanding such an increase of wages as will enable them to live comfortably, as an "evidence of prosperity." It is evident that the man of the Citizen does not depend for his living upon his daily labor.

A MEETING of the American Land League was held in Washington last week, at which resolutions were passed expressing sympathy with American citizens, imprisoned in Ireland as suspects. A motion for a vote of thanks to President Arthur, for his efforts to obtain their release, was received with hisses. A letter was read from Wendell Phillips, expressive of his co-operation with the League in their object. Yankee Robinson embraced the opportunity of indulging in some of his bombastic rant about "arousing the American eagle from her ignoble slumber," and making the British lion quail before her. Sensible Irish Americans will have some difficulty in seeing how all this "bosh" can have any effect in bringing about a change in the condition of the men who, whether American citizens or not, have not been imprisoned without good cause.

THE CENSUS.

Some Interesting Particulars From It.

RELIGION AND NATIONALITIES.

The first volume of the census statistics of 1881 was submitted to Parliament last week by the Minister of Agriculture. The volume is in French and English, and covers over 400 pages. This volume contains schedules of particulars respecting residences, names, sexes, ages, births, birth-places, religions, nationalities, professions, married or widowed, instruction, infirmities, real estate, public institutions and industrial establishments.

The return of religions of the people of the different provinces are an interesting study. The total population of the Dominion by religions is as follows:—Roman Catholics, 1,791,982; Presbyterians, 676,155; Adventists, 7,211; Baptists, 225,236; Free Will Baptists, 50,055; Mennonites, 21,234; Brethern, 8,331; Church of England, 574,818; Congregationalists, 26,900; Disciples. 20,193; Episcopal, Reformed, 2,596; Jews, 2,393; Lutherans, 46,350; Methodists of all classes, 742,981; Pagans, 4,478; Protestants, 6,519; Quakers, 6,533; Unitarians, 2,126; Universalists, 4,517; no religion, 2,634; other denominations, 14,209; not given, 86,769. Total population, 4,324,810.

The proportion of Catholics and Protestants in the population of the several Provinces of the Dominion is as follows:—

	Protestants.	Catholics.
Ontario	1,092,889	320,639
Quebec	186,209	1,170,718
Nova Scotia	323,085	117,487
New Brunswick	213,142	149,201
P. E. Island	61,776	47,115
Manitoba	53,760	12,246
British Columbia	39,416	10,644
The Territories	52,093	4,443
Total	2,532,728	1,351,993

The total population of the Dominion by nationalities is given as follows:—Africans, 21,394; Chinese, 4,383; Dutch, 30,412; English, 881,301; French, 1,298,929. The predominance of the Catholic population in some of the country districts of Quebec is somewhat remarkable. In L'Islet, for instance, there are only two Protestants out of a total population of 14,915. In Montmagny the Protestants number four in 15,264; in Kamouraska three in 22,177, and in Bellechase four in 18,064. In Montmorency Charlevoix, Vercheres and other counties the proportions are about the same. In Quebec city the Catholics number 56,255 in a total population of 62,446. The Germans, 254,319; Icelanders, 1,009; Indians, 108,547; Irish, 957,403; Italians, 1,849; Jewish, 667; Russians, 1,227; Scandinavians, 4,214; Scotch, 699,863; Spanish, and Portuguese, 1,172; Swiss, 4,583; Welsh, 9,947; all others, 43,587. According to nativity the population of the Dominion stands thus: Natives of England, 169,504; Ireland, 185,528; Scotland, 115,062; Ontario, 1,467,988; Quebec, 1,237,809; P. E. Island, 101,047; Nova Scotia, 420,088; New Brunswick, 288,265; British Columbia, 32,275; Manitoba, 19,590; Territories, 58,430; other British possessions, 10,348; France, 4,389; Germany, 25,328; Italy, 777; Russia, 6,376; Spain, 215; Sweden and Norway, 2,076; United States, 77,753; other countries, 14,169. The male population of Canada number 2,188,854, and the females 2,135,956; married, 1,380,084; widowed, 160,330; unmarried, 2,784,396; Canada was divided for census purposes into 192 districts, and 2,139 sub-districts.

PROPOSED SMELTING WORKS.

The Lindsay Post says that considerable progress has been made during the past few months in developing the resources of the north country. We learn that the indications of iron ore are considered so satisfactory that Mr. S. C. Parry, resident in Lindsay, and Mr. J. G. Mills, of Chicago, have commenced the erection of a hot-blast charcoal furnace about six miles from Kinmount, on Myers branch of the Victoria Railway, and have purchased a water privilege on the Burnt River, conveniently situated for their purpose. The furnaces will smelt ore from the Snowden iron mines. The proprietors have leased some lots from Messrs. O'Brien, Shartles & Co., and from Irving & Co., for their ore supplies. The furnace is to be pushed forward with all possible despatch, and will probably be completed and in blast by next August. The capacity of the furnace will be 30 tons of pig iron per day, and will use 50 to 60 tons of ore daily. This will be of great advantage to the mining interests of the Snowden district, as it will create a home demand for the leaner ores which it will not pay to export. This furnace will give constant employment to nearly 200 men, as in addition to the mines and furnace men a large force will be required to furnish wood and convert it into charcoal. The establishment of these works will be in many ways a benefit to this town.

CONSUMPTION WITH CONSUMPTION.—Some people, troubled with coughs seem absolutely to coquet with consumption—now encouraging it by a total neglect of medicine, and again attempting to stave it off with ill-chosen cough remedies. How much wiser to eradicate it at the outset by using Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Promptitude in the use of this medicine cannot be too strongly urged upon those consumptively inclined, in a climate so severe during the winter as our own. The public generally as well as the medical fraternity, is acquainted with the value, as a remedy for lung and throat troubles, of the purified oil of the Cod's liver. United with it in this standard Emulsion are the finest tonics in existence, namely, lime and soda hypophosphites, of which the chief component, phosphorus, is an incomparable nutrient of the blood and invigorant of the system. Nothing builds up a broken-down system and enables it to resist the inroads of pulmonary disease like this leading preparation. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, soreness and weakness of the chest, are among the bodily troubles which it overcomes, and in scrofulous affections it has been used with great success as a remedy. Sold by all druggists, at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Prepared only by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Canada.

The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

A SERENADE.

The stars are shimmering softly,
The night is charmingly fair,
And a sweet and subtle perfume
Goes by on the drowsy air.

A moonlit lane down to the ocean,
Just wide enough, my love, you know,
Where the angry billows toss,
And the rocks in the moonlight glow.

Don't you remember, my darling,
When last we stood on the sands?
The bliss in those stolen glances?
The joy in the grasp of hands?

You bent your head in the stillness,
Your eyelashes touched your cheek;
Trembling and voiceless you stood there,
Not trusting yourself to speak.

What covered your cheek with blushes?
And how much was left unsaid?
While the tide crept lazily in,
And the o'erhanging moon grew red?

Arm in arm let us wander, love,
On the sands by the moonlit sea,
I, your heart's only idol,
And you, all the world to me!

HINTS TO GIRLS.

Give your best sympathy. There is no greater human power than the tenderness of woman. If you can minister to some one in sickness, lessen somebody's distress, or put a flower in some poor home, you have done a thing you will always be glad to think of. You will be remembered, and a woman asks no grander atonement than to live in hearts.

Not far from my home was the plain cottage of an Irish woman and her only son—a brave young fellow—dying of consumption contracted in the war. One day in my visit to him, I carried him some lovely red roses. The next time I went, the mother said: "He never let the roses go out of his hand Miss. He held 'em when he died, and the last he ever said was, 'Give my blessing to the young lady for bringin' the flowers'." And the desolate mother buried them with him, as the most precious thing he possessed. The blessing of that poor Irish youth will always be a pleasant memory.

Be gentle. Strength of character and sweetness of disposition are in no wise incompatible. Doubtless, the most winsome nature on earth is that which combines the naturalness and dependance of a child with the strength of a true woman. There are people whose touch is a palm to us; restful persons, whose companionship is a benediction—who draw out the best of our natures—whose presence we may scarcely note, but whose absence creates a void which the heart hungers to have filled.

The remembrance of a tender word will last long after you are in your grave. A little ragged boot-black fell on the icy streets of Chicago one winter's day. A cheery young lady passing, said, as she helped him up: "Did you hurt you? His whole face beamed as, after her departure, he said to his companions: "I'd like to fall a dozen times, if I could have her speak to me like that."

A harsh woman is like a discord in the sweetest music. One can easily get into complaining and dissatisfied tones. Have a sunny face; and nothing will do this save genuine kindness in the heart. Every girl ought to make it possible to have people say of her: "She brightens every life she touches." If you never do ought else in life, bring sunshine into every heart you meet.—Earnest Worker.

DRUNKEN HUSBANDS.

The appetite for strong drink in men has spoiled the life of more women—ruined more hopes for them, scattered more fortunes for them, brought to them more sorrow, shame and hardship—than any other evil that lives. The country numbers tens, nay hundreds of thousands of women who are widows to-day and sit in hopeless weeds because their husbands have been slain by strong drink. There are thousands of homes scattered over the land in which wives live lives of torture, going through all the changes of suffering that lie between the extremes of fear and despair, because those whom they love love wine better than they do the woman they have sworn to love. There are women by thousands who dread to hear at the door the step that once thrilled them with pleasure, because that step has learned to reel under the influence of the seductive poison. There are women groaning with pain, while we write these words, from bruises and brutalities inflicted by husbands made mad by drink. There can be no exaggeration in any statement in regard to this matter, because no human imagination can create anything worse than the truth and no pen is capable of pourtraying the truth. The sorrows and horrors of a wife with a drunken husband or a mother with a drunken son are as near the realization of Hell as can be reached in this world, at least. The shame, the indignation, the sorrow, and the sense of disgrace for herself and her children, the poverty, and not unfrequently the beggary, the fear and the fact of violence, the lingering, life-long struggle and despair of countless women with drunken husbands are enough to make all women unite and engage unitedly to oppose it everywhere as the worst enemy of their sex.—Exchange.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separating it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of its genuine, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

THINGS ALL HOUSEKEEPERS DO NOT KNOW.

It is a remark often made by unreflecting people that a woman, who devotes a large portion of her time to the performance of domestic duties, more especially those pertaining to the culinary department, sinks all her higher aspirations to the level of household care.

Now this is a grave mistake: for we all know that the health and strength of a family depend, in a great measure, upon the ability with which healthful as well as palatable dishes are prepared for the daily round of breakfast, dinner and supper. It takes brains, and active ones too, to keep the household machinery in running order; and there is as much need of artistic skill in the preparation of an elaborate entertainment, as in the composition of a book, or the painting of a picture.

Every housekeeper, desiring to practice economy in her family, often feels at a loss to know how to dispose of the seemingly useless accumulation of different articles of diet—such as dry slices of bread, a plate of cold potatoes, and pieces of roasted or boiled meats, too good to throw away, and yet a nuisance to keep. It would be well perhaps to give a few thoughts to this perplexing subject.

In the first place, stale bread griddle cakes are excellent for breakfast when made in this manner: Pour cold water over the bread, just enough to cover it. Let it stand until thoroughly soaked; then drain it as dry as possible, and pour enough milk over it to cover it again. Let it stand until morning. If it is too thick, thin it with a cupful of milk, and stir in flour enough to make a batter; then add a little salt. If the milk is sour, to every quart of the batter add a teaspoonful of soda—if sweet, use three teaspoonfuls of Royal Baking Powder. Bake a cake, and if it does not turn over nicely, stir in a little more flour. If the griddle is rubbed over with the half of a turnip, instead of suet, the cakes will turn easily, and you will avoid the disagreeable odor that generally accompanies the baking of griddle cakes.

A very good pudding is also made of pieces of bread, by soaking them in water as for the cakes. After it is well drained, thin it with milk, add spice, a cupful of raisins, a small piece of butter, and two eggs. Bake about an hour, and serve with a liquid pudding sauce.

Cold potatoes, too, are excellent cut in thin slices, seasoned with pepper and salt, dusted with flour, and fried to a nice brown color. They are also very palatable cut into small squares, and put in the frying pan with milk to cover them, adding salt, pepper and butter to suit the taste. When they boil, thicken them with a little flour.

Cold ham cut fine is a good addition to an omelet, and small pieces dipped into fritter batter and fried, make an enjoyable breakfast dish.

Slices of cold beef, especially if underdone, can be seasoned with salt, a small portion of red pepper and mustard, broiled on a gridiron for a few minutes, laid on a warm dish and slightly buttered. This preparation is remarkably excellent, and is preferred by some to the beef when freshly cooked.

Cold mutton makes a very acceptable stew, chopped fine, seasoned with salt, pepper and butter, a minced onion, and a small portion of shredded sweet herbs. Add enough water to moisten, and stew about fifteen minutes.

Small pieces of cold, roasted veal, or poultry, may be made into a most appetizing hash, by the following recipe:

Cut into very small pieces any cold roasted veal left from dinner. Season with salt, red pepper and mustard. Add to it a cup of cream, and two hard-boiled eggs, the whites and yolks both being chopped fine. After boiling, add a wineglass or more of sherry wine, and if not thick enough, stir in a little wheat flour.

Cold chicken, turkey, or veal, is very palatable when made into dumplings. Put the pieces of cold meat, or poultry, into a stewpan, with water enough to cover them. Let them cook slowly for a few minutes; then take out the meat, and chop it fine, placing the saucepan back on the range, where the broth will keep hot. Season the chopped meat with pepper, butter and salt. Moisten with a little milk. Make a biscuit dough, cut it into as many pieces as you want dumplings, and roll each piece out half an inch thick, and as large round as a pint bowl. Put a tablespoonful of the prepared meat in the centre, gather up the edges of the dough, pinch together closely, and put the smooth side up on a buttered dish that will fit into your steamer. Place the dumplings close together, and steam twenty minutes. Be careful not to lift the lid while they are cooking. Put a little cold gravy, if you have it, with the broth in the saucepan, season it with butter and salt, thicken with a little flour, cook a few minutes, and turn into a warm gravy-dish. The dumplings should be steamed on a dish that they may be served in, as they should not be removed to another when taken to the table.

Any one having sufficient courage to try these recipes, with the despised scraps left in the kitchen, will be surprised at the result.

As colored hosiery is now so universally worn, it is a good plan, when washing it, to put black pepper in the water, about a tablespoonful and a half to a pailful. Put it into boiling hot suds, and, when cold enough, wash the hose, rinse in one water, and hang immediately to dry.

If a liberal quantity of salt is added to the water in which black and white cotton dresses are to be washed, the colors will not run. Some persons dip these garments into strong brine and dry them without rinsing. They can then be washed in the usual way, not using too much soap, and will not need a second preparation.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.—From the Kingston (Ont.) Daily Whig.

This old medicine, the ever-effective healer of ills that flesh is heir to, is still before the public in its full favor. It started on its career of mercy (for a good medicine is a merciful agent), forty years ago, and is to-day sought after by the children of the men who first sought out its virtue and established its name. Were it not for its merits it would long since have 'died' and left no sign, like many a once popular curative has done even in the last five years. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY is no artificial, cleterious compound, certain to afford temporary relief only by cutting its way by powerful agents through vitality, yet leaving a worst injury behind it. It is a vegetable, and by natural remedies works off complaints from a slight cold to a threatening consumption.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

From Hamilton.—A gentleman writes "I have suffered for over four years with night hoses and general weakness, caused by abuse. I had tried all the advertised medicine, and a number of doctors, and found no relief or benefit. I have used twelve bottles of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, and am entirely restored." See advertisement in another column. 15-2in

HIS WITS 3,000 MILES AWAY.

AN OCTOGENARIAN WHO IMAGINES HIMSELF AN ASSISTANT GAMEKEEPER IN ENGLAND.

"I was in America three years ago, but haven't been there since."

The speaker was a brown and wrinkled old man who had been brought into Yorkville Police Court from the Grand Central Depot, where he was found wandering aimlessly about. He was roughly but comfortably dressed in a sack coat and trousers of a rusty brown.

"He thinks he's in England, Judge," said the policeman who had brought him in, "and I can't make him believe anything else."

"What is your name?" said the Judge.

"John Wyatt."

"And your age?"

"Eighty-four."

"Where do you live?"

"Why, mos, I live here in Glossop. Ye mann know my father, gamekeeper to the Duke of Norfolk. I came down to chapel this morning. Ye know my father's a good Catholic. I've been searching for Joe Rosebottom. Mayhap ye've seen him?"

"No. Where did you live in America?"

"New York."

"Whereabouts in New York? What street and number?"

"I can't remember. My memory's not good. I've forgotten many things I should know."

"What is your business?"

"I'm a sort of assistant gamekeeper over at the hall. I break in the dogs."

"Where does your friend, Joe Rosebottom, live?"

"Over at Hadsfield, in Derbyshire."

"The hall is a grand place?" suggested a court officer.

"Aye, it is. I remember the time, though I was but a lad, when King George and all the rest, at time or tide, have been down to Glossop Hall. I remember Lady Howard well. My mother was her maid."

Further questions were answered clearly but in the same strain. He was committed by Judge Morgan for a medical examination.

BROUGHT TO TIME.

A young man on the street in Steubenville with a fez cap, a fragile cane, and smoking a vile cigarette which awakened a suspicion in the minds of the neighbors that a dead mule was in the immediate vicinity, stepped off the sidewalk to allow a lady to pass.

"Thank you," she said.

"Not at all, madame; I assure you I always give way to the weaker sex."

The lady slowed up when she heard this and came back to the young man.

"What did you observe, sir?"

"I said (smile forced) that I always give way to the weaker sex."

"Ah, did you," pursued the woman, grabbing him with a firm hand by the throatlatch. "Do you know who you are (shake) calling the (shake, shake) weaker sex?"

I—ugh—that is I—meant to say—you hurt my neck—politeness is constitutional in our—ough—family."

"Tis, hey? Well (shake, shake, shake) if you think I'm (shake, shake, shake, shake) one of the weaker sex you are off your reckoning."

Here she gave the young man a dexterous flip which spun him three times around, after which he fell under a fence, while his cane and fez cap flew over into a bed of last year's hollyhocks.

"Now after this, remember young man, you can't play no weak sex game on me. I propose to vote before that dyspeptic looking moustache of yours has more than seven hairs on one side and nine on the other."

TREMENDOUS SALES.

The druggists of this town are doing a big business now in the sale of St. Jacobs Oil. One druggist on whom we called on Saturday afternoon, stated that although his sales were large at first, they have doubled lately.

Another said that so popular has the Oil become that he could hardly keep the supply up. No one to whom we have spoken but gave it a high recommendation and said that it must be effecting scores of cures, or there would not be such a demand for it.

The people have got the St. Jacobs Oil fever bad and no mistake, and confidence in its curing qualities is still growing stronger. Of course, this would not be so, unless the remedy was fully meeting every promise.

THE DRY ROT IN MEN.

The first strong external revelation of the dry rot in men is a tendency to lurk and lounge; to be at street corners without intelligible reason; to be going anywhere when met; to be about many places rather than at any; to do nothing tangible, but to have an intention of performing a variety of intangible duties to-morrow or the day after. When the manifestation of the disease is observed, the observer will usually connect it with a vague impression once formed or received, that the patient was living a little too hard. He will scarcely have had leisure to turn it over in his mind, and from the terrible suspicion "dry rot," when he will notice a change for the worse in the patient's appearance—a certain slovenliness and deterioration, which is not poverty, nor dirt, nor intoxication, nor ill-health, but simply dry rot. To this succeeds, a smell as of strong waters in the morning; to that, a looseness (respecting a stronger smell as of strong waters at all times; to that, a trembling of the limbs, somnolency, misery, and crumbling to pieces. As it is in wood, so it is in men. Dry rot advances at a compound usury quite incalculable. A plank is found infected with it, and the whole structure is devoted.—Charles Dickens.

NEWCOMBE PIANOS

BOSTON, 16th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN,—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 20, 1882.

The North-West Lands.

The speech and motion of Mr. Charlton in condemnation of the Government land policy in the North-west are most instructive and suggestive reading. The resolution is very emphatic, in its disapproval of various features of the land policy, but especially of the regulations for the establishment of so-called colonization companies. The policy of the Opposition is proclaimed to be, in one of its cardinal features, that no man should be allowed to speculate in lands purchased from the Crown, that each purchaser should get only what he can cultivate, and that the actual settler should get his land at a price as low as it is offered to anyone else.

The mischievous effects of creating corporations, and endowing them with land on which they are to place settlers are familiar enough to all those who, in Ontario, have watched the operations of the Canada Company. The conditions on which that Company obtained its land grants were never fulfilled, and yet no attempt was ever made by the Government to foreclose on them and take back their property to re-sell it. On the contrary, the company, while they were allowed on the one hand to break through their obligations with impunity, were permitted on the other to foreclose on those purchasers of their lands who were so unfortunate as to fall behind in their payments, and who were, in hundreds of cases, evicted without compunction. In such cases the poor settler loses all his improvements, which go to make the land more saleable for the company, which resume the right to sell it.

But the worst feature in the colonisation regulations is undoubtedly the opportunity they afford to the Government of making use of them as an instrument of political corruption. They leave it to the discretion of the Ministry of the day whether to compel a company to forfeit its territory or not, when it has failed to fulfil all the conditions on which it received its tract. It is easy to see what a power this would give an unscrupulous Minister over defaulting companies on the eve, say of a general election. The whole system is a pernicious one involving dangers far too great to be incurred, even if the benefits were certain and much greater than they are. As it is, the benefits are questionable, to say the least, while the mischief resulting is absolutely inevitable. One of the chief watchwords of the Liberal party is "Let there be no middlemen in land, to come between the Crown and the settler," and we are willing to submit this maxim for the approval of the people.

Interprovincial Trade.

The Review, by way of offset to its own anti-protectionist utterances of a dozen years ago, republishes the following quotation from a speech made in 1864 by the late Mr. George Brown:—

"But, fifthly, Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of a union of these provinces, because it will enable us to meet without alarm, the abrogation of the American Reciprocity Treaty in case the United States should insist on its abolition. (Hear, hear.) I do not believe that the American Government is so insane as to repeal that treaty. But it is always well to be prepared for contingencies—and I have no hesitation in saying that if they do repeal it, should this union of British America go on, a fresh outlet to our commerce will be opened up to us quite as advantageous as the American trade has ever been. * * * I hold in my hand a return of the articles purchased by the Maritime Provinces from the United States in 1863, which Canada could have supplied. * * * And the total value of products which the Lower Provinces might have bought more advantageously from us sums up to over seven million dollars. (Hear, hear.) The Americans must, therefore, bear in mind that if they abolish the Reciprocity Treaty, they will not only lose that seven millions which they now receive for their products, but the carrying trade that goes with it. But on the other hand, when we have this union, these products will, as they naturally should, go down the St. Lawrence, not only for the advantage of our farmers,—but swelling the volume of our own shipping interests. (Hear, hear.) The Americans hitherto have had a large portion of our carrying trade; they have brought us our goods—even our European goods—and take our produce not only to Europe but even to the Lower Provinces; and I say one of the best features of this union is that if in our commercial relations with the United States we are compelled by them to meet fire with fire—it will enable us to stop this improvidence, and turn the current of our own trade into our own waters."

The object of the Review is of course to represent Mr. Brown as, endorsing, by anticipation, the policy of the present Government with respect to the promotion of intercolonial trade. That policy is to put a duty on foreign coal so as to compel the people of Ontario to use coal from Nova Scotia, and to put a duty on foreign breadstuffs so as to compel the people of the Maritime Provinces to use the flour manufactured in Ontario. We have no hesitation in saying that, with his known sentiments on the trade question, Mr. Brown would never have consented to such a suicidal policy, a policy which drives the people further asunder in sentiment while it cannot create any natural bond of trade. There is not in the above extract a single expression that would justify such a construction as the Review would like to have put on his words. The best answer to all such insinuations is, that Mr. Brown was so strongly opposed to the N. P. as to take the stump against it in 1878, after he had been practically out of public life for many years.

Corruption in Parliament.

"Rykertism" is the expressive name which originated a few years ago, as a designation for the offence committed by a member of Parliament, when he takes a fee for promoting legislation. The member for Lincoln was then a member of the Ontario Assembly. By sworn testimony he was proved to have accepted money from different parties for his services as a promoter, and though others were suspected of being as bad as he was, no one was so thoroughly exposed.

A recent confession made by Mr. Hector Cameron places him alongside of Mr. Rykert, in respect of accepting money as a Parliamentary promoter. While the Montreal Telegraph bill, of which Mr. Cameron has charge, was under discussion in the Railway, he declined to vote on it, on the ground that he had a personal and professional interest in the measure. This can only mean that for his services in promoting the bill he had been paid a fee. What do the electors of North Victoria think of this? Did they send Mr. Cameron to Parliament to help to guard the interests of the public in all such matters, or did they send him to make money by means of the position in which their suffrages placed him? Mr. Cameron may need all the money he can make in this way, but he has no right thus to sell himself and the sacred trust committed to him. If he cannot afford to remain in public life and retain his independence he is under no compulsion to attempt it. When a certain person urged by way of extenuating a wrong act to Dr. Johnson, the plea: "A man must live, you know," he received from the stern old moralist the well known reply that he could not see the necessity. If the electors of North Victoria want to stand before the community along with the depraved electorate of Lincoln they can easily achieve notoriety by condoling Mr. Cameron's scandalous prostitution of his position as a member of Parliament.

Quebec and the Boundary Dispute.

It has been openly and explicitly asserted over and over again, by prominent Liberal journals that when Sir John Macdonald formed his Government in 1878, Mr. Masson, the acknowledged leader of the French Conservatives, declined to enter his Cabinet unless he would agree to repudiate the boundary award. This is a serious charge, and if it is not true, it ought not to go uncontradicted. It gains the appearance of truth from the fact that the French members of the House of Commons voted so unanimously for Mr. Plumb's resolution the other day, which implied the repudiation of the boundary award. Why should Quebec object to Ontario getting the disputed territory, since with it the latter would only have 197,000 square miles of territory, while Quebec would have, as she has now, 210,000? The only way to get this question settled is for the people of Ontario to sink all their differences for the time, and elect men who will force the Government to do justice to this Province or abandon office. Any paltering with the question now will be, in all probability, the means of causing us to lose altogether a region the timber, alone, of which is reckoned by good authorities, to be worth to the provincial treasury no less than one hundred and twenty-five million dollars. This amount, invested at four per cent, would furnish this province for ever with a revenue more than three times what we now receive from all sources combined. Can we afford to lose the present favourable opportunity of securing a fair, prompt and final settlement of this matter, by putting in office a Government determined to ratify the award made by Sir Edward Thornton, Sir Francis Hincks, and Chief Justice Harrison in 1878? What say the electors of Peterborough?

The Disallowance Vote.

The Midland district members who voted for the protest against the disallowance of Acts within the competence of a Provincial Legislature to pass, were:—

BLAKE,
BROWN,
CROUTER,
WHELER.

Those who voted to sanction a gross infraction of Provincial rights, were:—

BOWELL,
BURNHAM,
CAMERON, (Victoria)
GUILLETT,
WILLIAMS.

Those who shirked the vote were:—

WHITE, (Hastings)
HILLIARD,
McQUADE.

This list deserves the most attentive study from the electors.

Editorial Notes.

A certain Tory journal is responsible for the rumour that Mr. Meredith is about to retire from public life, and for the proposal that Mr. Rykert should be chosen to succeed him. We believe that Mr. Meredith would act wisely for himself in adopting this course, for he will never succeed as a politician, and he is well calculated to attain a high position at the bar, and would probably be found some day on the Bench. If he goes, get Mr. Rykert to replace him by all means, he is just the kind of man to make an appropriate leader for the Landers, Creightons and Merricks who now follow Mr. Meredith's lead. But what of Mr. Morris and the others just named, all of whom would be aspirants for the vacant position?

The fact that Mr. Blake did not speak on the boundary question seems to trouble the Conservative organs very much. If they will only possess their souls in patience, they will soon find out whether or not Mr. Blake has anything to say, with reference to the proposal contained in Mr. Plumb's resolution, to repudiate the award of 1878, and ask a new one from the Supreme Court or the Privy Council, and whether he agrees with Mr. Mowat in his intention to go in and take possession of the disputed territory under the award. There was no need of a speech from Mr. Blake during the debate in the House of Commons. The question was ably discussed from the Liberal point of view by his followers, and it is not necessary for a leader to take part in every discussion on the floor of the House. Fortunately, able as he is, Mr. Blake has several supporters who are worthy of such a leader.

Mr. Mills took occasion as a matter of privilege, the other day, to set at rest the absurd accusation originated by Mr. Plumb, that he had taken a bribe from the Ontario Government which might have effected his views on the boundary question while he was Minister of the Interior in Mr. Mackenzie's Government. While a private member of the Opposition in 1872, Mr. Mills did spend a good deal of time in the preparation of an able report on the subject, on which the case of the Government of Ontario was subsequently based. For doing this work he was paid, at a time when he could not possibly have had any idea of becoming Minister of the Interior. The transaction was, from every point of view, a perfectly proper one, as all who know Mr. Mills would be prepared to believe without any explanation from him.

The Montreal Witness, after speaking with approval of the new Syndicate land regulations, acknowledges that it was laboring under a mistake when it did so. The regulations it approved of were those relating to the sale of land in tracts; the regulations governing sales to private individuals, it admits, are unnecessarily and unwisely harsh. Like the former sets, they provide for absolute forfeiture of the settler's improvements, if he fails to fulfil every condition of his purchase. No company should have power to insert any such provision in a deed given for lands held in trust by the Crown, for the benefit of the people at large. Mr. Mackenzie, by his Pacific Railway Act, reserved to the Government the control of the lands to be granted to a company undertaking to build the road, and the Syndicate contract should have done the same.

Notes and Comments.

The Canada Pacific Railway Commission have done one piece of good service. Our readers will remember that Mr. Charles Mackenzie, brother of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, was a member of the firm of Cooper, Furman & Co., through whom the Mackenzie Government purchased in 1875, a quantity of steel rails. They will remember also that Alexander Mackenzie insisted on his brother retiring from the firm before he would contract with them, in order that even the appearance of evil might be avoided. The nominal dissolution of the partnership took place in May, at a date subsequent to the awarding of the contract, but it was explained at the time that the real dissolution took place some time before. The Commission report that the agreement to dissolve was arrived at amongst the members of the firm in January, date not named, and that all transactions thereafter, Mr. Charles Mackenzie had no interest in. It sometimes takes a long time to effectually nail a slander. This particular one, started by Mr. White, of Montreal and Cardwell, has been practically dead for some years, and has now received its quietus at the hands of men who have shown in every page of their report the keenest desire to injure Mr. Alexander Mackenzie.

NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

When the Minister of Finance moved the House into Committee of Supply on Wednesday, Mr. Charlton moved in amendment as follows:—

That the Speaker do not now leave the chair, but that it be resolved that the present land regulations provide that odd numbered sections in the Canadian North West belt, shall be open to sale without conditions of settlement; that the so-called colonization plan No. 1 provides that parties may purchase large tracts of land on credit at $2 per acre, with a provision for the rebate of one-half the price on certain conditions, thus reducing the cost to $1 per acre, or one-half the price charged to individual settlers for their pre-emptions or other purchases in odd sections; that the so-called colonisation plan No. 2 provides that parties may purchase large tracts, embracing all the Government lands within their area, from which homestead and pre-emption settlers are thus to be excluded, paying $2 per acre, without any express conditions of forfeiture in case of non-settlement, and with the conditional advantage of a large rebate, amounting under certain conditions to $1 per acre, from the price in case the purchasers choose to effect a so-called settlement within each township, but without any provision as to the acreage to be given or the interest to be secured to each so-called settler; that these regulations are calculated injuriously to affect the future of the country by facilitating the creation of large landed estates, by placing extended areas of the choicest lands in the hands of speculators who have favorable opportunities of securing them in anticipation of the settler, and who may hold them for a large advance to be paid by the ultimate settler, whereby the country will gain nothing in price and will lose through diminished ability of settler to contribute to the public revenues; that in the opinion of this House our aim should be to people the agricultural regions of the North-West with independent freeholders, each cultivating his own farm and paying therefor no more than the public treasury receives, and that, save in the case of town plots, or other exceptional cases, the sale of North-West agricultural lands should as a rule be made to actual settlers only on reasonable conditions of settlement, and in quantities limited to the area which can be reasonably occupied by a settler.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION.

CARD OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

I am pleased to acknowledge the receipt of kind sympathy from the officers of the "Canadian Mutual Aid Association" extended to me on the death of my husband, Jas. K. Brown, died March 22nd, 1882.

Also to acknowledge the receipt of two hundred dollars paid me this day in advance of further payment according to the term of certificate.

I would like here to say that this has been a great source of comfort and relief to me in the hour of trial, and to express my full confidence in the Association, advising others to follow the example of my husband and secure something in this way for their families in the time of need.

Margaret Melissa Brown.

Cannington, March 29th, 1882.

From this it will be seen that death in our ranks call for the first assessment on the members. Those who hold certificates on the half-rate plan, will be called on for this and each alternate assessment. Members will please be prompt in remitting. Time will practically demonstrate to the public the feasibility and soundness of our system. In the eyes of the world, success is the only satisfactory evidence that a plan or system is correct. A little exertion among the members will make the "Canadian Mutual Aid" a grand success. And when time shall have applied to it its severest tests, we have faith to believe the Canadian Mutual will triumphantly surmount every obstacle that may be cast in its path. Wide fields of usefulness and prosperity are before it, with evidence already on every hand, that soon it will be enjoying the envy of its enemies, and the admiration and confidence of its members and the public.

The yearly reports of the Canadian Mutual Aid will be submitted at the annual meeting of the Dominion Grange. Let us endeavour to make them such as to give increased confidence in the Association, among the members of the order and the general public.

D. KENNEDY,
General Solicitor for applications for the County.

THE MUTUAL AID—AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me a short space in your valuable paper, to make an explanation in reference to a certain resolution, passed at the last meeting of the Dominion Grange. I only desire to explain to those interested how that resolution was passed, expressing confidence in the Mutual Aid Life Association and published in Mr. Davidson's (?) last contribution, as the parties who have been discussing this so-called Grange institution have so garbled, misconstrued and misrepresented my correspondence on this subject—both through your paper and verbally on street corners, and other places, as opportunity offered. I could not expect any better from those who allowed themselves to be made the catspaw of a company who are endeavouring to make money out of the members of our Order by inducing supposed prominent men to take hold of it and work it up, representing it as a Grange institution, when it is not. These prominent men, for the paltry four dollars they receive on each victim they induce to become a member, do not hesitate not only to misrepresent and abuse me, but also misrepresent the action of the Dominion Grange by withholding a part of the published minutes of the meeting at which the said resolution was passed. After a vain attempt to foist the Mutual on the Dominion Grange, the best they could obtain was the following conditions:—

"A discussion arose concerning the Mutual Aid Association, the committee recommending the Association, so soon as by-laws were adopted providing for the election of directors and auditors by the members, thus giving them a voice in controlling their own business, and providing for a strong reserve fund. The Secretary, Bro. Page, promised that the above would be complied with."

Your readers will see that this little item places things differently from what Mr. Davidson (?) would place them, and I think I will not err in asking what confidence can be placed in men who resort to such misrepresentation and suppression to bolster up a false position.

I am yours, etc.,

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Emerson Express says of the Government Land Bill: "It is as full of political tricks as a Hindostanee juggler is of feats of legerdemain."

What he condemned was hypocrisy that supported a policy to-day and opposed it to-morrow merely because it was in the interest of party.—Sir Charles Tupper

Isn't that kind of a hard cut on the Review and its N. P.

The Post, of Lindsay, says; "The mechanics are feeling the pressure of the greater cost of articles they consume caused by the N. P., and are properly demanding an advance."

There is but one of Garfield's ministers left in the cabinet—Secretary Lincoln—and, although he has always been regarded as a stalwart, even he is getting ready to go.

Tory papers say workingmen are "striking" because the times are good. When the Mackenzie Government was in power the same organs said the workingmen "struck" because times were so bad.

It transpires that $428 of public money was paid for printing and expressing certain Tory members' speeches on the railway contract last year. This is only "a little one," but in principle it is as bad as the Tupper-Onderdonk job.

A contemporary says the value of the answer to Dr. Orton's question on Agriculture may be judged from the following: One writes: "Long live Sir John," another says, "Keep in the Government." The whole thing is a put-up job of the thinnest description, and a farce in the manner of its carrying out.

The catch in the Temperance Colonization scheme is said to be as follows: The land was divided up into three parts. The promoters took one-third at $1 an acre; the public took one-third at $2, and the other third at $3. Now the promoters are unloading at a handsome premium. A speculation which played upon a pretence of philanthropy needs watching.

All the French-Canadian Rouges are not so subservient as Messrs. Laurier, Casgrain and Geoffrion; some love their Province and their honour yet.—Mail. Which is more than can be said of Ontario Tories. All are so subservient to Sir John Macdonald that they vote for the spoilation of the Province they ought to love, and to their own eternal disgrace.

The Advertiser's correspondent has it that every Tory member has been asked what he calculates it will cost to make his constituency certain, and from the bribery found he will be supplied with the needful. Liberals should, therefore, lay their lines to discover and convict the bribers. The Tories mean to win and will stop at nothing. Their main object is to get a majority and trust to luck in the courts.

The Peterborough Review becomes quite hysterical in a screaming article on a recent reference in THE POST to the ministerial policy regarding the Trent Valley canal. It declares that our paragraph is "a deliberately malicious and mendacious invention," that it contains a charge "utterly preposterous" and "disgraceful in its shameful preversion of the truth," and so on. This is quite too awfully dreadful. The cold perspiration must stand in beads on our cotemporary's brow. So much unusual vigor on the part of the Review confirms our belief that the elections are near at hand; that there will be a liberal vote for canal construction; and that a lucrative canal commissionership, which our cotemporary has no doubt scented from afar off will soon be ready for bestowal.—Lindsay Post.

The Sarnia Observer says:—"The proposed export duty on elm logs aroused the indignation of the farmers of Essex, Kent and Southern Lambton. They see that the imposition of a duty means a direct loss on sales, as the price will be at the dictation of a few Canadian manufacturers. The most pronounced National Policy man can see that at a glance, and the unanimity of their opposition to it shows how little they care for the policy when it conflicts with their private interests. The Government are in a dilemma. To consent to the export duty will array against them the solid vote of the farmers of the three counties; to refuse it will be to confess that their boasted policy of protection is a fraud. Logically they are bound to put on the duty. The manufacturers say they need it, and they have as good right to protection as the cotton lords or sugar kings, or any other class. Now that our farmers are threatened with a direct illustration of the beauties of a protective policy, they should apply the lesson to other branches of industry and judge for themselves how it is likely to be of benefit to the general public.

THE IVY GREEN.

It is a popular error to suppose that ivy growing on the walls of a house makes it damp. The attachment of ivy to walls so far from injuring them and causing dampness, is an advantage. If the walls are dry when planted it will keep them so. If damp, as the plant overspreads their surface, the dampness will disappear. Where dampness prevails, ivy sucks out the moisture, and its thick foliage will prevent the access of rain to the structure, and thus it is not only a remover but a preventive of dampness. The only danger attending the planting of ivy on buildings is where fissures occur in the walls, in which case the shoots and roots will enter, and if left undisturbed, their growth will soon begin to tell on the building, and will, by the increase of growth, push against the sides of the opening, thereby enlarging it, and eventually so weaken the wall as to cause it to fall. Where the wall is sound there is no such danger, for the plant does not make fissures although quick to discover them.

The Garden—April.

With this month we have the opening spring, and we enjoy again the pleasure of our garden work. It is well to have a few words about vegetables; and first, salad.

Lettuce is easily grown in my garden, but to have it to perfection it should be grown in rich soil and kept rather moist. The seed bed should be well pulverized and smoothed, and the seed when sown, covered not more than one-fourth of an inch. It may be sown either broadcast or in drills, and bears transplanting well. The plants should be shaded when the sun becomes very hot. If not kept cool and moist the plants become hard and bitter.

Radish may be sown as the ground is in good condition. It is sown and cultivated as lettuce, but the seed is covered a half inch. The plant should be kept cool and moist. The best varieties are Early Scarlet, Turnip-rooted, Olive-shaped Scarlet, and the Long Scarlet; late in the year sow Black Spanish for early winter use.

Mustard, another salad plant, is cultivated as lettuce. For it also a rich soil and a cool situation are profitable. The leaves, when advanced in growth, may be used as greens.

Cress, also a salad, is cultivated on the same manner.

Dandelion, though a troublesome weed in the farm, is cultivated in the garden and cut for greens. It has also valuable medical properties, and is much used for purifying the blood. The soil for the growth of the dandelion should be rich and the seed sown in drills half an inch deep and a foot apart.

Early peas may be sown as soon as the ground can be dug without becoming compact. Bear in mind, no plot should be tilled till dry. Plant the seed in double rows, six inches apart, and three feet between the double rows.

Potato onions may next be planted. They do best in a light, rich soil, planted in drills 12 inches apart.

Onion seed is sown in drills 12 inches apart, on well prepared soil; sow pretty thick, and afterwards thin out the plants to six inches apart. An ounce of seed will sow a bed 40 feet long by 4 feet wide. The best varieties that we know are the Danvers Yellow, Strasbury Red, and Portugal White.

Parsnips and carrots may be sown as soon as the soil is in good working order. When sown early they produce better crops. The soil should be rich and well prepared, and for carrots 12 inches in depth at least.

Beets require a rich mellow soil. Sow in drills 15 inches apart, drop the seed every one or two inches in the drills, and cover two inches deep. Early Bassano and Blood-red Turnip-rooted beets we prefer for the garden.

Potatoes—it is well to plant a few in the garden for early use. Plant from the 12th to the 24th of April, in a warm, light soil, and as the plants are up cover them in the evenings with straw to save them from the frost.

Tomatoes may be started in a hot-bed or a box in the house, and transplanted two or three times. They require a rapid and early growth, that the fruit may all ripen in due season. Take care that the plants are not too crowded. A few strong, well rooted plants are worth more than double the number of spindly ones.—Farmers' Advocate.

When to Plant Corn.

Formerly almost every farmer was anxious to get his corn planted the last week in April, or at least the first week in May. One of the principal reasons for this was that it was less liable to be injured by the grub and wireworm on account of its early growth. Another was, that in case of the seed rotting or the plant being damaged from any cause, there would be plenty of time to replant. A trial of this method has not resulted successfully, as it is found that early-planted corn is frequently delayed in sprouting by unfavorable weather; and when it does make its appearance it is yellow and stunted, and sometimes does not recover. Whereas, by planting from the tenth to the twentieth of May, the ground is sure to be warm and adapted to early germination, the seed starts to sprout at once and comes up strong and healthy. To combat enemies, six grains should be placed in each hill, properly separated, and then, should the plants escape injury from the grub and wireworm by the use of salt placed around the hill after the corn is up, remove the plants above three. Again, farmers are beginning to put their hills closer in the row, and with the increased number of grains to each hill, they seldom are disappointed of a good crop, if well attended to.—Farmer's Advocate.

WHAT WORRIED HER.

A French paper says:—"Several days ago, on the Norman coast, a bather was drowned. Up to this time his body has not been recovered. Every morning the young and disconsolate widow of the drowned man comes and seats herself by the beach, questioning the unreplying ocean with eyes red with weeping. It is in vain that her friends seek to dissuade her from this painful practice.—'No,' says she, 'the sea has taken him from me, and the sea must bring him back to me.' They began to fear at last that the woman would lose her reason, and a distant relative was appointed to bring her around to thoughts of resignation. 'Come, come, Henrietta,' said he, 'you must give a reason for this!' 'A reason!' exclaimed the widow between her sobs; 'it is very easy for you to demand a reason; but—boo-hoo-oo!—if they don't find his body I can never get married again!'"

Magistrate—"Do you know the nature of an oath my boy?" Witness (promptly)—"Yes, sir, must take it, sir—'raise I can't be Memb'r o' Parl'ment, sir!"—Punch.

On Monday morning the people of Picton were shocked by a telegram from Brandon, Manitoba, stating that R. S. Robin, Esq., Barrister, of that town, had died suddenly the previous evening. Mr. Robin had gone thither to reside, only a few weeks ago, and his wife was intending soon to follow.

A Globe Commissioner has visited a number of carrige and waggon and other factories at Guelph. The opinion expressed by the manufacturers is that they have not been benefitted by protection, which was not needed, while all agree upon the fact that the tariff has greatly increased the cost of the large majority of articles required in manufacturing their goods.

When the wheat plant is said to be "in bloom," it is really past its bloom, the seed having begun to form. As the anthers shed their pollen or fertilizing dust before they appear outside of the chaff or envelopes, it must appear that the widespread belief that rains occurring when wheat is in bloom cause barren heads, is quite erroneous.

On the evening of the 3rd, about seven o' clock, Wm. Part, school-teacher at a schoolhouse near Cainsville, was driving home from Brantford, and when crossing the Grand Trunk Railway at Cainsville he was struck by a passing train. He was thrown some distance, receiving a very severe cut on the head, and some of his limbs being broken, killing him instantly.

A correspondent at Fort McLeod points out the gravity of the problem, What shall be done with the North-West Indians? He thinks the tribal distinctions should be abolished, and that suitable work should be given to them. Above all it is considered important that the Indians should be taught that having been provided with suitable employment they must either work or starve.

James Chute, the Norfolk County School teacher, who was committed to the Central Prison, Toronto, for fifteen months for attempted outrage on one of his pupils on the 4th, received his first instalment of forty lashes. He bore up well after the third or forth blow, but on the second blow he cried out for assistance from God. Chute received twenty lashes, and will get the balance in three months.

The British Home Secretary states that no further respite will be granted to Dr. Lamson after the 28th instant, and that so far none of the new evidence affords any justification for advising interference with the sentence of the law. His friends, however, still hope that he will escape the death penalty. His solicitor has made affidavit that he was informed previous to the trial that prisoner's mind was destroyed by morphine. The Standard regards the respite as merely an act of courtesy towards the United States.

A serious case of assault is reported as having taken place at Stockdale, township of Sydney. A few days ago a dispute arose between a man named Kemp, owner of a farm, and his tenant, named George, as to the folding of some sheep, when the former seized a club and knocked his adversary down. The fallen man's wife ran out of the house and begged that her husband's life might be spared, when the infuriated landlord struck her a severe blow in the breast, breaking some bones. George recovered consciousness and Kemp ran away. An action has been taken against Kemp, damages being at $2,000.

SPRING POETRY.

A CITY FARMER'S SPRING POEM.

The yellow ochre blossoms now adorn
The tall and stately oaks,
And from her nest in yonder pumpkin tree
The tuneful crocus croaks.

The cauliflower slowly seeks its gloomy cell,
The sun's too strong for him;
And purple daffodils, all mellow ripe,
Hang from each burdened limb.

The plumage cabbage pipes a merry lay
Beside the turtle dove;
The cow is warbling in the turnip vine
His melodies of love.

Oh, come, then, lady, come and stroll with me
Where streams of cider flow,
'Neath the umbrageous sweet potato tree
I'll whisper soft and low.

We'll talk of ensilage and cows and swine,
And you shall share a part
Of countless other May-time joys that thrill
Your farmer lover's heart.

IN RE SPRING.

(Written in a Lawyer's Office.)

Whereas, on sundry boughs and sprays
Now divers birds are heard to sing;
And sundry flowers their heads upraise—
Hail to the coming on of spring.

The songs of said birds arouse
The memory of our youthful hours,
As young and green as the said boughs,
As fresh and fair as the said flowers.

The birds aforesaid, happy pairs!
Love midst the aforesaid boughs enshrines
In household nests, themselves and heirs,
Administrators and assigns.

O, busiest term of Cupid's court!
When tender plaintiff's actions bring;
Season of frolic and of sport,
Hail! as aforesaid, coming spring.

PERMANENT PASTURE.

REPORT OF THE ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE FOR 1881.

The Seventh Annual Report of the Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm, being for the year ending December 31, 1881, is replete with valuable information about various crops. That section which relates to pasturage is of special value and importance. If the farmers in Ontario could only be induced to follow the guidance of its teachings, the result would be a large increase of individual and national wealth. The section referred to is as follows:—

We cannot too often impress upon the province that, in connection with mixed farming, root cultivation and so much permanent pasture are the building up of our best agriculture—they are the surest foundation of our future success. A big chapter could be written on this subject, but all that can be looked for in this report is to abstract its important features, and hint at some of its advantages:

(1) IT GIVES SEVERAL CROPS PER ANNUM.

When a variety of grasses and clovers are established in association, the case is one much similar to what nature, under the best of circumstances, offers to animal life—a change every week from May to October. It is then a point to be studied in choosing the kinds, that they do not all or even many of them, come during one month or leave off altogether at the same time of the year, but come, mature, and go off, if possible, in regular succession from spring to autumn. Thus every week, or every month at least, is equal to a change of field, and secures the value so much desired through such conditions.

Beginning in 1878, we have had great satisfaction in handling nine grasses and five clovers in connection with this subject, as thus illustrated, showing the order in which they come, and their duration each season. Of course the red clover generally leaves us after two years, but it is well to have a little at the start in order to get all we possibly can.

GRASSES AND CLOVERS FOR PERMANENT PASTURE AS FOUND RELIABLE IN ONTARIO.

Lucerne: May, June, July, August and September.

Rye grasses: May, June, July, August and September.

Meadow Fescue Grass: May, June, July, August, September and October.

Yellow Clover: May, June, July and August.

White Clover: June, July, August and September.

Fan Oat Grass: June, July, August and September.

Orchard Grass: June, July, August, September and October.

Kentucky Blue Grass: June, July, August and September.

Alsike Clover: June, July, August and September.

Timothy Grass: June, July, August, September and October.

Red-top Grass: June, July, August and September.

Bent Grass: June, July, August, September and October.

The quantity of each may be as follows:

Grasses: Timothy, 7 lbs; Orchard, 4 lbs; Italian Rye, 2 lbs; Perennial Rye, 2 lbs; Fan Oat, 2 lbs; Red-top, 2 lbs; Meadow Fescue, 3 lbs; Bent, 1 lb; Kentucky Blue, 2 lbs. Total 25 lbs.

Clovers: Lucerne, 4 lbs; White 3 lbs; Red, 1 lb; Alsike, 1 lb; Yellow, 1 lb; Total, 10 lbs. Grasses, 25 lbs. Per acre, 35 lbs.

NOTE—The Rye grasses will hold in the most favourable positions in Ontario, in association with others, but rarely alone. They are the best English fodder plants, and should be encouraged with us.

(2) IT OFFERS AN EARLIER AND LATER BITE THAN OTHER PASTURES.

It is a well-known fact in the growth of pastures where a number of different plants exist, that by such an association there is mutual support, nursing, and shelter, which give early and late growth. In our own experience we have much earlier offers, many of the grasses and clovers coming in at middle and end of May. The value of this early bite is something incalculable after a long, close winter, and, particularly, it meets the heavy "back-going" of which we see so much in ordinary practice among cattle and sheep. So, also, the rich "foggage" sends on deep into winter.

(3) ANIMALS ARE MORE HEALTHY AND LESS LIABLE TO DISEASE UPON IT.

All experience goes to show that browsing animals more than others require change of food often, not only in the form of soft succulent growth, but harder and woody matters at the same time. Some of the grasses and clovers are also directly medicinal to cattle and sheep, so that altogether, with a choice of ten or twelve throughout the season, health is better and diseases less frequent.

(4) IT CANNOT POSSIBLY BE DESTROYED BY DROUGHT OR FROST.

The immense importance of this needs little comment; it comes strongly home to us in this country. It is obvious that an association of plants and roots gives mutual support and protection with a close surface, there is necessarily much less risk of damage when rain is scarce and heat abundant—much less evaporation and less "cracking" of the surface. As crop after crop succeeds each other week by week and month by month, the soil is not exposed to the burning sun, and moisture is retained to nourish at all times. Then again, if winter or summer excesses do kill two or three kinds there remains enough to make the pasture still of greater value than anything else. All through the very severe drought of this season our permanent pasture was never bare, never wanting a fresh bite, but so close and strong that we had to separate with the hand in order to view the surface soil.

(5) IT GIVES MORE DAIRY FODDER THAN ANY OTHER FORM OF FODDER.

During the last half century the best managed old pastures of England have stood at more value per acre than the richest arable land, partly because of their permanency of crops, and largely because of their being able to graze three cows per acre. There seems no reason why Ontario cannot do one third as well as this, and I am convinced it can be done. For three years in succession on our farm, on a small scale on comparatively old permanent pasture, and on that of two years' standing, we have clearly proved that seven sheep per acre can be well done to. This is equivalent to one and one-quarter cow per acre. There is, then, no other form of fodder that can do the same thing.

(6) IT GIVES THREE TIMES MORE BEEF AND MUTTON PER ACRE THAN OUR ORDINARY ROTATION PASTURES.

The average timothy and clover pastures of the Province, in connection with mixed farming, just graze, on an average, one cattle beast to every three acres, taking from 1st May to 1st November on an average of years. This is substantially correct. But we have shown in the preceding paragraph, that three and three quarter cows can be kept on three acres of the permanent kind required, and as the proper stamp of three-year old steers and heifers preparing for the butcher eat more than an ordinary milk cow, we shall say one beefing animal per acre. There are at the present time about 20,000,000 arable acres in Ontario, possessing practically no permanent pasture, but 3,500,000 acres of rotation pasture, that do, or should therefore, maintain 1,190,000 head of, say beefing cattle. Were only one-tenth of this rotation pasture under the permanent form of it, the annual gain to the province would exceed $11,000,000. The magnitude and national value of a few acres, per farm, of a first-class permanent pasture is thus apparent.

(7) IT CAN BE USED AS A SOILING CROP ANNUALLY.

When everything is most propitious and grass abundant, and where a number of bulls and calves are housed during summer and a reliable cut of green fodder is most important, this can always be had from well-managed permanent pasture, early and late, at the rate of ten tons per acre, green weight, where no systematic soiling crops are upheld.

(8) IT IS LESS EXPENSIVE TO PRODUCE AND MAINTAIN THAN ANY OTHER CROP.

While it cannot be maintained that there is no trouble, time and expense incurred in establishing successfully all that we desire in this connection, nor that its permanency and value can be upheld without top-dressing materials, it is not difficult to see that once fairly afoot, permanent pasture costs a great deal less per acre per annum proportionately to produce received than any other crop can possibly do.

(9) IT IS A CONTINUAL SOURCE OF RELIANCE AND WEALTH.

Most other things may fail during a particular season; times may be bad and decimate the farm, yet the permanent pasture will smile and invite a share of its wealth.

(10) IT IS PERMANENT.

The successful establishment and maintenance of permanent pasture implies:—1. A soil free of dead water. 2. A rich surface, friable but firm. 3. Depth of soil to allow roots beyond reach of drought. 4. A retentive soil to resist drought and hold moisture. 5. Securing variety of grasses, and clovers, and thick seeding. 6. Easy pasturing for first two seasons. 7. Heavy stocking, to keep down rough plants. 8. Top-dressing at least every third year.

CHARACTERISTICS OF GRASSES NOW ESTABLISHED SUITABLE FOR PERMANENT PASTURE.

The past season has been one of the very best to test thoroughly the reliability of all pasture plants, and note their conduct in comparison with each other, particularly as regards endurance during drought, which stood very hard on the 30th August, when the following observations were made.

Red-top.—A good tough sod, about equal to Timothy, though presenting no bite.

Perennial Rye.—Looks fresher and better as pasture than Red-top and Timothy.

Meadow Fescue.—Stands drought better than Orchard or Timothy; is now close, rich, green, and vigorous.

Italian Rye.—Not good; few plants; is good at re-seeding itself every season.

Kentucky Blue.—Wiry and dry, with a good award.

Timothy.—Very good, but presents no bite for cattle; dry and somewhat withered; takes a fourth place.

Orchard.—Somewhat behind Meadow Fescue and Fan Oat, but not much.

Fan Oat.—About equal to Meadow Fescue, which is saying a great deal.—Rural Canadian.

Sanitary Notes.

In cases of dysentery be careful that outside air does not reach the body directly. Bind a piece of flannel over the bowels.

Bedrooms and bedding should be well aired every morning. At night one or more windows should be lowered to allow the fresh air to enter, and foul air, which rises, to pass out. Health depends much upon these observances.

A basin containing chloride of lime or a solution of carbolic acid (a teaspoonful of acid to a quart of water) should be kept in a room where contagious diseases exist or in fact anywhere that impurity of air may be known to be.

In the selection of wall paper the subject of health is not so often brought to bear in the matter as the idea of beauty and suitableness. But since the discovery of so much poisonous matter in this article of adornment, it is but right to consider the result of an indiscreet selection.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. TIMELY WARNING.—Now is the season for sudden colds and distressing coughs, treat them with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, it cures influenza, asthma, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all pulmonary complaints leading to consumption. 15-2t

An eloquent orator proposes to "grasp a ray of light from the great orb of day, spin it into threads of gold and with them to weave a shroud in which to wrap the whirlwind which dies upon the bosom of the skys. We fear the machinery will break before the fabric is through the loom.

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP" were the memorable words of Commodore Perry. We repeat, "Don't Give up the ship," poor, despairing invalid, but try Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures others, why not you? It renovates, regulates and tones all the organs of secretion, and restores lost Vitality. 15-2t

A lecturer was once in a dilemma which he will probably never forget. While talking about art], ventured the assertion:—"Art can never improve nature." At that moment some one in the audience cried out in a gruff voice, "Can't he? Well, then, how do you think you would look without your wig?"

HOW TO CURE A COLD.—Upon the first feeling of chill or shivering remain indoors if possible, bathe the feet in tepid water, gradually increasing the heat as long as it can be comfortably borne, drink freely of warm ginger tea or sage tea, to induce perspiration, and take Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam according to directions on the bottle. Hagyard's Balsam cures coughs, asthma, and bronchitis. 15-2t

A satirical poet, who lived nearly two centuries back, and had an evident spite against woman-kind, wrote an epigram on the fly-leaf of an almanac. The lines ran thus:—

"Women are books and men the readers be,
In whom oft-times they great errata see;
Here sometimes we see a blot, there we espy
A leaf misplaced, at least a line awry.
If they were books, I wish that my wife were
An almanac—to change her every year."

HAD SUFFERED MANY PHYSICIANS and grew no better but rather worse. Mr. D. H. Howard, of Geneva, N. Y., after dismissing his physicians, tried nearly half a gross of the various blood and liver remedies, advertised, with no benefit; when one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him of Paralysis and General Debility. At the advanced age of 60, he says he feels young again, and is overjoyed at his wonderful recovery. 15-2t

A little boy had lived for some time with a penurious uncle. The latter was one day walking out with the child by his side, when a friend, accompanied by a greyhound, addressed him. The little fellow, never having seen a dog of so light and slim a build, clasped the creature round the neck, with the impassioned cry, "O doggie, doggie! and do you live wi' your uncle, too, that 'you are so thin?"

BEWARE OF THEM.—A good article that has achieved success, and attained a world-wide reputation by its true merits and wonderful results, is always imitated. Such is the case with Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Already unprincipled parties are endeavouring to delude an unsuspecting public, by offering imitations of this most fortunate discovery. Do not be deceived but insist on having the true remedy, and take no other. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

A Hartford clergyman to a newly wedded pair:—"The marriage vow imposes various duties. The husband must protect the wife, while the wife must follow the husband whithersoever he goes" Bride:—Lord, sir, can't that be altered, my husband is going to be a country postman."

GOING TO HIS GRAVE.—There he goes again direct to a saloon and pours down another heavy draught of strong drink, not so much because his appetite demands it as for the artificial buoyancy it produces—the after effects of which leave him more miserable than before; it is this dreadful practice that is daily sending thousands to their graves. A remedy for all this is found in the true friend of temperance—the best and purest of all medicines—Electric Bitters. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald at 50 cents.

SANDERSON'S

A CRUEL DEED.

Translated from the German.

BY HUGO.

Through the castle there was the sound of lamentation and mourning, for the body of the deceased countess lay in state in the grand hall.

For years her health had been very delicate; but the count had been very kind, considerate, and assiduous in his attentions, until death had parted them and released him from his duty.

She had been a quiet, humble, submissive wife, yielding to the stormier natures of those with whom she came in contact, which rendered her a favorite with the mother of the count, who could exercise sovereign power, unchecked by a rival authority.

The count, who would have preferred a more spirited bride, did not feign a grief he could not feel, nor hide his true feelings behind a mask; and the only sincere mourner was her daughter, the little Agnes, who loved and missed her mother; but as she had only reached the age of five years, her grief made no strong impression upon her infant mind.

The funeral obsequies were celebrated with all the pomp and pageantry of wealth and state; but when the last attentions had been paid to the memory of the deceased, the death and burial alike faded from the recollection of all concerned.

The count went abroad; and his mother, the countess, was again sole mistress of the mansion; and it was determined that a governess should be provided for the little girl.

The castle was beautifully situated in a charming section of the country, near the forest of Sherlagen, but at some distance from any large city; and the advanced age of the mother of the count, together with the feeble health of his wife, prevented any intercourse with the neighboring gentry. They were compelled, therefore, to advertise for a suitable person, and trust to chance as to what sort of a governess might be obtained by this medium.

An application was received from a village clergyman, who wished to secure a respectable position for an orphan girl under his charge, the daughter of a forester.

The maiden was yet in deep mourning for the loss of her father, and her orphan state pleaded in her favor, as she would be exclusively devoted to the discharge of her duties, and, humble in spirit, would make no pretensions to dignity nor special consideration. It was, therefore, decided that she should be sent for.

Eugenia was the only daughter of a forester named Schoer; her mother she never knew. Brought up solely by her excellent father, her mind had rather a bold and masculine tendency; yet every expression of rudeness was banished from her face by the charm of her maiden beauty, as well as by the frank sincerity of her mind. Eugenia was beautiful—heavenly beautiful—and language would fail to describe the simple traits of an ensemble which rendered her indescribably fascinating. The beauty of a woman does not consist in mere symmetry of form, but, in almost every instance, depends upon the expression which gives vitality to the mere animal perfection.

Eugenia was a daughter of the forest, and at the same time its queen. She was a Venus and an Amazon—a Juno and a Minerva—for there was nothing, either in science or in art, which she had neglected to study, and in which she had not arrived at a degree of perfection unsurpassed by the students in the first female Institutes. She was the most formidable enemy of the game in the woods, and even of the beasts of prey; but with all this she was the warm-hearted, sympathizing friend of her youthful companions, the joyous playmate of the young stags and deer, and the well-beloved mistress of the noble hounds, which crouched at her feet, obedient to a single glance of her eye. She had but few male acquaintances, with the exception of her father and the gamekeeper's apprentices, who were employed in the lower duties of the household. She knew very little of the world, and what knowledge she did possess was derived from books of history and the national chronicles. She was a wood nymph, an ethereal being, needing only experience and self-command. Of these she had no idea. Her loving father never had any occasion to notice either her faults or deficiencies—for towards him she was ever a tender, submissive daughter, who had no other will than his. This was her uniform practice; and this yielding was no sacrifice to her, but a natural exhibition of obedience and love.

The home of the forester was supplied with the luxurious comforts of the higher classes; but guarded against the intrusion of strangers; for the widowed father, desiring to keep his daughter from the company of men, preferred to deprive himself of their society. Such was the manner of her life until she reached the age of eighteen—simple but happy, and undisturbed by any touch of real suffering.

But now the stern, heavy hand of destiny was laid upon her poetic life, for her father was taken sick. Eugenia, with sympathizing care, lamented the sufferings of her father, but no thought of a dangerous termination to them ever entered her mind. Her father, who felt that his situation was critical, wished to save her from anxiety as long as possible, and concealed his real feelings until the raging fever mastered him; and then Eugenia, seized by a consciousness of coming misfortune, sat day and night with folded arms, beside his bed, in voiceless anguish too deep for words, watching to catch from his eyes some glimpse of hope foreshadowing his recovery.

In vain! alas! in vain. The Lord of life and death had willed it otherwise. After an illness of fourteen days the struggle drew to a close.

Eugenia wrung her hands in grief and threw herself in despair upon the bed of death.

"Remain with me, oh! my father!" she cried; "remain with me!"

In the last moment of consciousness, the invalid raised himself up, drew a ring from his finger and gave it to her.

"Take care of this," said he. "As for the rest trust in God! Remain pure and true! God forsakes no one who trusts in Him!"

His end was calm and resigned; and the minister, who had been sent for from the next village, came too late to give him the last blessing of the Lord.

But it was no easy task to soothe the grief of the bereaved daughter. Recovering from the stupor which first overwhelmed her, she burst forth in paroxysms of the wildest emotion, and the frenzied agitation of her mind rendered her deaf to all the consolations of the holy man.

Unable to calm her grief, the man of God bore her away from the play-ground of her childhood, now the scene of her irreparable loss, and took her to his own home, in hopes that intercourse with strangers would tend sooner to assuage her anguish than the lonely life she had been wont to lead.

Her sorrow was diminished by the new impressions which the outer world made upon her mind—or, rather, these daily associations compelled her to keep her feelings under strict command.

In the meantime, the Orphan's Court took the necessary steps to dispose of the property of the deceased father, and provide a small inheritance for the daughter—which, however was not sufficient for her support.

The minister, who was now the guardian of the bereaved orphan, was therefore compelled to seek a situation for his beautiful ward, where she might have an opportunity for the exercise of her manifold accomplishments. He looked upon the advertisement of the countess as a providential opening, as he could now place Eugenia, to whom he had become strongly attached, in a respectable and honored position, and he applied for the situation without delay. The maiden was perfectly willing, and the countess was so favourably impressed that the business was closed at once.

The day for her departure was fixed upon; and, at the hour appointed, the chariot of the Countess of B——— stood before the parson's house. The driver and footman, with haughty pride, looked down upon the plain and humble mansion, and waited for the coming of one whom they regarded as a servant like themselves. They looked for a plain, meek, awkward country girl, who would gaze with joy and astonishment upon their rich liveries and gay dresses, and joked laughingly in advance upon the behaviour of the little governess.

How great then was their surprise, when a tall, beautiful lady, of imposing mien, came forth, leaning upon the arm of the venerable pastor, and, without a single glance at the gorgeous equipage, but with all the dignity of a queen, commanded the footman to take charge of her baggage and open the carriage door.

Giving her beloved guardian one last fond look, and a friendly grasp of the hand, she reclined gracefully upon the cushions, careless of everything until she should arrive at her journey's end.

While upon the road she shed many bitter tears. She was now alone in the world, without a protector. Separated from those she loved, she had now no home on earth. This is a thought which at all times is full of sadness.

At length they arrived; and after a brief interview with the old countess, Eugene requested permission to withdraw to her room.

Though somewhat astonished that a poor orphan should have a wish of her own, and the independence to express it, still the rules of etiquette and courtesy would not allow the countess to oppose the wish she expressed.

Eugenia sought her own apartment; and after she had put it in order, according to her own taste—arranging her hunting equipage, her books, clothes, and so forth—she rang her bell and directed that the countess should be informed of her readiness to receive her pupil.

That lady did not wish to humiliate the governess in the estimation of the servants, and, therefore, again acceded to her wishes.

No thought of pride or presumption in thus acting entered the mind of Eugenia. She was ever willing to do what she could for others, and in return she wished to have her own request complied with.

She received the little Agnes with the most cordial greeting, and spent a pleasant hour on this first day of her arrival in instructive conversation.

The child was yet entirely ignorant; but this her teacher considered rather advantageous than otherwise, as she could teach and mould her in consonance with her own views.

When evening came, the countess sent to enquire whether Eugenia would prefer supper in her own apartment, or in the saloon with the family.

This courtesy gratified her, and she returned for answer that it would afford her much pleasure to comply with the wishes of the mistress of the mansion.

Thereupon she was invited to come down to the supper-table; and she entered the dining hall with so much native grace and youthful liveliness, that the stern gravity disappeared from the features of the countess, yielding to the freedom from restraint of this beautiful child of nature.

It seemed as if the similarity of their dispositions, and the true nobility of their souls, drew each of them more closely to the other, and created a mutual harmony of feeling.

The servants looked with amazement upon the pretensions of the new inmate, and were utterly confounded at the ready compliance of the old lady, whose imperious, haughty, overbearing spirit had caused her to be feared, even hated, by them all.

The countess learned to love Eugenia more and more every day, humoring her every whim, and yielding to her in everything. Agnes improved wonderfully under her care; and she took charge also of two other pupils, two young lads, who could learn nothing more at the village school.

What the hours of study were, it was hard to tell, as the young persons were never in the house. The garden, the fields, and the forest were their school-rooms; and not until late in the afternoon could the countess find her reading from some classic volume while she supervised the studies of her scholars.

Eugenia carried out her plans in a manner peculiar to herself, and her beauty and eccentricity possessed a strange charm for the aged countess.

She passed her time in the utmost freedom and independence—so much so that all who saw her there would have imagined her to be the daughter of the house.

A steed was appropriated for her exclusive use, on which she traversed the surrounding country for miles; and when she rode in the carriage, the coachman sat idly upon his box, for it was her steady hand which guided the reins with unerring skill.

The countess refused her consent to but one wish of her heart—her desire to join in the sports of the chase—and to enter this forbidden paradise was now the sense of her heart's longing.

Thus about a year passed away, while Eugenia grew more and more in favor with the old lady, when the little Agnes was called away to visit a near relation, which rendered the governess mistress of her own time.

Her excursions on horseback and on foot now took a wider range, and at length she could no longer suppress her longing to grasp her beloved rifle and betake herself to the forest as in the days that were past. She chose hours of early morning to carry out her plans, while the countess still slumbered and would not notice her absence. At first Eugenia was satisfied to shoot only at small birds; but this did not long suffice; and one morning, just as she had loaded her rifle, her eyes fell upon a deer, and she could not refrain from drawing a bead upon it.

The shot took effect—but only wounded the animal—which, unable to flee, fell down upon the green sward.

At this sight her womanly compassion was roused; and hastily tearing her handkerchief into strips, she proceeded to staunch his bleeding wounds.

The deer lay quietly at her feet; and it was a strange sight to see the beauteous huntress striving to remedy an injury almost in the same moment that it had been inflicted.

She was not aware that any one saw this pretty tableau, until after she had completed her arrangements and raised her eyes; when she met the fixed gaze of a gentleman, elegantly dressed, who, saluting her with civility, inquired:

"What has caused the necessity for this your timely aid? Did you see the direction in which the poacher fled?"

This question confused our daring Diana. The term poacher grated harshly on her ears. She had never thought that this act of hers might merit such an appellation; neither did she pause to consider whether or not the interrogator had a right to make the inquiry; but, ashamed and blushing, she acknowledged that the deer had been shot by herself.

"Ah! so!" smilingly rejoined the stranger: "not a poacher, but a poacheress! Luckily for you, my lady, the laws and penalties of our country are not enforced in this respect, and I shall be compelled to let you go free, though I would willingly arrest so fair a delinquent."

Eugenia could not wholly comprehend this speech, as she noticed that the gentleman did not wear the garb of a forester, and she could not therefore mistake him for one of that class. He thus proceeded:

"Where will you have your booty conveyed? as it is but proper that it should remain under your further care until your protege is perfectly cured."

The hidden irony of his language excited the wonted spirit of Eugenia, and she replied:

"Thou, sir, let us take it to the chateau, for there we both belong—the deer as well as myself?"

"In the Castle?" queried the stranger, becoming suddenly grave: "Who then are you?"

"The governess to the little countess, at your service! And you?"

"Count B——, fair lady—the father of your pupil."

The dignity of the nobleman prevented further converse, though he would willingly have cast aside all the reserve of rank or station.

Eugenia was greatly surprised to find the count so different from the picture she had drawn in her own mind. She had filled her fancy with the portraits suspended in the gallery at the hall, the images of his ancestors, which she had often examined with interest, as they hung there in their ancient costumes, clad in armor of silver or of steel, with large, curly wigs, and long, straight swords, such as were worn in the eighteenth century, and she had imagined that the present count must resemble these stiff and stately figures. And now here he stood, a knightly cavalier, still young, with all the easy grace of the present time, and a mien of which she had had no experience.

Her innocent spirit was not long disturbed by such reflections. If this was really the count, it could be no misfortune. The countess being so good and gentle to her—as kind as any mother could be—why should she feel afraid of the one who had addressed her in such friendly terms.

Thus she found herself becoming calm and collected; and she related to the count many little instances of her home life, which possessed an interest for him alone, especially of his little daughter, who was growing up so lovely and intelligent.

In remarks of this kind several minutes slipped away, when the glances of both fell again upon the deer.

They now became embarrassed as to the manner in which it should be carried to the Castle without the knowledge of the old lady, as the structure was at a considerable distance, as was also the nearest village, and the count did not wish to seek the aid of the men who were within his call, as they would thus learn what had occurred.

As Signs of General Debility and mal-nutrition in children we have rickets, knock-knees, bow-legs, chicken-breast, round-shoulders, pallid complexion, precociousness, peevish temper, which are expressions of feeble digestion and assimilation, with blood impoverishment. Here ordinary stimulants and tonic mixtures are mischievous, inducing in the feeble organism a morbid, transient excitement which is mistaken for permanent invigoration. For successful treatment the indications are to restore nutrition by the use of Wheeler's Phophates and Calisaya, out-door life and the gymnasium.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an Incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the Throat Troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 49-26tns.

From N. Pulsifer, M. D., Auburn, N. H. "Although averse to countenancing patent medicines, I cheerfully make an exception of your very excellent lung preparation—Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. This preparation I have used in my practice for more than ten years past, and have always found it to be of more effectual service than anything within my knowledge. I recommend it with the greatest confidence to those subject to coughs and pulmonary complaints." 25 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. Ayer's Pills are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

Ayer's Pills are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these Pills are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN

On the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE WATERING CART made its welcome appearance on the streets last week, to the benefit of the merchants and the comfort of pedestrians.

A CHALLENGE.—Mr. Thomas Wallace, of Gore's Landing, offers to paddle any man, in best and best canoes, for two or three miles for $20 to $50 a side. Let us hear from some of our canoeists.

THE LETTER BOX which had been placed at the south end of George Street, being but very little used, has been removed to the corner of George and King Street, at Hamilton's Agricultural Works.

VALUABLE LOTS FOR SALE.—Mr. Dumble will sell in lots the property north of Smith street, from Jas. W. Fitzgerald's residence to the Communication Road. Time of sale will be shortly announced.

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 16-4t

FALL WHEAT.—The fall wheat is reported from all sections of the adjacent country to be looking extremely healthy, with every prospect, so far, of a good crop this year. The scarcity of snow during the winter and the late frosts, it was feared, would have injured it, but apparently no damage has been done it.

DON'T FAIL to see the large assortment of new and stylish clothing for Men and Boys made from good material, also Rubber Coats, Shirts, Scarfs, Ties, and underclothing. Hats and caps in all the leading styles at very close prices. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

P.R.A.—At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year :—

1st Vice-President ..... Rev. V. Clementi
2nd Vice-President ..... Col. J. Z. Rogers
Secy's Treas. ..... Major R. W. Bell
COUNCIL.—Lieut. J. W. Miller, Sergt-Major Stothart, F. Hall.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—The traffic of the Midland Railway for the week ending April 8th, 1882, were as follows:—Passengers and Mails, $6,441.76 ; Freight, $11,528.70 ; total, $17,970.46, as compared with $11,779.18 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $6,191.28 ; and the aggregate traffic to date is $209,847.21, being an increase of $69,331.90 over 1881.

TELEPHONE CONNECTION.—During the past week a number of new subscribers has been added to the list in town. The convenience of the telephone is so great to business men that before long it will be looked upon as a necessity in every office. We understand connection has been made between Port Hope and Cobourg, and that, Mr. Smith, the agent here, is making every exertion to establish connection between Peterborough and the neighboring towns of Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg.

CEMETERY STATISTICS.—The following figures furnished by Mr. Kelly, Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery, show a marked decrease in the mortality rate of the town during the present year, over that of last year, the interments during the first three months of the respective years being as follows :

January	18	5
February	6	10
March	15	8

Shewing a decrease of 16.

HANDSOME MILLINERY.—The largest and handsomest display of millinery goods ever shewn in Peterborough is this week announced by Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co. A visit to the show rooms will demonstrate that the announcement is not exaggerated, for certainly we have never seen a more elaborate or beautiful display that that shewn. We will not attempt a description of the unlimited articles of dress and fashion on view, but merely recommend our lady readers, who are more particularly interested in such matters, to call and make an inspection, which they will find both pleasing and gratifying.

APPRECIATED.—The Incumbent of Ashburnham, in addition to his other duties, is a writer of Leaflets for Sunday Schools of this and other Dioceses. He also contributes a different series to CHURCH WORK, a monthly published at Halifax, N S. These lesson papers have commanded some attention in England, and have been commented on favourably in the Sunday School Magazine, London. A writer referring to this fact in a recent number of the Church Guardian says "It is pleasant to observe that Church Work reaches England, and commands attention there, and to find such testimony to the admirable Leaflets now appearing in its columns from the pen of the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, Peterborough, Ont."

THE PULPIT.—The Rev. Principal Cavan occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Church last Sunday, both morning and evening.

THE MARKETS.—Very little has been doing in the market during the past week and prices remain unchanged from last week's quotations.

EVERY LADY in want of black cashmeres, coloured dress stuffs, prints, cottons, corsets, hosiery, gloves or umbrellas should see the beautiful assortment offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

SALMON FISHING.—Mr. John Holmes, of the Burleigh Falls Hotel, informs us that the salmon fishing is now splendid. Those who wish a few days' sport could not find a more pleasant recreation than that afforded in the neighborhood of this popular fishing resort.

CANADIAN AMATEUR OARSMEN.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, held in Hamilton on Friday last, the Peterborough Rowing Club was represented by Messrs. E. S. Edwards and A. J. Belcher, the latter gentleman being subsequently appointed a member of the Executive Committee. The annual regatta will in all probability be held this year at Ottawa.

MADISON SQUARE THEATRE.—The following letter has been received and fully explains itself :

NEW YORK, April 12, 1882.

DEAR SIR,—Mr. R. S. Wires, of the Madison Square Theatre, will be in your city shortly to arrange for the appearance of "Hazel Kirke," by a company from this theatre. It is safe to say a more remarkable record, having now been performed nearly 1,500 times, while the reputation of the theatre is a sufficient guarantee of the character of the company.

Yours truly,
DANIEL FROHMAN.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKET CLUB.—At a meeting of the cricket club, held last Wednesday evening, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year :—

President ..... R. A. Morrow, Esq.
1st Vice-Pres'dt ..... Rev. V. Clementi
2nd " " ..... Hon. R. Hamilton
Secy-Treasurer. ..... C. A. Connolly
Business Committee—Messrs. Peck, Morris, Hamilton, Miles, Hallett and Hatton.

The Committee were instructed to confer with the Boating Club Committee as to the arrangements for the annual sports.

THE NEW POSTAL CARD.—A few of the new Canadian postal cards have passed through the post-office, although as yet the authorities have not received a supply. The card is somewhat longer and scarcely as wide as the original style, and more after the American pattern, and made of much better quality of writing paper. There is no ruling upon the face of the card, and it bears the word, "the address to be written on this side," instead of "the address only, to be written on this side." The stamp is of an oval shape, and the card has no border. The card is very neat.

BAPTIST ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment in the Baptist Church last Friday evening, in aid of the library fund, of the Sabbath School, was a decided success. The church was filled to its utmost seating capacity, as may easily be inferred from the fact that although a very small admission fee was charged, some $70 were realized. The programme which was taken part in by the officers and members of the school, several local amateurs and Miss McBain of Millbrook, was a very pleasing one, alike creditable to those who took part as well as to the committee who had the charge of the entertainment. The following is the programme, with the names of those who took part :—

Opening Anthem.—By the Church Choir.
Recitation.—Miss Nellie Wrighton.
Solo.—Miss F. Minore.
Dialogue.—Boys of the Sunday School.
Recitation.—Miss M. McBain, Millbrook.
Representation of the Beautiful.—Misses Ada Aldridge, Maggie Trennum, Jennie Trennum, Kaila Chamberlain, Ella Stratton, Elisa Wasson, Alice Reid, Annie Alexander and Eva Wrighton.
Quartette.—Misses Ellsworth and Stratton, and Messrs. Holden and Morris.
Instrumental Solo.—Miss Nellie Wrighton.
Representation.—Morning, Noon and Night —Misses E. Duncan, J. Brook and F. Aldridge.
Recitation.—Miss C. Ellsworth.
Instrumental Solo.—Miss Paffard.
Recitation.—Master E. Stratton.
Solo.—Mr. A. Davis.
Recitation.—Mr. R. Kidd.
Duet.—Misses M. McBain and R. Stratton.
Instrumental Solo.—Miss C. Ellsworth.
Quartette.—Misses Ellsworth and Stratton, and Messrs. Holden and Morris.
Representation.—the Seasons.—Misses Ellsworth, Flavelle, Clarke and Stevenson.

There were no beer and wine licenses, nor six months' licenses granted.—None will be recommended.

West Peterborough.

The Commissioners for the West Riding will meet in a few days to consider the applications before them.

The Canadian Government is to spend money in assisting English labourers to Canada. It was undertaken through Sir Alexander Galt to pay five dollars apiece towards the passage money of each artizan who emigrates to this country. The workingmen, among others, will have to pay this money for bringing people here to compete in their own field of labor. If the principle of protection is to be properly carried out, it should protect the workmen as well as the employers, but this new proposal of the Government has the effect of protecting only the employers of labor, while it offers a bonus with the view of making that labor as cheap.

PETERBOROUGH BOATING CLUB.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Boating Club was held on Monday evening. The President, Mr. F. J. Lewis, in the chair.

The Auditors reported that they had examined the accounts of the Treasurer and found them correct.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, Captain of the Club, read the following report, which was adopted :—

To the President and members of the Peterborough Boating Club :

I beg to submit the following report as Captain of the Club for the year 1881 :—

There was a fair amount of rowing done during the year, especially by the younger members of the Club. There were three races held on the Little Lake, in some of which close and interesting contests took place. In view, however, of the fact that some of the older members are beginning to lose their interest in these Club races, it will be advisable that the Club should consider what should be done to adopt and keep up the interest in them, by prizes or otherwise, as they seem to have lost about a great deal of useful practice. A Club regatta was, later in the season, to be held near Bell's Bridge on the river. Owing to the failure of some of the competitors to put in an appearance the programme was not as fully carried out as it should have been, the events being confined to a four-oar race, double scull, and canoe race. The double scull was well contested and was the best Club race of the season.

It being absolutely impossible to get even a single member of the four-oar crew of 1879 and 1880 to put during the last year on account of their private engagements, a senior four could not be found to compete in any of the great matches. The junior four crew of G. C. Lamb, (bow) N. D. Beck, (No. 2.) A. Elliott. (No. 3,) and C. S. Shaw, (stroke,) took part in the Hamilton regatta. They had the misfortune to be heavily handicapped, drawing the extreme outside position on a day when there was half a gale blowing across the beach. Notwithstanding this, they held an even position with the foremost at the end of the first mile, and finished but a few boat lengths behind the winners, all the crew coming in in a bunch. They rowed a game race and won favorable opinions from the spectators.

In August, a party of seven representatives of the Club, visited the camp of the American Canoe Association, at Lake George, and received a very cordial welcome from the Americans "Ex-Khan of the Paddle." I trust that the members of our club, which numbers on its roll more active canoeists than any other club on the continent, will see to it that the visit is repeated during the present year, and that an effort will be made to bring the camp of the association to Canada for 1883. The party who went last year went solely for pleasure. It would be well if this year some of our good paddlers would endeavour to go, so as to give our American friends, who are addicted almost exclusively to the use of the double blade, some idea of what the single bladed paddle can do. To compete successfully at Lake George, both sailing and paddling should be practised beforehand, and I should strongly recommend that an effort be made to revive those sports which have been somewhat crowded out of our regatta programme of late. The establishment of a suitable challenge cup, or other prize, such as that competed for half a dozen or more years ago, would furnish a powerful stimulus. As is well known, the American differ from us both in build of canoe and in the paddle used. Their canoes are decked over, with the exception of a small well at the centre, and the eastern builders, with Rushton at their head, prefer the clinker build. This is contrary to our ideas, accustomed as we are to use canoes as comfortable pleasure boats, capable of carrying at least from one to three besides the paddler, and find the centre board the most desirable boat for the use of ladies. The question of the superiority of the double or single bladed paddle is yet to be decided.

A number of American canoeists, chiefly from New York, and including Commodore Alden, Colonel Norton, editor of the American Canoeist, (a publication which I heartily recommend) Captain Kendall and others have announced their intention of visiting our Peterborough waters in their canoes next July. I need hardly bespeak for them a hearty welcome.

For the coming year the Club will probably find it necessary to provide some more accommodation in the way of boats. In any event, to make the season a success, all the members must work heartily and vigorously together, and I call upon all whether oarsmen or canoemen to endeavour to make the year 1882 a memorable and successful one in the annals of the Club.

E. B. EDWARDS,
Captain P.B.C.

After balloting for a number of new members, the election of officers for the current year was proceeded with, resulting as follows :—

PRESIDENT—Mr. F. J. Lewis.
VICE-PRESIDENT.—Rev. V. Clementi.
CAPTAIN—Capt. E. B. Edwards.
SEC-TREASURER—Mr. W. H. Budden.
COMMITTEE—Messrs. G. C. Rogers, R. M. Orr, R. E. Wood, John McClelland.

PERSONAL.

Thos. Menzies, Esq., has been appointed a Director on the Board of the Canadian Mutual Aid Life Association.

Mr. William Lasher, after several weeks sojourn in Manitoba, returned home on Monday.

Mr. J. F. Austin left town on Saturday for Kingston, preparatory to permanently removing to the North-West.

The Rev. E. T. Beatty, England, now on a visit to his friends in Lakefield, will preach in St. Luke's Church on Sunday next, at both the morning and evening services.

The Ontario says the Rev. E. J. Stobo will preach in the Baptist Church, Bellville, on Sunday next, in the absence of the Pastor, Rev. Mr. Turnbull, who is attending the Baptist Convention at Woodstock.

Mr. W. A. Houston, M. A., who for a number of years has occupied a prominent position on the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe, has resigned it to take charge of the Canada School Journal, and to edit the educational publications of the well-known publishing house of W. J. Gage & Co., Toronto.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Mr. Geo. A Cox and other influential gentlemen had an interview with the Dominion Government on Thursday last, to press the claim of the Ontario and Sault Ste. Marie Railway Company for aid from the Dominion Government to enable them to connect with the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Cox explained what a very deep interest the whole country served by this line, and lying between Toronto and Belleville and Ottawa, felt in securing the aid asked for by the Sault Ste. Marie Railway.

Surveyors are at work on Burlington Heights laying out a line for the new Midland Railway line between Hamilton and Toronto.

A VALUABLE WORK.

LIFE AND SPEECHES OF THE LATE HON. GEORGE BROWN.

In answer to many enquires we beg again to state that the Life and Speeches of the late Senator Brown, by Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, is now in press, and is expected to be ready for distribution next month. The work was promised last spring, but owing to Mr. Mackenzie's illness, earlier publication was impossible. The price of the book will be, in cloth, $1 ; in half morocco $2 : type large and clear and good paper. For the convenience of those in the neighborhood who may wish to procure the work, subscriptions will be received at the EXAMINER OFFICE. As the number to be published is limited and the work promises to be greatly in demand, early applications should be made.

People at a distance can have the book sent to them by mail on receipt of price. Orders filled in the order in which they are received—first come, first served. Apply early.

MOUSNEAU'S INSULT TO ONTARIO

That hon. gentleman, in announcing the Ministerial view of this measure, has used language which I think ought to be repudiated by every respectable man in this house. The hon. gentleman has dared to state that some sixty out of eighty-eight members of the Provincial Legislature, which is as respectable as this House is, and a Government which is as respectable as this Government is, have been engaged in a conspiracy to rob one of their friends, and he puts the case upon this ground, that that Legislature and that Government having decided to rob one of the friends of this Government they are bound by their friend. The good Samaritans found him stripped, wounded and bleeding, and they have applied the cruise of oil and the ointment, and have given him assistance, and have put him on his feet again. It is well, sir, that this debate, which was commenced on the Ministerial side by the counsel for Mr. McLaren, should be closed for as yet is shown by the Ministerial announcement of a member of the Government that this is the tone, this the attitude, and this the language which they venture to use toward an independent Legislature—independent at any rate until this vote is taken, and I think independent as it will shortly become by the decision of the people of this country with regard to a measure which it has passed.—Hon. Edward Blake on Disallowance.

In a Scotch country parish church a young and very energetic preacher was officiating for the parish minister. As he warmed with the subject to the sermon, he used liberties with the old pulpit not quite consistent with its rather crazy condition ; sometimes throwing the weight of his body on it, he threw out his arms towards the congregation ; at other times bringing his hand down with a heavy thump. An old laird, sitting on a square table-seat below, had been anxiously watching all this with visions of an assessment for maintenance of the fabric. At last, things seemed to be approaching a crisis, as the preacher, piling his periods, had wrought himself into a state of intense fervor, which would inevitably have vented itself on the rickety pulpit. Just as he was gathering himself for the final burst, he was snuffed out by the warning voice of the laird : "Noo, ma man I mind, gin ye break that, ye'll pay't.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening last. Present: Councillors McNaughton, Paterson, Wilson, Douglas, Menzies, Denne, Richardson, Kelly and Alford.

In the absence of the Mayor, Mr. Paterson was, on motion, appointed to the chair.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the American Fire Hose Company, and also from John Bertram, in reference to the price of hose.—Referred to Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

From Macdonald Bros., offering to supply cedar scantlings for the use of the corporation, for $12.50 per thousand feet, board measure.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From R. H. Green and others, asking for street improvements.—Refered to Street and Bridge Committee.

From Enos Dunford, asking for a butcher's license for his shop on corner of Sherbrooke and Stewart streets.—Granted.

From Alex. Davidson, Smith, enclosing account for pane of glass, which he broke in Mr. McClelland's window, on account of defective sidewalk.—Referred to Finance Committee.

From Jas. Read and others, asking for street improvements.—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

From E. B. Edwards, Town Solicitor, the following:—

Peterborough, April 24th, 1882

H. H. SMITH, Esq., Mayor.

DEAR SIR,—McGhee v. Bradburn. I am of opinion that there is good ground for successfully opposing the appeal of Mr. Bradburn. I have examined the lease from the Town Council to Mr. W. A. Scott, dated December, 1857, and running for 21 years from the 4th May, 1857, and find that it gives only 80 feet depth along Simcoe street, without any right to build a stairway or place an awning beyond that depth.

From G. M. Roger, complaining of the state of Park Street, opposite his residence.—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented:—

John Shanahan	$ 7 20
Geo Pope	1 20
Gas Company	9 60
Gas Company	11 70

The two first were ordered to be paid and the two last referred to the Finance Committee.

PRINTING.

Mr. Menzies, Chairman of the Printing Committee, reported, recommending that the printing for the present year be awarded the same as last year, and at the same prices.

The report was on motion adopted.

REPORT OF CHARITY COMMITTEE.

In the absence of the Chairman, the Clerk read the following report of the Charity Committee:—

The Charity Committee beg to report and recommend, that the Treasurer issue his cheques payable to William Cumming, Collector, for the following amounts:—

John Newton, taxes	$ 3 33
Miss E. Kennedy, "	4 44
S. Johnston, "	5 53
Letitia Martin "	4 44

They cannot recommend the granting of the prayer of the petition of Esther Johnston.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committee reported as follows, recommending the payment of the following accounts:—

Toker & Co	$97 40
McKee & Davidson	10 62

Your Committee recommend that the Treasurer issue his cheque in favor of Jos. Langton for $2.33.

In reference to the application of Mr. Alexander Graham, your committee recommend that he be required to furnish a statement of the amounts received by him for costs in all cases which have not been proceeded with or withdrawn.

That the Finance Committee examine the Auditors Report on Friday next, and commence at nine o'clock a.m., and that the auditors receive an additional sum of $10 each.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOS. CAHILL.

Mr McNaughton objected to the clause recommending $10 extra to the Auditors, and moved that the clause be struck out.

Mr. Denne, as a member of the Committee, and in the absence of the Chairman, explained that the increase was recommended on account of extra services.

Mr. Menzies seconded the resolution. He thought until such times as the Council had examined the report no increase should be given.

The motion was put and carried.

After the clause in question had been struck out the report was adopted.

WATERING CHARLOTTE AND AYLMER STS.

A petition from a number of the residents of Charlotte and Aylmer streets was presented, asking that said streets be watered.

The petition was read and received, and at a later stage of the meeting was referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, after Mr. Henderson, one of the petitioners, had addressed the Council in its favour.

ALLOWED TO STAND OVER.

Mr. Cahill entered and took his seat, and asked that the notice of motion he had given at last meeting be allowed to stand over.

The request was granted.

THE MIDLAND STOCK.

Moved by Mr. Denne, seconded by Mr. Menzies,—Whereas by the Auditors report of the town of Peterborough for the year 1880, the opinion is therein expressed that the town still holds 3,000 shares of the Capital Stock of the Midland Railway of Canada, therefore, in order to ascertain the true position of the Town in reference to the same, the whole matter be referred to E. Pearse and the Clerk, and inquire into and report to this Council the facts as regards the present position of the town in the matter; with power to consult Counsel.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned for four weeks.

CHATTERBOX.—We have received the first number of the Original English Chatterbox from the American publishers, Messrs. Estes & Lauriat, Boston, Mass. This is the children's magazine, par excellence; containing 32 pages, and 16 full-page illustrations each month. It has more than a million readers in England and America. For one dollar sent by a NEW SUBSCRIBER, directly to the publishers, they will send, postpaid, Chatterbox for one year and a beautiful steel engraving of a little girl puzzling over her first sum, and entitled "Ought and Carry One." The engraving is 18 x 24 inches, and sells for $3, thus giving every new subscriber $4 worth for $1.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FAREWELL SUPPER.

The Rev. E. Beatty being about to return home to England, and B. Eden, Esq., to his home in Gaspe, a number of their Masonic friends invited them to a farewell supper, which was held in the Forester's Hall, on Tuesday evening. The W. M. of Clementi Lodge, No. 313, W. Bro. Geo. Cochrane, occupied the chair, and the S. W., Bro. F. Lillicrap, the vice chair. After justice had been done to the good things provided by Mrs. Baptie, the Chairman gave the first toast of the evening, the "Queen and Craft." Next followed the "Army and Navy," which was responded to by Coronet Urquhart. Song by Capt. Sacret.

"Our Guests," was proposed by W. Bro. Dr. Caldwell.

Bro. Beatty replied, stating it had been one of his chief pleasures, during his visit, meeting so many old friends in the Lodge room, and he appreciated the kindness shown to him in so many ways, but above all, entertaining him as was being done to night, and he would carry back with him to England, the kindest recollections of the members of Clementi Lodge.

Bro. Eden, unlike Bro. Beatty, had come here a stranger, but was not allowed to feel so long. He liked the place and people, but above all he entertained the greatest regards for the members of Clementi Lodge, who had made his stay so pleasant. If spared, he trusted that this visit would not be his last, and he might eventually become one of themselves.

Bro. R. Q. Dench replied to the toast of "Agricultural Interests" with a humorous speech.

W. Bro. Caldwell replied to the toast of "Education."

Bros. Clarin, Lillicrap and Moore, had each a good word to say for "Our Manufacturing Interests."

Song by Bro. R. Graham.

The toast of "The Press" was responded to by Bro. Dr. Bell, while "The Ladies," received ample justice at the hands of Bros. Casement and Bird.

The J. W's. toast "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again," and "God Save the Queen," brought to a close a reunion which will not soon be forgotten.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Many of your readers will hear with regret, of the sudden death of Mr. Joseph Dunlop, who is so well known to the older residents of the town and county. He had been spending a few days in the village, and returned on Tuesday afternoon to his home at "Clear Lake." Tuesday morning, at 2 p.m., his companion, Mr. Chas. Fuller, was awakened by hearing him moaning, and at once called to know what was the matter. Receiving no answer, he struck a light, and went to the bedside to find his companion breathing his last. Dr. Bell, Coroner, Lakefield, was at once notified, but decided there was no cause for an inquest.

CAUGHT.

For some time past Mr. S. Sheldrake had been annoyed by the conduct of some of our boys, insulting his pupils or shoving them of the sidewalk on Sunday evening on their way home from Church. Last Sunday evening, he detected a youth, who is old enough to know better, in the act and followed him until he caught him, and handed him over to the care of Constable McIlmoyl. He pleaded so hard and promised to behave in future, that Mr. Sheldrake relented and allowed him to go, but he need expect no mercy if he falls into the hands of the village constable again.

FISHING.

Quite a number of our sportsmen, as well as a number from a distance, are up at Burleigh, or Ell's creek, salmon fishing. John Ludgate, Esq., got two fine ones on Tuesday morning, below Burleigh.

UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE.

On Saturday morning, the small scow owned by Messrs. Sacret & Casement, and used for taking pic-nic parties up the lakes, broke loose from her moorings and went over the dam. Owing to the high water she was not injured, and she brought up on a shallow spot about a mile down the river. She has since been floated off and hauled up on shore close to the M. R. R. track, and will be hoisted on two flat cars and brought back. It will prove quite an expense to the owners as well as causing great delay in moving freight up for the lumbermen.

MASONIC.

The regular meeting of Clementi Lodge No. 313, A. F. & A. M., will be held in the Lodge room next Tuesday evening. Visiting brethren always welcome.

NAVIGATION.

Last Thursday morning, the old and familiar sound of the "Cruiser" whistle informed the public that she was not only afloat but ready for work, and many wended their way to the wharf to see her make the first start. She did not leave, however, until 3 p.m., when a few invited friends took their place on board, and with Capt. Sacret on deck, and Mr. Jacobs in the engine room, all felt that time would be made, and so it proved, for they again landed at the wharf at 8 p.m., after spending some time at Young's Point and nearly an hour at Burleigh, where they had tea, and such a reception as only the weighty landlord can give.

DISORDERLY BOYS.

On Sunday, a number of Peterborough people took advantage of the fine day to have a drive to Lakefield, and among the rest were a number of boys between 10 and 15 years of age. They spent the afternoon in driving round the village at a furious rate, and conducting themselves in such a manner that the village constable was notified, and put a stop to their sport. He at first intended to bring them before a magistrate on Monday, but finally allowed them to go, first securing their names, which have been given to your correspondent, who, should the offence be repeated, will send them down for publication.

REMOVAL.

After this week, Dr. Bell will be found at his old residence, the brick house opposite the Blakely House, on Queen St.

EVERY LADY in want of black cashmeres, coloured dress stuffs, prints, cottons, corsets, hosiery, gloves or umbrellas should see the beautiful assortment offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

GOOD NEWS.

Mr. Lumsden, chief engineer of the Ontario & Quebec Railroad, was in the village on Tuesday, passing through here on his tour of inspection of the survey of the route of that road in this vicinity. He distinctly says that the construction of the road will commence immediately, and that by the middle of May, large gangs of men will be put to work along the entire line. On Wednesday, in company with Mr. Reeve Pearce, he proceeded to purchase the necessary grounds, north of the village, for a station. There is no longer any doubt but that this road will be built, and that the company are making every endeavor to push forward the work of construction.

FIXING UP.

Mr. Mack McGregor is busy making his preparations previous to taking over the Beckett House here, and intends fitting up the hotel in a manner that will astonish the natives. His bar fixtures and other expensive furnishings are being made at Peterborough, by Mr. D. Belleghem, and will, no doubt, redound to the credit of all parties concerned. Mack will make a great metamorphosis in the management and conducting of duties of "mine host" in this place.

CHANGED HANDS.

Mr. Wm. Metcalf has sold his house and lot on King street to Mr. A. Kemp for $200. A decidedly cheap bargain, as either one or the other is worth the money. Mr. Metcalf, I believe, intends migrating to the happy land westwards.

OTTAWA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Parliament has been decidely interesting during the past week, and the leader of Her Majesty's Opposition has scored a point or two that is going to tell in the near future. As the irrepressible Plumb, being a supporter of the Government, took the extraordinary course, he did, in moving his boundary resolutions; Mr. Costigan, another supporter of the Government, followed suit, and moved a resolution of sympathy for his fellow countrymen in Ireland in their troubles. Mr. Blake took advantage of this to make, perhaps, the best speech he has ever made on the floor of Parliament. The speech showed that the speaker perfectly understood his subject. It was clear and logical in argument, elegant in diction, and delivered in that hearty manner that indicated that the speaker was speaking from his heart. The speech was loudly applauded by both sides of the House, and has been much praised by our local Tory press. I presume you will print it in your next issue. Let every one of your readers read and well consider the sentiments. Sir John Macdonald did not like it, and made an attempt to belittle the speech, and accused Mr. Blake of demagogism. It was a small business for Sir John to engage in and he did not find it at all profitable. All who heard Mr. Blake, but especially the friends of Ireland, were delighted.

Later on in the week Mr. Blake moved resolutions, setting forth the desirability of our being in a position to make our own treaty arrangements, for trade with foreign nations. Again he made a masterly speech, and some of the French Tory members applauded, and intimated their intention to support the resolutions. This brought up Sir Hector Langevin, who begun in the usual style, to whip the following, in. Sir Hector is usually calm and keeps his temper much better than some of the other ministers and members. But on this occasion he waxed warm, but it was no use. Some of the tail bolted, regardless of consequence, and a generally listless feeling has been the result. The independence cry has, of course, been raised, but it is conceded on all hands that independence must come in time, that being accepted as a foregone conclusion. The friends of the resolutions, in and out of the House, feel that they are a step in the right direction. National life and powers must come upon us gradually.

The friends of the Government here, other than the members who know they cannot be again returned, who have in fact thrown up the sponge, are anxious to have the elections come off almost immediately after the Parliament breaks up, say early in June. They feel that delay is dangerous. That the country is slowly but surely finding out that the N. P. is not the cure-all that its promoters said it would be. A general comparison is being made all over the country of what we were and what we are, and in nearly all cases it is found that the N. P. has been largely a failure, and the conviction is spreading that had the old tariff been in force when the wave of prosperity, raised by outside influence, (the general revival of trade the world over) struck us, we, as people would to-day be better off than we are.

When the bill for the re-distribution of seats comes down, it will be seen what confidence the Government have in carrying Ontario with the constituencies as they were at the last election. You will find that gerrymandering will be the order of the day, or rather of the Bill, and every kind of cutting and carving that is thought will help the Tory members will be done, and without stint or shame.

Socially, things have been rather quiet. Many of the ladies who came to the opening and remained for a time, have gone home. There have been theatricals at Government House, and they were pronounced a great success.

The assizes are on for the County of Carleton. Judge Osler, presiding. There is a large number of cases, both criminal and civil, and it is expected the court will last at least two weeks.

Active preparations are going on in the lumber mills for the summer's business, which is expected to be large and fairly profitable.

ALPHA.

In the Buck Lake murder trial at Kingston on Saturday, the jury returned a verdict of guilty against Vankougnet with a recommendation to mercy. His Honour ruled that the evidence of prisoner's confession to the constable was inadmissible, but accepted the evidence of a neighbour to whom prisoner admitted the shooting, claiming that it was entirely an accident. He has been sentenced to be hanged on the 26th of June.

At a meeting of the Toronto Industrial Association it was decided to open the exhibition on the 11th of September and continue it till the 23rd.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 27, 1882.

The Labour Movement.

In casting a glance at the unpleasant condition of affairs in the labour market of many of our Canadian towns and cities, we see the legitimate outcome of the deluding National Policy. Workingmen were assured times, without number, that protection would better their condition. Stump orators and newspaper writers on the Conservative side admitted living would probably be dearer, but this would be more than compensated for by the increased rate of wages. Many a man was caught by the story, and so did what he could to bring into power the men who made such golden promises. The N.P. came into existence and the increased cost of living was taken as a matter of course. But the workingman soon discovered that the protected manufacturers did not increase wages in proportion to their profits, or perhaps, we should say, were so handicapped by increased duties on the various articles they imported for their business, or trades, that they could not. Wages are pretty nearly the same as they were in 1872, while the purchasing power of a dollar is far less than it was at that period. Almost every article of household consumption is dearer, and so the cost of living has considerably increased. This is the cause of the present strikes among mechanics and others in Toronto, Hamilton and elsewhere. It is folly to assert these troubles are a consequence of improvement in business and the return of commercial prosperity. Certain trades are brisk it is true, but there is no scarcity of workmen. Only at such a time can workmen hope to recover from the losses they suffer during long depression. These men say, "We cannot live, and pay so much more for actual necessaries," and so they refuse to work until their demands are granted. No one will say they have no right to do this. A man's labor is his own. The mechanic has a right to sell his labor at a fair price. They have a right to band together also, and agree to sell their labor at what is just and proper. So long as they act freely, and allow to others what they claim for themselves, there is no wrong in such union for self protection. Concerted action of this sort is the only remedy within their power. When, however, they go a step further and strive to force others to work at their price, or seek to carry out their purpose by violence, then they commit a wrong and are to be condemned. This is where labor unions and trade movements of all kinds are liable to fall, and the present state of affairs in Toronto is no exception to what is usually found in connection with such troubles. True, the men are behaving with propriety so far as their meetings are concerned, but some little terrorism has been displayed to non-union men, and efforts are taken daily to compel outsiders to join the movement and to prevent all work. Strikes engender loss and misery, and not only for the lawlessness and coercion which usually accompany them are they to be condemned, but for these and other attendant evils. Capital and labor are mutually dependent on each other, and can only hope to prosper in their individual aims when they fully recognize this, and work amicably together for the furtherance of their interests. The employer should share, justly and generously his profits with the employee, acknowledge that the laborer has rights as well as himself. The present trade troubles will probably be settled by some kind of arbitration, and as there is much to be said on the side of capital as well as labour, it is to be hoped this will be the case. But the evils of a lengthened strike and the loss it has occasioned will not be fully atoned for by any compromise or agreement that may be entered into, and even if increased wages are granted the two parties will have suffered not a little before the wished for consummation has been effected.

The great lesson that the present condition of the labour market emphasizes is, as the Hamilton Times clearly proves, that any "protective tariff must hurt more Canadian workingmen than it can help, even on the theory that employers pay wages as high as they are enabled to pay."

Ontario and the North-West.

What is to be the future of this Province with the alarming exodus that is now going on, is a matter for serious and thoughtful consideration. Energy and capital are just now flowing out of Ontario in a steady stream, and there is nothing to replace our loss of men and means. Our best citizens are joining the great army of immigrants for the North-West. From every district in Ontario, noble young fellows, full of push and fire are becoming self-expatriated, and are not likely to return here if successful. The great number of farmers who are draining the country of much capital, and who are our chief producers, must be a very serious loss to an agricultural province like our own. The particulars stated some time ago by a deputation who visited the Provincial Secretary, show that there is room for alarm as regards this movement. The Canada West Land Agency Company, formed only a few month since, have a list of farms for sale in Ontario which represent $3,000,000 in value. We have only to refer to the daily papers to prove the extent of this Nor'-West "craze." Four hundred immigrants in the morning, and a thousand in the evening, are items in one day's record of arrivals in Winnipeg. Another despatch says 1,500 had arrived on a subsequent day, and 500 more were expected within a few hours. These, it must be remembered, are all from the older Provinces, as the old country tide of emigration, which all confidently expect, had not, at these dates, begun to flow. In addition to farmers and capitalists, great numbers of mechanics and unskilled laborers are attracted to Manitoba by the promise of high wages. Owing to this, trade movements and labor organizations are being formed in our town and cities to force up, if possible, the rate of wages here.

These men, now leaving the Province, will, no doubt, extend Canada, will possibly help to increase our commerce and advance, in a slight way, our interests, so long as in doing so they can advance their own. But, for this trade, of course, we must ourselves labor, and contend manfully against the rivals we will have in our more powerful neighbors to the south. We have already stated our belief that speculation there will ruin hundreds. Very many who purchase Manitoba town lots are nothing better than gamblers who hope to sell to some one and reap a benefit before the crash comes. Ruin and wreck must inevitably draw nigh in time, and bring upon those who "make haste to be rich" by unfair means a deserved destruction. Those who fail by such plans to acquire a position easily and rapidly, may return here, like stranded wrecks to the shores they left so full of life and promise; but the successful ones, the bone and sinue of the country, the patient plodders, we shall never have again among us.

Nor are we taking measures to replace them, to fill up the gaps now being made in our ranks. What do people in the old world know of Ontario? What reliable information is there scattered broadcast among the tenant farmers of Great Britain about her resources, climate, productions, etc.? We have the reports of a deputation of farmers, who, themselves, visited the Province some years ago, and that is all. But the North-West and its fertile fields and illimitable resources have been much more extensively advertised, not only by the Government, but by individuals, and still more by the glowing speeches of Lord Dufferin and the Marquis of Lorne. If we are to hold our own and to retain our old name of a fine, rich, prosperous Province, efforts must be made to replace the settlers who are leaving. The advantages of Ontario, with its delightful climate and its excellent educational privileges, its railroads and churches and manufactures should be set forth, if possible, in every town and district of England. If such plans to spread information be not taken and we sit supinely by, we shall have the bitter experience of knowing that thousands are passing by our doors to encounter the difficulties and drawbacks of new settlements, while our own country, with far better privileges and prospects for men of capital and energy, is being rapidly depopulated.

In endeavoring to account for this movement of our people westward, the London Advertiser says:—

The exodus from this Province is something enormous, and the causes leading to it are well worthy of serious study. It is not that the North-West or Dakota is superior to this section in any respect. All the advantages are on the side of Ontario. Our weather is unequalled, our soil fertile, wood plentiful, water good, and markets at hand. We have schools and churches. Our transportation facilities are of the best. Why, then, should people leave this favored land for a section where bitter blizzards blow and the mercury drops out of sight, where there is an unbroken sweep for the howling storm, and cordwood is a curiosity? There is a reason for it. It is to be found in the unrest that has been produced by Tory demagogues. Tory orators went through the country a year or two ago telling the people that they were poor; that a better state of things could and should be brought about; that everybody would be made richer by the working of the N. P. The N. P. has been in operation several years, and there is still no general distribution of wealth. A few have made immense fortunes and gone to Europe to enjoy them; a few are making dividends of from 40 to 60 per cent.: but the great mass of the people have not found their circumstances improved. They are growing restless. They want the better times that the N. P. has failed to bring, and they are pulling up stakes and leaving by the thousand. They have been deceived. They are discovering that increased taxation does not enrich, and they seek other methods, though possibly mistaken ones, of bettering their positions.

Commercial Independence of Canada.

Mr. Blake on Friday last, as an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply, moved a resolution, affirming the desirability of allowing the Dominion of Canada to negotiate her own commercial treaties with foreign nations. The resolution, after referring to the extent and importance of Canada, the peculiar responsibilities devolving on her in virtue of her geographical position, the desirability of obtaining freer access to the markets of the world, and the difficulty of conducting commercial negotiations through the medium of the Imperial Foreign Office asserts the expediency of obtaining all necessary powers to enable the Queen, through her representative here and his constitutional advisers, to enter into direct communication with foreign powers for the purpose of negotiating commercial arrangements tending to the advantage of Canada, subject to the consent of the Canadian Parliament. It is difficult to see what any reasonable man could possibly find in this resolution to object to, and yet it was voted down by a majority of 101 to 58, no fewer than seven of the Government supporters however, voting for it. If it be said that being brought in as an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply it was necessarily a motion of want of confidence in the Government, the obvious reply is (1) that the Government did not so regard Mr. Plumb's boundary resolution the other day, and (2) that those Ministerialists who did vote with Mr. Blake certainly did not mean to assert that they had no confidence in their own leaders.

The truth is that Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues are not in a position to put themselves right on this question of treaty-making with foreign nations. They have to admit that we are suffering from evils which we could remove if we had the powers asked for in Mr. Blake's resolution, for they know well that Sir Alexander Galt has been trying for some time past in vain to receive for us certain important commercial concessions from France. They know that the Washington Treaty, negotiated by Sir John Macdonald, as an Imperial Commissioner, was not satisfactory even to him, for he had to give way on some important points in deference to Imperial instructions. But Sir John has decreed that his party must now adopt the super-loyal role, and whatever he decrees his followers accept as a matter of course. The objectionable feature in Mr. Blake's motion, from Sir John's point of view, is that it asks a little more freedom for Canada from Downing street rule. It was ever thus with your genuine Conservative. Every particle of concession in the direction of self-government has been wrung from the Imperial authorities by the representations, memorials and arguments of the Liberals of the various provinces that now make up the Dominion of Canada. The battle of freedom was fought by the Liberals in Upper and Lower Canada, in New Brunswick, in Nova Scotia and in Prince Edward's Island. Since confederation, the latest concession was won as the result of a long correspondence between Mr. Blake and Lord Carnarvon, when the former was Minister of Justice and the latter Colonial Secretary. The next step towards full political autonomy is the right to make commercial treaties as freely as we can now alter our customs tariff. The Conservative party decline to join in the request for that privilege, but that will not hinder us from getting it at no distant day. The sooner the Liberal party come into power the sooner will Canada take this important step towards the achievement of her manifest destiny, and for this step, if for nothing further, she is fully ready.

TUPPER'S MAGNIFICENCE.

"Sir Charles Tupper's speech was a magnificent effort."—[The Giddy Gusher of the Toronto Mail.

True. Tupper is magnificent. When he speaks, it is a magnificent Speech. When he eats, it is a magnificent Eat. When he drinks, it is a magnificent Drink. When he indulges in abuse, it is magnificent Abuse. When he undertakes a job, it is a magnificent $200,000 Job. When he incurrs a bill of travelling expenses, it is a magnificent Bill. When he roars, it is a magnificent Roar. When he indulges in Springhill mining, it is a magnificent Mining. When his friends say he is suffering from congestion of the lungs, and he gets up in the middle of a bitterly cold night, and walks to his office, it is a magnificent Get. When he stretches, it is a magnificent Stretch. When he glares across the floor of the House at the Opposition, it is a magnificent Glare. When he has a toady, it is a magnificent Toady.—London Advertiser.

Some time ago at Lord Sherbook's town house the butler caught a man hiding between the hours of 9 and 10 p. m, evidently with burglarous intent. Taking him to Viscount Sherbrook, who was in his study, the butler asked whether he should fetch a policeman, "Certainly," said his Lordship; "or rather you need not trouble I will ring for one!" and so saying, he rang the bell. Buttons appearing his Lordship said gravely: "William, go into the kitchen and tell a policeman or two to come up." Getting no answer to his puzzled and amazed look, the boy went, only to return in a few moments to say that there was no constable on the premises. "What!" exclaimed his Lordship; "yot mean to tell me that, with a plain cook and three housemaids in my employ, there is not a single policeman in my kitchen! it is a miracle, and our prisoner shall reap the benefit of it. Butler let the man go instantly."

NO TIME TO THINK OF HER SOUL.

FOR THE EXAMINER.

"If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace, but now they are hid from thine eyes."—LUKE, xix., 42.

"I haven't the time to think about it,"
A votary of the world replied,
When lovingly urged the vital question
Of her soul's salvation to decide.

Too busy with earthly things to ponder
Realities of eternal weight;
But the opening years of expected leisure
May only come too late! too late!

No time to heed the divine injunction,
To labor for meat that will endure,
And to seek God's kingdom and righteousness
And needful things will be added sure.

No time to listen to Him who calleth,
In tenderest accents day by day,
"Look unto Me and be saved," then also "Come unto Me and find rest alway."

No time to think, for her household duties
Consume it all, and with many cares,
Her heart is cumbered, but unlike Martha,
No grateful feast for her Lord prepares.

No time to think mid the toil and worry
Of things to do and of things undone,
Of the blessed peace a trusting Mary
Found at the feet of the gracious One.

No time to think of the peerless ransom
Her immortal soul's redemption cost;
No time to think what the dear Redeemer
Suffered that she might not be lost.

There will be no time when the bridegroom cometh,
The time-neglected lamp to prepare,
And who will dare at the throne of judgment
To make this excuse, "no time to spare."

Sad, sad will this plea be when turned into Piteous wailings as ages roll,
Ah! woe is me that I ever bartered
For perishing things my precious soul.

There will be time in the solemn ceasing
Of busy moments, with self-love fraught,
To find the world was a poor investment,
To find she has sold herself for naught.

MIDLAND DISTRICT NOTES.

Clipped, Compiled and Condensed from County and other Convenient Contemporaries.

Wheat has been sown for two weeks on the light lands near Cobourg.

Mr. Chas. Wynn, of Peterboro', is engaged in repairing the Locks and swing bridge at Hastings.

Mr. Jas. Hamilton, of Lindsay, has shipped to the North-West this week, 15 wagons and 30 buckboards.

The Steamer Dora, of Harwood, made her first trip of the season, to Hastings on Tuesday last.

Mr. John Cannon, of Norwood, and mail contractor between Hastings and Colborne, will remove his plant to Hastings.

The Arlington at Cobourg is to be re-opened soon, under the management of Messrs. Dunham. Col. Chamblin leaves the Arlington.

Rev. J. E. Sanderson, of Norwood, sold a fine span of carriage horses to J. Leyd, Esq., of Toronto, last week. The amount realised was $980.

The madoc burglars were sentenced on Friday last. Cox to one year in Central Prison, and Layton to nine months in the same institution.

Lee, the man accused of the murder of Maggie Howie at Napanee, is attempting to starve himself to death. He has resolutely refused food for four days, but on second thought, he reconsidered the matter and is now eating as usual.

Two more coal-burners have arrived for the Midland. Arrangements are at present being made to convert all the locomotives owned by the Midland Railway in coal-burners. The coal yards are to be at Belleville, Toronto, Port Hope, and Peterboro.

The press ordered for the Lindsay Post enlarged edition was set up in that office this week. The machine is a very large one, entirely new, and built by the firm of Miller & Richard, Edinburgh, Scotland. It was put up by Mr. Westman, of the firm of Westman & Baker, Toronto, in quick time.

Rev. Mr. Bennet, of Peterborough, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church, Norwood, on Sunday last, and after the service, formally declared the Presbyterian congregations of Norwood and Hastings separated and without pastors. At a meeting of the congregation held immediately after the close of the service, it was decided to give the Rev. Mr. James a call.

The board of license commissioners for East Durham, have passed a resolution which comes in force on first May next as follows:—That the proprietors of hotels, taverns, or saloons, who in any way break the laws under which their license is granted, shall be considered unworthy of being entrusted with licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors during the year of 1883.

An item in the Toronto World says that a line of steamers is to be put on between Peterboro and Harwood on the back lakes. At Harwood connection would be made with the Cobourg railway and from Cobourg by boat to Toronto. By this combination a considerable portion of the Midland Railway would be open to competition. We learn that Mr. Cox shed tears when he heard this, and that Mr. White, the Gen. Pass. Agent, ordered his beard to be shorn off as a sign of his depression; while Mr. Ferguson, the superintendent, advocated the establishment of a line of fast steam barges on the Trent Valley Canal, to head off the Cobourg line.—Lindsay Post.

Mr. Pearson, of the Toronto gas works, says the Post, was in town on Friday, and together with our local capitalists, interested in the gas supply of Lindsay, visited the several localities which had been selected as available for the purposes in view. That property almost at the corner of William and Wellington-sts. was purchased, and thereon will be erected the gas house, gasometer, purifiers, storehouse, etc. The position of the lot is favorable to the work to be done, and its proximity to the business portion of the town, while a reasonable distance away, will ensure a good working pressure to the mains at all times. Work is to be proceeded with at once as soon as the plans are received by the managing director, Mr. F. C. Taylor. It is the intention to lay a five-inch main from the works to Kent-st. and along each side. The court house and offices will be supplied as well as the churches in that locality.

The Post says:—A well attended meeting of the Lindsay Lacrosse Club was held on Friday evening. The greatest enthusiasm was shown and steps were taken to organize the club on a good basis. Mr. J. B. Smith was elected president; Messrs. T. Hickey and W. A. Jewett, first and second vice-presidents; Mr. Joseph Joyal, captain; J. J. Berry, secretary; and Mr. Ed. M. Woolhouse, treasurer. The executive committee, Messrs. R. H. Hopkins, Jas. Pethick, J. R. Easton, G. A. Southeran and G. A. Metherell, were also elected. As the club have a number of experienced players on the membership a good record may be looked for when they get fairly into harness. Jas. Joyal has a fine reputation as a skilful player, and is the right man for captain. Practice ground will be taken up shortly, and the work of getting ready for a tussle with the neighboring clubs entered upon. Now let Peterboro' brace up and take a fresh grip of such trophies as its clubs have acquired, for it will take science to keep them from coming Lindsay's way.

WHAT A NEWSPAPER DOES FOR NOTHING.

The following article should be read and pondered well by every man who takes a newspaper without paying for it:

The result of my observation enables me to state as a fact that publishers of newspapers are more poorly rewarded than any other class of men in the country, who invest an equal amount of labor, capital and thought. They are expected to do more service for less pay, to stand more sponging and dead-heading, to puff and defend more people without any fee or hope of reward than any other class.

The credit wider and longer; get oftener cheated, suffer more pecuniary loss, and are oftener the victims of misplaced confidence than any other calling in the community. People pay a printer's bill more reluctantly than any other. It goes harder with them to expend a dollar on a valuable newspaper than ten on a needless gew-gaw, yet everybody avails himself of the editor's pen and the printer's ink. How many professional and political reputations and fortunes have been made and sustained by the friendly, though unrequited, pen of the editor? How many embro towns and cities have been brought into notice and puffed into prosperity by the press? How many railroads, now in successful operation, would have foundered but for the assistance of "the lever that moves the world?" In short what branch of industry or activity has not been promoted, stimulated and defended by the press? And who has tendered it more than a miserable pittance for its mighty services? The bazaars of fashion and the haunts of appetite and dissipation are thronged with an eager crowd, bearing gold in their palms, and the commodities there vended are sold at enormous profits, though intrinsically worthless, and paid for with scrupulous punctuality; while the counting-room of the newspaper is the jewing, cheapening trade of orders and pennies. It is made a point of honor to liquidate a grog bill, but not of dishonor to repudiate a printer's bill.

WHY ARE WE LIBERALS?

This question was the subject of an address at a meeting held at Rothbury, Scotland, recently. On introducing the speaker the chairman, Mr. Wm. Forster, made the following remarks: "He could easily answer why he was a Liberal. He was a Liberal because he believed the Liberal party had ever been the pioneers of progress. (Applause.) He was a Liberal because he was a Roman Catholic, and he could not forget that if it had not been for the Liberals he would not yet have enjoyed the freedom of citizenship. (Applause.) He should have paid the taxes and yet he could not have held any office of trust, of honor, of emolument, no matter what position under the Government. It was the Tories that subjected them to these barbarous penal laws, and it was Liberal agitation against them that secured liberty. (Applause.) He was a liberal because the Liberal party had hitherto grappled with great abuses both in electoral and other matters, and were at present doing great work for the good of the people, because they had legislated for the many instead of the few, and because by Liberal agitation they won the Reform Bill, which was secured under the leadership of Lord Gray—(applause)- because they were indebted to the Liberals, along with Richard Cobden and John Bright—(applause)—for the Corn Laws, by which they secured for the poor man of this country a free loaf, and they no longer lived under a sense of justice. He was a liberal because what he believed to be the most odious institution in the world—the Irish Established Church, was done away with by the Liberals, and that under Mr. Gladstone. He was a Liberal because they believed in the people, and it was the people who governed this country, and he had faith in the people. (Applause.)

A New Principle.

The principle upon which PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separating it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, try this sensible of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cur they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

A DISGRACEFUL INCIDENT.

During Hon. Mr. Blake's speech last night a circumstance occurred which has caused much comment. Mr. Drinkwater, Secretary to the Pacific Railway Company, was on the floor of the House in full evening dress, and persisted in standing in a conspicuous place to the left of the speaker, nodding his head in apparent assent, or sometimes shaking his head as if in dissent of what Mr. Blake was saying. At length, to some remark of Mr. Blake's about the Syndicate, he replied audibly, being understood to say, "That's a lie." Mr. Blake, without seeming to notice the interruption, said in a low tone to the Speaker that a stranger was interrupting the proceedings, when Drinkwater immediately retreated. Sir Charles Tupper came round behind the Speaker's chair and appeared to be inducing the offender to go out, which he did. He had before been attempting to talk to the Speaker in his chair, and also to Mr. Abbott in his seat. Your correspondent was out of the gallery at the moment and has narrated the circumstances as stated to him by members of the Commons, one of whom remarked in this connection, "It is bad enough to have to put up with the Syndicate, but this attempt of their secretary to bulldose the House is a little too much." There is talk of bringing the offender to the Bar of the House.

Mr. Rymal, in forcible terms, to-night brought up the Drinkwater outrage. "Last night," said he, "I saw their paid secretary on the floor of the House, conscious of the strength he possessed as the the representative of that great Company, inflated with wine and infuriated with strong drink, after having bulldozed the Government, after having, as a representative of the Syndicate demanded from them what they never should have conceded, standing here insulting Parliament by insulting one of the most prominent members of the Parliament of Canada, telling him his utterances were 'false,' 'false,' 'false.'"

Mr. Drinkwater, Secretary to Pacific Railway Company, has since made a full apology to Mr. Blake for his insult to him and the outrage upon the proprieties of the House of Commons. The entire episode demonstrates the necessity of preventing persons not in a fit condition from entering on the floor of the House. —Globe.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE ASPHODEL COUNCIL.

The Council of Asphodel met pursuant to adjournment. April 3rd, 1882. All the members present. Moved by Walsh, seconded by O'Grady, that this council pay Mr. Emmuntanger, ninety dollars for deed of forced road crossing lot 6 in the 9th con, of Asphodel which road contains according to survey 4 acres 1 rod, 12 perches.—Carried. Moved by O'Grady seconded by Stephenson, that the petition of Samuel Scott and twenty-two others, praying that the support of lot 6 in the 9th con., of Aspodel, be withdrawn from U. S. S. No. 10 of Asphodel and Hastings, and given to S. S. No. 9 of Asphodel, be it received and that the Clerk give the necessary notice to the Trustees of S. S., interested in the change, and of the date at which the Council intend passing a By-law making the change.—Carried. A By-law 120 allowing Wm. Richardson one fifth acre of land south of the present tavelled road on lot 6 in the 9th con., of Asphodel, as long as W. Richardson allows the Municipality of Asphodel, to use the ½ of an acre north of the road at the same place, was put through its several readings, signed and the Corporate seal attached.—Carried. Moved by Walsh, seconded by Lynch, that his Council give Archie Robinson an order for 200 flour.—Carried. The Reeve of Norwood addressed the Council and requested them to lend the Corporation of Norwood $800,00 which money was to be used for Agricultural show grounds and other public purposes, the loan to be payed back in eight annual instalments of $120.00 each, the first payment to be made on the 31st day of December 1882, and on the same dates for the successive years. The Corporation of Norwood to give eight Debentures of $100,00 each with coupons attached for interest. The Council consented to grant the loan providing every thing was found to be satisfactory, and the By-law passed by the village of Norwood. A deputation from the Asphodel, Belmont, and Dummer Agricultural Societies composed of W. E. Roxburgh, John Brackenridge and C. O'Reilly, Esqrs., addressed the Council on behalf of the Agricultural Society, asking for a grant from the Municipality of Asphodel of the sum of $250. to help to build the necessary buildings on the 5 acres that the Corporation of Norwood intend buying, providing that the Norwood Council get the land. The Council promised to give the matter their consideration.—COM.

PUTTING THE CHIEF ON HIS FEET.

The Hamilton, Ont., Fire Department, under the training and supervision of Chief A. W. Aitchison, is not excelled in efficiency by that or any other city in the Dominion. Chief Aitchison, by the way, met with a very severe accident in driving to a fire, not long ago. His head, shoulders and back were injured in a terrible manner. Being asked how he accounted for his rapid recovery, he replied: "Simply enough; St. Jacobs Oil can put any man on his feet, if there is any life in him at all. I used that wonderful medicine from the start, and the result is, that I am to-day in prime health and condition. St. Jacobs Oil, the panacea that comes to the relief of the fireman for rheumatism, burns, etc., served me in my trouble and cured me quickly, completely and permanently. It is the standard medicine here in the Fire Department."

Rev. W. S. Rainsford says that no man should get married until he is 28 years of age. What will the girls say to this?

BOSTON, 14th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS.—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 20th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN.—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,

"The Man in the Moon."

From the earliest period of history many people have believed that a man really inhabitated the moon; some thought he was made of green cheese, while others had their doubts about it—be that as it may, whether there is a man in the moon or not, there is no doubt in the solid fact that

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 27, 1882.

West Riding.

A meeting of the friends and supporters of the Liberal party will be held in Bradburn's Opera House, on Saturday, the 6th of May, at 2 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of organising and electing officers for the ensuing year, and for the nomination of a candidate to contest the Riding in the approaching election for a representative in the House of Commons. It is needless to urge on our friends throughout the Town and County the importance of being present at this meeting. The farming portion of the community are thoroughly alive to the deception which has been practised upon them, and the laborers know that the cost of living has been largely increased. We urge upon our friends everywhere to prepare for the contest, we urge upon them to organise and get ready to elect the Liberal candidates.

Tory candidates are everywhere retiring from the field. Mr. Tooley retires from East Middlesex. Mr. Fitzsimmons retires from Brockville. Mr. Macdougall from Halton. Mr. Wright from Pontiac. Mr. Kilvert from Hamilton; and these are but a few of those who would rather remain in port than to put into the storm. They hear the mutterings of the gathering tempest, and they know that more than one Tory barque will send no answer back to the Tory Chieftain. From all quarters we have the most encouraging reports.

In our next issue we will be able to announce the date of the meeting for the nomination of a candidate to contest the East Riding in the interest of the Reform Party.

The Vote on Commercial Treaties.

We commend to the electors of the great Midland District, the names of those who voted for and against Mr. Blake's resolution, asking that Canada should have the right to make her own commercial treaties with foreign nations. The following members voted for this reasonable proposal:—

BLAKE,
BROWN,
CROUTER,
WHEELER,

The following voted to keep Canada in commercial leading-strings for an indefinite period:—

BOWELL,
CAMERON, (North Victoria)
GUILLET,
McQUADE,
WHITE. (Hastings.)

The following Ministerialists shirked the vote:—

BURNHAM,
HILLIARD,
WILLIAMS.

Mr. Glen would have voted for the resolution had he been present. The following Ministerialists from other parts of the Dominion, had the manliness to vote for the resolution:—Messrs. Coupal, Coursal, Girouard, Houde and Onimet from Quebec; DeCosmos from British Columbia; Macdougall from Ontario.

MR. H. H. SMITH, wire-puller for the Conservative party of West Peterboro, and organizer in general of the party in the Province, arrived at Simcoe, County of Norfolk, on business connected with the approaching Dominion elections, on Saturday last. Mayor Smith, like Mr. Hilliard, is absent from his post of duty when required. Our Mayor has lately been absent from several very important Council meetings, and Mr. Hilliard has been only to Ottawa once or twice during the session for a day or two. If our Mayor and M. P. find that other business engagements will not permit their giving that attention to the business of the public that it deserves, they should do the decent thing and resign their trusts.

Editorial Notes.

Hon. W. B. Vail has been nominated Reform candidate for Digby, N. S.

It is rumoured at Ottawa that the Dominion elections will take place on the 29th of June.

It is reported that at the close of the session Hon. Mr. Aikins will be appointed Lieut. Governor of Manitoba.

There is a general impression now prevailing that prorogation will be reached on Tuesday, 9th May. At that time the House will have been in session just three months.

The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics at Washington says he has no reason to doubt the correctness of the returns, giving 125,000 as the number of persons who emigrated from Canada to the United States during the last fiscal year.

The North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, for which Mr. Geo. A. Cox is the Peterborough Agent, made a net profit last year of £94,759 sterling, which with £39,608 brought forward, made a total £134,367 for division among the shareholders, of which £80,000 were taken to pay a dividend of £2 per share, leaving £54,367 at the credit of profit and loss.

The threatened amalgamation of the Grand Trunk and Great Western Railways appears to be gaining favor among the English shareholders of the Great Western, although the directors of the company are as firm in their opposition to the scheme as ever. The Grand Trunk solicitor in Canada says that the consent of 115,000 shares of Great Western stock has been given in favor of amalgamation.

The Reformers of North Victoria, in convention on Saturday, nominated Mr. G. G. Kent, of Fenelon Falls, as their candidate for the Commons. Resolutions were unanimously passed approving of Mr. Blake's action and policy as leader of the Opposition, and disapproving the reckless expenditure of the present Government, especially in the letting of large contracts, as exposed in the recent Onderdonk contract scandal.

MR. BLAKE'S recent speeches are amongst the best of the many good ones he has made during his whole public career. It is reported that the speech in support of Mr. Costigan's resolutions on the Irish question, will be reprinted in pamphlet form, and we hope the report is correct. It should be in the hands of not only every Irishman, but of every man in the country who sympathises with the peasantry who are struggling to better their position in Ireland. The speech on his own resolutions respecting the treaty-making power is a masterly review of the whole question, and it also is worthy of being put before the public in some form more permanent than that of a newspaper report. Such speeches as it are precisely what is needed to give robustness to our young national life.

The province of Manitoba is in for a lively time during the next few weeks or months. The Local Legislature meets shortly and the Norquay Government, which assented to the disallowance of its own railway legislation, will be sharply taken to task for its recreancy to Provincial interests. The disallowed South-eastern charter will be brought up for resurrection and there is some prospect of its being re-enacted. In any case Mr. Norquay will have to choose between standing by his Province and subserviency to Sir John Macdonald. The better terms he has secured are a mere bagatelle compared with what Manitoba wants, and there will be no possibility of any longer evading the issue by palaver. The denouement, whatever it is to be, will be watched with deep interest.

Toronto Telegram:—Sir Charles Tupper boasted on the night that he made his blood and thunder speech that he could drive Mr. Mackenzie from public life if he liked. There is some curiosity to know what he is going to do it with. Perhaps it is with the evidence of the Pacific Railway Commission, the report of which is issued. Whatever Sir Charles may say, the opinion among fair-minded people is that if he bombarded Mr. Mackenzie with reports of the Pacific Railway Commission from Sarnia to Gaspe he could not hit him once on a dishonest or corrupt spot. Mr. Mackenzie may have been surrounded by leeches who tried to fasten upon the public treasury, but if there is a politician in the country who is personally honest Mr. Mackenzie is the man.

MR. HECTOR CAMERON brought up in the House of Commons the other day as a question of privilege, the charge made against him of accepting a fee to promote a private Bill. His explanation is that he is counsel for the Great Northwest Telegraph Company, and that as that Company has an interest in securing the passage of a bill to authorize the Montreal Telegraph Company to make a working arrangement with it, he had a professional interest in the bill. This is not so discreditable a position as the first report placed Mr. Cameron in, but it is still very far from satisfactory. He knew perfectly well, when he accepted the position of counsel, that his Company would be interested in private bill legislation, and he had no right to retain such a position without first resigning his seat in Parliament. It will be a good thing for this country, when public opinion reaches such a point, that no man will be able to retain his seat in the House of Commons and yet decline to vote for a bill in which he has a professional interest. The electors of North Victoria can do much towards bringing about so desirable a result, by asking Mr. Hector Cameron to stay at home after the next election.

THE resolution passed last week in the House of Commons respecting the state of Ireland, was a perfectly proper expression of opinion on a subject which deeply concerns the welfare of this country. The active and practical sympathy expressed by the people of the United States for oppressed Irishmen has had the effect of attracting to that country thousands of emigrants who might have found homes in Canada. That the great majority of our own people deeply sympathize with the Irish people, in their prolonged struggle to better their social condition, is an indisputable fact. When Parnell and Dillon made their tour through part of the Dominion they received ample and substantial proof of the sympathy felt for them and the masses of Irishmen whom they represented. Mr. Costigan's resolution, as toned down by Sir John Macdonald, was not a very strong one, but the leader of the Opposition made ample amends for its lack of spirit by the force of the speech with which he supported it. Mr. Blake was denounced by Sir John Macdonald as a demagogue for making such a speech, but the Irishmen of Canada, who know well that Mr. Blake has all the warmth of heart which is so characteristic of their race, do not need to be told that he has no occasion to feign a sympathy for their countrymen at home which he does not feel. Sir John could not, of course, say what Mr. Blake said, any more than he can feel as Mr. Blake does about the wrongs of Irishmen, but he could at least have refrained from insulting him and those for whom he spoke.

OUR PROSPECTS.

The prospects for the season are, at present, very hopeful for the town. A number of comfortable dwellings will be erected this summer, as plans are being prepared for them, and workmen are already at work preparing the foundations of several of them. There are no dwellings vacant in town, but, on the contrary, enquiry is being daily made for commodious dwellings to rent. These hopeful signs of the times are largely due to the prosperity and progress of the Midland Railway, and the removal of the head offices here. The increased outlay, consequent on the offices being here, is not less than $10,000 a month, which must assuredly be of some importance to the merchants of the town. The Omemee branch is being pushed forward with as much energy as the season and the number of laborers available will admit. It will be in running order by early winter. In the meantime, a considerable sum spent in connection with its construction must be spent in Peterborough to the advantage of town business men, no doubt. The road to Toronto, via Lindsay, is being straightened between Manilla and Wick, and very soon we will have a short route to the capital of the Province, while easy access from Peterborough to Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion, is anticipated at an early date. This state of things has been largely brought about by the President, who has such an active interest in the affairs of the town, and who will continue to manifest it, as all increase of our population, trade, manufactures, etc., must necessarily increase the business of the railway and benefit the company, as well as benefit Peterborough. The company's arrangement to allow parties visiting the town on market days, to do so at half-fare, is also calculated to benefit us. It is true, they must come to Peterborough to find a profitable market, but their being able to come on the railroad, at less labor to teams, and less consequent cost, will induce larger numbers to avail themselves of the opportunity and liberality offered by the railway company, and this will tend to increase the volume of our trade yearly. One thing yet remains undone, namely, the establishment of the Company's workshops here. We have before referred to this, and advised some action to secure this desirable result, and we do so again, hoping that some of our public men will take immediate action in the matter. If Car Works would be of value in working out the problem of progression, then surely the establishment of the work shops would be a factor to that end also. The management of the Company is almost all that can be desired—where conflicting interests exist. Mr. Cox is one of ourselves—his interests, we all understand; it is a part of our duty to make Peterboro a pleasant and progressive place as a home for the very excellent and respectable staff of officers of the Company, every new enterprise will increase the desirable object. An increase of population and progressive ideas of comforts and pleasures, and we do think that we should be doing something more to help forward the much wished for advancement, than appears to be done. The adage "heaven helps those who help themselves," ought never to be lost sight of. The history of other places should be lessons to our citizens, for carelessness or indifference may retard the ends we desire to advance. Hoping that the railway may do for us what we are unwilling to do, or to aid in doing for ourselves.

THE N. P. IN GUELPH.

Further Interviews of the Globe's Commissioner with Manufacturers.

ENGINES, BOILERS, ETC.

Mr. Adam Robertson, manufacturer of engines and boilers, saw mill machinery, &c., said :—

"The N. P. has done us no good. We never had American competition, and did not require any further protection. Times are better, simply owing to natural causes. While we have not obtained a larger market, or any better protection than what was ample before, the N. P. taxes our raw material and diminishes the advantages we ought to enjoy on account of the revival of trade. We are taxed on coal the full amount of the duty. The same may be said of pig iron, on which we pay $2 a ton of tax, either to the Government or the home manufacturer. Bar iron has also risen somewhat in price, and boiler heads and many other articles we require in our business. On tubing and boiler plate, neither of which are made in Canada, we pay the full amount of the duty, and the item is a heavy one. We get rather better prices than in 1878, and therefore do not bear all the increased tax on material, being able to lay a part of it at least upon our customers. We are doing a better business than during the dull times. We employ a few more hands than in 1878, and wages have risen about 5 per cent, on an average, owing to the emigration to Manitoba and the demand for labour in the United States, wither a large number of Guelph mechanics have gone within a year past. Business with us is much about the same as in 1872."

STOVE AND TINWARE INJURED.

Mr. W. H. Mills, manufacturer of stoves and tinware, said :—"Neither stoves nor tinware required protection, as we had no foreign competition under the old tariff. Yet the duty on stoves and tinware has been considerably increased. That does us no harm, of course, neither does it do us good. The N. P., however, has increased the cost of raw material in almost every case by the full amount of the duty, whether we buy at home or abroad. Pig iron and coal pay the whole duty ; so do tin sheets, which are all imported from England. Stamped tin is made in Canada, but it is almost the amount of duty above the foreign price. There are many other things on which we pay duty. The N. P. costs us directly in taxes. We have raised the price of stoves about 6 per cent., and so make our customers pay most of the increased duty. Were it not for the rise in the tariff we would be forced by home competition to sell cheaper than we do. I am not in the stove ring. If it were not that my customers compensate me for what I pay in duties, I would be losing considerably on account of the N. P., and did lose till lately, when we were able to raise prices. Wages are about ten per cent. higher than in either 1872 or 1878. We employ more hands than in 1878, but fewer than in 1872, when we did better than we can do now. The N. P. has simply hampered us and reduced the prosperity we should enjoy in these better times."

HARNESS MAKING INJURED.

Mr. J. Tovell, Guelph, one of the leading saddlers of the County of Wellington, said ;—"The N. P. has been an injury to the saddler. We never had American competition to hurt us, though very cheap sets of harness, made by machinery in large factories, came in under the old tariff, and still come in. They are very cheap and are not in general demand, so they don't effect us. If any one wants a cheap set of that kind we would find it far more profitable to sell him an imported set than attempting to make one up for him. We did not need protection, and the increase from 17½ to 25 per cent. does not give us better prices or a larger market. The N. P. taxes me, however, on every thing I buy. More than half of the cost of production goes into goods which are liable to duties, if imported, often as high as twenty-five or thirty per cent. The home made material costs more in consequence of the tariff, advantage being generally taken of protection to maintain or raise the price almost the whole amount of the duty above foreign prices. In fact some manufacturers have overshot the mark in prices, through some blunder or other, or ignorance regarding a fall in foreign prices. There are several articles which I used to buy in Canada altogether, which I now buy in the United States, because I can pay a duty of thirty per cent. and freight and yet lay down my material cheaper than I can buy it in Canada. In the United States I can buy directly from the manufacturers ; here I can't, as the manufacturers sell to jobbers, who have to make profits as well as the manufacturers. Here are invoices of common team harness, the duties being nearly the same. The American harness cost $4 a dozen, the Canadian $1.20 a pair, or $7.20 a dozen. One lot is quite as good as the other. Such a difference as that is exceptional, however. There is another thing besides difference of price, which makes us prefer buying many of our goods in the United States and paying the duty even though the cost be a little higher. The American goods are generally better finished. Here are samples of pad housings—one American and the other Canadian. The price of the American is lower on the other side, but the quality, lining, and appearance, as you see, are much superior to the Canadian make. Making a comparison of the cost of goods, whether they pay duties to the Government or are made at home, the advance averages 11 per cent. since the N.P. came into effect, the rise being caused by an advance in Canadian goods or by the increase of the duties on importations. In saddlers' hardware full advantage has been taken of the increase of duty, foreign prices having risen little or none at all. I can give you scores of examples. We have not been able to increase prices to compensate for the extra tax paid the Government and home manufacturers. I made more money annually before the N. P. was adopted than since ; in fact harness-making has been rendered comparatively unprofitable by protection. I do not take much interest in politics, but I have felt the bad effects of the N. P., so much have they been forced on my notice by practical experience. We are doing a larger business than during the depression, but not so much as in the last good times, about ten years ago. In fact before the new tariff I could make as much money in one year, even with smaller sales, than I can now in two years, so much has the N. P. affected the cost of production.

WAGES.

"The number of men employed in my business is slightly less than in 1878. Wages are $1 a week higher than then, and $1.50 a week higher than in 1872."

AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY.

Mr. Thos. Gowdy, of Thos. Gowdy & Co., Guelph, manufacturer of reapers, mowers, fanning mills and lawn mowers, said :—"The present tariff has not been of any benefit to us, as we never had any American competition, and could have obtained the Manitoba market under the old tariff. There may have been machines sent into Canada as an occasional thing, but it is not worth speaking of. We send lawn mowers into the United States, notwithstanding the high American duty. In cost of production and quality of manufacture we compare favorably with the Americans, and even in chilled ploughs stand well in that respect against the large American plough factories. If Americans can manufacture so much cheaper than Canadians as to be able to send in here and beat Canadians under a fifteen per cent tariff let them do so. A native manufacturer that cannot get along with that measure of protection should be allowed to go down. It certainly cannot be of benefit to the country. We didn't need protection and have gained nothing by the nominal increase of protection afforded. On the other hand we have been taxed heavily on various materials we require, particularly on coal and iron, which are dearer than they otherwise would be by the full amount of the tariff. Of course we get nearly all of the tax out of our customers, and it does not hurt us much now. Good crops and other natural causes have brought about better times, and if it had not been for that agricultural implement makers would be worse off under the new tariff than they were under the old. The general effect of the tariff has been to injure our business and to tax our customers, The fact that implements have not risen much does not alter that fact, for well-known reasons."

POLITICAL NOTES.

"It costs just two dollars a week more to keep house now than it did two or three years ago," remarked a mechanic a day or two since.

The Kingston city officials have asked for an increase of salaries, on the ground that the cost of living has increased. The N.P. has struck the city in earnest.

As will be seen in another column, the manufacturers of Guelph have been adding to the general testimony that the N. P. is an injury to their business, adding to the cost of the raw material with no corresponding advantage.

According to reliable reports from Winnipeg, nearly every Canadian employed on the Canada Pacific Railway, in whatever capacity, has either been superceded by an American, or finds his position so uncomfortable that resignation will be necessary. This is the way the Syndicate are helping the Government to keep Canada for the Canadians.

The Kingston Whig does not admit that the Tories will have all the manufacturers on their side in the next election. At the Lennox Reform Convention Mr. W. F. Hall, of the Napanee paper mills ; Mr. John Gibbard, the leading furniture manufacturer of that region ; Mr. James Daley, of Napanee foundry and machine works ; Mr. O. L. Herring, of the glass works, and Mr. Thomas Scott, manufacturer of carriages, were among the prominent speakers and workers. Instead of tolerating the Syndicate bargain for the sake of the N.P., these manufacturers are ready to stamp out the N.P. along with other Conservative outrages. Their workmen have a great proportionate interest in getting the country back to a revenue tariff.

The National Policy cannot have been good for the Canadian farmer—cannot have put him in a relatively better position than the farmer in the United States—or we could not read in the Oswego Express :

For several years past the importation of wheat from Canada has almost entirely ceased. In former years the trade in wheat was quite large. Finally, however, the price became so high that our millers could not buy it for grinding, and pay the duty of 20 cents per bushel. The Canadian line of steamers made the transportation cheaper by Montreal than by New York, and so the entire crop sent abroad went down the St. Lawrence river. Within a year past this current of trade has again been turning towards the Oswego route. About 50,000 bushels have been sent to Oswego already this spring, and within a year past nearly 300,000 have come to Oswego. We hope this trade may continue and increase. It is for the interest of our business men to encourage this trade.

"Sarnia may be regarded in future as the town of bonuses and taxes, and people proposing to make it their home will be certain to pay dearly for the luxury of breathing the gentle sephyrs fanned by the limpid St. Clair."—Strathroy Despatch.

Broaden the case a little. The Dominion of Canada bonuses the cotton and sugar lords, the fishermen and coal miners of the Lower Provinces, and various others. The people of Western Ontario pay dearly for the luxury of bonusing those of the East.

AN INTERESTING BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.

The first case on the 20th at Cobourg, was Sarah Hacker vs Fletcher Chalk, all of Port Hope, and respectable families, the father of the plaintiff being a ship carpenter ; the father of defendant a carriage builder. This was an action brought for breach of promise of marriage, and created all the interest and curiosity usual in such cases, and although the day broke cold and cloudy, the court room was crowded. Boney and Chalk, both workmen and chums in the carriage factory of defendant's father, some eight years ago, wrote a joint epistle to plaintiff and plaintiff's sister, requesting acquaintance, etc. The plaintiff was then 15 years old and in short clothes, while the defendant was 20. The intimacy brought about by that letter resulted in the marriage of Boney and plaintiff's sister some three years ago, while Chalk has been a constant visitor at the home of plaintiff since, spending his evenings and Sundays in her company, to the exclusion of all other suitors, of which her evidence claims she has had four offers of marriage always objected to by Chalk, in fact he was rude to anyone who smiled on his Sarah. The course of true love ran smoothly up to Wednesday the first of February (Wednesday being considered a lucky day for marriages), when they were to have been married, she spending $100 on her bridal trousseau. When that day approached, he asked for a week's postponement owing, as he said to his suit not being finished, to which plaintiff consented, but when the day finally came Chalk failed to turn up. The plaintiff instituted inquiries of hard-hearted Chalk's whereabouts when it was found he had skipped the country. Since, however, he returned, and when approached on the meaning of his conduct, positively refused to fulfil the contract, when it cropped out in evidence that the father upon whom he depended for his future advancement objected to the match, which seems strange after permitting the intimacy for eight long years. The plaintiff, who is now 22 years of age, is very handsome. Chalk, who has been noted for years for his fastidious taste in dress, came into the court room unshaven and slovenly, minus a cravat and otherwise dilapidated in appearance, in obedience to a threat that he would disgrace plaintiff. Mr. Smith, with his usual chivalry to respectable females, withdrew the defence, and the jury after a short consultation, bound up Sarah's wounded heart by giving her damages to the extent of $800. Mr. Kerr in his charge to the jury exhibited great emotion, the tears actually choking his utterance.

GIVE HEED TO A COUGH.—If we except those tremendous epidemics which sometimes often half depopulate the regions of country where they prevail, no diseases are so destructive as those which affect the breathing organs. Unfortunately, also, there are few maladies which at the outset are so frequently disregarded as trivial. No warning is taught with graver meaning than this—Give heed to a cough ! To neglect it, is simply madness. So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen that often in a few short weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption, that terrible enemy to human life. The best pulmonary remedy which medical science has developed, and which seems peculiarly adopted to the suppression of a cough or cold, Asthma, spitting of blood, Bronchitis, or other throat or lung complaint, is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Experience has shown that the oil obtained from the Cod's liver exercises a powerful control over pulmonary diseases In the above preparation, not only is this main ingredient specially pure, but its efficacy is greatly increased by addition to it of these hypophosphites which are among the most powerful invigorating and blood fertilizers known to matirix medica. While the lungs are soothed and healed by the Cod Liver Oil, the rapid physical decay attending lung disease is stayed and the system built up and fortified by the hypophosphites. Ample evidence proves this. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda.

Correspondents of United States journals speak of the likelihood of the Prince and the Princess of Wales crossing the Atlantic this year. Of course if they cross the Atlantic they will come to Canada. Indeed, the chief object of their visit would likely be to visit the Marquis of Lorne and see Niagara falls.

HOLMAN'S PADS

Operate through the Nerve Forces and the Circulation.

MONTREAL, QUE., 20th Oct., 1877.
HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.
GENTLEMEN,—I have worn one of your Liver Pads for about 20 days and it has completely cured me of a very bad attack of dyspepsia. After being once used, the Pad speaks for itself and is a genuine cure for the worst case of dyspepsia. I heartily recommend it to all my friends suffering from the above.
Respectfully yours.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 14th, 1877.
HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.
GENTLEMEN,—I wish to state to you what the Holman Liver Pad and Plaster which I bought from you, have done for me. I suffered several years all the horrors of indigestion and dyspepsia, with weak back and severe pain in the region of the kidneys, and though I had tried nearly all the many medicines advertised, for my trouble I got little or no relief and rapidly grew worse, until I was finally discouraged and decided that I must give up my situation as I could not do the work required of me. Luckily for me I saw a notice of your Pad. I wrote and bought one, though I must say with very little faith, feeling that it was probably another humbug. I have worn it only about two weeks and I can truly and thankfully say that I think I am permanently and effectually cured. My strength has returned my pains are all gone, my appetite is good and I can eat anything I wish to without its hurting me, in short I feel like a new man ; the change is simply wonderful, and my friends are all congratulating me upon my improved appearance. Too much praise cannot be given to the Pad. the "little common sense doctor."

VIA SOLITARIA.

AN UNPUBLISHED POEM BY HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

(From the Independent.)

Alone I walk the peopled city.
Where each seems happy with his own;
Oh! friends, I ask not for your pity
I walk alone.

No more for me you lake rejoices,
Though moved by loving airs of June,
Oh! birds, your sweet and piping voices
Are out of tune.

In vain for me the elm tree arches
Its plumes in many a feathery spray;
In vain the evening's starry marches
And sunlit day.

In vain your beauty, summer flowers;
Ye cannot greet these cordial eyes;
They gaze on other fields than ours
On other skies.

The gold is rifled from the coffer,
The blade is stolen from the sheath:
Life has but one more boon to offer,
And that is—Death.

Yet well I know the voice of duty,
And, therefore, life and death must crave
Though she who gave the world its beauty
Is in her grave.

I live, O lost one, for the living
Who drew their earliest life from thee,
And wait, until with glad thanksgiving
I shall be free.

For life to me is as a station
Wherein apart a traveller stands—
One absent long from home and nation,
In other lands

And I, as he who stands and listens,
Amid the twilight's chill and gloom,
To hear approaching in the distance,
The train for home.

For death shall bring another mating,
Beyond the shadows of the tomb,
On yonder shore a bride is waiting
Until I come.

In yonder fields are children playing,
And there—Oh, vision of delight!—
I see the child and mother straying,
In robes of white.

Thou then, the longing heart that breakest,
Stealing the treasures one by one,
I'll call the blessed when thou makest
The parted—one.

September 18th, 1863.

Now that our best and sweetest poet has left us, reading by his departure the veil of that sanctuary—his inmost life and feeling—it may not be unlawful to publish what would have been sacrilege before, the above touching poem, not written for the public eye, but simply to give utterance to heart-crushing sorrow, after the death of his wife in 1861. It was sent to me by a friend in Boston some years ago, after my own great affliction, and has, therefore, a double sacredness to all who have passed through a similar sorrow. It will be read by many with tearful eyes, when they remember how long and patiently, with what brave and uncomplaining heart, he has waited at the "station," till now at last, "the parted" are made "one."

ABOUT THE BUTCHER.

This week, children, I shall show you the butcher. He is generally a good man, but sometimes he has a bad way of showing it. The butcher is a jolly fellow; therefore it is meat that he cuts up occasionally. He is a good husband, and his wife cleaves unto him. He takes good care of his cleaver.

The butcher is a great favorite among the fair sex. He is always killing.

The butcher never sells horse meat, although he has been known to cut up and dispose of a fillet.

It has been said that what is bred in the bone won't come out in the flesh; but the butcher gets much of his bread in the bone he sells to you; and doesn't this come out of the flesh?

The butcher has been blamed for charging you as much for the bone as for the flesh; but he does not require you to take the bone. He carefully removes all he can before he sends it home.

Though the butcher charges you 25 cents a pound for bone, you must remember that he sells the same bone to the scavenger for three cents. So you see his average price is not exorbitant. Butchers are almost invariably fleshy men. A meat shop is the place to go if you want to get fat.

The butcher is usually very courteous, but some of his best customers frequently gets the cold shoulder from him.

The butcher finds out a poor paying customer, and will at once cut him off. If you go to him for a pound of steak the chances are that he will cut you off two.

It is said that the butcher will as soon cut a steak off a sow as a steer. This is a miss-steak.

If you ask for a tender steak, the butcher will sometimes cut a slice from the round and beat it with his cleaver. This makes it tender, but is it a legal tender?

The butcher pays for most of his tools, but he steels all his knives.

The butcher is noted for his elegance of apparel. He dresses to kill, and he kills to dress.

STATISTICS FOR GIRLS.

A young English statistician who was paying court to a young lady thought to surprise her with his immense erudition. Producing his note book she thought he was about to indite a love sonnet, but was slightly taken aback on the following question:

"How many meals do you eat a day?"

"Why three of course; but of all the oddest questions!"

"Never mind, dear, I'll tell you all about it in a moment."

His pencil was rapidly at work. At last, fondly clasping her slender waist:

"Now my darling I've got it and if you wish to know how much has passed through that adorable little mouth in the last seventeen years I can give you the exact figures."

"Goodness gracious! What can you mean?"

"Now, just listen," says he, "and you will hear exactly what you have been obliged to absorb to maintain those charms which are to make the happiness of my life."

"But I don't want to hear."

Ah, you are surprised no doubt, but statistics are wonderful things."

"Just listen: You are now seventeen years old, so that in fifteen years you have absorbed oxen or calves, 5; sheep and lambs, 14; chickens, 327; ducks, 204; geese, 12; turkeys, 100; game of various kinds, 824; fishes, 160; eggs, 3,240; vegetables, (bunches) 700; fruit, (baskets), 603; cheese, 103; bread, cake, etc., (in sacks of flour), 40; wine, (barrels), 11; water (gallons), 3,000.

At this the maiden revolted, and jumping up exclaimed:

"I think you are very impertinent and disgusting besides, and I will not stay to listen to you," upon which she flew into the house.

He gazed after her with an abstracted air, and left saying to himself:

"If she kept talking at that rate twelve hours out of twenty-four, her jaws would in twenty years, travel a distance of 1,332,124 miles.

The maiden, within two months, married a well-to-do grocer who was no statistician.

Nervous Exhaustion, and all diseases arising from youthful indiscretions are speedily and radically removed by that wonderful remedy known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, an advertisements of which appears in another column. 17-2t

NOT QUITE READY.

The Boston Journal publishes an incident which exhibits one of the phases of human nature. Two men were talking in a horse-car about the hard time they had in earning a living. One of the two, a man with a misanthropic cast of countenance and a hollow voice finally said:

"Well, as for me, I should welcome death at any time. Life ain't worth living, as far as I can make out, and a man's a great sight better off when he gets a call to quit grinding and take a rest."

At this moment a car on the other track jumped the rails and struck the car bearing the speaker with a crash, whereupon he jumped from his seat in great alarm and reached safely on the sidewalk in just two bounds.

When the car was put upon the rails again he came back into his former place, remarking to his companion as he did so:

"As I said before, I ain't afraid of death, but I shouldn't like to have my body mutilated"—an explanation that amused the company very much.

A SOCIETY MAMMA'S ADVICE TO HER DAUGHTERS.

Those quiet retiring young men have often a great deal in them. Remember girls, that if they do not shine at the times nor in the ways in which ordinary men of the world do, still they are sometimes brilliant and effective where men of mere manner and accomplishment quite fail. Don't be prejudiced even by sheepishness, Sibyl; all is not homeliness that seems so. And Caroline, my love, do give up that bad habit of trying to talk what you call sense; you have plenty of attractions without that. And, Sophia, when shall I teach you not to be listless? Appear so, if you please, for I admit it gives you a charming look at times; but still, have your wits about you. I assure you, dear, at your age, if a young fellow had been ten minutes in the room, I could have told you everything about him down to the color of his eyelashes, and no one ever called me a starer. It was observation, dear, nothing more. "Now do observe, girls," she said in conclusion, with an air of earnest appeal, when shall I make you women of the world?" Vigilant, energetic, good-humoured, there she stood with her delicate daughters around her, training them for society and conquest and applause with as much patience and enthusiasm as though she had been a religious superior making spiritual pupils ready for an eternal state. But shrewd little Mrs. Temple well knew how fleeting her world was. "What a pity it lasts so short a time!" she would often say. "But that is not our doing. Let us make the best of it while we can."—Lady Beauty in London Society.

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ, worth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still, we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good, honest made Piano at from $185 to $375, and a good honest Organ, (not all stops,) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if no pleasee no keepee. as the Chinaman would say. For the past ten years we have sent both Pianos and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish for a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments, you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood, always sells us more. Address, for prices, etc.,

JAS. H. THOMAS,
Successor to Thomas Brothers,
17-4ins Catskill, N. Y., U. S. A.

"Mamma, is the old hen going to be sent away for the summer?" No, Charley, but why do you ask?" Well, I heard papa tell the new governess that he would take her out riding when he had sent the old hen away for the summer."

THE SECRET OF BEAUTY.—No cosmetic in the world can impart beauty to a face that is disfigured by unsightly blotches arising from impure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand purifying medicine for all humors of the blood. It makes good blood and imparts the bloom of health to the most sallow complexion. 17-2t

"There!" said Vogle the other evening, as he entered the room, "that job's done, and now for a good lazy summer." Of course all wanted to know what the "job" was. "Oh, it is nothing," he said, "only my dairy, you know. I've just finished writing it up till next November."

CHILBLAINS.—These troublesome complaints may be speedily cured by Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great Rheumatic remedy, which, as an external application and as an internal remedy has a wider range of usefulness than any similar preparation in the world. All druggists sell it at 25c. 17-2t

A gentleman calling on a farmer, observed: "Mr. Jones, your clock is not quite right, is it?" "Well you see, sir," said Mr. Jones, "nobody don't understand much about that clock but me. When the hands of that clock stand at twelve, then it strikes two; and then I know it's twenty minutes to seven."

A CURE FOR HEADACHE. What physician has ever discovered a cure for headache? Echo answers none. But Burdock Blood Bitters by their purifying, invigorating, nervine properties afford a cure in nearly every case. The health-giving principles of this remedy are unequalled by any similar preparation in the world. 17-2t

An ignorant farmer once married a "high larned" woman. Hard times came, and when everybody was complaining, the farmer's wife declared that for her part she would be contented if she could obtain food and raiment; whereupon her husband rebuked her presumption. "Thoo fule," said he, "thoo dosn't think thoo'at to hev mair than other folk. Pse content wi' meeat and claes."

THE DOCTOR'S LAST HAPPY RESORT. Evansville, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882. I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much against my wish, to use a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared ever to expect she was completely cured. The name of this remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice.—Leading M. D., Evansville. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size, $1.

VARIETIES.

Three people can keep a secret when two of them are dead.

Three requisites—pens, pins and needles. The two latter you can get of any make, but when you want a good pen get one of Esterbrook's.

Many a man who wears glossy boots shines at the wrong extremity.

BURNS AND SCALDS, are promptly cured as well as all flesh wounds, sprains, bruises, callous lumps, soreness, pain, inflammation and all painful diseases; by the great Rheumatic Remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil. For external and internal use. Price 25 cents. 17-2t

The man who says that woman has never invented anything should listen for a few minutes at the keyhole of the sewing society.

D. Sullivan, Malcolm, Ontario, writes: "I have been selling Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil for some years, and have no hesitation in saying that it has given better satisfaction than any other medicine I have ever sold. I consider it the only patent medicine that cures more than it is recommended to cure.

It was remarked of a member of Parliament that he was always very self-contained, yet never contained anything of much consequence.

The people of this country have spoken. They declare by their patronage of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, that they believe it to be an article of genuine merit, adapted to the cure of rheumatism, as well as relieves the pains of fractures and dislocations, external injuries, corns, bunions, piles, and other maladies.

A good purgative medicine is one of the absolute necessities of the age. This want has been supplied by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., whose celebrated Cathartic Pills are known to be the safest, surest and best purgative medicine ever offered to the public. They are mild but certain in their effect, and keep the system in good condition.

It takes only thirteen minutes to load an elephant on a railroad train, while it takes twenty for any sort of woman to kiss her friends good-bye and lose the check for her trunk.

Theodore remarked, when Angelina's father shoved him off the doorstep, that the old gentleman had considerable push about him.

WORSE THAN WAR.—"The throat has destroyed more lives than the sword," by imprudence in eating and intemperance in drinking; but when the health becomes impaired the miserable dyspeptic may find prompt relief in Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the bowels, acts upon the liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, and stimulates all the secretions to a healthy action. 17-2t

A little boy of seven had been in the habit of sitting with his three-year-old sister in church. Last Sabbath he refused to sit in his usual place with his little sister; "for" said he, "folks might think we are married."

FORTUNES FOR FARMERS AND MECHANICS.—Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the health of yourself and family. If you are Bilious, have sallow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those wonderful Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of 50 cents. —Tribune. For sale by Taylor & Macdonald at 50c.

A lady who lectured in Deadwood on "Æsthetic Culture" was astonished at the immense crowd that turned out until she learned that the people supposed that "Æsthetic Culture" was some kind of a new mixed drink.

IT IS NOT WHAT YOU EAT, but what you digest, that maintains the nutrition of the body. There may be Dyspepsia without apparent stomach troubles, as those pallid, anæmic cases with general debility and want of nerve power are positive evidence of systemic impoverishment from failure of the DIGESTIVE APPARATUS to convert food enough into blood to supply the daily wants of the body. Hrr, WHEELER'S Phosphates and Calisaya is indicated to restore the DIGESTIVE TRIPOD—the STOMACH, LIVER and PANCREAS—to their normal working power.

Lord Ellenborough once said to a barrister, upon his asking in the midst of a boring harangue, "Is it the pleasure of the court that I should proceed with my statement?" Pleasure, Mr. ——, has been out of the question for some time, but you may proceed."

A CASE OF TWENTY YEAR'S STANDING.—From the Venerable ARCHDEACON SCOTT, D. D., of Dunham, P. Q. "The man who has experienced in himself a great blessing, if he possesses any generous sentiment, cannot but feel sincere gratitude to the agent through whom he has been benefitted. * * * I am an inveterate Dyspeptic of more than twenty-five years standing. * * * I have been so wonderfully benefitted in the three short weeks during which I have used the Peruvian Syrup, that I can scarcely persuade myself of the reality. People who have known me are astonished at the change. I am widely known, and can but recommend it to others that which has done so much for me." Sold by all druggists.

When the late Earl of Dalhousie was commander-in-chief in India he visited the King of Oude at Lucknow, and made a point of introducing Laby Dalhousie which the King did not understand at all, and fancied the Earl wanted to sell her. After a short time he said to his attedants, "That will do take her away."

Mrs. A. Nelson, No. 94 Colborne Street, Brantford, writes: "I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, causing a drooping and languid feeling, which would last for several hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, chemist, of our city, to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lay heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with the best result." Being personally acquainted with Mrs. Nelson, I certify to the truth of the above statement. (Signed,) A. A. Popplewell, chemist and druggist, Brantford.

and at intervals of from three to six months thereafter. We thus place the benefits of a free consultation and examination within the reach of all. Remember the date and call early in the day as the time is short.

No money required for consultations. All afflicted persons who are anxious about their condition, and who earnestly wish to know the exact nature, extent and curability of their disease, should call for an examination whether they desire treatment or not. Persons calling may feel assured of a thorough examination of each particular case, and a candid opinion based upon a large experience; honorable, square dealing, with no encouragement without a prospect of a cure or permanent benefit. Investigate and decide for yourself. You will not be urged to take treatment. Now is the time.

Persons who have been pronounced incurable by other physicians and those suffering with any form of chronic or long-standing disease or deformity of any name or nature, are requested to call. We have effected cures where many of the most skillful physicians have failed, hence our large and increasing practice, the result of our past success. Do not neglect a rare opportunity. Consultations free.

TREATMENT.—Parties desiring treatment after an examination (if in the opinion of the doctors they are curable) will be assisted in ordering remedies from the office of Drs. K. & K. Detroit, Mich. Those who find it impossible to call on the doctors should write full particulars to Drs. K. & K., Detroit Mich. You can always remember this address. Enclose a stamp for reply.

SUCCESS. "NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS," SAY THE FRENCH.

Success in catarrh, consumption, asthma and bronchitis.

We deem it unnecessary to speak of our success in the treatment of these formidable diseases, a treatment that has restored hundreds, yes thousands, of feeble and despondent invalids to health and lives of usefulness after all other known and tried means, including change of climate, had failed to effect any permanent change for the better. A success that not only relieves, but has effected cures in a large majority of cases treated.

Success in curing dyspepsia, indigestion, Habitual constipation, and diseases of the liver, stomach and bowels.—Persons acquainted with our success in the treatment of the above diseases, have long since ceased to look for or expect a failure. To those unacquainted with us, we can only say that the cures we have effected in the past have given us a world-wide reputation, and notwithstanding there are thousands of sure cures advertised for the above, and the additional fact that every practicing physician claims to be proficient in the treatment of the same, yet our patronage in this department extends to every state in the Union and to all classes of people. Send stamp for GUIDE TO HEALTH.

Success in rheumatism and neuralgia.—The twin torturers of poor suffering humanity. Only those who have suffered in kind can appreciate a success that gives immediate relief and effects permanent cures in long-standing and difficult cases. We say come and be cured. We have made no failures.

Success in treating deformities and malformations.—A success in the cure of spinal curvature, hip-joint disease, club feet, crooked, wasted and deformed limbs, without instruments of torture or any mechanical aid or appliance except as supporters. A success that has restored more miserable and deformed persons to proper and graceful proportions during the past two years than any other institution in the world. We always give satisfaction. Apply for relief while it may be found.

Success in curing tumors, cancers and morbid growths, external or internal.—A success without the knife, caustic or eating plasters, or any painful depleting remedies; that has given satisfaction and effected over two hundred cures during the last two years. Cancers of the breast cured every time.

Success in the treatment of sores, ulcers and discharging abscesses.—No branch of our practice is attended with more uniform success than the treatment of discharging abscesses, ulcers and sores of all kinds; also skin diseases of every kind. Charges for treatment reasonable.

Success in nervous, mental and sexual diseases peculiar to men and women of all ages.—Our success in this department is glory enough to satisfy any ordinary ambition; a success that has forged the golden fetters that unite families in a harmonious tie; a success that has stayed the waning mind, reinvigorated the enfeebled intellect; a success that has restored the rosy hue to the pale cheeks, and animation to the lusterless eyes of the feeble morose and despondent sufferers from the effects of youthful indiscretions or excesses during mature years; a success that has restored thousands to vigorous manhood and womanhood with their faculties, mental and physical, unimpaired. Consultation free.

Success in diseases of females, Leucorrhœa, ulceration, prolapsus, painful periods, irritation, ovarian pains, cancers of the breast and all diseases peculiar to the sex.—A success that has done so much to alleviate the suffering of the noble mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of our land, of every rank and condition in life. Thousands of ladies in every part of the country could if it were proper and necessary, come forward and certify to the fact that after all other resources had been exhausted without avail, our treatment has restored them to a condition of health and comfort that they had long since given up hope of ever attaining. Many had been dosed and drugged, soaked, steamed, starved, salivated and scarified until their identity had nearly disappeared, and nothing but their names remained to remind them of their former selves, before they had the moral courage to apply to us for relief, for they had to combat the envy and jealousy of their family physician, the prejudice of their friends, and their own preconceived ideas and objections to advertising physicians, before they would accept our proffered aid, and the principal regrets of their lives are that they suffered so long and squandered so much money before coming to us and getting cured. The following are published by special request.

We refer to patients by request only;

Extracts from Letters Received.—Mrs. F. J., M. D., was troubled with a nervous and uterine disease, which caused excessive and extreme vigilance. She had not slept more than thirty minutes out of twenty-four hours for over four months. She had been treated by the Faculty of the State University at Ann Arbor, without benefit. She was cured by Drs. K. & K., and two years after she said in a letter, "I know whereof I speak and I feel satisfied that had I not visited you I would now have been dead, or what is worse, in the insane asylum." Mr. S. T. C., of Chesaning, says: "After using your remedies for one month I was restored to perfect health and am well now, and I have no one to thank for it but you. I will send you all the cases of SCIATICA I can for I know you will cure them as you did me." Mrs. B. V. M., in a late letter says: "My daughter Katie is in the best of health and spirits. Katie had been for years a great sufferer; her mother and friends considered her a hopeless and confirmed invalid; her spine was curved, she had three discharging scrofulous abscesses, took cold easily, which would be followed by diarrhœa and weakness; head dizzy, appetite poor, sometimes craving for sour and indigestible things and at other times for chalk and slate pencils; swelling or bloating of the stomach after eating, palpitations, bellows sound of the heart, shortness of breath; walking tired her and aggravated the heart symptoms, sitting caused backache and headache; constant inclination to lie down, menses sometimes too frequent and profuse, and again delayed, scanty or wanting, and instead a very profuse and offensive leucorrhœa; hands and feet were very cold, the fingers sometimes appeared dead; her mind was generally full of concern about imaginary things that might happen to her; she was usually very pale and would sometimes instantly change to a fiery red; she was inactive, troubled with swelling of the feet and ankles, constant chilliness and evening fever, very closely simulating hectic fever. She was treated and cured by Drs. K. & K. as announced in her mother's letter. Consultations and examinations free of charge.

PARALYSIS CURED.—Mr. J. T. D., was paralyzed in both limbs, and was so helpless that he had to be wheeled in and out of his office on an invalid's cart. His wife called and procured remedies, which in three weeks so far restored him that he was able to walk with a cane. He is rapidly recovering and will soon be able to report himself cured by Drs. K. & K.'s treatment. Write to Drs. K. & K., Detroit, Mich. Consultations free, Health is better than wealth.

CONSUMPTION CURED.—Mrs. M. K. had been for eight years previous to 1872, a sufferer with pulmonary consumption. She had hectic fever and night sweats, coughed and raised great quantities daily, had piles and leucorrhœa and had not menstruated for nine months. She is now well, having been treated and cured by Drs. K. & K. in 1872.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE CURED.—Mr. L. S. was afflicted with Bright's disease of the kidneys. He complained of a constant desire to urinate, but passed only a little at a time of a dark, dirty, reddish, and sometimes brownish color, which formed a flocculent yellowish or reddish sediment, containing cylindrical casts in connection with epithelical cells and blood corpuscles. The usual test with nitric acid developed great quantities of albumen. His face eyelids and genitals were much swollen, his bowels were constipated, uræmic, cerebral symptoms like stupor, numbness after exposure to cold; prostrate derangements, chronic inflammation of the bladder and stricture of the urethra. He was feeble morose and enemic. The skin and mucous membrane were very pale. Mr. B. had spent over eight thousand dollars for treatment and had visited springs both in the United States and Europe. Gradually growing worse, he came home to die, but was encouraged by a friend, who had read our advertisement, to make one more trial. He came to us and was cured. Send for GUIDE TO HEALTH.

CATARRH CURED.—Miss N. B. had catarrh with the following symptoms: A stopped up stuffy feeling in the nose and head, constant coughing, hacking and spitting, more especially in the morning; a constant discharge of a thick yellowish and sometimes greenish matter from the nose. Her breath was very offensive; she had an almost constant headache, ringing in the ears, with partial loss of hearing. She also suffered with dyspepsia and constipation, complicated with female weakness. She had tried all the various "sure cures" and catarrh specifics, which seemed to help for a while, but no cure was effected by such means. Her family physician told her that catarrh could not be cured. She did not believe him but called on Drs. K. & K. and was cured.

HEART DISEASE CURED.—Mrs. E. A. S. called and said she had heart disease, that her physician said she was incurable and that she was likely to drop dead at any moment. She complained of the following symptoms: Pain in the region of the heart, shortness of breath on slight exertion, or going up-stairs, palpitations, sudden stopping of the heart, intermittent and irregular pulse, pain in the left side, left shoulder and left arm, numbness, pricking in the left hand and fingers, a feeling of great and impending danger, afraid to be alone, nervous, easily excited, fullness and bloating of stomach after eating, dizziness of the head, a feeling of forgetfulness as though she were lost, rush of blood to the head, at other times great paleness of the face, inability to lie on the left side, sudden startings on going to sleep, alternate constipation and diarrhœa. In addition to these symptoms, fullness of the limbs and bloating of the feet and ankles led her to believe that she had dropsy. She said her mother had died a few years before from disease of the heart, a brother had died suddenly from the same cause, and she expected soon to go the same way. We told her it would cost less to take treatment and get well than to pay funeral expenses. She decided to try it, took our treatment and was cured.

NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED.—Mr. C. H., a lawyer, had suffered for years with nervous debility, loss of power, and was rapidly going into a decline, mentally and physically. He was morose, splenetic and despondent. He sought solitude and shunned society, had no confidence in himself; had dizziness in the head, loss of memory, disinclination to study or attend to business, ringing in the ears, spots before the eyes, headache; his sleep was short and unrefreshing and disturbed by dreams. He attributed his failing health to youthful indiscretions. He had tried electric belts, baths, and half a dozen other remedies without benefit. His father's old family physician told him that marriage was his only chance for recovery. He tried it, but all the comforts of an elegant home, an accomplished wife and numerous friends, only seemed to aggravate every symptom above enumerated, and in this condition he applied to us for relief, and was speedily restored to perfect health and happiness. Write to Drs. K. & K., Detroit, Mich. Enclose a stamp for reply.

TREATMENT BY CORRESPONDENCE.—While personal consultations and examinations are always desirable, we treat persons successfully by mail or express in almost every state in the Union and in the Dominion of Canada. A large acquaintance has taught us to manage these cases successfully by correspondence. On receipt of your address and a postage stamp, we will mail you free our Guide to Health, containing 150 illustrations, of the human form, together with treatises on diseases and instructions in regard to diet and habits of life, of value and importance to every lady, gentleman and family. Consultations at office or by letter, free. Charges reasonable. Remember, the field is this is the cheapest. Terms, cash. Letters addressed to Drs. K. & K., Detroit, Mich., will be sure to reach our office.

SANDERSON'S

A CRUEL DEED.

Translated from the German.

BY HUGO.

Partly divining his thoughts, Eugenia proposed that a litter should be formed of grass and the rushes which grew in the swamp near at hand, on which the deer might easily be transported if he would lend her assistance.

The Count willingly promised to aid her in the work, and both at once commenced to gather the necessary materials.

With many a jest and many a serious remark the work was completed, at which the nobleman was no more skillful than the meanest underling; and the morning being so far advanced, they each took hold of one end of the hastily constructed hammock and proceeded towards the castle.

They took the road least travelled, and thus reached the garden unseen by any one, where the deer was committed to the care of a servant, with directions to tend to his wounds until they were healed, and then have him kept as a pet around the place.

Eugenia went to her own room, while the count hastened to greet his mother.

The old Countess did not expect the return of her son at so early a day, but was delighted to see him.

There was in her manner a certain reserve, and she did not mention the name of the young maiden. She thought over the whole matter, but saw no way to keep her presence a secret, and therefore, at the dinner-table, she presented her formally to the count as the governess of his daughter.

Neither of the two manifested any tokens of a previous acquaintance.

The count told how he had made the last station of his journey with the intention of shooting a deer, but had only succeeded in wounding one at which he had aimed, and, pitying its sufferings, desired to have it entrusted to the care of Miss Schoer and his daughter.

Eugenia thanked him cordially, and in a natural manner, showing herself in this respect to be no better than other daughters of Eve.

She had now an opportunity to care for her injured victim, and made proper arrangements for its treatment; so that in a few days, under her kindly attention, it had perfectly recovered and followed her wherever she went like a dog.

This deer was the secret tie between her and the count, binding them ever nearer and more firmly to each other.

The old countess, with womanly acuteness, had a presentiment, a dim foreshadowing of coming misfortune. They were both so lovely, so noble, so amiable, they would naturally be attracted towards each other; yet it must not and should not be so. The genealogical tree of the noble old family of B—— dared not suffer dishonor by a misalliance, even in the nineteenth century.

By night and by day she studied in what way she might prevent it; but love is an enemy so potent that it cannot be easily vanquished, and much less by the interposition of a third party.

In fact she loved them both and wished only that Eugenia had been nobly born, so that she might clasp the lovely girl to her heart as a darling daughter.

The more evident and serious grew the interest of the count in Eugenia, the greater became the coolness of the aged matron towards her; and actuated by a mother's ardent affection, she became more decided in her determination that a separation must take place.

But how? She knew the independence of her son's character, and Eugenia was possessed of equal firmness. From such dispositions what was to be hoped?

Sooner than she expected came the last act of the drama.

One evening, after the count had been out riding all day, he entered her apartment, and in a few but decided words informed her of his intention of making Eugenia his wife, formally asking her consent.

"Herman," said she, "I believe a fevered fancy causes you to speak thus. Do you desire to play the part of a romantic shepherd?"

"Mother," returned the count, in impassioned tones, "did I not, in my first marriage sacrifice my own wishes to yours? Have I not given up to you eight of the best years of my life? And now, when a celestial maiden, an angel of wisdom, goodness, purity and beauty is sent to me—when I love as a man loves who sees for the first time the embodied ideal of his life—now will you destroy my true affection, or sully it even by a thought? Mother," entreated the count—and his voice grew tender as in childhood—"mother, give me your blessing! for the blessing of a father builds houses for his children, but the curse of a mother crushes them into ruins! Mother it is not the count who commands—but your son, your only child, who kneels before you and implores you to give us your blessing.

This was a terrible moment to the countess; her heart inclined her to yield; but a mistaken sense of duty came to the aid of her indomitable pride.

"Never!" cried she, with firmness: "Choose between a wife and a mother! for, by the Almighty God! she and I cannot both live on this earth as Countess of B——!"

"Mother, is this your final conclusion?"

"It is my very last."

"Well, then, I have made my choice."

Scarcely had the count left the room, when the countess went by a private staircase to the room of Eugenia and found her absorbed in a deep reverie.

Seeing the countess enter at so unusual an hour, she rose to greet her, prepared for a violent storm. She was therefore much surprised on being tenderly embraced, and addressed in the most endearing terms.

The struggle of the countess was no easy one. Upon the one side were the hereditary prejudices of her high rank, which caused her not to shrink at the possible or impossible; and at the same time the aged woman, who had seen so many storms of life pass over her, was by no means ignorant of the wealth which she possessed in her son, and by no means heartless enough to blind her vision to the virtues of the lovely young being and coldly sacrifice her on the shrine of duty. Yes! it even seemed to her that Eugenia was far worthier the name of daughter than the one they had buried a year ago. The countess was high-minded and strong; but even the proud spirit of her unstained nobility enabled her more highly to appreciate true worth and nobility in others.

This led her to alter her plan from the time she first entered Eugenia's apartment; and she now determined to sacrifice her will to her inclination, and to gain by love, affection, entreaty and persuasion, that which she was determined to win at any price. For this reason she lost no time. To-day Eugenia was yet here—for her son could not pay her a visit at so late an hour—to-morrow it might be too late.

The countess, however, had been mistaken in Eugenia. She was not a woman to be easily dumped, and saw at once what was hidden beneath the caresses of the old lady; and instead of responding to them, she coolly inquired what were her ladyship's commands.

This question restored to the countess all her firmness, and she became as hard as iron. She saw that her object was detected, and herself viewed with more suspicion than she thought she deserved. Her noble blood began to boil; and the feelings of the parental friend, the sympathizing woman, were wholly lost. Eugenia's haughtiness had caused the only moment to pass which might have changed her destiny.

"What do I command? Your obedience girl! and your return to the sphere which fate and your birth have assigned you! Be not so bold as to raise your eyes to the sole heir of the Count of B——, the oldest family in the country bearing that proud title!"

"Countess," said Eugenia, repressing her agitation, "the very same destiny which gave me a father, an education, and my intellectual powers, gave me also the heart of the Count of B——. I am proud to have gained it, without ancestors of golden crowns. My nobility and gentry consists in the knowledge of my own value, the inheritance of my deceased parents, and it may be their blessing, which unites me in love with the most generous man on the globe. I will never give him up. He will not forsake me. The walls of your dungeons are not stronger than the heart which now vows to you never to cease to love him!"

"I see said the countess, coolly—though with such a singular expression of hesitation and despair that Eugenia began to hope. "Now follow me, my child, that all may be settled this very night!"

She led the way toward her son's apartment, followed by Eugenia.

But at the end of the first corridor she stopped, and sought again to change the maidens purpose. With eager entreaty she sought to prevail upon Eugenia to renounce her son. She recounted to her the reason that rendered such a union impossible. Passion had taken such possession of her, that she knew not what she said, and her words unconsciously raised the proudest hopes in the poor girls heart.

"She fears me now!" triumphantly thought Eugenia. And with a smile she said: "Do not trouble yourself—your highness need not repeat your words!"

"Descend then, proud being!" hissed the countess beside herself with anger and madness. "Bury yourself in the tomb which you have chosen for your youth, and try your strong heart against the strongest walls of my strongest dungeon!"

Thus saying, she stepped aside, the floor opened, and Eugenia fell into the dark abyss.

For one moment the countess looked after her, and then closed the mouth of the living tomb.

At the morning's gray dawn the equipage of the count was drawn up in the castle yard, an unknown lady took her seat therein, and the vehicle was driven away.

After two hours it returned, and the coachman reported that the young lady in his care had escaped from the carriage at the first halting place, and that upon the bank of the river he had found Eugenia's bonnet.

The count could no longer find rest in the castle of his fathers, but set out on a tour into foreign countries, without bidding adieu to his mother, or leaving any memorandum save the address of his bankers.

Agnes was sent to an academy to be educated.

The countess wrote to the minister, who had recommended Eugenia, that his protege, probably in a fit of melancholy, had committed suicide, and sent to him all that belonged to her.

Everything at the Castle now became changed. Instead of the mild authority which had reigned while Eugenia was there—instead of light-hearted jests, music and learning, beauty and loveliness—death and destruction occupied their empty places. It seemed as if an avenging spirit was haunting the building—a prophet of coming woe; as though the hand of the Lord would punish those who had committed a fearful crime.

The countess now stood aloof from every living soul, and felt in her proud heart the keenest pangs of remorse. She groaned over what she had once possessed, but which now seemed irretrievably lost.

But let us turn to other scenes.

It was midnight, and all were at rest in the Castle, save its mistress. For several days past the maid servants had not been permitted to sleep near her, but had been transferred to another wing of the building.

When all was quiet, and every light was extinguished, the countess, carrying a basket in one hand and a dark lantern in the other, walked mysteriously along the corridor, at the end of which was a secret door, which closed after her of itself. With much care she descended many steps, until she stood far below the tomb of her ancestors. Here there was a niche in the wall, which could be opened only from the outside. This she unclosed, and placed therein the basket, filled with food, books and candles. Closing it again, she retraced her way to the upper regions as noiselessly and mysteriously as she had come.

No one had seen her.

But down in the depths there were no changes of day or night, sunlight or moonbeams, work or rest. When the niche had closed, there were two busy hands to take the basket and bear it into an adjoining room, which was fitted up in tenantable condition. Heavy, dark green hangings covered the cold walls, a warm carpet was spread upon the damp floor, and a complete set of furniture gave the whole apartment a comfortable appearance. From the ceiling hung a lamp, suspended by a hook, and fire in a small stove made the temperature quite pleasant. A large collection of books, as well as pictures, busts, and so on, were tastefully arranged upon the wall, while an adjoining pantry contained provisions for several days. The tenant of this little dwelling was Eugenia.

Here it was the countess kept her victim, hidden from the eyes of the world, provided with all the necessaries of life, furnished with books, and allowed all she could wish for except that of which she had robbed her—liberty in the light of the glorious sun. When Eugenia sank slowly down through the trap from that lofty height, her first feeling was one of wild despair. She threw herself upon the floor, dashed her head against the wall, and strove in every way to kill herself, under the impression that she was to be buried alive.

But after pain and weariness had caused her to forget her sorrows in sleep, she was agreeably surprised on waking by what she saw. She found herself in a small room, lighted by a lamp, and heated with a cheerful wood fire, with a good supply of fuel. A chair, and a table with provisions, also stood before her. On a slip of paper was written:—

"You will not want for anything you had while upon the earth. Ask for what you wish. Once in twenty-four hours your requests will be read and complied with."

Three days and three nights Eugenia spent in dull contemplation. She asked for nothing; she ate nothing; she permitted the fire to go out; she wanted to freeze to death; she wished to die from hunger; she longed to die by any means. The countess repeated her visits every night, bringing everything that might alleviate the distress of the young girl. Eugenia grew weak and faint from privation and the terrors of mental anguish, and her time was passed between wakefulness and sleep.

At last the love of life prevailed, and all her former courage and spirit returned. She examined with attention and surprise the room she was in, and she comprehended that her books and needlework might enable her to pass the time less wearily than in brooding over her great wrongs. She again began to be industrious; and in this way she managed to forget, for hours at a time, her unhappy situation.

One day, when looking over her books, she found an old Bible—a volume she had always regarded with indifference. Now, in her loneliness, she began to read the Psalms, and was astonished at the sublimity of the poetry, as well as the deep feeling of the heart of the composer, who had, by his unshaken faith, attained the distinction of an inspired prophet.

It seemed to her as if the holy singer thought only of her—as if he had penned his verses in view of her helpless situation—for she too had no helper but the Lord.

Eugenia had never before learned to acknowledge her need of this help, nor to pray for it. She now read it again and again. The poetry carried her down into the depths of suffering, and up again to the heights of consolation and hope. A new world of ideas, formerly unknown to her, was opened to her view; and the Lord she had heard of in the days of her infancy, now became known to her as the Lord of might and justice. The verse (Ps. LXXI, v. 20), "Thou which hast showed me great and sore troubles, shalt quicken me again, and shalt bring me up again from the depths of the earth," made a deep impression on her, as if the Lord himself spake to her; and she confidently hoped that the Great Being, of whom the great psalmist spoke with such certainty, would shortly release her from bondage.

But day after day, week after week, passed by, and no relief appeared.

Still Eugenia, finding that not only her necessary wants, but many luxuries, were supplied to her from day to day, lay quietly down upon her couch to nightly slumber, not thinking there would come any change for the worse.

Imagine then her alarm, when she one morning found her basket empty, which had been always filled during the night! The second morning came, and with it no provision; and so likewise the third and the fourth.

All her stores was now consumed; and, destitute of everything to eat or to drink, she soon became so much reduced that she was unable to leave her bed. Her situation was terrible.

Let us now turn to the countess. How different was the scene in the spacious halls of the Castle from that which was enacted in the dungeon beneath its walls! While down in the depths the angels of the Lord hovered over the innocent maiden and saved a soul from perdition, the very demons of hell peopled the splendid saloons of the magnificent palace. No where, at any time, were spoken the words of peace; but those gloomy ghosts, crime and sin, haunted the dismal corridors, flitted through the deserted rooms, howled like roaring thunder storms along the stairways, and entered through the doors and windows which were left unrepaired by the mechanic's hand. Terror was depicted upon the features of the awe-stricken domestics; while the wan and wasted features of the countess, and her nervous actions, betrayed her internal agony.

Two long years had elapsed since that eventful night; and during that time the consciousness of a wicked action, that worm which never dies, had been gnawing at the heart of this haughty woman, day after day, night after night, giving her no rest, and destroying her appetite for food. In vain she had tried to stifle her inward monitor by unremitting attentions to the wants of Eugenia.

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY

Is the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

FOR LACE curtains, cretonnes, table linens, towels, white quilts, call on W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

NO CELEBRATION.—We understand the Oddfellows of Peterborough do not intend to celebrate the anniversary of Oddfellowship this year.

THE MILLBROOK EXCURSION party which left for the North West on the 4th of April, arrived in Winnipeg on the 14th, having been ten days on the road.

THE PORT HOPE TOWN COUNCIL have accepted Mr. George Hilliard's tender to supply that town with 35,000 feet of pine plank for street purposes at $10 per thousand.

VALUABLE LOTS FOR SALE.—Mr. Dumble will sell in lots the property north of Smith street, from Jas. W. Fitzgerald's residence to the Communication Road. Time of sale will be shortly announced.

PENNY READINGS. The last of a series of penny readings, under the auspices of Peterborough Temple, will be held this evening, 27th inst., in the Orange Hall, corner of George and Simcoe streets. Admission, 5 cents. A good programme provided.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.—We understand the Peterborough Fire Brigade have received an invitation to take part in a grand firemen's tournament, to be held in Brantford next month. It is not likely the Brigade will go in a body, but in all probability, a deputation will be sent.

THE BELL RINGERS. The Royal Hand Bell Ringers of London, gave one of their popular entertainments in Bradburn's Hall on Wednesday evening of last week to a crowded house. As was anticipated, the entertainment was a rare treat, and those present speak in the highest terms of the performance.

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 48-tf.

SENSIBLE.—An old merchant sensibly says: "It is better to pay a fare premium to a sound company than to take out a policy with a poor company at cheap rates, and on the same principal I had rather patronize the leading newspaper of a town at higher rates than I could obtain space for in an inferior journal. I had rather have an inch of space in the best paper than half a column in the poorest."

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The adjourned vestry meeting of St. John's Church was held on Monday evening last, when the auditors presented their report on the churchwarden's accounts referred to them. After its adoption, the allotment of pews in the church was proceeded with. The proprietary pew holders were first allotted their sittings, after which the other applications were disposed of by ballot. It is expected the church will be ready for occupation by 1st July.

ENTERPRISE.—Mr. Adam Hall, of the Giant T., last week shipped to Winnipeg four of his wrought iron Cook Stoves, which have become so popular among hotel keepers, lumbermen, and large boarding-house keepers, of Central and Eastern Ontario. It speaks well for Mr. Hall's enterprise, to know that he is the first in Ontario to ship wrought iron ranges to the prairie province. The stoves need but to be introduced in any community to command a ready sale. May this be but the pioneer shipment of an extensive trade in the future.

FRIENDSHIP TEMPLE.—On Thursday evening last a very pleasant time was spent in the Temperance Hall over Long Bros., at an entertainment given by the members of Friendship Temple and their friends, in aid of a fund for the furnishing of the hall. The hall was comfortably filled and an acceptable programme rendered in a creditable manner. The Peterborough Orchestra was present, and their playing was an attractive feature of the evening's entertainment. Solos were given by Mrs. Hodge, Miss Stevens, Miss Heather and Mr. Galletly; a duet by Mr. Galletly and Miss Logan; readings by Messrs. Robertson, Clegg and Douglass, and recitations by Messrs. Stevenson and Russell.

FORESTERS.—On Friday evening last, at the regular meeting of Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, the following officers were elected for the ensuing half-yearly term:

Bro. Jas. Byrne, re-elected	W.C.R
" F. J. Jameson, re-elected	V.C.R
" Rich'd C. Wright, re elected	R.S
" W. Strain, re-elected	F.S
" Geo. Kingdon, re-elected	Treas
" R. Robertson, re-elected	Chap
" R. McWhinnie	S.W
" W. H. McElwain	J.W
" W. James	S.B
" Chas. James	J.B

Bros. Byrne and Jameson were elected delegates to the High Court to be held in Guelph, in June next. Bro. H. Nesbitt, D.D.H.C.R. for West Peterborough, is, by virtue of his office, also a delegate to the High Court. During the past six months Court Peterborough has added about 20 new names to its membership roll, and is one of the most progressive Courts in Ontario, both in numbers and finances.

A SPLENDID stock of Black and Coloured Cashmeres, Black and Coloured Satins, Black and Coloured Girdles at Madill Bros., Lakefield.

SANITARY.—It is to be hoped our health officers will lose no time in having the citizens, and especially those in the centre of the town, attend to the cleaning of back yards, and the removal of dirt and refuse accumulated during the winter.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES.—The travelling organizer, and the ex-President of the West Riding Conservative Association, have very recently been around liquidating the unpaid election bills from previous elections. It is quite evident an election is shortly to be held.

STALLION ROUTE BILLS.—Owners of stallions will find at the EXAMINER office the largest variety of cuts to be found in any office in Canada to choose from. Orders by mail, or otherwise, will receive prompt attention, and all work turned out in the best style.

DON'T FAIL to see the large assortment of new and stylish clothing for Men and Boys made from good material, also Rubber Coats, Shirts, Scarfs, Ties, and underclothing. Hats and caps in all the leading styles at very close prices, W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

SYNOD MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Toronto and Kingston Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, takes place in Peterborough next week, commencing on Tuesday evening next, at 7.30 o'clock, and continuing for three or four days. Between 150 and 200 representatives are expected to be present.

A COMPLAINT.—Farmers from the East Riding are loud in their complaints of the state of the principal roads leading into the town, as well as the chief thoroughfares of the village of Ashburnham. A large number of loose stones are allowed to remain on the streets, which if taken off, broken and placed where needed, would add greatly to the comfort and pleasure of travellers.

CANOE CHALLENGE.—Gardiner Nicholls, of Smith, offers to accept Thomas Wallace's challenge to canoeists, on the following conditions:—To paddle for a distance of two or three miles for $30 a side, in single hunting canoes not less than 28 inches beam and 16 feet long. The race to be contested at Lakefield, on the 1st of July next, and will allow $5 for expenses. Any communications on the matter to be forwarded to G. Nicholls, Selwyn P. O.

THE TRADES UNION ADVOCATE.—From the Toronto papers we learn that Mr. Eugene Donovan, a former resident of Peterborough, and for years connected with the EXAMINER and Review, is about to start a new journal in the interests of the Trade Union of that city. We have no doubt but that Mr. Donovan's practical ability will make The Trade's Union Advocate a paper worthy of the support of the members of the association. We wish him every success.

HAZEL KIRKE.—The great play of "Hazel Kirke" is to be presented here by the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., within a few weeks. This play has a remarkable history. It was first performed at the Madison Square Theatre, three years ago and ran 486 nights. It was then transferred to the country, and now, three years after its first performance, is still being played through the country by the Madison Square Theatre. It has now been presented nearly 2,000 times. It is a remarkable play, and the tearful and delighted audiences, who witness it over and over again, are the best evidence of its popularity; while the reputation of the theatre is a sufficient guarantee of the character of the Company.

THE COMING CONCERT.—The Guernsey Listemann Combination Concert Company of Boston are paying Ontario a visit, and through the instrumentality of Mr. Singleton, of Port Hope, and Mr. W. H. Cluxton, of Peterborough, the music-loving portion of the community will have the opportunity of listening to an entertainment such as is seldom afforded them, on Wednesday evening, May 3rd, in Bradburn's Opera House. The members of the Company rank among the leading artists of the Continent. Mr. Bernhard Listemann was for many years leader of the world renowned Thomas' orchestaa. Mr. Edward Heindel was for twelve years a member of the Mendellsohn Quintette Club, and has no peer in the world as flutist. Mr. A. Heindel is a famous cello and saxophone player. Mr. Fitz Listemann is second violin and solo zither performer. The latter instrument is little known in Canada, it is a charming solo instrument and alone worth the price of admission. Mr. Carl Meisel is well known as a viola performer from his connection with the old Mendellsohn Club. Mr. Green astonishes the natives by his clever solos upon the large double bass. Miss Maria E. Barnes is highly spoken of as the most clever contralto singer in New York. Of Miss Guernsey, from which the Combination derives its name, the New York Sun says: "Miss Guernsey is a young lady not only of much personal attractiveness, but of dramatic talent. It is given to but few persons to be able to recite scenes from Shakespeare, in which such varied characters as Prospero, Ariel, and Caliban are heard, and do it satisfactorily. Mrs. Fannie Kemble Butlet, that marvel of talent, came nearest to the ideal. That Miss Guernsey does so well in portraying her character is a credit to her skill. She possesses much grace and a keen apprehension of character, and we could wish that her talent should find its legitimate place upon the dramatic stage." The plan of the hall is now open at Davidson's Bookstore, where seats may be procured. Arrangements are being made with the Midland railway to run a special train from Port Hope and Millbrook—in order to permit of parties from those places attending and returning the same night. It is therefore desirable that our citizens who wish to obtain good seats should make early application.

Peterborough Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, April 27th, 1882.

There is little doing in grain. Farmers busy putting in their crops. The little offering sells as follows:—Spring Wheat, $1.27 to $1.28. Fall Wheat, $1.26 to $1.27. Goose Wheat, $1.12. Barley, almost out of the market, selling from 65c. to 75c., very dull. Rye, nothing doing, none offering. Oats are wanted, will bring 45c., very few offering.

ON THE MARKET

everything is quiet and dull. Butter is declining, selling from 18c. to 20c. Eggs continue pretty firm, having been selling at 12½c., expect lower figures as they are very plentiful. Very little doing in poultry—prices unchanged. In fresh meat nothing doing, except in veal, which is plentiful, selling from 5 to 7c. Potatoes firm, selling 90 to 95c. a bag. Other commodities unchanged.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

INAUGURAL MEETING OF THE NEW BOARD.

On Wednesday of last week the first meeting of the New Board of Directors of the Midland Railway of Canada (as amalgamated) was held in the Board room of the Company, in this town. There were present:—Geo. A. Cox, Peterborough; H. P. Dwight, J. D. Edgar, R. Jaffray and Wm. Gooderham, Toronto; J. R. Dundas, Lindsay; Thos. Kelso and John Bell, Q.C., Belleville; J. M. Ferris, Campbellford; F. W. Henshaw, Montreal, and Lewis Ross, Port Hope.

The following appointments were made, viz.:—

PRESIDENT—Geo. A. Cox, Esq.
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. Gooderham, Esq.
GENERAL MANAGER—Geo. A. Cox, Esq.
TRAFFIC MANAGER.—A. White, Esq.
SUPERINTEND'T—W. B. Ferguson, Esq.
SECRETARY-TREAS—Henry Read, Esq.
AUDITOR—J. F. Jeffers, Esq.
LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEER—J. Haggas, Esq
ENGINEER—T. A. Hay, Esq.
SOLICITOR—John Bell, Q. C. Belleville.

PERSONAL.

Mr. W. B. Ferguson, Superintendent of the Midland Railway of Canada, has taken up his residence in Peterborough.

We are pleased to see Bandmaster Millar able to be out again, after a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. F. G. Birney left town for Winnipeg on Monday. Mr. H. Calcutt also took his departure last week for the same place.

Mr. Joseph Benson, of Winnipeg, an old Peterborough boy, paid a flying visit to the scene of his boyhood's happy hours, last week.

Rev. K. Maclennan, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Church here, but now of Charlottetown, P. E. I., was in town during the past week.

A. H. McNally, Canadian Passenger Agent, of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba R. R., was in Peterborough on Friday last, on business in connection with the road.

We had the pleasure of a call on Thursday last from Mr. F. B. Polson, Assistant Mechanical Superintendent of the Whitby and Haliburton Divisions of the Midland Railway. Previous to the amalgamation, Mr. Polson was Master Mechanic on the Victoria Railway, and has since been appointed to his present position.

A NICE CITY—TO KEEP AWAY FROM.

The Toronto News holds out a cheerful future to induce people to settle in that city: "Our streets have been in a most abominable condition for a long period, and are scarcely now fit for travel. Our water is probably the worst compound of impurities ever concocted. Our gas is the worst and dearest to be found in Canada. Our street railway is managed with a total disregard for the convenience of the public. Our public halls are poorly ventilated and provided with inadequate means of escape in case of fire, and our school-houses are far too small to accommodate the children seeking instruction."

A GOOD FILTER.—To have pure water in the house every family should have a good filter, the health and comfort depends largely upon the use of properly filtered water. The liver is the true filter for the blood, and Burdock Blood Bitters keep the liver and all the secretary organs in a healthy condition. It is the grand blood purifying, liver regulating tonic. 17-2t

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

OTTAWA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, May 1, 1882.

THE REDISTRIBUTION OF SEATS'

Bill has, at last, been introduced by Sir John A. Macdonald. Everybody was prepared for numerous changes, but nobody, outside of Parliament, was prepared for the infamous Bill that has been concocted by Sir John and his unscrupulous followers. The Opposition should at once publish a map, showing the constituencies in colors, so that the general public may see the rascally ingenuity that has been displayed in the carving. The whole thing is a virtual confession, that after all the talk about "tall chimneys," and new industries, and the N.P. generally, they dared not go to the constituencies as they were. Some of the hottest supporters of the Government, that I know here, men who could swallow the Pacific Scandal, and all the other iniquities of which Sir John has been guilty, are ashamed of this Bill, and well they may. It is a deliberate attempt to secure a majority of members from Ontario, who are to be elected by a minority of the aggregate vote of the people. This Bill proposes, so far as it can be done, fixing things so that each Opposition member shall get in by a large majority, and the Tory by a small one. And they call this statesmanship. Why, a statesman would be ashamed of the thing, and would regard it only as the work of an unscrupulous politician. Sir John's admirers do not appear to understand the rather wide gap there is between a statesman and a politician.

THE TEMPORALITIES BILL

is still before the Senate, and the anti-union men are still fighting. The impression here, however, is that the bill will pass as it is. The influence of the United Church is very great, and as they are asking no more than simple justice and a keeping of faith, their friends in the Senate will vote down any amendments that may be proposed.

OUR SPRING ASSIZES

has just closed. A great deal of business, both civil and criminal, has been disposed of. One man, a physician, has been sent to Kingston penitentiary for being too much married, another for arson, and two for larceny. All who had any business at the Court, lawyers, clients, jurymen and witnesses, speak in high terms of praise of Judge Osler, who presided. He is a model judge. Learned in the law, naturally very clear-headed, firm and decided, keeping all concerned in a case close to the case; compelling witnesses to answer proper questions, and preventing lawyers from asking improper ones and travelling beyond the record.

AN INCORRECT REPORT.

There was a report in one of our papers that Mr. Justice Strong was to be made Chief Justice of British Columbia, and that Sir Alexander Campbell would take his place on the Supreme Court Bench. I have it on excellent authority that there is no truth in the report, and it is understood that Mr. Justice Strong is much annoyed at the report being circulated. Mr. Justice Strong, his best friends must admit, has some infirmities of temper, but he is a good lawyer, and the Supreme Court Bench cannot well afford to lose a good lawyer in order that a poor one, long out of practice in the Courts, should be put in his place as a reward for political services to his party.

THE ELECTIONS.

In Society, so-called, everything is dull, and the winter festivities may be said to have closed. About two weeks hence the Parliament will close and be almost immediately dissolved, and the Writs will be issued. So far as I can learn, the Government are afraid to wait until after harvest, when the result of the large immigration and transfer of means and material wealth from Ontario to Manitoba shall make itself manifest. They have preached the doctrine that the Government is responsible for hard times, and a bad harvest and the Manitoba immigration may bring on hard times at an early day, in which case they might be hoisted by their own petard; be compelled to take a dose of their own medicine, so to speak, and to avoid this very possible consummation they intend to hurry matters up, and have the elections in June. At least that is the impression here.

PROVIDING FOR FRIENDS.

The Redistribution Act proposes to repeal that part of the Elections Act which makes Sheriffs and Registrars returning officer by virtue of their office. Sheriffs and Registrars being appointed by the Mowat Government, a goodly number are supposed to be Grits, all the late appointments, and it is supposed the Tory family, when in caucus, insisted that this pap should go to their friends, and the nominations should be in the hands of the Government. So the gallant Colonel that runs your registry office and the worthy Sheriff may count themselves out. Are the members for East and West Peterborough at home? One never hears of them here, and if not at home they might as well be. In the past Peterborough has had representatives that were heard and had some influence in the House of Commons. This Parliament you might as well have sent down two wooden men that would mechanically get up and vote when Sir John pulled the string.

OUR LUMBER MILLS

are all about in full blast, and the millers are getting large prices for their lumber. The winter's operations in the woods have, on the whole, been fairly successful. Wages have been higher, and generally the getting out of logs has been more costly, but the advance in lumber will more than even things up, and the prospects are that large results will be shown when the labour sheets for the year are struck.

One of our largest and certainly one of the most complete mills is run by the Messrs. Edwards, nephews of your late Town Treasurer, James Edwards, Esq. The mill is new, steam, and very complete in its arrangements for saving labour. Situated about 25 miles from this city on the banks of Ottawa, Ontario side, the firm own a considerable tract of land, and they have built quite a village a short distance from the mills. No whisky shop is allowed in the precincts, and the place is well worth a visit by those interested in the sawn lumber industry.

MASONIC EXCURSION.

The members of Clementi Lodge, No. 313, A. F. and A. M., intend to have a grand excursion up the lakes on June 24, St. John's Day. A strong committee have been appointed, who will spare no trouble to make it a success.

FLOWERS.

If some of your readers in Lakefield or vicinity, who are fond of flowers, will call at Carter's greenhouse, they will be delighted at the display he has on hand, while those who look for something more substantial will find tomatoes, cauliflower and cabbage plants ready to go out. Give the old man a call.

MARINE.

Messrs. Sacret and Casement have again got the scow, which took a trip over the dam, back into her old quarters they hauled it up to the M. R. R. track with a stump machine and loaded it on two platform cars which conveyed it to the timber ways. She sustained but little damage and will be ready for work in a few days. They have the prospect of a good season's work ahead of them.

MEETINGS.

The Village Council meet in the Council chamber next Monday evening, and the School Board in the same place on Tuesday evening.

FORESTERS.

The semi-annual election of officers of Court Lakefield, No. 43, C.O.F., was was held in the Court, last Thursday, the 27th inst. The following were elected, and will be installed next next night, D. D. C. R., Bro Sanders:

Dr. Bell was elected a delegate to the High Court, which meets in Guelph in June. W. C. Sanders being a High Court Officer, will also attend.

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY.

One of the most pleasing features of a higher and refined Christian civilization is the spirit of respect shown for the beloved dead as developed in beautifying their last resting places. In this regard Mr. John Kelly, Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery, seems to be an excellent exponent of the feelings of those who have proprietary or sentimental interests in this beautiful city of the dead. His whole management has been marked by energy and taste, and his programme for this season's operations will, when carried out, add greatly to the attractiveness of this favorite resort of the living and beautiful abode of the passed-away.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

The pupils of S. S. No. 3, Smith, gave their teacher, Mr. John Rennie, a very pleasant surprise last Friday afternoon, when they presented him with a large and handsomely bound copy of the Scriptures, accompanied by the following

FAREWELL ADDRESS:

DEAR TEACHER,—In the regretted event of your departure from our midst, we, the members of our Sabbath and day schools, desire to give some expression of our appreciation of your services in the past, and as a token of remembrance in the future. For a period of nearly four years you have faithfully labored to instruct, and store our minds with useful knowledge, and to direct us in the way we should go, patiently bearing with our dullness, and faithfully urging us on to higher things. As superintendent of the Sabbath school, we also desire to acknowledge your faithfulness and devotion to the promotion of our spiritual welfare, which labors we hope may yet yield abundant fruit to the glory of God, in our hearts and lives. In view of the same, we now offer for your acceptance, this copy of the Sacred Scriptures, hoping that you, and your companion, whom we have learned to love, may, through God's blessing, be happy and prosperous here, and with us eternally happy hereafter.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The steamer Fairy is being overhauled and refitted for the coming campaign.

The council have made arrangements for the building of a bridge and road to the station. We hope ere long to see it completed, as it is badly needed. The station will soon be ready for occupation. As there are a large number of passengers passing to and from Keene, its early completion is very desirable.

Fall wheat looks well throughout this section of country.

James Kerr has been awarded the painting of the stations and freight houses of the Midland Railway of Canada.

We are glad to hear that Dr. Shaw is going to take up his residence amongst us. We wish him success in his new sphere of labor.

OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

OBITUARY.—It is with regret that we have to chronicle the death of one of our most respected citizens, in the person of Mr. David Nelson, Sen., in the seventy-fifth year of his age. His death took place on the twenty-third ult, and his remains were followed to their last resting place on the twenty-fifth by a large number of relations and friends. The deceased was a man of sterling principles and most unassuming manner and was highly esteemed by all those with whom he had any dealings, he was one of eight sons who with their father came from Lanarkshire, Scotland, and settled in Otonabee some sixty-two years ago when all north of Rice Lake was an unbroken wilderness. I might here state that the first lumber known to be sawed north of Rice Lake was cut on the farm of Mr. Nelson the elder, on a saw-pit. The deceased leaves behind him ten children, five sons and five daughters to mourn the loss of a most affectionate father but he had the pleasure of living to see them all well provided for and all married except the youngest son. The deceased was a kind and indulgent father and the love and kindness he showed towards his children was well and duly returned by them.

Synod of Kingston and Toronto.

Ministers and Elders hold Counsel in the Court of the Church.

The opening sederunt of the annual session of the Synod of Kingston and Toronto of the Presbyterian Church of Canada was held in St. Paul's Church, on Tuesday evening last. The proceedings opened with which was preached by the retiring Moderator, Rev. John Smith, of Erskine Church, Toronto. His text was a portion of the 34th verse of the 13th chapter of St. Mark's Gospel, "To every man his work." He set out by saying that in religion there was much to learn, endure and enjoy, and also much to be done. Christ's commission to his Apostles assigned every one his work. It was the duty of every Christian to work for God in the special field to which he was called. God's work was generally done by this means, and the reverend gentleman graphically cited Scripture instances in in support of this predication—all of which taught that the power was not essentially in the instruments employed, but in their use. Every man was called to work for God—none were excused. Working for God was a positive duty, neglect of it, sometimes a great sin. Supine and idle Church members were merely profitless passengers on the Gospel ship. Allusion was made to the inconceivable latent moral power in the Church—but latent only because individual influence and responsibility were ignored and shirked. The few worked; the many looked on. The grand emerald garniture of the forest depended on the tiniest leaflet contributing its full share to the general effect. Labour was the great law of the universe. Exercise gave spiritual as well as physical life and vigor. The moving stream never froze nor became stagnant—too active to stagnate, too busy to freeze. This principle was applicable to every Church member. Every man was bound to do the special work to which the Master called him, and each one should be sure of his vocation. It was a mistake for a dwarf to try to wear Saul's armour. Every member of the Church, high or low, should be at work and at work everywhere—be omnipresent as the air. The preacher concluded a most eloquent, practical, and earnest sermon, by a stirring address to the assembled ministers, urging upon them an exercise of Christian zeal, commensurate with the immense interests committed to their charge.

At the conclusion of the religious services, the Synod was constituted, Rev. John Grey acting as clerk, who proceeded to the business of calling the roll, when eighty ministers and elders answered as follows:—Presbytery of Kingston, 9 ministers and 6 elders; Peterborough, 14 ministers and 8 elders; Whitby, 5 ministers and 1 elder; Lindsay, 6 ministers and 4 elders; Toronto, 18 ministers and 2 elders; Barrie, 1 elder; Owen Sound, unrepresented; Saugeen, 1 minister; Guelph, 4 ministers and 1 elder. These numbers were considerably increased by subsequent arrivals. After the roll was corrected and agreed to, the Synod appointed Rev. A. A. Drummond, of Newcastle, on motion of Dr. Wardrope, of Guelph, seconded by Rev. W. M. Roger, of Ashburn, the names of Rev. Messrs. Cleland, of Port Hope, and Young, of Napanee, having at their request been withdrawn.

MODERATOR,

In assuming his seat, the Moderator anticipated no trouble in his new position. The growing spirit of brotherly love and memory that marked the meetings of the Synod, would make his duties easy.

After a vote of thanks to the retiring Moderator, the Synod concluded the proceedings of their first sederunt by the transaction of routine business.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The members of the Synod assembled at 10 o'clock. According to arrangement. The first hour was occupied with public prayer and praise.

The minutes of the evening sederunt were read and confirmed.

The committee on Bills and Overtares presented their first report, suggesting orders of business for the morning, afternoon and evening sederunts.

On motion the name of Samuel J. Porter was agreed to be placed on the roll of the Presbytery of Barrie.

PROBATIONARY APPLICATIONS.

George McArthur, B. A., of Queen's College, Kingston, having passed satisfactory examinations, applied to be taken on or trial for license. Application granted.

David Beckett, S. Carruthers, John Gibson, B. A., John Jamieson, D. B. Macdonald and David McLaren submitted certificates of having finished the curriculum, etc., and applied to be taken on trial for licenses. Their applications were granted, as was also that of John McNeil, B.A., who has been extending his studies at Edinburgh University.

A CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

A motion asking the Synod to overlook the irregularity implied in the Presbytery of Toronto holding a meeting without the bounds of the Presbytery, (in Peterboro, on Tuesday afternoon) gave rise to a great deal of discussion, and two or three amendments, but the latter were withdrawn and the original motion agreed to in an amended form.

An appeal case brought by members of the congregation of Cook's Church Toronto against a discision of the Toronto Presbytery suspending him for making a groundless charge of perjury against another member was taken up but was not finished at one o'clock when the moderater left the chair

A terribly destructive fire took place in Winnipeg on Sunday, by which nearly $70,000 worth of property was destroyed. The work of rebuilding the burnt block began before the fire was completely dead.

A New Principle.
The principle upon which PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separating it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cur they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 4, 1882.

Mormonism Doomed.

The decree of the United States nation which only awaits the signature of the President, is likely to put an end forever to the foul blot of Mormonism which has so long disgraced the land. The elective machinery of the entire territory of Utah is to be transferred from the custody of intriguing priests and supercilious bishops into the hands of a commission whom the President and Senate shall name. Henceforth polygamists, both male and female, are to be considered simply as outlaws, and to be treated accordingly. For over forty years Mormonism has assumed a defiant attitude in openly and flagrantly violating the laws of the land, overturning the relations of society, and reducing men to the level of brute beasts by appeals to their basest passions. Hitherto all efforts to check or abate the evil have been futile, and the deadly upas-tree has grown with surprising rapidity in the face of all opposition. It is to be hoped that this measure will accomplish the task expected from it. It certainly is one of the most severe repressive measures which has ever been adopted by the United States Government. In addition to the provisions alluded to above, namely, depriving the Mormons of the privilege of self-government, it provides that they shall be disfranchised as voters, disqualified to sit in the jury-box, and be ineligible to all offices of public trust and honor. The giant evil must succumb under such pressure; the stamping out of the odious crime of polygamy is only a question of time if the Edmunds bill is only fairly tried. There are some, no doubt, who will regret that such strong measures were necessary to vindicate national honor, and uphold Christian integrity. But public order and good morals must be kept intact at any cost, and the law breakers who defy all authority must be repressed, if need be, with a strong hand. Certainly, Mormonism, with all its monstrous iniquities, and boldness in defying law and order, demanded strong treatment. Its history has revealed a terrible state of depravity, and the most liberal and merciful have shrunk back from the presentation of the iniquities which every fresh exposure revealed. The nation has been slow indeed, to avenge itself on these evil doers, and there are not a few who assert, without contradiction, that political intriguers have much to answer for in hitherto preventing legislation. But the past few months of public agitation have not been fruitless. The allusion to the Mormon question in the President's message again called the attention of the country to the odious blot, and now, after a thorough ventilation of the matter, there has been enacted this bill, which has been heartily welcomed as the best remedy for a growing evil. In it the most exacting demands of the anti-Mormons of Utah are virtually conceded. The difficulties in the way of producing evidence as to the practice of polygamous habits has been reduced to a minimum. Unlawful cohabitation is made a definition of polygamy, and the admission of a belief that it is right to live in cohabitation with more than one woman, or to have more than one wife at one time, hereafter constitutes a legal bar to the right to sit as juror. The law does not contain a syllable which can be reasonably construed to invade the purely spiritual domain of their Church, or the rights of their peculiar religion. This is an excellent point in its favor. Had there been any such provision at once we would have heard the cry of "persecution for conscience sake," and Mormons posing as martyrs, would have elicited public sympathy, instead of the censure and condemnation their practices so righteously deserve.

As regards the secular turmoil which will inevitably follow in Utah, we, as a people, have nothing to do. As a Christian nation, Canada must rejoice that right and justice are likely to triumph, and that steps have been taken to repress a horrible national evil. Not that we expect polygamy to subside at once into weakness and inaction. But we do hope and trust that its days are numbered, and that as the social debauchery of Utah will no longer be able publicly to flaunt its crimes in the face of an outraged people, and as its political assumptions and usurpations of temporal authority must cease, so shall the more secret and baser crimes of this horrible monster gradually pass away.

It ought to be remembered, however, that all this legislation, so far, has not quenched the ardour of these enthusiasts. At a recent conference held in Iowa, forty-three Mormon missionaries were appointed—twenty two of whom are to labor in England. Their object will be of course, to induce the unwary, the ignorant and the debauched to join their iniquitous organization, and they will, to a certain extent, succeed. This active propagandism should be checked if Mormonism is to cease, and its votaries should not be allowed to leave the country on such an errand. We will watch with unabated interest, the results of the recent le islation.

Editorial Notes.

THE Irish Canadian pronounces Mr. Blake's speech on the Costigan resolutions the ablest and most brilliant ever delivered in the House of Commons.

IT is understood that the Princess Louise will return to Canada about the beginning of June. In September it is probable that H. R. H. will accompany Lord Lorne on a visit to British Columbia.

THE Government officials demanded $75 of the Bell Ringers on their entry into Canada, and they paid it, but when Tom Thumb was asked to fork over $800 as duty on his carriage and ponies, he demurred, and these appendages were left in Uncle Sam's domain.

FROM all parts of the Maritime Provinces come reports of a steady movement of people out of the country. The Pictou, N. S. Eastern Chronicle says:—"We suppose there never was a time in our history when our young men were leaving our country in greater numbers than at present."

THE figures of the last census show that in ten years the Scotch population of the Dominion has increased by 150,000 or more than a fourth; the German a little more than a fourth or 54,000; the English by 175,000, nearly a fourth; the French by about a fifth, 216,000; the Irish by 111,000, more than an eighth.

THE Queen has given special and particular orders that her youngest son, married to the Princess Helena lately, is never to be styled Duke of Albany, but that he is always to be described as "Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany." Her Majesty does not wish the name of her late revered uncle to be forgotten.

THE London Economist says: "It is more than four years since the Edison scare so affected gas property, yet to-day gas companies are actually more profitable than they were then. About the only large 'freehold' properties in the United Kingdom which at the present day pay 6 per cent. are to be found in the stocks of the large metropolitan gas companies."

THE New York Herald holds that if any other calling than the ministry requires greater heroism it has yet to make itself known, and adds that, notwithstanding the cost of his education and the good appearance he has to keep up, a country clergyman gets less remuneration than an ordinary artisan. This is not as it should be. "The laborer is worthy of his hire."

THE following table of distances will prove of value to prospective settlers in or visitors to the Northwest:

Winnipeg to Portage la Prairie	..	54 miles
" Brandon	..	133 "
" Gladstone	..	95 "
" Minnedosa	..	170 "
" Bittle	..	215 "
" Turtle Mountain	..	195 "
" Nelsonville	..	70 "
" Emerson	..	65 "
" Fort Ellice	..	230 "
" Fort Qu'Appelle	..	360 "

THE nuptials of Prince Leopold (Duke of Albany) to the Princess Helena of Waldeck were celebrated with imposing ceremonies at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on Friday last, by His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury in the presence of many royal personages and a large gathering of nobility. The bride was given away by her father. The Queen, who was present, kissed the royal couple after the ceremony, and her example was followed by the father and mother of the bride.

RADICALISM is growing in England. Some ten years ago, when the Princess Louise's dowry was considered by the House of Commons, only one voted against it. The vote against the Duke of Edinburgh's marriage grant was eighteen; against the Duke of Connaught's thirteen. This year, forty-one voted against Prince Leopold's grant, and it is submitted that the vote would have been larger, but for the very strong language used by some of the minority, which made others ashamed to vote in their company.

THE Presbyterians numbered in the census of 1871 no less than six branches. In the census of 1881 they are reduced in number practically to three bodies. The Baptists were five in 1871. In 1881 they are three. The Methodists in 1871 were divided into eight branches. In 1881 they are numbered in five different bodies. Here, in three great bodies, numbering together 1,115,932 of the population of Ontario, there has been a reduction of eight branches in ten years. The tendency of the age towards consolidation is nowhere better exemplified than in the movements of the religious bodies in the great Province of Ontario. Among bodies which have diminished in numbers are the Quakers, who, here in Ontario, as in England, seem to be gradually decaying. The Universalists also seem unable to gain a foothold in Ontario, their number having been reduced during the decade by a fourth. In Quebec Province, the Roman Catholics include almost the whole population. Out of a total of 1,359,027, no less than 1,170,718 are Catholics, leaving but 188,210 for all other denominations. In some regions of Quebec Province the other denominations are represented by three, four, seven or ten persons.

OBITUARY.

(From the Irish Canadian.)

THE LATE MRS. J. W. FITZGERAD.

We deeply regret to announce the death of a most amiable and esteemed lady—the beloved wife of J. W. Fitzgerald, Esq., P.L.S., Peterborough. The lamented deceased was born at Rock Mills, near Fermoy, in the County of Cork, Ireland, on the 1st of April, 1827, her parents being David O'Carroll and Catharine Griffith, of the same place. At the age of two years she, with her parents, removed to Cove (now Queenstown), where she lived until coming, with her husband and and daughter, to Peterborough in 1859, where the family have since resided. Always possessing a sweet and gentle disposition, kind and charitable to the poor, a devoted wife, an affectionate and tender mother, a friend to every one, and loved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance; a sincere and practical Catholic, full of belief and faith in the doctrines of Holy Church, this good lady passed away, fortified by all its rights and sacraments, after one week's illness, surrounded by many sorrowing friends, a bereaved husband and family, consisting of one daughter and six sons, to whom, in their hour of bitter affliction, we extend the fullest measure of our condolence. May the soul of the departed rest in peace. Amen.

THE LATE GEORGE BUCK, ESQ.

One by one the old settlers are disappearing before the inevitable stroke of death. This week it becomes my melancholy duty to record the demise of George Buck, Esq., which sad event occurred at his residence, Ashburnham, near Peterborough, on Monday, the 17th inst., in the 68th year of his age. Mr. Buck, with his father, mother and sister, and four brothers, left his native home in the County of Cork, in 1825, settling in the township of Otonabee when that now populous and wealthy section was but a dense solitude. The flourishing town of Peterborough also was then unknown, even by name. The elder Mr. Buck took up land some distance east of the Otonabee River, and at once set to work with indomitable energy to conquer the forest. A "clearance" being effected, a primitive house was in due course erected. The sons having grown up, they, including the subject of this brief memoir, also became each the owner of a valuable farm.

George Buck was a man of good abilities. He was familiar with the history of his native country, with the story of her wrongs, her trials and her struggles; and not amongst the millions of her scattered children were there many readier to vindicate her honor. He was not only a faithful adherent of the Catholic Church, but he was also thoroughly versed in every event in her stormy history; ever ready to defend her when assailed, and always in that style which gave the least offence to an opponent. Two brothers (one the venerable Tom Buck, whose familiar figure can be seen and whose friendly greeting can be heard frequently on the streets of Peterbornugh) survive him. Besides these he leaves a wife and one daughter to mourn his loss. May he rest in peace

LOYALTY OF CANADIANS.

Archibald Forbes, in the "Centuary Magazine" for May, says: "The loyalty of the Canadians to the British Crown is beautifully fervent; they would rather, I am sure, be torn limb from limb than suffer annexation to the United States. Indeed, I have some idea that, deep down in the Canadian heart, there lurks the notion of, one of these fine mornings, annexing the United States to Canada. A little Canadian town will fly more bunting on the Queens' birthday than you can see, on the same auspicious occasion, in the whole of the mother country. In the provincial regions of Canada, it is the practice to conclude all public gatherings with singing "God Save the Queen." In every community there is a champion vocalist, for whose powers this practice gives scope; and he springs to the chance as if he had found a nugget. But occasionally the champion vocalist is not on hand; he may be "under the weather," or behind the bars, or may not have a taste for the performance of the evening. Probably the latter case had kept away the champion on one occasion which I remember. The Chairman had duly made the stereotyped announcement. "The audience will disperse, singing 'God Save the Queen,'" but there was no response. There was no one present who dared to initiate the vocal performance. Here was a predicament! Obviously, the loyalty of the place would be compromised if the audience should disperse without fulfilling the behest! In despair, the Chairman, isolated on the platform as he was, himself essayed to set the ball a-rolling. But in the first place, he could not sing; in the second place, he did't know the words; in the third place, as I learned afterward he was not popular, and the audience rather enjoyed his discomfiture. Valiantly he plunged into the breach. "God save our precious Queen!" came from him in an inharmonious strain, but he never got any further, and nobody would help him. He tried it again, but with the same untoward result; and then he turned and left the platform a sadder and wiser man.

The pyramids of Egypt were built who knows what for, but every one knows that the Esterbrook Steel Pens were made to suit the different tastes, habits and styles of the various Writers.

BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS. Bowmanville, Ont., Nov. 8, 1872. Messrs. Seth W. Fowle & Sons, Boston: GENTLEMEN—I have been troubled with bleeding of the lungs for a long time. About two years ago I took a severe cold which made my lungs very sore, but after using one bottle of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry the pain and cough disappeared and have not troubled me since. I believe the Balsam is the best medicine in use and well worth the price asked for it. Yours truly, JESSIE BURK. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

RAIN IN SUMMER.

How beautiful is the rain!
After the dust and heat,
In the broad and fiery street,
In the narrow lane,
How beautiful is the rain!

How it clatters along the roofs,
Like the tramp of hoofs!
How it gushes and struggles out
From the throat of the overflowing spout!
Across the window-pane
It pours and pours;
And swift and wide,
With a muddy tide,
Like the river down the gutter roars
The rain, the welcome rain!

The sick man from his chamber looks
At the twisted brooks;
He can feel the cool
Breath of each little pool;
His fevered brain
Grows calm again,
And he breathes a blessing on the rain.

From the neighboring school
Come the boys,
With more than their wonted noise
And commotion;
And down the wide streets
Sail their mimic fleets,
Till the treacherous pool
Engulfs them in its whirling
And turbulent ocean.

In the country on every side
Where far and wide,
Like a leopard's tawney and spotted hide
Stretches the plain,
To the dry grass and the drier grain
How welcome is the rain!

In the furrowed land
The toilsome and patient oxen stand;
Lifting the yoke encumbered head,
With their dilated nostrils spread,
They silently inhale
The clover-scented gale,
And the vapors that arise
From the well-watered and smoking soil.
For this rest in the furrow after toil
Their large and lustrous eyes
Seem to thank the Lord
More than man's spoken word.

Near at hand,
From under the sheltering trees,
The farmer sees
His pastures and fields of grain,
As they bend their tops
To the numberless beating drops
Of the incessant rain.
He counts it as no sin
That he sees therein
Only his own thrift and gain.

WHAT MAKES A HOUSE BEAUTIFUL.

It is an excellent thing to have a well-kept house, and a beautifully appointed table, but after all, the best cheer of every house must come from the heart and manner of the home mother. If that is cold and this ungracious, all the wealth of India cannot make the home pleasant and inviting. Intelligence, too, must lend its charm, if we would have home an Eden. The severe style of house-order neatness seldom leaves much margin for intellectual culture. Even general reading is considered out of the question for a woman so hurried and so worried with her scrubbing and her polishing and making up garments. A simple style of living and house-furnishing would set many a bonded slave at liberty, and add vastly to the comfort of all in the house. Hospitality rarely prevails in these spotless lines-and-letter houses. Company disarranges the books, and disorders the house, which had work enough in it before. The mother cannot throw off her household cares, and sit down for a real heart-to-heart converse with the old friend of her childhood. Still less can she enter into the joys and pleasures right and delightful to her own children, because of the extra work of clearing away it will be likely to make. With all your toils to make a house beautiful, do not neglect the first element of all, to beautify yourself, body and soul. A sweet, loving, word, and a warm clasp of the hand, are far more to a guest than the most elaborately embroidered lambrequins at your window, or the most exquisite damask on your table. There are bare cabin homes that have been remembered with pleasure, because of the beautiful loving presence there; and stately palaces which leave the impression of an iceberg on the mind.

"Can you get people out safely in case of fire?" Manager—"Haven't had time to think of that; getting 'em in is what interests me."

THE HOMES OF THE PEOPLE.

Among the many points which are brought out in an examination of the census of Canada, is the question of the lodging of the population. How are our people provided with homes? Are they crowded into tenements, or do the families all have their own houses?

Taking the Province of Ontario, we find that there were in 1881, 366,444 families, occupying 359,293 houses, thus showing 7,151 more families than dwellings. The proportion between houses and families is not much greater in 1881 than in 1871; about 1000 more families are not living in their own houses. This is a decidedly better exhibit than is made by Great Britain and the United States. The great mass of our people live in their own houses. Of those who do not there is no doubt the greater portion board in hotels and private houses. The number of families living in tenement houses must be decidedly few.

Evidently it is not because of necessity that even these few do not occupy separate houses; because the figures show plenty of empty houses—no less than 19,649 houses in this Province alone in 1881, nearly three times as many empty houses as there were families unprovided. In the entire Dominion there were 43,412 uninhabited houses, as against 25,783 ten years before. Of these Ontario had 19,649; Quebec, 18,469; New Brunswick, 2,397; Nova Scotia, 2,897.

The evidence would seem to indicate that up to 1881, at all events, the booming of the N. P. had not succeeded in keeping enough people in the country to fill all the houses.

Of the total number of dwellings in Ontario, there were 43 vessels in which people lived on the 4th April, 1881, 1,216 shanties, or temporary buildings hurriedly erected, while 3,145 houses were in course of erection.

For the entire Dominion the number of families is given at 812,136; the number of houses, 753,017; vessels occupied, 116; shanties, 14,092; uninhabited houses, 46,583; houses in course of erection, 9,882; houses occupied, 738,209. The population being 4,324,810, we find the average membership of a family to be 5¼, while the average occupants of a house would be about 5¾.

We may, therefore, consider that the population of Canada is reasonably well housed; at all events, there were at the time of the census buildings enough, including those in course of erection, to provide one for every family.

HASTY WORDS.

Half the actual trouble of life would be saved if people would but remember that silence is golden—when they are irritated, vexed, or annoyed. To feel provoked or exasperated at a trifle when the nerves are exhausted is perhaps natural to us, in our imperfectly sanctified state. But why put the annoyance into the shape of speech, which once uttered is remembered, which may burn like a blistering wound, or rankle like a poisoned arrow?

If a child be trying, or a friend capricious, or a servant unreasonable, be careful what you say. Do not speak while you feel the impulse of anger, for you will be almost certain to say too much, to say more than your cooler judgment will approve, and to speak in a way that you will regret. Be silent till the "sweet-by-and-by,"—when you shall be calm, rested and self-controlled.

Above all, never write a letter when you are in a mood of irritation. There is an anger which is justifiable; there are resentments which are righteous; it is sometimes a duty to express indignation.

But, if you consider the matter, the occasions for putting such feelings on record are comparatively few.

They come once in a lifetime perhaps, and to many fortunate beings they never come at all.

An old bachelor recently gave the following: toast "Woman—the morning-star of infancy, the day star of manhood, the evening star of age. Bless our stars, and may they always be kept at telescopic distance."

The exodus from the Maritime Provinces to the United States this spring is positively alarming. We read in the St. John Globe of a recent date: On Monday evening's train there were fifty second class passengers who were all emigrants. On Tuesday the floats, on one trip of the ferry boat, were necessary crowded. There was party of over one hundred emigrants, about twenty-five of whom were women (no children) en route to Boston. They all came from Hants County, Nova Scotia. The Western train the other morning had 136 passengers, the very large majority of whom were emigrants.

MIDLAND DISTRICT NOTES.

Clipped, Compiled and Condensed from County and other Convenient Contemporaries.

At a meeting of the Millbrook lacrosse club the following officers were elected for the present season: President, Mr. W. Vence; 1st vice, Mr. R. Howell, 2nd vice, Mr. Jas. Kerr, captain, Wm. Breakey; secretary, R. Brondon; treasurer, R. H. Kells; field captain, Geo. A. Duncan.

Several scows loaded with wood, the first arrivals of the contract of Messrs. Robinson & Elliott with the Midland, passed through the locks on Tuesday. The scows were in tow of the Victoria, which looked smart in her new paint and trimmings.

Mr. James Hamilton forwarded to his agency in Manitoba one of the largest loads of freight that ever left this locality piled on one car. It was built up as high as the wheel on the brake-rod above an ordinary box car and contained a great number of buggies, buckboards and wagons.

A REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.—Mr. George Peters, died at his late residence in Nebraska, at the same hour, and the same day on which his son, the late Mr. Robert Peters, of Dummer, died. The funerals—unknown to the relatives in either place, were also held at the same hour and on the same day.

George Spence has undertaken to load at Harwood, and to ship from this port, all the lumber, &c., belonging to Ross Co., cut at the old McDougal Mill last season. He expects also, to include Messrs. Ullyott, Sadler & Co's. stock. This will give him to ship from here about 18 millions this season, two of which have already gone forward.

Up to April 19th six vessels from Chicago carrying 140,000 bushels of corn for Europe and the Eastern States, had arrived at Midland harbour, and 40,000 bushels for local consumption in Toronto. It is expected that the average receipts for the season will be 15,000 bushels per day. The United States customs officials are already established at Midland, and instructions have been issued from the Canadian department to make Midland a port of entry. This new route for grain carriage promises to become very popular, as it furnishes outlets to Lake Ontario by way of Toronto, Whitby, Port Hope and Belleville.

The Sowden-Kirchhoffer-Collins-Fallis dispute, in regard to lands in the Souris River district, was to have come before the Vice-Chancellor at the Chancery Court last week says the News, Port Hope, but was withdrawn, as the parties effected a settlement. Under the mutual arrangement that was arrived at Dr. Hunter, Thos. and Robt. Grandy each received 1,280 acres, and John Hunter, W. Fallis, W. Smith and T. B. Collins were alloted 1,720 acres each in the Souris River Valley district. The lands alloted to these gentlemen can be sold for cash now for from five to eight dollars an acre.

The Orillia Times says:—By the consolidation the Midland Railway becomes, it is claimed, the shortest and most direct route for what is termed the inland navigation route, or vice versa, is necessary, a saving of lake freights is affected and the risks of lake navigation are avoided. It is intended to establish a line of steamers from Duluth to Midland, and from Midland to Chicago, in connection with the Midland Railway, and in fact, arrangements for the carrying out of the purpose have already been made. It is also the intention of the Midland Railway Company to build at once an extension from Orillia to Sault Ste. Marie, and the charge of the work has been given to Mr. Wm. Gooderham.

The Port Perry Standard:—"We regret to learn that Dr. Bingham, late of Manilla in a fit of depression of spirits, took a large dose of morphia on Monday last, and was found dead in his chair. It is rumored, but we hope the rumor is without foundation, that professional rivalry had something to do with the case. Dr. Bingham was a man of more than ordinary professional ability, and during the fourteen years of an extensive and successful practice he made warm friends, who will deeply deplore this sad end of a useful life. The remains of deceased were conveyed here by the morning express on Tuesday, and then to the place of interment in Enniskillen." The deceased was brother of Dr. J. Bingham, of Peterborough.

THE ONTARIO BANK.

TORONTO, APRIL 21.—A letter appears in the morning papers from Mr. Holland, General Manager of the Bank of Ontario, as to Mr. Fisher's deficiency. A meeting of the board of directors was held at noon to-day, when a detailed statement was submitted by Mr. Holland of the deficiency, amounting to $33,000, which is more than secured by real estate, life policies and the usual guarantee bonds. It is reported that a pass book was found with a memorandum of entries made by deceased of £4,500, transferred from the Albany Bank, London, to Bank of Montreal, about the sixth of April, and other amounts aggregating $33,000, and written across, "this is all." How deceased disposed of the money is a mystery to the bank officials and others, as he was known not to speculate. The excitement has had comparatively little effect on the stock here. The funeral was largely attended this afternoon, the Stock Exchange having been closed to permit the members to attend.

Dust, Dusters and Wipe.

Do not dust, but wipe!

Who would believe it? The duster—that peaceful emblem of domestic toil—may under certain circumstances, become more dangerous to handle than a six-shooter. We are in dead earnest.

An eminent scientist declares it to be a fact Do you know just what you are doing when you brush away dust? You disseminate in the air, and consequently introduce into your own interior, into the tissues and respiratory organs, all sorts of eggs, spores epidemic, germs and murderous vibones which dust contains.

One movement with a feather duster may be enough to poison both you and your neighbors—to inoculate you with all typhus varioloid or cholera—strange as it may appear.

Instead of a feather duster take a cloth and wipe away the dust instead of stirring it up In short wipe—never dust!

An English bishop querulously remarked to his servant that he was dying. "Well, my lord," said the good fellow, "You are going to a better place" "John," replied the prelate, with an air of conviction, "there's no place like old England!"

Gomgom, jun. who has only been married a few days, happened, in company with his wife, to pass near a beehive. The bees stung his wife, and Gomgom, instead of pittying her, said, "How intelligent these bees are, my dear, to know that we are in our honeymoon."

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Quebec Local Government were on Tuesday only sustained by the casting vote of the Speaker in the Legislative Council. The question was their sale of the western section of the Q., M., O. & O. Railway to the C. P. R. Co

Besides the Dominion general election which is expected to come off this fall, there will be provincial general elections this year in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Manitoba. The Prince Edward Island elections will be held May 8th. The dates of the other provinces are not yet fixed.

The Dominion Cabinet is to be reorganized. This looks as if the elections were coming on. Hon. Mr. Aikens is to become Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and Mr. Plumb is to take his place. Mr. Justice Strong is to be made Chief Justice of British Columbia and his place on the Supreme Court bench is to be taken by Hon. Mr. Campbell.

The prorogation of Parliament is expected to take place about the 13th of May, and the dissolution will follow by proclamation on the next Saturday. The elections will take place towards the end of June. We have excellent reasons for believing that the above programme will be carried out by the Government should nothing extraordinary occur in the meantime.

The News, Port Hope says:—In another column may be seen Mr. D. Marshall's card to the electors of East Durham. As everyone knows Mr. Marshall is a Conservative. In reply to a question from the editor of the News, when leaving his card for publication, Mr. Marshall said that he is prepared to fight for the Boundary of Ontario as awarded to the Province by the distinguished arbitrators.

News:—The Inspector of Weights and Measures for Northumberland and Durham—"Big Push" Wilkinson—has been appointed Inspector of the offices in Manitoba, but it is expressly stipulated that he is to remain at Cobourg until the elections come off this summer, lending his assistance to secure the re-election of Mr. Guillet. He belongs to the party that has strongly condemned Government officials taking part in elections.

The examination of Messrs. Charlton and Wheler before Dr. Orton's farcical committee shows in a strong light the injustice worked by the N. P. on millers and farmers. These gentlemen have the advantage of being practical millers, farmers and lumbermen, and know whereof they speak. Mr. Wheler testified that the effect had been to depreciate the price of mill property, and to lower the price of Canadian spring wheat, as it is useless for milling purposes unless American wheat, which is excluded, is mixed with it. Mr. Charlton showed how the farmer was injured, by being compelled to raise corn for fodder, when it would be more to his advantage to raise and sell peas, oats and barley, buying his coarse corn from the Americans.

WHAT THE STEAM PLOW CAN DO.

There is a good deal of talk in the Manitoba papers about the steam plow lately imported from England. The other day fifteen acres of well tufted ground were selected for a test. Two traction engines were placed at either end of the field to furnish propelling power. The plow proper is composed of a solid iron frame on a gig, and containing six plows on either side of the frame, so placed as to admit the end not in use—that used in going in the opposite direction—being raised from the ground by the weight of the other end and two men who ride on the plow. The engines are alternately set in motion, hauling the plow back and forth, turning six furrows every trip. The length of cable wound and unwound on the immense drums necessitated six trips per acre. The plow was drawn at a speed of four miles an hour, and did the work as well as any breaking plow. Mr. Allen, the owner, has contracted to break 3000 acres this spring, with the privilege of 10,000 acres, for the Red River Land company, at Hope, at the rate of $3 per acre. The engines can be operated with about 200 pounds of soft coal per acre, and it is expected that but four men will be necessary to operate the machine.

WHY HE QUIT JOURNALISM.

The editor of the Warren (R. I.) Gazette, who lately retired from ranks of journalism, says in his valedictory address:

"Our reasons for quitting the business may seem odd to some people, but to us they are sufficient. We can earn our living with less irritation and discomfort. If we want a dollar why should we stretch a hawser around the whole state of Rhode Island to get it? Why not earn it quietly, and in our own time and in our own way? Alone in the world, and feeling ourself to be one who, like Goldsmith's Hermit, 'wants but little here below, nor wants that little long,' we can see no good reason for torturing ourselves by courting unnecessary annoyances. For the last three years our position has been such as would be exemplified by that of a crow, which, though requiring for its sustenance only a few kernels of grain, and for the rest but a jump on a juniper, should be foolish enough for to rent an entire cornfield and about twenty acres of woodland, with all its consequent cares. Surely the mind is worth something. We have felt out of harmony with our situation, and gladly return to the ownership of ourself."

"Look here, printer," said an enraged poet, "you have not punctuated my poem at all." "Well, sir, I am not a pointer; I'm a setter," replied the printer.

Why is it that whenever you are looking for anything you always find it it the last place you look? The reason is because you always stop looking when you find it.

An old bachelor was recently heard saying to a young lady, "There is more jewelry worn now a-days than when I was young; but there is one piece I often admire which I don't often see now." "What is that?" asked "Miss." "A thimble," was the reply.

Sidney Smith, the English wit, characterized the following as the most perfect pun he knew:—In Mrs. Hamilton's "Lectures on Education," a story is told of a school-girl, who, during her examination, insisted on mis-calling the word patriarchs—patridges. "Oh," was the comment of an auditor, "she makes game of the patriarchs."

"Poor Herbert, how I wish you did not have to slave so from morning to night murmured his wife as, with a fond caress, she seated herself on her husband's knee, and gently stroked the auburn locks from his lofty brow. And the grave stern man of business understood her at once, and answered, "Well, Gussie, what is it?—a bonnet or what? Don't be so hard on me, for money is scarcer than ever."

At a negro prayer meeting one of the brethren earnestly prayed that they might be preserved from what he called their "upsettin' sins." "Brudder," said one of the elders, "yer hain't 'zactly got de hang ob dat ar word. It's besettin' not upsettin'." "Brudder," replied the corrected, "et dat's so its so; but I wur praying de Lawd ter take us from de sin ob 'toxication, an' ef dat ain't an upsettin' sin, I dunno."

AN ORNAMENT TO THE PROFESSION.—A student applied the other day to one of the district courts for admision to practice, and an examination committee of one was appointed by the judge to ascertain his qualifications. The examination began with: "Do you smoke, sir?" "I do, sir!" "Have you a spare cigar?" "Yes." "Now, sir, what is the first duty of a lawyer?" "To collect fees." Right. What is the second?" "To increase the number of his clients." "When does your position towards your client change?" "When making a bill of costs." "Explain." "We are then antagonistic. I assume the character of plaintiff and he becomes the defendant." "A suit decided, how do you stand with the lawyer conducting the other side?" "Cheek by jowl." Enough, sir: you promise to become an ornament to your profession, and I wish you success. Now, are you aware of the duty you owe me?" "Perfectly." "Describe it." "It is to invite you to drink." "But suppose I decline?" Candidate scratches his head. "There is no instance of the kind on record in the books." "You are right; and the confidence with which you make the assertion shows you have read the law attentively. Let's take a drink, and I'll sign your certificate."

"CANADA."

PRIZE POEM OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE KINGSTON, 1882.

The following is the Prize Poem, by Mr. J. W. Shanks, read at the closing ceremonies of Queen's College, on Friday last :—

Goddess of Freedom! Canada! on thy Fair brow the offering of a wreath of song
I twine. Shall England's glories live in
And Scotia's bard with glowing pathos sing
Of dwelling homes 'mid Scotland's rugged hills,
Or Erin's harp wake slumbering hosts to
And I, the sing of thee? Fond hearts grow warm
With homage to thy matchless loveliness.
Land of the forest lake and stream! upon
Whose shores on either side an ocean rests;
Thy charms have been like hidden gems, unsung.
Unread. For ages long thy forests heard
The echo of the lonely Indian's tread.
Or, wrapt in silence, stood in vast array.
For countless centuries thy rivers rolled
With ceaseless force and grandeur on to where
The ocean's arms received their burden. Long
The virgin beauty of thy tree-clad isles
Lay mirrored in the depths of silvery lakes,
The redskin wandered here and there, but o'er
The majesty of nature triumph not.
No voice save that of plumaged songster woke
The sleep of summer—bleak the winters fell
And bound the vast expanse with icy chain.
But, lo! th' unbroken mine of nature's wealth
In spread at length before the Eastern world
The prize is grasped—and changes great are wrought
On fair Canadian soil. Behold the speed
With which great cities rise; the forests, too,
Yield tottering to the woodman's axe, and soon
The plains are strewn with peaceful hamlets where
Th' industrious yeoman tills the fruitful soil.
Anon the white-winged sails of commerce fill
The inland waters. Swift the iron horse
Impulsive, speeds o'er hill and plain, and joins Remotest parts together. Villages
Upon his path spring up and deck the rich
And smiling valleys; where true comfort reigns
In homes of happy thousands, far and near.
Hail! favoured land! thy sons are free indeed.
No tyrants dare their sacred rights destroy,
In their own hands they hold the wand of power
Which rules and guides the nation's destiny
Each man on thy free soil his manhood feels,
And lives a virtual king. Dark ignorance
And error flee, like mist at noonday sun
Before the spread of knowledge. Virtue dwells
Where education's free alike to all.
Her halls of learning are to Canada
Her mightiest safeguard and the truest pledge
Of future greatness; when the rolling years
Shall crown the Western world with all the pomp
And glory of a golden age. From thee!
Thrice-favoured country! shall th' oppressed receive
A generous welcome to thy kindly shores.
No despot thrives beneath Canadian skies,
Nor can the gall of slavery's chains be felt
By men, whose heritage is Britain's laws.
From every clime they come, from ev'ry land
The human tide flows swiftly towards the West,
With loyal people's, working out with faith
The destiny which God has given to thee.
Thou coming Queen of Nations! Could we pierce
The veil which shrouds the future from our view
And look upon thee in thy coming might,
What pen could paint the grandeur there beheld
When struggles o'er, the youthful Canada,
Her loftier rivals in rear, has merged
Into the stately Empire. Nations come
And go, like ebb and flow of tide, but thou,
Fair Canada! art in thy youthful glow.
Thy bounding pulses throb with vigour; Hope
Is grav'n upon thy armour, and the light
Of coming greatness shines upon thy brow.
But let thy sons the lessons of the past
Take well to heart, and learn the secret source
Of every nation's greatness. Mark the rise
And fall of ancient empires, how they stood
Like giant arbiters of human weal,
And then, enfeebled, faded from the scene
Of human action. Read their history well
And let the imperishable legacies
Of Honour, Truth and Justice mould the deeds
Of all thy statesmen. Future ages then
Shall call thy patriots blessed, and the star
Of Liberty, which twinkled at thy birth,
For e'er shall shine, Blest Canada! on thee.

AN APRIL GIRL.

The girl that is born on an April day
Has a right to be merry, lightsome, gay;
And that is the reason I dance and play,
And frisk like a mote in a sunny ray—
Wouldn't you
Do it, too,
If you had, been born on an April day?

The girl that is born on an April day
Has also a right to cry, they say;
And so I sometimes do give way
When things go crooked or all astray—
Wouldn't you
Do it, too,
If you had been born on an April day?

The girls of March love noise and fray;
And sweet as blossoms are girls of May;
But I belong to the time mid way—
And so I rejoice in a sunny spray
Of smiles and tears and hap-a-day—
Wouldn't you
Do it, too,
If you had been born on an April day?

High-ho! and hurrah! for an April day,
Its cloud, its sparkle, its skip and stay!
I mean to be happy whenever I may,
And cry when I must—for that's my way—
Wouldn't you
Do it, too,
If you had been born on an April day?

SONNET.

Each year that passes and each hour begun;
All moments marked upon time's dial face,
To yield effective blessings for our race
Should some good record bare, some action done,
That, registered, shall shine as doth the sun
And scan the deeds no blight benison.
Shall tell how on this earth-some aching heart
Was gladdened, as new hope rose in the breast
And bade the night of doubt and woe depart,
And peace enduring enter with its rest.
So then good deeds are cast away;
They live to crown our brighter, better day.

THE CORN TAX AND THE PRICE OF MEAT.

The Peterborough Review enters into an unnecessary disquisition upon the fattening properties of peas as compared with corn. Our contemporary seems to think that if it can, with the aid of Professor Brown's experiments, prove that peas are cheaper than corn, it will have produced a complete justification of the corn tax. It will be found, however, that something else will be proved much less comfortable for the N. P.

We should not have thought it necessary to lug in Prof. Brown to prove such an elementary fact that, pound for pound, peas contain more nutriment than corn. Every farmer who has observed the effects of the two grains knows it. The question is, which grain is the cheapest at the prices which ordinarily rule. Prof. Brown says that the result of his one experiment, which, by the way, agrees very closely with experiments made elsewhere on a larger scale, shows that, with corn and peas at one cent per pound each, peas are the cheapest by 21 per cent. in feeding value.

But take the value that prevailed before the N. P. came in, say in September, 1878. All that time corn in Toronto was worth 48 cents a bushel, or 0.85 cents a pound, and peas were worth 65 cents a bushel, or 1.09 cents a pound. If, then, Prof. Brown says that, with corn and peas at the same price per pound, peas are the cheapest by 21 per cent., it follows that corn at 0.85 cents per pound is slightly cheaper than peas at 1.09 cents a pound. And looking cursorily through the ranges of the markets we find that in fair trade times peas used sometimes to bring as high as 76 cents a bushel, against corn 45 to 48 cents. At present, under the fostering influence of the N.P., which was to make farmers rich by raising the price of coarse grains, peas are 85 cents against corn, 92 cents.

At the prices which now prevail no farmer who did not seek bankruptcy would sell his peas and buy corn for feeding. In ante-N.P. days this used to be a profitable business. The N. P. has destroyed it, and in doing so has raised the price of meat. Now of what benefit is this to the farmer when it costs him all the money to produce the meat?—Globe.

FISHERY GUARDIANS.

The following guardians were appointed by the department of marine and fisheries on the 17th inst.:

Patrick Leonard of Ennismore for Pigeon, Buckhorn and Chemong lakes.

William Falls of Bobcaygeon to Sturgeon Point.

Timothy Corbett of Verulam for part of Pigeon lake round to Pigeon Creek and up to Omemee.

Fremont Crandell of Sturgeon Point from Sturgeon Point round to Fenelon river and round the upper end of Sturgeon lake and river to Lindsay.

The salary is $40 each for the season.

The following circular from the commissioner of fisheries at Ottawa will interest sportsman: Pickerel, maskinonge and bass cannot be caught from the 15th April to 15th May. Speckled trout, brook or river trout from 15th September to 1st May. Salmon trout and lake trout from 1st to 10th November. Whitefish from 1st to 10th November. Net or seine fishing without net is prohibited. Nets must be raised from Saturday night until Monday morning of each week. Nets cannot be set or seines used so far as to bar channels or bays. Indians are forbidden to fish illegally the same as white men. Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to fine and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment. No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell or have in possession any of the kinds of fish men tioned.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE IN VICTORIA COUNTY.

The Irish Canadian says: "The total population of Victoria, Ontario, 33,000. Of this total the Catholics number 6,000, and from the parishes of Lindsay, Emily and Carden. The last official list of convictions, published in March, 1882, contains the names of twenty-four offenders, not one of whom is a Catholic. If proof were needed of the efficacy of total abstinence we have it here—have had it indeed for many years in the parishes named. It is, after all, the only permanent cure for the disease that causes more suffering and death than any other known to the human family; and to the individual or the comunity no greater grace, under the salvation of souls, than sobriety can be given from above. The man through whose exertions the result noticed here is mainly due is one whose name has long been associated with the great and good work of temperance—the Rev. M. Stafford, pariah priest of Lindsay."

THE WOOL PROSPECTS.

Mr. Jas. Hallam, brother of Ald. Hallam of Toronto, one of the largest wool dealers in the Dominion, is of the opinion that the market for course combing wools will be unusually dull this year, as the foreign demand for such is dropping off. Mr. Hallam would strongly recommend the farmers of Ontario to cross their present line of wools with a finer breed. These gentlemen say by so doing the sheep raisers would realize fully 10 cents per pound more for their wool.

SATISFACTORY RESULTS IN MONTREAL.

Whilst Montreal is a model city in many respects, it is not exactly a quarter section of Paradise, as Capt. Geo. Murphy, Chief of government Police can testify. A reporter of a Montreal journal waited upon this gentleman a short time ago, and put to him the following query:

"Chief, do you find the duties irksome and dangerous in your strange calling?"

"Irksome," replied Mr. Murphy, "I seldom find them: but that they are attended with danger is very true. There is danger to be faced, of course, from wind, weather and criminals, and the least of these dangers, is not those of exposure and bad weather. The heavy, moist atmosphere that gathers over the water is very conducive to rheumatism, conducive to rheumatism, and many of my men suffer from that complaint more or less. I believe that our danger from exposure from this time forward is past, as St. Jacobs Oil, if applied in time in cases of rheumatism, has a wonderful way of of knocking that malady out of people. It certainly relieved me of a severe pain in my shoulders."

NEWS CONDENSED.

The draw-bridge at Emerson has been swept away by the ice-gorge on the Red River.

Ex-Mayor Angus Morrison, of Toronto, has been presented with a portrait and address.

A railway employee named Albert Young has been arrested for threatening the life of the Queen.

The Queen sent two wreaths, one of immortelles and another of primroses, to be placed on Earl Beaconsfield's grave on the anniversary of his death, Friday.

The bill to punish ticket scalping has passed the House of Commons. It makes the sale of railway tickets, without authority, a misdemeanor.

Mr. Justice Strong has, it is said, been offered and will accept the Chief Justiceship of British Columbia. His successor will probably be Sir Alex. Campbell.

Fresh outrages on the unfortunate Jews are reported from Russia. Several prominent persecuters have been released, in defiance of orders from the Czar for their prompt punishment.

A proclamation has been issued by the Lieut.-Governor incorporating the village of Smith's Falls as a town, it now having the required population, 2,000 inhabitants. The proclamation will take effect on January 1, 1883.

A dastardly attempt was made to assassinate Vanderbilt and Cyrus W. Field by means of explosives sent through the mail. The Socialistic movement it is supposed is connected with the attempt.

Upper Province Conservatives are about to protest against the manner in which the Dominion patronage has been and is still being used to further Sir Leonard's interests.

Dr. Bliss is to get twenty-five thousand dollars for attending the late President Garfield during his illness. The fee seems to be very large, but it is said that Bliss will need it all, as he has lost all his practice.

Two thousand laborers formed a torch-light procession at Montreal on Friday, the object being to demonstrate their strength previous to demanding an increase in wages, rendered necessary by the increased cost of living.

A brutal murder was committed in St. Sauveur, Que., early Friday morning, an aged woman named Arger, who kept a small grocery store, being the victim. The murderer, Xavier Metevier, when arrested, confessed. Robbery was the motive.

Prof. Williamson, of Queen's College, Kingston, will resign his position at the close of the exercises this week. He has been attached to the college since its infancy, and did a great deal towards making it what it is to-day. He is retiring from active life

At the Northumberland Assizes yesterday the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter against a young married man, named John Purdy, of Grafton, who was indicted for the murder of his illegitimate son, James, aged two years. The evidence showed the crime to have been a brutal one.

Roderick McLean, who attempted to shoot Queen Victoria, at Windsor station on the 2nd of March, was tried Wednesday and acquitted. Proof was advanced to show that he was insane, and that his whole life had been one series of freaks. He will be locked up in an asylum during Her Majesty's pleasure.

Advices from St. Paul, Winnipeg, and elsewhere in the Red River Valley, show that the floods are becoming more general than was at first reported. West Lynne is almost entirely under water; Emerson is partially flooded, and so is Winnipeg. The loss of one life is reported. Several bridges have been swept away. Thousands of Canadian immigrants are detained at St. Paul.

Mr. Alexander Fisher, manager of the Toronto Branch of the Ontario Bank, committed suicide on Thursday by shooting himself through the mouth with a pistol. The event caused a sensation in the city. The deceased had held his position in the Toronto Branch for eighteen years, and was widely known and highly respected throughout the Province. $33,000 is said to be the deficiency.

The Rev. D. L. McCrae, of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, Osnabruck, has received a unanimous call to become pastor of the Cobourg Presbyterian Church. The salary offered is $1,200 and a house. Mr. McCrae who is a graduate of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, is one of the rising men of the Church. His pastorate at Osnabruck has been a most successful one.

On Monday afternoon Prof. Brown, of Agricultural College, Guelph; Mr. Wm. Saunders, Toronto, and Mr. D. W. Beadle, of St. Catherines, left to represent the Ontario Government at the National Forestry Congress in Cincinnati. The sending of the deputation is creditable to the Local Government, as their is no doubt that a great deal of information of value to the people of this Province will be gained. The selection of delegates is a wise one.

At the inquest on the body of the murdered man Millar, at Hanover, on Saturday, some important evidence was elicited. Other discoveries appear to be gradually weaving a chain of evidence around certain members of deceased's wife's family. Peter Weis, father-in-law of the murdered man, has been arrested, and with other members of the family previously arrested was taken to Owen Sound goal on Saturday.

Mr. John Ross, of St. Catharines, who was in Winnipeg during the recent floods, in an interview with a St. Paul, Minn., correspondent, depicts in graphic terms the dangers and inconvenience suffered by the recent floods. His testimony proves that the reports from Winnipeg recently published were not exaggerated, old settlers were alarmed, and visions of the historical floods which devastated the country many years ago were recalled with teror.

The flood at the breaking-up of ice in the Red River is unusualy high this season. Winnipeggers, who rested in fancied security from damage, were rudely awakened Thursday, when the Broadway Bridge was swept away by the powerful current. It is some years since the flood has arisen to its present height, and the injury to the business interests of Winnipeg at the present period will probably be difficult to estimate. The bridge was iron, 900 feet long and cost over $250,000, and only open for traffic one week.

The exodus from the Maritime Provinces to the United States this spring is positively alarming. We read in the St. John Globe of a recent date: On Monday evening's train there were fifty second class passengers who were all emigrants. On Tuesday the floats, on one trip of the ferry boat, were literary crowded. There was a party of over one hundred emigrants, about twenty-five of whom were women (no children) en route to Boston. They all came from Hants County, Nova Scotia. The Western train the other morning had 136 passengers, the very large majority of whom were emigrants.

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN,—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,
GEO. W. STRATHY, Mus. Doc.,
Professor of the Chair of Music of the University of Trinity College, Toronto, &c.

"The Man in the Moon."

From the earliest period of history many people have believed that a man really inhabitated the moon; some thought he was made of green cheese, while others had their doubts about it—be that as it may, whether there is a man in the moon or not, there is no doubt in the solid fact that is a man, and alive to the requirements of his many customers, and having determined from his first commencing business to use nothing but the Very best of Material in the manufacture of his Harness and other Goods in his Line, and by strictly adhering to this rule, his business has increased so rapidly that he has hard work to fill all the orders that are daily pouring in upon him, thus showing that the Farmers specially, and the public generally, fully appreciate the work turned out at his shop. All work made under the supervision and instruction of competent and skilled workmen, at

Peterborough Examiner.

PETEBBOROUGH, MAY 4, 1882.

West Riding.

It is to be hoped that there will be a good attendance of the friends and supporters of the Liberal party at the mass meeting in Bradburn's Opera House, on Saturday next, the 6th of May, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of organizing and nominating a candidate to contest the Riding at the approaching election, in their interest. Reformers must go to work at once. We have, with a good candidate, a Reform majority in both East and West Peterborough. Every man must work as if the result depended on him alone. Sleepers must be awakened and our full strength brought to the polls.

East Riding Nomination.

A meeting of the delegates and supporters of the Liberal Party will be held in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Tuesday, May 16th inst., for the purpose of nominating a candidate to contest the Riding in the Reform interest at the forth-coming elections. Business will begin at 1 p.m. With the infamous examples of the unscrupulous tactics resorted to by the Government Party, fresh in the minds of Reformers, it is unnecessary to remind them of the necessity of putting forth every legitimate effort to neutralize the machinations of the Tories, and carry the East Riding triumphantly. It can be done only by united effort, and unremitting vigilance. Let every township delegate be at Norwood on May 16th.

Blake's Great Irish Speech.

We make no apology for giving considerable of our space to a condensation of Blake's magnificent oratorical effort on Mr. Costigan's Irish resolutions. Mr. Blake is a warm-hearted Irish Canadian, and no doubt a good deal of his fervour on the subject of his speech may be attributed to the personal sympathy of his nationality, but his sense of justice, his lofty manhood and love of fair play, must also have inspired his utterances on behalf of the Irish, who suffer great and grievous wrongs. Mr. Blake's speech cannot be construed into an attempt to dictate to England on her mode of treatment of the Irish question, but it is good sound advice from a man who has deeply read and mastered his subject. It would not be at all surprising if Canada should, through the efforts of Mr. Blake and others, rise to the dignity of an intermediary between England and Ireland, and contribute to a peaceful settlement of the Irish question.

At the Tory convention held in Hill's hall on Wednesday, Mr. Hilliard, the present representative — so-called — of West Peterborough, was nominated, in other words offered a chance to secure another series of sessional holidays at Ottawa. Mr. H. did not swallow the bait readily, in fact he cannily declined giving an answer till he can have time to consider.

The Redistribution Bill.

The bill brought down last week by Sir John Macdonald to provide for a redistribution of seats in the House of Commons is without exception the most scandalous and cowardly measure of the kind ever submitted to a Canadian Parliament. The occasion of the Bill is the addition of four members to the representation of Ontario as the result of the late census, but from this small starting point Sir John has spread his operations so as to affect the boundaries of about fifty constituencies—more than half of the Province. It was always expected that he would allot these new seats in such a way as to gain as much advantage from them as possible, and had he contented himself with this there would have been little complaint. Had he contented himself with the advantage gained as the result of abolishing Niagara and Cornwall, neither of which is now safe for a supporter of his Government, there would have been little said. But he has, after a comprehensive survey of the whole province, in which he has been aided by local politicians from every constituency, proceeded to rearrange boundaries that called for no change, and to conduct his operations with the sole purpose of gaining a party advantage at the coming election.

Take a few specimens of this mode of operations. One of the new members is given to Middlesex, which has three already, and in arranging it so as to introduce a fourth he has done his best to make it preponderatingly Liberal, and make the other three hopelessly Conservative. In adding a new member to Bruce he has taken two Liberal townships from North Bruce, while the requirements of population called for only one. He has created a new constituency out of townships and villages taken from North and South Ontario and North and East York, though neither Ontario nor York is entitled to additional representation. This has been done with a view to make the new riding Liberal, and make it possible to elect Conservatives in the other four. To make the defeat of the Liberal candidate in North York certain, a Conservative township and town have been added to it from South Simcoe, which, from a party point of view, can easily spare them. South Brant has been rearranged for the special purpose of defeating Mr. Paterson, who now represents it, and Bothwell has been similarly treated for the purpose of defeating Mr. Mills. North Lanark has been made safe—so it is hoped—by the addition of two townships from Carleton, one not being enough. But it is needless to pursue the subject further in this direction.

One peculiarity of this scheme is that it affects only Ontario and Manitoba. If representation is to be according to population, there are defects quite as glaring in Quebec, in new Brunswick, and in Nova Scotia as there are in this Province. Why is there no attempt made to change the boundaries of constituencies in them? The truth is that Sir John Macdonald dare not tamper with any province but his own, and he has been, by the slavishness of his Ontario supporters, educated into the belief that no matter what he does they will stand by him. Many of them will, we have no doubt, and yet we are loath to believe that any considerable number of them will submit to this latest insult to the people of Ontario. What is the meaning of it all? Simply this: that finding himself compelled to wrong this province in the matter of the boundary award, he can no longer trust the people to support him, and he has determined to so arrange the constituencies that the minority may carry the day. That a majority of the people of Ontario will declare against him at the next election is as certain as anything in the future can be, but he has, or thinks he has, taken sure measures to defeat them in advance. We shall see how much the people will stand, and whether they are willing in this barefaced manner to be cheated out of a valuable tract of country, which by every consideration of fairness belongs to them. The people have the matter in their own hands. Quebec, though larger now than Ontario with the disputed territory added, will never consent to let us have the district awarded to us. If the people of Ontario tamely submit to insult added to injury now, they will reap the reward of their own folly in litigation and dispute, continued for another five years, while the territory is being stripped before their eyes of its valuable timber and minerals in order to reward the political hacks who are helping to pass this infamous scheme.

What are the two Peterborough's going to do about it? The West Riding has been left unchanged, and therefore the relative position of parties is there undisturbed. If the electors of West Peterborough believe in cheating Ontario out of her territory and then providing against punishment of the wrong-doers by a wholesale gerrymandering of the constituencies, they have only to endorse what Sir John Macdonald has done and proposes to do, by returning a supporter. We believe better things of them, however, than that. The East riding has been considerably changed, but the changes made, while they do not improve the position of the Liberal party, do not make it so much worse as to materially alter the chances at an election. The alterations make it necessary, however, for Liberals to be up and doing. The nomination of a candidate is now their first duty, and organization their next. Not a moment is to be lost. So many seats that would have certainly returned Liberals have been made unsafe for them that the utmost efforts will be necessary to counteract the mischief.

Cost of Living.

The Review seems to doubt our assertion that living now-a-days is more costly than formerly, and asks for proof. The editor has only to look at his own butcher's bills, fuel and other accounts to have substantial evidence of our statements. If this is not satisfactory, as he is fond of interviewing, we would advise him to ask the first laborer or mechanic he meets for information. We have little doubt but he can readily obtain any amount of substantial proof in favor of the correctness of the article in the EXAMINER from any intelligent citizen. They are not all so obtuse as our contemporary, so unwilling to admit what is an undeniable, though it may be an unpleasant fact. That living is at present more expensive than formerly and that articles of household consumption are dearer, none but a veritable Rip Van Winkle or an unscrupulous politician would have the boldness to deny. To which class does our critic belong?

Woollen and Cotton Duties.

Last week Mr. Anglin asked the House of Commons to condemn the present scale of duties on woollens and cottons, because they press much more heavily on the poor than on the rich consumer. Amongst those who voted to retain the present tariff of duties were Messrs.:—

BOWELL,
BURNHAM,
GUILLET,
HILLIARD,
McQUADE.

We have received from J. Burnham, M. P., a letter, explaining, in reference to our charge that he shirked the votes on the Boundary question and on Mr. Blake's motion re Commercial Treaties, that on these occasions he was unavoidably absent from Ottawa, but that had he been in the House he would, to use a vulgarism, have "gone the whole animal." Being crowded for space this issue, we will give the text of Mr. Burnham's letter and also give him the benefit of his explanation next week.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Friday afternoon last. Present—Councillors Cahill, Poussette, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Wilson, Menzies and Denne.

In the absence of the Mayor Mr. Paterson was appointed to the chair.

The Clerk stated the meeting had been called to consider the propriety of memorializing the Dominion Government to subsidize the Ontario and Sault St. Marie Railway.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, General Manager of the Midland Railway, being present, was asked to address the Council, as to the object for which the meeting had been called. He said the object in view was the passage of a memorial to the Dominion Government, asking that a subsidy be granted to the Ontario and Sault Ste Marie Railway to assist them in making a connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway at Spanish River. The council of the neighboring towns were sending in like memorials. Toronto however, was seeking the subsidy in favor of the Northern Railway which proposed tapping the C. P. R. at Callendar. This was the point at which the Ontario and Sault Ste Marie first contemplated making the connection, but since the route of the Canada Pacific had been changed this Company had decided to make Spanish River the connecting point, running parallel with or using the line of the C. P. R. from there to Sault Ste Marie, where connection would also be made with the Northern Pacific, giving an opportunity to the Ontario roads to compete only for a share of the carrying trade of our own Northwest, but also that of the great grain producing territory of the United States. If the subsidy were given the Northern it would be altogether in the interests of Toronto, while if it were given the Ontario and Sault Ste Marie road, it would be for the benefit of the whole of Eastern Ontario while Toronto and Western Ontario would not suffer, as the connections now made by the Midland system were such as to serve Toronto equally as well, although not so exclusively. Either one of the lines would be subsidized, and there could be no difference of opinion among the people of this town, or the people of this section of Ontario, as to which line should receive the aid. Mr. Cox produced a map showing the direction of the proposed routes, and pointed out very plainly and conclusively the advantages possessed by the Ontario and Sault route over the Northern.

After further explanation it was moved by Councillor Menzies, seconded by Councillor Wilson,—That it is of the utmost importance to the future prosperity of the Province of Ontario that her railway system should have the shortest and most direct connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway. That in view of the change of route that has been recently decided upon, by the Canada Pacific Railway, a connection can be made with that line at Spanish river, which will place the commercial and manufacturing interests of Ontario 70 miles nearer our rapidly developing North West Territory than the proposed connection at Callendar. That whereas the proposed Ontario and Sault Ste Marie Railway, will afford this more direct connection with the Canada Pacific Railway, and will by forming a connection with the Northern Pacific Railway at Sault Ste Marie, afford an alternate route to and from our North West, and will also open up an outlet for the products of the American Northwestern States through Canadian territory to Canadian seaports. It is therefore clearly in the interests of the whole Dominion, and especially in the interests of the Province of Ontario, that such aid should be granted by the Dominion Government as will ensure the construction of this line in preference to an indirect connection at Callendar, which does not afford either the advantages of another through route to the seaboard nor an avenue through which the products of the American States can be carried to our Canadian seaports.

That whereas the Ontario & Sault Ste Marie Railway have proposed to make this desirable connection for a much less subsidy per mile than is asked for the connection at Callendar.

Be it therefore resolved that this council do memorialize the Dominion Government in favor of granting aid to the Ontario and Sault Ste Marie Railway, and urge upon their representatives in Parliament the importance of using their influence in that behalf, provided always that equal running powers be granted to all connecting lines. And that a memorial embracing the above resolution, duly signed and sealed, be forwarded to Mr. Hilliard M. P., to be presented to the Governor-General in Council.—Carried unanimously.

THE TELEGRAPH POLES.

Mr. Paterson asked Mr. Cox if any arrangements could be effected to have the telegraph poles removed off George Street.

Mr. Cox said the Superintendent of the Company was the proper person to make arrangements with. That gentleman would shortly be in town when a meeting between him and the Street and Bridge Committee could be arranged for in reference to the matter.

OTHER RAILWAY MATTERS.

Mr. McNaughton drew Mr. Cox's attention to the inconvenience occasioned to the residents of the First Ward by having the streets blocked by trains.

Mr. Cox promised to have the matter attended to.

Mr. Wilson took advantage of Mr. Cox's presence to draw attention to the rate of speed at which trains were run through the North end of the town, causing numerous complaints from residents of that section.

Mr. Cox said he would give instructions to have the cause of complaint removed.

WATERING THE STREETS.

Mr. Poussette drew the attention of the council to the fact that the contract for the Street Watering expired on the 1st of May, and that something should be done to have it continued until such times as a proper petition should be presented, and moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly,—That upon the proper petition being presented, the Fire, Water and Gas Committee advertise for tenders for the street watering, and have power to let contract for same and that in the meantime they have the streets watered.—Carried.

The Council then separated.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION.

A new licensing bill for regulating the sale of liquor has created a great commotion in Ohio. It is known as the Pond bill and provides that every person engaged in traffic in intoxicating liquors shall pay a yearly tax into the county treasury, graded according to the size of the community in which the traffic is carried on. All places of business not within cities or villages or within a mile of any, are taxed $100; all those in or within a mile of villages or cities of less than 2,000 inhabitants are taxed $150; in cities or villages of less than 10,000 inhabitants, $200; over 10,000 inhabitants, $250; in first-class cities $300. All dealers are obliged to give bonds of $1000, with two sureties, for the faithful performance of all the requirements of the act, and in case of default of payment of tax they will be liable for double the amount of the default with costs of prosecution. Every person engaged in the liquor traffic in defiance of the law will be subject to a fine not exceeding $1000 nor less than $500, and to imprisonment not exceeding one year nor less than thirty days. In addition to these provisions, all wholesale dealers who sell liquors to persons selling in violation of the requirements of the act are made liable to a fine and imprisonment, not exceeding one year nor less than thirty days.

YELLOW AS A GUINEA.—The complexion, in a case of unchecked liver complaint, culminating in jaundice, is literally "as yellow as a guinea." It has this appearance because the bile, which enables the bowels to act, is directed from its proper course into the blood. In connection with this symptom there is nausea, coating of the tongue, sick headache, impurity of the breath, pains through the right side and shoulder blade, dyspepsia and constipation. These and other concomitants of liver complaint are completely removed by the use of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which is also an eradicant of scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, ulcers, cancers, humours, female weakness, jaundice, and lumbago. It tones the stomach, rouses the liver, and after relieving them, causes the bowels thereafter to become regular. High professional sanction has been accorded to it; and its claims to public confidence are justified by ample evidence. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

SNATCHED FROM THE GRAVE.—Mrs. Helen Pharviz, No. 331 Dayton street, Chicago, Ill., is now in her sixty-eighth year, and states that she has suffered with consumption for about ten years, was treated by nine physicians, all of them pronouncing her case hopless. She had given up all hopes of ever recovering. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and satisfy yourselves. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

HOME RULE.

Mr. Blake on the Irish Question.

A Stirring Appeal for Local Self-Government.

And Justice to an Oppressed Race.

In the House of Commons on Friday night Mr. Blake delivered a strong and eloquent speech on Mr. Costigan's resolution, asking for Home Rule for Ireland. He began by reciting some historical facts, to show that the Government of Ireland by England since the Union had been a dreadful failure. After pointing out that Ireland is not overcrowded, as compared with other countries, he referred to

THE CAUSES OF DISTRESS AND DISCONTENT.

I say that the condition of Ireland to-day is due largely to the want of security and contentment, to the want of identification with the soil, and attachment to the Constitution, to the want of hope of improvement and of bettering their condition, which is really the most essential thing to induce men to labor. I say it is due to a feeling that their grievances are not in reason redressed, in the lack of a feeling that their Government is conducted according to their needs and wishes, and to the lack of any machinery for the management in the locality of their local affairs. There can be no doubt that Ireland, at, or before the time of the Union, was subjected to some great political grievances. There can be no doubt that these grievances were not of a sentimental character, but were such as to a large extent are to-day acknowledged to be grievances which demand the attention of legislators and should be redressed by legislation. If you go back over the history of the parliamentary government of Ireland for the last eighty years, and if you begin your enquiry by a reference to those great and important landmarks or grievances, and should enquire as to the time when, and the circumstances under which, those grievances have been, so far as they have been, redressed, you will find a very good reason there, if you sought no further, for a deep-seated and justifiable dissatisfaction with the parliamentary government of Ireland by the Parliament of the United Kingdom. There was the question—at that time as much a question of justice and of right as it was at any later time—of Roman Catholic emancipation. There was the question—at that time as much a question of justice and of right as at any later time—of the disestablishment of the nominal Church of the minority. There was the question, what was called here the lamentable question, but still in the condition of that country none the less a pressing question, of a proper measure for the relief of the poor, required because of the unnatural conditions that ruled distribution. There was the question of reform of the land laws, by the creation of proper interest in the soil by those who occupied the soil. There was the question of the creation of local institutions to manage local affairs, and rendered very important because of the abrogation of the rights of the Parliament of Ireland, and the transfer to Westminster of the management of those minute affairs which up to that time were under the control of the Legislature which sat in the capital city of Ireland. These leading questions to which I have referred have been in part—all but the last one, and that one has never been substantially dealt with—disposed of, and it may be asked, since such is the fact, why do I refer to them? I refer to them because I see that the circumstances under which and the time under which those questions were dealt with demonstrate more clearly than anything else can do, the unsatisfactory character of the government of Ireland by the Parliament of the United Kingdom.

After shewing that Catholic emancipation was brought about, not because it was right, but because the Government was forced to concede it, he went on to say that

The Irish people were taught that dreadful lesson so far as the administration of the Parliament of the United Kingdom could teach them it, that England's difficulty was Ireland's opportunity. They were taught this by the delay and by the disposition with which those Ministers acceded to the grant. They were taught not to rely upon that constitutional agitation which is the proud basis of our system, and which every one is free to engage in, but upon other and worse methods of accomplishing by unconstitutional revolt. I say that no doubt something was done by the removal even under those circumstances of that great blemish, yet nothing was done towards leading them to believe that they had a right to expect from the unconstrained sense of justice of the British Parliament the relief which they had a right to have, or towards obtaining those golden fruits which might have been reaped from a great act of justice cheerfully performed in sufficient season.

Mr. Blake referred briefly to the Act for the Relief of the Poor and the Act for the Sale of Encumbered Estates, showing incidentally the great lapse of time from Catholic Emancipation till these Bills were passed, and went on:

Well, sir, about twenty years more elapsed before the next great remedial measure for Ireland was carried through the British Parliament. It was, I think, in 1868 that the law for the disestablishment and disendowment of the Irish Church was passed, nearly fifty years after the Union took place. Now, who can pretend that that act of justice was not so much an act of justice at the time of the Union as it was at the time it became law. The principal upon which the disestablishment was carried is immutable and eternal, and the question had been raised, as we all know, generations before. Public men in advance of public opinion of the United Kingdom and of Parliament—intelligent men, statesmen—had raised it, and pointed out that it was impossible that that establishment could be defended and maintained, had proposed that an act of justice should be performed, but it was utterly impossible to make progress in that direction, an old grievance, a grievance so old as to be almost out of date, a grievance of a most pressing character. How, I ask, was redress for that grievance obtained?

WHY REFORM CAME?

Now, sir, I shall give you an authentic account of how it come that Parliament and the people of the United Kingdom decided to remove that ancient grievance, and I shall give you the account which the author of that great measure for Ireland himself gave in 1878 in the Midlothian campaign. After referring to Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian speech, delivered in 1878, upon the disestablishment and disendowment of the Irish Church, he went on to explain the reasons in this great measure of legislation, by which the people and politicians of the United Kingdom were led to the belief that the question was within the range of practical politics, and led to see what was their duty to the people of Ireland. Once again there was the same moving cause to the remedy. Once again there was the same long heart-breaking delay; and once again English and Scotch opinion would not act until compelled to do so. Once again, therefore, there was no meed of grace in the measure so obtained. It was forced from the British Parliament and was so acknowledged, and, therefore, if it did remove the grievance it did not as timely and cheerful legislation would have done, as any consideration of justice would have done, and the element of grace, and did not excite a feeling of gratitude in the hearts of those to whom the benefit was granted.

After drawing some comparison to show the small proportion of landowners in Ireland, he continued, and pointed out that

The number of small owners is insignificant in England, but that number is computed to be about ten times as large in proportion as the number is in Ireland, and that in a country of which I believe the greatest practical blemish to-day is its own land-laws. I believe there can be no doubt that the greatest blemish in England and Scotland to-day is the condition of the ownership of the land; but even there that difficulty has diminished relatively to the condition of things in Ireland. Now, sir, there can be no doubt that the old penal laws, which among other relics of barbarity, prohibited for a long time Roman Catholics either from owning or inheriting lands, had much to do with the creation of the present state of things as to the landholding in Ireland, and that state of things being once created and marked deeply upon the country, it became, of course, proportionately difficult to obliterate it. The result was a practical serfdom; the people who cultivated the lands were only left with enough to subsist on in a miserable manner.

THE TREATMENT OF THE TENANT FARMERS.

All concede that there were many landlords in Ireland who granted proper leases and behaved with propriety towards their tenantry; yet, in the large, the practical result was that the whole profit of the lands, with the exception of a poor, miserable subsistence to the tenant who worked them, went to the landlord; and also that where improvements were made an early opportunity was taken to increase the rental of the lands to the extent to which they had become capable of production by virtue of the improvements which the tenant and his family had made. This was a state of things which of course did not merely diminish but destroyed, that hope of bettering himself, which is the spur by which you can expect men to rise, and under the influence of which you can expect happiness and contentment to be diffused. The first, or one of the earliest, writers on the subject of land-holding—Young, I think—says: "Give a man but nine years' lease of a garden, and he will turn it into a desert; give him the freehold of the native rock and he will turn it into a garden;" and I believe that not untruly represents the relative condition of things between the short holder under the customs that prevail in Ireland and the proprietor. Now, that situation would have been bad enough, if the rents so exacted from the tenantry were rents in any proper sense of the term; but the whole produce of the soil goes, not to enable the unfortunate people to clothe themselves, but to live in rags; not to feed themselves, but to keep starvation from them, and above that the whole of the produce of the soil is taken by the landlords who do not live in the country. A certain measure of improvement and prosperity would necessarily have arisen from the expenditure on the soil of these enormous rents. But to make a condition—miserable enough, God knows, without it—still more miserable, the bulk of those who received these rents were absentee landlords; and so it happened that, speaking once again in the large, not merely a fair share and increment of the proprietor of the soil from it, but the whole produce of the soil of Ireland also, with but wretched livings for those who raised it, went away from Ireland—was rather a tribute paid by Ireland to foreign countries than legitimately applied within the land itself, and which would have occasioned the development of trade and manufactures which would have given more employment to the agriculturist as well as otherwise and produced some mitigating circumstances at any rate to retrieve the darkness of the picture to which I have referred. I say it happened there was luxury for the absentee landlord, misery for the resident tenant as the rule, and that in a country of which it has been said, not rhetorically, but in sober truth, that if you wiped out the tenants improvements you would convert nine-tenths of Ireland into a desert again. I have said enough to show that the question of the land is at the core of the Irish question and to show how great was the importance of any measure, such as the Irish Church Act, which should have tended in a moderate degree to unite the diverse interest of the occupant and the land he occupied and to create a land proprietary in Ireland.

OPERATION OF THE LAND ACT.

The Land Act was useful in its way, but it was not wide enough. The land clauses, most hopeful in theory, which struck largely at the root of the question, turned out in practice not so useful as the land clauses with reference to the Irish Church, owing to a difference of conditions. The truth was that in other respects the land laws of Ireland, as of England and Scotland, were grievously defective, and the expense of a voluntary transfer of land in small parcels was almost prohibitory. The search for titles and copies and conveyancing itself were such that whatever price you might fix for those moderate portions of land, which were the utmost aspiration of the occupant, would in many cases fail to meet the expenses of conveyancing. That was one difficulty with which legislation was unable to grapple. There was another in the want of sympathy on the part of the Treasurer and other Departments of the Government with those classes, which savoured a little too much, in the then public opinion of the country, with a feeling of interfering with the sacred property and land, which looked a little too much toward a denial of the divine rights of landlordism, which looked a little too much like practical recognition of the motto that property has its duties as well as its rights. And it so happened in practice that there were but 100 sales a year on the average, or a total of 800, by the last return I have been able to obtain, under the provisions of the land clauses of the Act of 1870. So therefore you will observe that the Act was wholly defective as a remedy for the evils complained of, and by experience was proved to be wholly inadequate. Then in 1880 the last Land Act was passed under continual pressure; under the same pressure increased and aggravated by events—a great measure, but in itself not likely to settle the great question. I will not discuss that complicated details of that measure; but I will say that a principal, and in the practical application of it, a measure which is based upon the ground and founded upon the reason upon which that measure depends, and which makes no provision at all for dealing with cases of arrears of rents, cannot be regarded as a final or satisfactory measure if there were no other defect. If you look at the history of the ills which proceeded that measure, and of the circumstances of the country, as stated by others, you will see that a measure must be to a large extent wholly inadequate and entirely beyond practical application towards many, or most, of the grevious cases that be supposed to exist under it, unless it deals with arrears. The most grievious cases will be those of parties unable to pay their rents. However, nobody can doubt but that the measure was an immense, active relief—that it was a measure that gave more than was expected by many, or thought possible to be obtained from the Parliament of the United Kingdom, and nobody can doubt it was obtained also from Parliament only by continued difficulties.

Reciting the condition of Ireland, going from bad to worse, the Irish, seeing no way of bettering their condition by constitutional means, Mr. Blake said:

Can anybody wonder, then, that there should have grown up early, and that there should continue with an ever increasing volume and urgency, a cry for a measure of Home Rule. Put the question to ourselves. If we had been for eighty years in the position that these people have been in for that time; if we had to agitate for one generation for one measure of justice, for three-quarters of a generation for the next measure, and two-thirds of a generation for the third; if, as each of these measures had been obtained, it was due not to the recognition of the justness of our cause, but to the recognition of the danger of further delay, what would have been our feelings and how earnestly we would have demanded some portion of control over our affairs. But there is

than that. While remedies were refused justice, force was at the same time constantly applied. While you have the miserable record of remedial Acts to which I have referred, you have the record of Arms Acts, Coercion Acts, Restraint of the Press Acts, Suspension of the Habeas Corpus Acts, and all those legislative means of coercing the people, passed from time to time with the utmost freedom by the same Parliament which was denying and delaying what is now admitted to have been only justice to the people. I do not mean to say that the conduct of the Irish people—a large portion of it—under these circumstances was justifiable. Far from it. I do not mean to say that it might not have been necessary sometimes to pass these Acts. The true friends of Ireland have from time to time concurred in this passage, but I do mean to say that the condition of things lasting for eight years, with such a record on its brighter side of remedial legislation, and such a record on its darker side of coercive legislation, is a record which proves that the experiment of local government for Ireland by the Parliament of the United Kingdom has been a disastrous failure. Besides legislative coercion, there were other methods of coercion employed. There is an army, under the guise of a constabulary, of 12,000 or 13,000 of, I suppose, the best troops in the world—the Irish constabulary; and we have had from time to time large portions of the military forces of the Empire quarted in Ireland—from time to time not less than 50,000 men. I believe to-day 50,000 men of the British army are stationed in Ireland to keep the people down, and large detachments of the British fleet frequent Irish harbors for the same purpose. Whether right or wrong in this controversy, it cannot be contended that the Government of Ireland for 80 years has been a Government by constitutional means, but it must be admitted that it is a Government of force. This is the large result of the whole business. Now it is acknowledged—as the Hon. member for Victoria has said, freely and frankly acknowledged—that Ireland was being mismanaged all these years. What a humiliating condition is that which the father of Parliament the mother of constitutional freedom throughout the world, occupies on this question. Who of us did not feel with a pang of humiliation the keen shaft of the satirist who forged, so to speak, the letter from the Sultan of Turkey not long since, calling, in response to some calls that had been made by England on him to remedy some grievances of his subjects, on the British Government to remedy the condition of the Irish people? Who did not feel that such a letter might have been fairly written, that such a complaint might have been fairly made, and that the argument sometimes urged in this House of tu quoque might have been fairly used. Of these resolutions I think it is needless to speak. No doubt Ireland is largely in a state of anarchy—ruled, as far as the Kingdom is concerned, mainly by force; mainly, so far as a large portion of the people is concerned, by an organization without and beyond the control of the laws; and I maintain that it is the delays which have taken place in their passage, and the circumstances under which these measures of primary justice and importance have been at length granted, which are responsible for the distressed condition of that country.

After speaking of the causes of delay in the matter of remedial legislation for Ireland—the material objects of the Tories, and the lack of time in the Imperial Parliament—Mr. Blake quoted a recent speech of Mr. Gladstone's, in which he declared himself in favor of local self-government, and continued:

Now, sir, in that speech, while announcing once again his adhesion to the principle of local government, that great statesman has endeavored to shift from the shoulders of the responsible Government of the empire on to the shoulders of those who are in a hopeless minority a question which belongs to that Government to solve. I say that it belongs to those who are responsible for the good government of the empire, who have the power, who can initiate legislation themselves, to grapple with the difficulty. I say that those who admit that the present condition of Ireland cannot be satisfactory without some change, who acknowledge that a change can be made, are in an untenable position when they tell the minority, "Gentlemen, come forward, propound some plan, solve every difficulty, tell us how you would settle this question, and until you do that we are not called upon to act." That is not, in my opinion, language worthy of any statesman, be he Conservative or Reform. It is not upon such statements that the Irish question can be settled. It would be folly to blink the consideration that any measure that Mr. Gladstone may propose on the question would be unsatisfactory to many, and at any rate it would not be accepted by the Irish people as a final settlement of the question; but I maintain that the longer you delay the greater the difficulties, and I maintain that though the proposition you are able to propose may not be satisfactory to all, it is no ground whatever for declining to do that which you yourself acknowledge it is just to be done. True justice, do that which is right, and that measure of relief which you know is just, and which you believe will give that added measure of safety and security, which will result from the changed state of affairs. What is the state of affairs? The Prime Minister of England says that the consideration of Ireland is unsatisfactory, because the Irish people have not the measure of local government which they ought to have, and he says, "I will not give that measure of local government to you, I will not stir hand or foot in the matter until the Irish members in the House of Commons, who are in the minority, and are powerless to do anything, shall propose a measure which shall be satisfactory to themselves, and that they will undertake to deal with this complicated and exacrebated question, so full of difficulties, and in the light of all the errors and circumstances of the past.

Speaking of our interest in the Irish question, Mr. Blake spoke of the resolutions introduced in the Canadian House when the question of Disestablishment was before the Imperial Parliament, when Sir John carried the previous question on a motion in favor of the proposal, and proceeded to point out

Our interest in the question. I say we have an interest as a part of the great Empire, as sharers in this shame—we have an interest in everything which will tend to develope the strength and the unity of the Empire; we have an interest in every great and important question affecting the general constitution and organization of the Empire at large. Nobody can doubt that through chaos, and without any formal system, the gradual tendency of the constitution of the Empire has been more and more, perhaps through drifting, perhaps otherwise, towards the adoption of the federative form. We ourselves are the outcrop of that idea. Our present position is due to its partial, unsymmetrical unreasoned, but practical development, and I say, sir, we must consider that without power effectually to interfere, without power of legislation, we yet have a right as members of the Empire to express an opinion upon this subject. As a part of the Empire largely peopled by old countrymen, by Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen, we have a deep interest in a question which must materially affect the prosperity and happiness of our countrymen in the old land. As a country wanting immigrants, as the hon. gentleman has said, we have a material interest of a very great degree. We all know where the Irish immigration goes. We all know that those who cross the sea and land upon the shores of America go almost wholly, particularly those of the Roman Catholic faith, to the United States instead of to Canada. We know that our share of the Irish immigration is insignificant, and that our share of the Irish Roman Catholic immigration is but a very small proportion in these latter days of even our share of Irish immigration. We know on the other hand that enormous numbers of that people have gone to the United States. When I said two years ago that that was due largely to the difficulties to which I referred, and hoped that a better feeling might be engendered by remedial measures applied to the state of Ireland, hon. gentlemen opposite did not seem to sympathise with that remark. I was glad to hear the hon. gentlemen repeat it to-day, and I hope it has become to a large extent the accepted sentiment of the people of this country.

Mr. Blake showed further that we have an interest in the question, as we do not care to have the United States populated by people hostile to Great Britain.

Now, sir, there is another reason why we should interfere. We can speak with authority on this subject. We are Federalists ourselves. We are experienced in the benefit of Home Rule. We know what it means. We know that it is our most precious possession. We know that there is nothing that we would part with with greater reluctance or more difficulty than our portion of the Home Rule. We know that there is nothing that we would sacrifice more to retain than our portion of Home Rule, whether you revert to that portion which the Dominion has in relation to the Empire, or that portion which the Provinces have in relation to the Dominion. In reference to the important federation which exists between Canada and the United Kingdom, or the more perfect form of federation which exists between the Dominion and the Provinces. If any people in the wide world can speak of the difficulties engendered for the want of Home Rule, and the benefits to be secured by the grant of Home Rule, it is the people in whose name and for whose interests we sit and deliberate in this hall this night.

WHY HIS PRESENT OPINIONS ARE HELD.

Now, sir, the descendant of Irishmen myself—my grandfather, by the father's side, a rector of the church to which I have referred, and sleeping in his parish church-yard, and my ancestor by the mother's side slain in a conflict with insurgents—while it might have been my fortune had I been born and bred in the old land to adopt from prejudice views very different from those I hold this night, yet it having been my good fortune to have been born and bred in the free air of Canada, and to have learned those better, those wiser, those more Christian and just notions which here prevail upon the subjects of civil and religious liberty, class legislation and home rule itself, I have always entertained ever since I have had the opportuity of thinking on this subject the sentiments to which I have given feeble utterance this evening. I believe that these are the sentiments native to our own sentiments of freedom and justice or forbearance and toleration, and a desire to deal with this subject—as the hon. gentleman said who moved it—in that spirit which says, "Do unto others as you would they should unto you." I had been anxious that this discussion should be raised, and had myself prepared a motion on the subject, when private circumstances called me from the desk here. On my return I learned that the same hon. gentleman to whom the member for Victoria has alluded had taken the matter in hand, and it was thought better not to meddle with them or with the course that they under his leadership might propose; but although I remained silent, I felt that it would be doing but just scant justice to the feelings of Canadians, French, Scotch, English, or Irish to suppose that there is any material difference in the intensity of their feelings on this subject from those whom the hon. gentleman who brought forward the motion more particularly seems to represent. I believe our sentiment is one based on the general principal of political action to which we have been educated, and which has advanced our prosperity and our intellectual and moral standing in the world now.

After expressing his regret that the resolutions should have been introduced in a more feeble form than they were first drawn, Mr. Blake closed:

I say that the possession of such a measure is essential to the maintenance of the Empire. There ought to be no ifs or ands in the expression of the views of the Canadian people upon this important subject. It is only upon the theory, only upon the strong view that the possession of such a law is essential to the integrity of the Empire that we can agitate or act with effect in dealing with this matter. I am not disposed to act hypothetically; I am not disposed to deal with this question with ifs and ands. I am willing to advise conciliatory measures and ample justice to Ireland. I should like the Canadian people through their representatives in Parliament to say to the Imperial Government politely that in their opinion as 4,000,000 of British subjects they believe that the integrity of the Empire demands self-government for Ireland. So with reference to the clause that speaks of those men deprived of the constitutional right of trial by jury. I do not understand them to invite the clemency of the Crown, or to be charged with political offences. I understand them to be imprisoned under a law which does not call on the Government to charge them with any crime whatever. What we ought to have asked for those gentlemen is the restoration of the habeas corpus and a trial by their peers on any charge which the Government of England may think fit to make against them. It is not an application for clemency and mercy that they demand, and that we should express, but a hope that the ordinary constitutional right of every British subject may be extended to these particular British subjects, namely the right of habeas corpus and of trial by their peers for any offence with which they may be charged against the law of the land to which they belong. I hope that the resolution, weak as it is, unsatisfactory as it is, failing, as in my opinion it does, on those two points in a manner which I do not myself admire, will yet pass because it is not amendable, and it is infinitely better that it should pass than be rejected because some may think it too weak and others too strong. In this question I have shown we are interested in many ways. Although we have no direct voice in the legislation of Great Britain, notwithstanding we have a right to venture our counsel and express our views. We have a right respectfully to approach our Sovereign and strengthen the hands of her Prime Minister, whose sentiments are not hostile to reform. We have a right to give the influence of 4,000,000 of British subjects to the redress of grievances too long mantained, to the attainment of rights too long denied, and so enlarge the strength and increase the utility of the mighty Empire of which we form a part. (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

POOR SIR JOHN.

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"Ministerial organs think they are making a strong point by saying that Sir John Macdonald, although many years in power, is a poor man. Sir John declared he had to borrow money to pay off "General" Hewson. If Sir John Macdonald is really poor, the fact is none to his credit, for nothing but the most reckless extravagance in the use of his income could make him poor or keep him poor. Take his yearly income:

As Prime Minister	$ 8,000
Sessional allowance	1,000
From the Trust and Loan Company	4,000
Interest on $80,000 gratuity	4,800
Income from rents, &c	3,000
Total	$20,800

It must also be noted in connection with his yearly income, that he has all his travelling, hotel, carriage and telegraph expenses paid by the Government. He has a small family, gives very few entertainments, and these are very small affairs. Again it must be remembered, that he has, as a minister and member, drawn from the treasury since he entered public life, over $200,000, and as solicitor for certain companies and corporations nearly $100,000. With these facts before us, we cannot understand how Sir John can be a poor man. If he is the fact shows astonishing incapacity for managing his own affairs, and a man who should so prove his incapacity is not the sort of person certainly to conduct the affairs of a great country."

Nervous Exhaustion, and all diseases arising from youthful indiscretions are speedily and radically removed by that wonderful remedy known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, an advertisements of which appears in another column. 17-2t

A New Principle.

The principle upon which PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separating it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cur they will be ready to recommend Putnam' Painless Corn Extractor to others.

From Hamilton.—A gentleman writes "I have suffered for over four years with night losses and general weakness, caused by abuse. I had tried all the advertised medicine, and a number of doctors, and found no relief or benefit. I have used twelve boxes of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, and am entirely restored." See advertisement in another column. 15-2in

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an INCURABLE LUNG DISEASE OR CONSUMPTION. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but ACT DIRECTLY ON THE INFLAMED PARTS, allaying irritation, give relief in ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, CATARRH, and the THROAT TROUBLES which SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wise and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 49-26ins.

SANDERSON'S

A CRUEL DEED.

Translated from the German.

BY HUGO.

"You are her murderess! The assassin of the happiness of your only son!" it cried. "He, your own flesh and blood, will one day, if he does not already, curse you! for the brand of Cain is stamped upon your forehead, and, therefore, every one avoids and loaths you!"

This was the language in which conscience spoke to her, and what it uttered was the truth. Although no one knew with certainty the awful crime of which the countess was guilty, yet her singular behavior, and her nocturnal visits, could not fail to attract observation; and hence the darkest impressions were left upon every mind, and gave occasion to many painful rumors.

As her pride was well-known, these reports were at first made secretly; but by-and-by she was freely stigmatized as a murderess; and the fact that the coachman, who was said to have driven the young lady away, disappeared soon after, being sent to a distant country, gave additional color to the charge. The restlessness and nightly walks of the haughty lady were attributed to remorse, which was indeed the true reason; and she was shunned by all near her; while the dark rumors which were circulated abroad, caused the few families who had come occasionally to the Castle to discontinue their visits.

The count was residing in a far-distant capital, with no intention of returning very speedily.

No pen can describe what the countess suffered. If for a few short hours she was led by a natural impulse to restore the young girl to liberty, her reason opposed such a step, for by this course she would then publish to the world what people now only surmised, or secretly hinted; and then her honor would be more sullied by her own foul deeds than by the misalliance of her son with this poor girl. No! she would rather suffer the torments of the doomed than endure this foul dishonor. In this way she wasted away to a mere shadow, and sacrificed the happiness of three persons—nay, more, endangered her eternal welfare—to gratify her insane ambition.

But as everything in this world must reach its culminating point, and no power upon earth is so strong that it will not become exhausted, so was it with the health and strength of the countess. They were compelled to yield to a mighty foe, whose power she could neither gainsay nor resist.

When she felt her strength gradually failing, she thought of the situation of Eugenia, and carried down to her all the provisions she would need for a long time: but before all her arrangements were made as she had intended, she broke down, and was laid upon a sick bed.

The despair of the countess, when she found that this calamity would affix to her the seal of murder, and leave her only the choice, either to make herself in reality a murderess, or to reveal the guilt which she had so resolutely concealed from all, hastened her end, and left her with scarcely sufficient strength to enp a few lines to her absent son.

"Herman," she wrote, "for the sake of Eugenia come to your dying mother!"

In spite of the celerity of the count's movements, who sped home with the swiftness of the wind when he received this urgent summons, many days elapsed before his return, eternities for the unhappy Eugenia and the despairing countess.

At last the countess could lie in bed no longer; but sending the nurse away, on various pretexts, she took what provisions she could find in and near her chamber, trotted along the corridor, and, while opening the trap-door, known only to herself, in which she at length succeeded, she fainted away, conscious only at the last moment of sensibility that she was clasped in the embrace of two powerful arms.

At that eventful moment, which was to decide the fate of Eugenia and the well-being of his mother's soul, the count had reached his mother's side.

So soon as he observed the open trap, the true state of affairs flashed across his mind. Quick as thought he bore his mother back to her couch, and placed her in the charge of her nurses; and then, with a lamp in his hand, he flew back to the dungeon, to which he soon found the path trodden nightly by his mother during the last two years.

He descended and was surprised to find a tenantable room, well supplied with furniture, and replete with every convenience. He threw open another door, and discovered a bed, and upon it—the dying Eugenia.

"Great God of Heaven!" he cried, stricken with horror; and this agonizing exclamation called back to life the girl, whose ear caught the sound of that familiar voice.

Faintly she raised her hands, as if in prayer, but was unable to utter a sound; while Herman, perceiving the movement, took from his travelling-coat a flask of wine, which he had provided for his journey homeward, and applied a few drops to her lips.

He then took her up and carried her to his own apartment, where he made use of every restorative to bring her to life again, in which he at length happily succeeded.

The count, having thus discovered the crime of his mother, had sufficient presence of mind to keep the whole transaction a secret. He permitted no one to enter his room, but watched himself by the bedside of the lovely girl, whose vigorous constitution rallied from the shock much sooner than he had anticipated.

Two days afterwards, at the dawn of early morning, the travelling-carriage stood again at the Castle gate. But this time the count himself, bearing his dear burden to the vehicle, took the reins in his own hands, and drove his protege to the house of her old friend, the clergyman, whose surprise he checked by promising to explain everything at another time.

Hastily he drove back to his dying mother; and when he arrived home, he cast one fond glance upon the seat which Eugenia had occupied. There he saw a ring glistening, which in all probability she had dropped; and quickly taking it up, he placed it in his pocket.

After he had given his orders, he appeared again for the first time in the presence of his mother, of whose condition he had been kept advised by her nurses and physicians.

Her situation was now fearful; and it was clearly apparent that nothing but unnatural excitement detained her departing spirit in her wasted form. Perhaps she would have died before, but that the presence of her son afforded her some faint gleam of hope that her crime might be diminished. She asked for him constantly, and, when he came, she ordered all present to leave the room.

"My son," she began in a feeble voice, while her bosom heaved, and she struggled to catch her breath.

The count stepped quickly nearer, and supported her in his arms, while he changed her position so as to relieve her sufferings.

At this moment the ring somehow slipped from his pocket upon the bed, directly before the countess. She glared at it. The crest upon it was two hands clasped, encircled by a cluster of small diamonds. She sought to grasp it with a convulsive movement, and the count placed it in her hand. She eagerly examined it on the inside; and then, with the cry, "Lord have mercy on me!" she swooned away.

After the count had rendered every possible assistance, and had seen the invalid revive, he also examined the engraved letters, and found that the ring bore the coat of arms of his mother's family.

He was utterly confounded and amazed, until his mother asked, eagerly:

"Where did you procure this ring?"

"It is Eugenia's," replied the count.

"Herman," she rejoined, "I have murdered my sister's daughter. Curse me, as I am accursed of Heaven! Eugenia is buried alive! I did it to preserve our noble name from pollution, and I have slain the daughter of my only sister! I have never mentioned her name to you, because she was exiled from our family by a father's curse, whose name was dishonored by her secret marriage with a plain back-woodaman! I never heard from her again! This is her full name; this is the coat of arms of our family; and without my knowledge her daughter has been an inmate of my household! Eugenia did not resemble her mother, but probably inherited the beauty of her father, who was a handsome and talented gentleman. But she is dead—she is gone—and I am her murderess! There, high in Heaven, she stands! and with a sword of flame bars my entrance to everlasting life! It is the malediction of the father, re-acting upon me through the daughter—upon me who caused my father to curse him!"

The count was filled with horror at this confession, and his heart for the moment became as stone towards the author of his being in this her dying hour.

But soon his better feelings gained the mastery; and the consciousness that he was not constituted her judge, caused him to speak soothingly, yet earnestly.

"Mother," said he, "die in peace! Eugenia is saved, and forgives you! You buried a woman filled with earthly pride, and she is raised again an angel of love and mildness. She forgives you, and begs me most vehemently to bring you peace and assurance of her undying love."

"Son! son!" said the old dame, with a passionate outburst; "tell me the truth? You are only placing before me eyes a delusive phantom, in order that I may not see the demons with their fiery swords of vengeance! It is in vain! Nothing but eternal doom awaits me! I never thought, while in health, of a life where earthly power is useless. Those whom I despised when living, are now standing by the Throne of the Lord as my accusers, and this ring is the seal of my condemnation! Go! bring back the dead Eugenia; and then I will believe; not till then."

And Herman went for Eugenia.

When she came and walked up to the countess, surrounded by a heavenly halo of mildness, and, stepping to the side of her bed, spoke sweet and gentle words of consolation; when she told her that she considered all the evils she had suffered as the will of Heaven—a trial from the Lord—who, for her own good, had brought her from the wrong path into the right way—the heart of the proud and aged sinner was broken before the compassionate love of God, who, in her last moments, had sent to her His angel of peace; and after floods of tears, perhaps the first she had shed since the death of her noble father, she asked pardon of her son and neice for the wrongs she had committed.

She spent her few remaining hours in listening to the consolations and prayers of Eugenia, and expired in her arms—having, in her very last moments, enjoyed that true peace which she had never experienced throughout her proud life—the peace of the God of love.

Herman and his beloved Eugenia once more visited the dungeon, where she had found peace, and where the ministering angels of the Lord had waited upon her when all men had forsaken her.

Then the count ordered the opening to be closed up forever, so that no similar crime might be repeated in after years.

And Eugenia, the queen of the forest, the bold Diana, the heroic Judith, became transformed from a haughty Amazon into a submissive, loving, beautiful wife, adorned with all the graces of true womanhood. Thenceforth the lives of the Count and Countess of B——— were filled with pleasure and happiness.

(CONCLUDED.)

The following is the recommendation given lately by a lady to her departing servant:—"The bearer has been in my house a year—minus 11 months. During that time she has shown herself diligent—at the house door; frugal—in work; mindful—of herself; prompt—in excuses; friendly—towards men; faithful—to her lovers; and honest—when everything had vanished."

CHILBLAINS.—These troublesome complaints may be speedily cured by Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great Rheumatic remedy, which, as an external application and as an internal remedy has a wider range of usefulness than any similar preparation in the world. All druggists sell it at 25c. 17-2t

THE SECRET OF BEAUTY.—No cosmetic in the world can impart beauty to a face that is disfigured by unsightly blotches arising from impure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand purifying medicine for all humors of the blood. It makes good blood and imparts the bloom of health to the most sallow complexion. 17-2t

German friend: "De bictare you haf bainted is most putiful; dere is only von vord in de English lanckguidge vich describes it, and I haf forgotton him."

Amos Hudgin, Toronto, writes: "I have been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the past six years. All the remedies I tried proved useless, until Northrop & Lyman's vegetable discovery was brought under my notice. I have used two bottles with the best results, and can with confidence recommend it to those afflicted in like manner."

It is said that a clergyman was once reproached for yawning visibly in the middle of his own sermons, and replied that he could not help it, because it was so dull.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is highly recommended by physicians, clergymen and scientists as a preparation accomplishing wonderful results. It is entirely harmless, and a certain remedy for removing dandruff, making the scalp white and clean, and restoring gray hair to its youthful color. It imparts a gloss and freshness to the hair which all admire.

A temperance lecturer exclaimed, "Why men drink is what staggers me!" At which a toper in the audience responded, "What we drink is what staggers us, old fellow!"

A CURE FOR HEADACHE.—What physician has ever discovered a cure for headache? Echo answers none. But Burdock Blood Bitters by their purifying, invigorating, nervine properties afford a cure in nearly every case. The health-giving principles of this remedy are unequalled by any similar preparation in the world. 17-2t

We often hear of a woman marrying a man to reform him; but no one ever tells about a man marrying a woman to reform her. We men are modest, and don't talk about our good deeds much.

WORSE THAN WAR.—"The throat has destroyed more lives than the sword," by imprudence in eating and intemperance in drinking; but when the health becomes impaired the miserable dyspeptic may find prompt relief in Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the bowels, acts upon the liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, and stimulates all the secretions to a healthy action. 17-2t

"Do dogs reason?" Possibly not; but we observed a dog, on seeing a boy with an old kettle, examining his pockets as if for a piece of cord, take a deep interest in something about a mile away.

Joseph Beaudin, M. D., of Hull, P.Q., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil commands a large and increasing sale which it richly merits. I have always found it exceedingly helpful; I use it in all cases of rheumatism, as well as fractures and dislocations. I made use of it myself to calm the pains of a broken leg with dislocation of the foot, and in two days I was entirely relieved of the pain."

There is nothing so strong as habit. It is told of a physician, who always demanded payment on the spot, that he was so particular, that when he prescribed for himself, he used to take a dollar out of one pocket and put it into another.

Gilbert Laird, St. Margaret's Hope, Orkney, Scotland, writes: "I am requested by several friends to order another parcel of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The last lot I got from you having been tested in several cases of rheumatism, has given great relief when doctors' medicines have failed to have any effect. The excellent qualities of this medicine should be made known, that the millions of sufferers throughout the world may benefit by its providential discovery."

Nellie has a four-year-old sister, Mary, who complained to mamma that her buttoned-shoes were hurting. "Why, Nellie, you've put them on the wrong feet." Puzzled and ready to cry, she made answer: "What'll I do, mamma? They's all the feet I got."

OWING TO THE MANUFACTURERS of certificates of marvelous cures being busy on the Bunnboozelum and Singoe preparations, none of their productions will appear in these paragraphs. If invalids can be induced to give up their "bitters" and other rubbish, that PUNISH THE STOMACH, INDUCE FATTY DEGENERATION AND LEAD TO CHRONIC INEBRIETY and use medicinal agents of known value as in Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya, they will have a reasonable chance of substantial improvement without risk of mischievous results.

Of a miserly man, who died of softening of the brain, a local paper said:—"His head gave way, but his hand never did. His brain softened, but his heart couldn't."

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ, worth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still, we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good, honest made Piano at from $185 to $575, and a good honest Organ, (not all stops,) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if no pleasee no keepee, as the Chinaman would say. For the past ten years we have sent both Pianos and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish for a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments, you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood, always sells us more. Sarsaparilla

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Rumors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY

Is the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

NO QUORUM.—There was no meeting of the School Board on Tuesday evening, for want of a quorum. The members present were Messrs. Stevenson, Rutherford, Weir and Sproule.

VALUABLE LOTS FOR SALE.—Mr. Dumble will sell in lots the property north of Smith street, from Jas. W. Fitzgerald's residence to the Communication Road. Time of sale will be shortly announced.

ACCIDENT.—A few days ago Mrs. Hunter, of Hales' Bridge, accidentally fell out of a wagon, on Water street, and received injuries more painful than serious.

DON'T FAIL to see the large assortment of new and stylish clothing for Men and Boys made from good material, also Rubber Coats, Shirts, Scarfs, Ties, and underclothing. Hats and caps in all the leading styles at very close prices, W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

THE FIRST STEP has been taken to destroy the illusion that the Midland runs through a wooden country by the arrival here of the first of the engines using coal, via the Grand Junction from Belleville.

A GOOD FILTER.—To have pure water in the house every family should have a good filter, the health and comfort depends largely upon the use of properly filtered water. The liver is the true filter for the blood, and Burdock Blood Bitters keep the liver and all the secretary organs in a healthy condition. It is the grand blood purifying, liver regulating tonic. 17-2t

PICTURESQUE CANADA.—The publishers of this splendid work are getting on much more rapidly than was expected. The agent for Peterborough, Mr. Dodd, has delivered the fifth and sixth numbers of the series, which fulfil the promise of the initial numbers.

AN EXTENSIVE STRIKE.—The newest spot where the N. P. high prices for living break out is with the brakemen of the Grand Junction branch of the Midland. On Monday two of the brakemen struck for higher wages, and got struck—off the pay sheet. The Grand Junction afternoon train from Belleville was worked through by the Station Agent at Belleville, Mr. Healey, and by Conductor Morris, and for amateurs they did exceedingly well. The only place where they "felt like weakening" was when wooding up.

AID TO THE SAULT BRANCH.—It is a gratifying fact that other places besides Peterborough are alive to the importance of an Ontario loop line, like that of the Sault Ste. Marie Railway Company. Resolutions embodying the same principal and adopting the same line of action as those, passed at the special meeting of the Town Council on Monday night, have been passed by the City Council of Belleville, and the Town Councils of Port Hope, Whitby, Cobourg, etc.

MASONIC INSTALLATION.—The following officers-elect of Corinthian Royal Arch Chapter, No. 36, were installed by R. Ex. Comp. Chas. Doeblar of Port Hope, Grand Superintendent of Ontario district at the last regular communications:—

FAREWELL SUPPER.—A remarkably pleasant evening was enjoyed on Monday night last, at the "Darcy House," on the occasion of giving a farewell supper to Mr. Harry Youmans, for the past three years manager of Mr. T. Ruston's drug store, and, who left Peterborough on Tuesday evening, for Toronto, where he assumes managament of a large wholesale drug establishment belonging to his uncle. The table was furnished with all the rare delicacies the season could possibly supply, and reflected the highest credit on the catering ability of "mine host" of the Darcy House, who, during the evening was highly complimented on the taste he had displayed and the excellence of the confections and eatables of the spread. About twenty-four friends of the guest honored the occasion; and while they all, at the time, manifested the greatest pleasure and good-fellowship the auspicious gathering certainly adduced, every one present deeply regretting the departure of one who had been a sociable companion and sincere friend during his residence in this town. After the disposal of the viands, the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in song and sentiment, the usual toasts and responses on such occasions being in the programme. The "wee small hours" had far advanced ere the happy party broke up, after bidding a God-speed and au revoir to the honored guest of the evening.

We have received communications from a "Granger," respecting the "Mutual Aid," and from an Enniskore correspondent, but we are compelled to hold over both till next issue.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The registrations made at the Clerk's office, show that during April Peterborough gained by fourteen births, double the number taken away by death—7, not to speak of the prospective gain in population implied in the three marriages recorded.

LACROSSE CLUB MEETING. There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Lacrosse Club, held in the Choate House on Thursday evening of last week. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights were selected as nights for practice—to begin at seven o'clock. The fifteen new members added at the meeting makes the total membership three score and ten.

PETERBOROUGH'S POPULATION.—The population, according to the roll of the assessors, now on file in the clerk's office, is now 7,010, an increase of nearly 200—198 over the figures given by the census returns, as taken by the enumerators about a year ago. This is a very gratifying showing for a year, considering the heavy draughts made on our numbers by the North-West land mania. At this rate the next census will find us with a population of about ten thousand.

PERSONAL.

Mr. John White returned home, from Michigan, on Tuesday last.

Messrs. A. Elliott, R. H. Fortye, and Geo. Brown returned to Peterborough on Tuesday evening, from Winnipeg. They look none the worse of the trip.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Henry Rubidge is another example of the recognition of merit that so generally falls to the lot of Peterborough boys abroad, and heartily congratulate him on his appointment as Auditor of the Chicago and Eastern Railway.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, son of J. F. Dennistoun, Esq., Q. C., is a member of the staff of Queen's College Journal, Kingston. If Mr. D., as a journalist, succeeds as well as he has done as a student, he may be hailed as a new and shining light of the editorial fraternity.

Mr. Fred H. Sawers has not only passed his primary examination at Trinity Medical School and before the College of Physicians and Surgeons, but has also cleverly captured the prize for proficiency in Materia Medicia.

Norwood Register:—Mr. Frank Sandy left here on Monday last for Peterboro, to fill a position in the head office of the Midland Railway in that town. Frank has, during a residence of some seven years in our midst, made a great number of friends, who all deplore his departure exceedingly and with whom we join in wishing him every success.

Lindsay Post:—Mr. A. Rutherford, Peterboro's colossal contractor, was in town for a few days. He looked over the architectural beauties of the town and was favorably impressed with Lindsay's importance. Mr. Rutherford has been a town councillor for nineteen years and moreover chairman of several important committees. When it is decided to salary city fathers Coun. Ruthertord will have wallets of back pay coming to him.

Port Hope News:—Mr. W. B. Ferguson Superintendent of the Midland railway, has been moving his household furniture to Peterborough this week. He is the kind of citizen that Port Hope can ill afford to lose. His many friends regard with great satisfaction his promotion to the Superintendency of the amalgamated lines. We have no doubt but that in his more enlarged sphere he will acquit himself to the entire satisfaction of the management of the road.

Mr. Robert Christie, ex-M. P. for North Wentworth, jointly with Dr. O'Reilly, has been appointed Provincial Inspector of Prisons and Charities for Ontario. It was thought by the Government to be desirable that one of the inspectors should be an experienced man of business, and Mr. Christie had been selected because, of his high qualifications and well-known ability in this capacity. He will have charge of the Central Prison, the Mercer Reformatory, and the reformatory at Penetanguishene. The inspection of the prisons and charities east of Toronto is also assigned to him.

It is a matter of regret that Dr. H. C. Burritt has decided upon Toronto as the more extended field for the practice of his profession. He is preparing to remove to that city. We are glad to know that it is no want of love for Peterborough that has decided him in taking this step, but country practice is to arduous for his health, which has, to some extent, suffered in consequence, so that he will take a short rest before entering upon his new duties in Toronto. He will be succeeded in his practice by Dr. Halliday, of Grafton, who will come highly recommended, personally, as well as professionally.

The solicitude evinced by our first magistrate for the welfare of Peterborough is really affecting. He was in Chatham on Friday last, looking, no doubt, for a bargain in plank, for the repair of Hunter street crossings. Ill-natured persons insinuate that the visit was made with reference to the discharge of his duties as wire-puller-general of the Conservative party. But Mayor Smith is not the man to neglect the interests of the town for mere party purposes. What if he does miss a few meetings of the town council? The newly gerrymandered constituencies must be organized, and the petty local interests of Peterborough sink into insignificance before those of the great Conservative party.

Dr. P. H. Bryce, M. A., of Guelph, has been appointed Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health. His appointment will be eminently satisfactory both to the profession and the public. In 1876 Dr. Bryce graduated in Toronto University, holding the gold Medal and University College McMurrich Silver Medal as the first medals in Natural Sciences. During the years 1876, '77 and '78 he was Professor of Chemistry in the Agricultural College, Guelph, where chemical physics formed an important part of his work. In 1880 he gained the Graduating Scholarship in Toronto School of Medicine, and the same year won the Double First SilverMedals when graduating as M. B. in Toronto University. In 1880 he obtained the Licentiate Degree of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Edinburg. Dr. Bryce has has been as successful as a practitioner as as he was as a student. His scientific acquirements will be of much service in his new position, and the Provincial Board of Health are to be congratulated on securing him for their Secretary.

In the boat race for the championship of England and $5000 stakes on Monday, Hanlan crushed the Cornstalk completely, winning with ridiculous ease. Indeed he was so far ahead at the finish that he turned back to find Trickett and meeting him started on even terms again but left him far behind before the winning stake was reached the second time. No betting at 6 to 1 on Hanlan.

THE FOOT-BALL FIGHT.

Friday afternoon of last week witnessed a very pleasant and brisk bout at foot-ball, between Cadets of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and a home team. The game was played on the Ashburnham cricket field. The following are the names of the gentlemen comprising the two teams:—

CADETS.—Messrs. Davidson, Duff, Greenwood, Joly, Stairs, Von Straubenzie, Von Iffland, Taylor, Campbell, Hooper, Carruthers, Weller, Twining and Woodman.

THE HOME TEAM.—W. Budden, captain, O. Bennett, N. D. Beck, J. H. Carnegie, G. Giroux, W. J. Hallett, G. W. Hatton, F. W. G. Haultain, J. Morris, R. McLeod, G. C. Roger, E. A. Peck, A. St. A. Smith, E. Snyder.

There was a marked difference in the physique of the respective teams. The Cadets generally out-weighing the members of the home team, a fact that gave the visitors, in a game where weight counts so much at times, a decided advantage. Besides, the Cadets have a constant physical training, while the members of the home team are exclusively engaged in office work, and consequently their muscular development must be necessarily inferior to men inured to exercise and hard training as a business. For a short time after the drop of the ball, the play was pretty evenly balanced, but the better wind of the Cadets soon began to be apparent, as the leather seemed to take on a stronger predilection for Peterborough goal, which was, however, pluckily defended by McLeod. Play went on with varying success till Tayloy of the Cadets sent the sphere spinning between the flags, securing a goal for Kingston. Play was continued only a short time longer, when time was called, and, of course, the match could not be completed. There were examples of superior play on both sides. During the evening the Cadets enjoyed the hospitalities of the home team, at Faucher's hotel, and the spread provided, maintained Mr. F.'s old reputation as a first-class caterer.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

GLORYING IN THEIR SHAME.

The past week has not been a very eventful one in the capital. Parliament, as a parliament, has been dull; as individual members, they have been very busy studying up the Redistribution Bill in twos and threes about the lobbies and in the committee and smoking rooms, the Tory members, with an unblushing audacity, glorying in the trick. The Reform members are justly indignant at the infamy of the thing, its whole scope and design being so plainly a fradulent attack on the liberties of the people of Ontario, by robbing the majority of their right to political rule, and making it possible for the minority to have a larger representation in parliament than the majority.

TO BE BULLIED THROUGH.

It is said an effort will be made to crowd this bill through in a hurry, so far as possible; all discussion will be choked off. When the second reading comes on, the bellowing Quebec Tories, will, no doubt, get the hint to bellow their best when any member of the Opposition gets up to dissect the deformity. Singing, cat calls, pounding, and scraping of desks will be the order of the day and night, in the enlightened assembly, known as the Parliament of Canada, in this year of grace, eighteen hundred and eighty-two. If it be possible, Parliament will break up about the thirteenth, at least, so says dame rumor. Then for little breathing time will be given you. The writs are to be issued at once, and the election will be hurried through before harvest. There is nothing the Tories dread so much as to have the election put off until fall, fearful that peradventure a bad harvest might come about and bring about a state of things we would all deplore, but which they know would show up the dishonesty and humbug they preached in 1878, when they did not scruple to say that it was Mr. Mackenzie's government that was the cause of the bad times. This, too, when hard times was almost the universal rule the world over. Well, they came in, and about the time of their advent the world shook off its weight of commercial stagnation and there was a general season of prosperity inaugurated in the United States, Britain, and the world generally. Our lumber interests prospered greatly, by reason of the prosperity that set in in the United States and England, and all this prosperity, it has been claimed, with an unblushing impudence and dishonesty was brought about by the N.P. It came and the results under the old tariff would have been greater than under the N. P. Had the old tariff been in force money would have been saved by every household, and especially by the farmer and laboring man. Under the N. P. the results of our day of prosperity has gone into the pockets of the cotton and sugar lords, and it has left the farmer and laboring man just where it found him. The present Government have shown a disposition to and combination, that had for its object the fleecing of the general public. Trusting, no doubt, that these syndicates and combinations would come to their relief in the day of trial which approaches.

TO YOUR TENTS, O ISRAEL,

IN SPITE OF THE N. P.,

FAVOR EVERY KIND OF MONOPOLY

THE WIMBLEDON TEAM.

There has been considerable talk in social and military circles about the selection that it is understood has been made of a commander for the Wimbledon team. It has been urged that heretofore merit, from a military point of view, and rank have been taken into account. The gentleman, who, it is said, is to have the honor is a member of the Civil Service, and until very recently was called Captain. A few years ago he was a strong social card, and great society man, a pleasant gentleman, who was found very useful as a kind of factotum by the President of the Dominion Rifle Association when he wanted to give a lunch at the range. At the opening of the matches, latterly, society has not generally smiled on the gallant Captain—pardon, Major. Society has a reason that it would not be discreet to mention, and the gallant gentleman would, no doubt, like to flourish in pastures new, and has urged his patron to get him the appointment. What he knows about military matters might easily be forgotten by a military cadet, and he not be plucked at an examination, and as for his shooting ability, I am told the elephant barring accident, at a hundred yards. Military men who have seen service at the front and at the annual camps, and have honourably obtained to the rank of Colonel, feel that it is rather hard, and a step in the wrong direction to put this carpet knight into the position, over their heads. It has been suggested that he be made a Colonel at once by our war office, so that at least he would be all right so far as rank is concerned.

JUMBO WOULD BE QUITE SAFE

THE RIDEAU CANAL

and our river navigation has opened, and the season promises to be a busy one. Since early spring the shipwrights and painters have been very busy repainting and furinshing up the various crafts. Many new barges have been built and one or two tow steamers. The prosperity that has overtaken this branch of trade is, of course, entirely due to the revival of the lumber trade.

The season is very backward, and but little spring work has been done by the farmers. Some little ploughing on high land, but in low places it is yet too wet and the frost is scarcely out of the ground.

BE READY FOR THE FRAY.

In conclusion, permit me to say to every intelligent patriotic reader of your paper, that he has a work to do, that it were well he set about the doing at once. Let him or her, for that matter, work and work hard to overthrow the present Government. A Government that rules for the advantage of the few against the many; a Government that has some of the most corrupt and unscrupulous men in it that ever were in power in this Dominion or Old Canada; a Government that are ready to do any infamous thing to maintain themselves in power; that have been creating monopolies and combinations; that will eat out the vitals of the body politic; that will make the mass of the people bond slaves to the monopolists, and in the end produce anarchy and bloodshed. The elections are near at hand, work, work, work. Yours is the cause of right and evenhanded justice to all, as against wrong and infamous political trickery, to favor the few.

DOESN'T FANCY THE SITUATION.

I see by the way, that the eloquent and influential member for West Peterborough does not altogether fancy facing the music. He has, no doubt, sat in judgment on himself and voted himself unfit, gotten into the balances, so to speak, and weighed himself and found he was much too light. Should he venture to come forward, I have no doubt the electors of West Peterborough will elect him to stop at home. So mote it be.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FISH.

Last Friday Mr. Parker, from the Government fish breeding establishment at Newcastle, Ontario, arrived by the noon train with three cans containing 20,000 young salmon trout, and 10,000 young white fish. The cans were removed to the Steamer "Cruiser," and a few, interested in the fish supply of our back lakes, took their place on board, and the steamer started for Boshink Narrows, where it was intended to introduce them to their new home in Clear Lake. Mr. George Cochrane, our fishery Inspector, was taken on board along with Col. Rogers, and John Hull, Esq., was picked up at Mount Julien. The Narrows was soon reached and the young fry deposited in places selected by Mr. Cochrane, and left with best wishes for their future growth. Mr. Parker, the officer in charge, is one of the most obliging and courteous officials your correspondent has met for a long time, seeming to take a pleasure in affording information and answering the many questions put by those on board in regard to fish, their habits, &c., a courtesy which was appreciated by all. Shortly after leaving Young's Point on the home trip, Mr. Cochrane created great admiration by killing a loon with a rifle ball, distant some 150 yards, while the steamer was moving at the rate of 10 miles an hour. The signal to stop was given and the bird brought on board, which proved to be a magnificent specimen, and one which when stuffed and mounted, will serve to remind Mr. Cochrane of the trip for years to come.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.

The regular meeting of the village Council was held in the Council Chamber, on Monday evening, the 8th inst. The Reeve, R. C. Strickland, in the chair. Present, Councillors McWilliams, Cox and Hull. Minutes of former meeting read and on motion adopted. A petition was presented from a number of ratepayers, asking for a sidewalk on the south side of Church street. A second petition was presented, asking for a sidewalk on the north side of the line from Church to Prospect street. Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. McWilliams,—That the petitions for sidewalks be received and referred to the Council, as Committee of the whole.—Carried. Moved by Coun. McWilliams, seconded by Coun. Cox,—That the following accounts be paid, being in accordance with the resolutions as they stand on the minute book:—G. J. Galvin, work, $3.00; J. Watson, work, $5.00, total, $8 00.—Carried. Isaac Garbutt, sen., spoke in reference to the speed the trains on the M. R. R. ran through the village, also in reference to the swamp drains. Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. McWilliams, and adopted,—That the Clerk be instructed to write to Geo. A. Cox, Esq., President of the M. R. R., that complaints are made to this council that trains are run at a greater rate of speed than we think is safe, and that he be requested to issue orders to have trains ran at a speed not greater than 5 miles an hour inside the corporation. Moved by Coun. McWilliams, seconded by Coun. Hull,—That the sum of $450 be expended on the streets and sidewalks this year, and that the same be expended under the direction of this Council as a committee of the whole.—Carried. A by-law to raise the sum of $600 for current expenditure, received its several readings and was ordered to be signed and sealed, and the Reeve and Clerk to discount a note for the same at the Bank of Montreal, Peterborough. The Council then adjourned to meet again at the call of the Reeve.

CANABILISM.

A fight between a Mr. Fagen, foreman for Mr. Haslitt, and an employee named Wm. Storms took place below Young's Point on Monday morning. It seems Storms left his work on Saturday and went to town, on his return on Monday the foreman took him to task about it. Storms without any warning piled in and in the scrimage that followed bit off the lower lip and all the flesh off the chin of Fagen as well as almost taking off one of his thumbs. Fagen was taken to Peterboro' for medical assistance, while Storms was placed under arrest by P. Young J.P. and sent to town in charge of a special constable, who we understand let him go on his arrival there. It is to be hoped your town police will secure him and he will get his just deserts.

SICK.

Some of our citizens felt fearfully sick when the daily papers gave the supplementary estimates last Friday, and only $25,000 appeared for the Trent Valley Canal, but since the telegram from Sir Charles they have recovered their usual vigor and spirits.

YOUNG'S POINT.

Young's Point seems to be making great progress under the management of Mr. Chalmers. New buildings are going up in all directions, the merchants look happy. The miller has all he can do and so has the blacksmith, while the piles of lumber and number of teams at work prove that the hands in the saw mill are not idle. Even our old friend, P. Young, seems to grow younger and moves around as lively as he did twenty years ago.

NEW MILL.

The water was let into the raceway of the new saw mill on Tuesday; everything will be ready for work by the time the logs arrive, and we expect to see a lot of lumber turned out during the coming summer.

STEAM BOAT DELAYS.

Again, as in past seasons, the steamer Cruiser has been compelled to turn homeward—being unable to get up the lake on Monday, on account of the saw logs. It is time something was done to stop it. The boat owners and the public have rights as well as the lumbermen, and these rights should be enforced. There is no necessity, except on rare occasions, why the boat channel should be blocked, and then only for a short time. In most instances, the foremen do what they can to oblige, but the exceptions ought to be taught a lesson.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Lakefield School Board was held in the council chamber, on Tuesday evening, the 9th inst. G. J. Galvin in the chair. Present, Messrs. Isbister, Saunders and Dr. Caldwell. The minutes of last meeting read and adopted. The report of attendance for the month of April from the head master was received. Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Isbister,—That the following accounts be paid:—James Jackman, work, $1.25; W. H. Casement, supplies, $1.25

A FOUL DEED.

Murder of Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke.

Stabbed by Assassins While Walking in Phœnix Park, Dublin.

DUBLIN, May 6.—Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke were horribly murdered this evening.

It seems impossible to believe that Lord Fredrick Cavendish is dead. At twelve o'clock he rode through the streets of Dublin in the train of the Lord-Lieutenant, amid the enthusiastic shouts and cheers of thousands of spectators. At one o'clock he stood in the Council Chamber of Dublin Castle, repeating slowly and solemly after the Clerk the words of the official oath; he kissed the Testament and signed the register. Under Secretary Burke was there in court costume, and his duty was to read the Queen's letter directing the sword of State to be handed to the Earl of Spencer.

THE STORY OF THE MURDER.

After the ceremony the Chief Secretary went to his apartment and remained there till six o'clock. He then left the castle and proceeded on foot to the Chief Secretary's lodge in the park. He knew the way well, for he had been there often when his brother, the Marquis of Hartington, was Chief Secretary. Half an hour later Mr. Burke left the castle and overtook Lord Fredrick at the park gate. He got off the car and both walked along the main road through the park. It is presumed that Lord Fredrick wished to inspect his quarters before dining with Earl Spencer at the vice-regal lodge. The Lord-Lieutenant had only a few minutes previously ridden out to the lodge with his attendants, and was walking in the garden when he observed a scuffle going on three hundred yards distant on the road. He thought it was only a brawl, but gave directions that a policeman should be sent to see what was the matter. Little did he think that his two intimate friends and chief advisers were being butchered before his face. A common hack car drove up, and four rough-looking fellows jumped off, the driver remaining in his seat. The assassins and in a couple of seconds the awful crime was committed. A most minute examination of the bodies shows that Lord Fredrick was stabbed through the right lung, with a deep wound through the neck and another in the side. His right arm was broken, and the flesh was much lacerated. It is evident that his lordship must have put out his arm to ward off the blows, and received several stabs in rapid succession. His coat was much torn, and blood was oozing in large quantities from his mouth and nostrils. Mr. Burke's body was fearfully mutilated. His throat was cut across, his windpipe protruding. There was a wound in his breast going through the base of his heart, and a third about two inches long on the left side of his neck, under the ear.

RUSHED ON THEM WITH DAGGERS,

The foul deed excites the deepest horror throughout the whole word. The land leagues and all the respectable Irishmen repudiate the assassins, and are anxious for the arrest of the assassins, which has not yet been done.

MR. BURNHAM EXPLAINS.

The following is the explanatory letter of Mr. Burnham, referred to in our last issue:—

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR.—I notice in several of the late issues of your paper that you charge me with shirking the votes on the Boundary question and Mr. Blake's motion in reference to Commercial Treaties. On both these occasions I was unavoidably absent from Ottawa, but if I had been present, I should have voted in each case with the majority. Sitting in the House of Commons, representing not local or provincial interests only, but those of the whole Dominion as well, I should have voted to refer the question of the Boundary to a judicial decision, so as to have it settled satisfactorily to the other Provinces of the Dominion, and, at the same time, ensure Ontario obtaining her rights. You speak of Ontario being robbed by this vote. Robbers do not usually appeal to the Courts. As Mr. Blake's motion was virtually a declaration of independence and separation from Great Britain, I could not, as a strong supporter of British connection, have voted for it. I hope you will publish this explanation in your next issue.

Yours, etc.,
JOHN BURNHAM.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 11, 1882.

Railway Monopoly in the North-West.

The people of the Canadian North-West have been, during the past few weeks, tasting the bitter fruit of railway monopoly. The only road by which an entrance can be effected into that country, is the St. Paul and Manitoba line, which is owned by the principal shareholders in the Canada Pacific Company, and is worked in close connection with the latter line. The St. Paul and Manitoba road is now entirely in the interests of its owners, and as there is no rival, it can bid defiance to competition—thanks to the Canadian Government. It can change practically what it pleases, and furnish what kind and quantity of accommodation for the money, it feels disposed to furnish. As a natural result, its arrangements for meeting the requirements of the immigration season were very inadequate and thousands of people have been put to the most cruel inconvenience, in order that a few capitalists may pocket large dividends. That the people of the North-West know just where the shoe pinches, is evident from the following resolution which was unanimously carried at a recent meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade:

"That this Board, representing the commercial community of Winnipeg, consider it their duty to call the serious attention of all persons and parties interested, to the great injury being inflicted on the Province and through it upon the Dominion, by the complete break down of the most ordinary means of transportation which has occurred on the only railway running from St. Paul to the boundary of the Province; that it has been known for a long time that large numbers of people and great quantities of freight would require transportation into Manitoba this year; that no adequate steps have been taken by the authorities of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway, to prepare for the work which they undertook to do for the public and that, as a consequence, most serious loss and injury are being inflicted on Manitoba and the whole of Canada; that this Board desires to enter a solemn protest against the manner in which the interests of the Province are being sacrificed that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway, to the Government at Ottawa, and every Board of Trade in the Dominion."

The despatch which contains the above resolution, states that the meeting was a large and representative one and the Speaker insisted, as the proper remedy, on the Government allowing the construction of such local lines as will enable other roads to compete with the St. Paul and Manitoba line for a share of the traffic. The proprietors of the Northern Pacific are also, to a large extent, proprietors of the Manitoba South-Western. The latter line, when completed to within a few miles of the frontier, as it soon will be, could be connected with a northern branch of the Northern Pacific at slight expense. But the present Government have determined not to allow the connection to be made, and the country cannot get any relief from that quarter.

A few weeks ago the charter granted by the Manitoba Legislature for the construction of the Manitoba South-Eastern Railway, which was intended to connect at some point with the Northern Pacific, was disallowed by the Dominion Government on the ground that the contract with the Syndicate required that they should have a monopoly for twenty years. It remains to be seen whether the Manitoba people will put up with this treatment or not, but if they do, they are less public spirited than we give them credit for being, and deserve the execration of the rest of the Dominion. Sooner or later this monopoly must be broken up, and if the people of the North-West cannot manage to get relief by their own influence, they will find plenty of backing in the other Provinces.

Bureau of Industries.

Among the useful legislative improvements enacted under the leadership of Attorney-General Mowat, at the last session of the Ontario Parliament, was an Act which passed, providing for the establishment of a Provincial Bureau of Industries. The object of the organization is to collect information respecting the condition of the various farm crops, live stock, etc., at different periods of the year, and from different localities to tabulate these particulars, and distribute the information thus gathered, where it may be most effective. Such associations already exist in many of the States of the Union and have been found productive of much good. If the information thus sought was promptly supplied, the Bureau of Industries could, very early in the year, forecast, with much probability, the coming harvest, state the prevalent diseases of cattle, announce, pretty correctly, which particular cereal was grown most extensively, and make known the extent of insect ravages, etc., etc. It is obvious that this and similar information would be most useful, valuable and important, and would throw much light on the capabilities of certain districts for agricultural purposes, rotation of crops, consumption of grain, stock of same on hand, and such like items of general interest to farmers and others. Moreover, the publication and distribution of this knowledge, when collected, would be a first-class method of drawing attention to the resources of Ontario as an agricultural province, among the farmers of Great Britain—a matter to which we have referred on a previous occasion.

The bureau for Ontario has now been fully organized, and already the Secretary has issued a circular, asking for the subjoined information:—

What is the general condition of fall wheat? What is its condition on the various soils? To what extent, if at all, has it been injured by spring frosts? To what extent, if at all, by worms or insects? Has any wheat land been plowed up? Or is any likely to be? To what extent? Is winter rye grown? What is its condition? What is the condition of the clover crop, and how has it been affected by winter or spring frosts? What is the condition of live stock—horses, cattle, sheep and pigs? Has any disease appeared among them, and if so, of what nature, and what have been its effects? Was there a sufficiency or a scarcity of fodder supply throughout the winter? What progress has been made with spring work? When did plowing and seeding begin? In what stage is vegetation and what is the appearance of the fruit trees? How has the winter affected fruit trees? Is any considerable quantity of wheat in farmers' hands above reserves for home consumption? Is there any considerable quantity of hay and oats? Are there any considerable number of fat and store cattle. General remarks.

We sincerely trust his efforts will meet with abundant success.

Editorial Notes.

THE Mail wants the "Blakes, Patersons and Charltons," abolished. Cut this out, and save it as one honest utterance of the Tory organ. No doubt it is just what the Mail wants, just what Sir John is aiming at in carving the constituencies represented by these gentlemen. They are stumbling blocks and stones of offence. The criminal resents the espionage of the "minions of the law." He wants them taken out of the way; then he can pursue his evil calling unrestrained. It would be a happy day for the Government that brought it freedom from the criticism and watchfulness of these dreaded men, the Blakes, Patersons, Charltons, et al. Then contract-making, Onderdonkiana, jobbery, corruption, nepotism, railway monopolies, franchise robbery, and every form of outrage against the rights and interests of the people, could flourish unmolested. The barefaced enunciation of this evil principle by the Mail is simply monstrous. No honest Conservative can endorse it. Honest Conservatives regard the Government they support as honest, only when well watched.

IT is stated that the Princess Louise will join her forlorn Lorne at Ottawa, about the first of June, and perhaps go to British Columbia with him in September.

THE MUTUAL AID.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

SIR,—Being a regular reader of your paper, I have been very much interested in a controversy between brothers Johnston and Davidson, and some others, in regard to the Mutual Aid, and, after having carefully perused the different letters written by them, and from information obtained from other sources, and also from the fact that the Mutual Aid advocates have failed in refuting any of the statements made by brother Johnston, except as to who were the originators of the scheme, therefore I believe brother Johnston is right. But if they have failed in convincing the public that brother Johnston is wrong, they have succeeded most admirably in giving the Mutual Aid an unenviable notoriety. We are proud that we have in our order one of the ability and perseverance of brother Johnston, who, from a sense of duty to the public, has exposed what he thought, and what a great many others think, was wrong in the Mutual Aid organization, and the worthlessness of those bonds we have heard so much about; and we thought that after brother Johnston had shown that the Government could not receive those bonds, in consequence of their unloyalty, (although they had previously persisted that they were deposited with the Government,) they would have said nothing more about them, but then they told us they were deposited with the Provincial Treasurer, and that he was holding them in trust. But why did they select Mr. Wood in preference to any other private individual, if it was not for another blind or make-believe, that, as Mr. Wood is Provincial Treasurer, that they are deposited with the Government, when they are not? But, after all, what do those bonds amount to? They are simply personal bonds conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of the parties to those bonds, and if they do not perform those duties faithfully, what then? Why you just lose all you have paid into their funds, as the whole thing must go down, and you have no security whatever. In regard to that resolution passed at the Dominion Grange, recommending the Mutual Aid to the favorable consideration of the different Granges, the facts are, that after considerable discussion, it passed on condition that the directors of the Mutual Aid would do just what brother Johnston said they had not done, and that was to make by-laws to govern the institution, and to give the people a voice in their proceedings, which shows that the Dominion Grange and brother Johnston were entirely in accord. We regret very much that brother Davidson allowed himself to be so far led astray by designing men, who have something to gain and nothing to lose by the Mutual Aid, to write as he has done. But Lakefield Grange may censure and the agents of the Mutual Aid may abuse brother Johnston, but we can assure him that he has the confidence and the hearty concurrence of a large number in the Grange in the course he has pursued in this matter.

A GRANGER.

A private letter from the corresponding secretary of the Young Men's Liberal Club, Napanee, says that they are "going to scoop Sir John in Lennox,"—and the vigor and vim that is being thrown into the work by the Reform party and this club, go to show that Sir John's chances there may be, perhaps, a little better than Tickell's against Hanlan.

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.40 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by judicious use of stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

Synod of Kingston and Toronto

THIRD SEDERUNT.

The Synod met at two o'clock and was constituted.

A considerable portion of the afternoon was taken up with the appeal case of Mr. Oliver, and it was decided, by a large majority, to dismiss the appeal.

On the application of the Presbytery of Barrie, Mr. C. H. Cook, B.A., was placed on probationary trial for license.

Overtures and applications were received from several Presbyteries, and referred to the General Assembly.

TEMPORALITIES BOARD.

Principal Cavan moved, seconded by Hon. Alex. Morris,—That this Synod having heard that the members of the Temporalties Board, in the discharge of their duty, have become involved in, and made personally responsible for, heavy costs in connection with the recent litigations in the Courts of Canada, and before the Privy Council in England) with regard to the ownership of the Fund, sympathise with these gentlemen in the position in which they are placed, and resolve to bring the matter under notice of the General Assembly, with the view of having it committed to any members of the Church, who may feel disposed, to contribute to a fund for the extinction of the obligations in question.

NEXT PLACE OF MEETING.

It was unanimously agreed, on motion of Mr. Coulthard, seconded by D. Fraser, M.A., that the next meeting of the Synod be held in Chalmer's Church, Guelph, on the first Tuesday in May, 1882, at 7.30, p.m.

FOURTH SEDERUNT.

The Synod met at 7 p.m., on Wednesday evening.

After the usual religious services and routine proceedings, Rev. W. Roger, MaA., convener, read the report of the Committee on which was considered by the Synod.

THE STATE OF RELIGION,

This report, dealing with the chief end and aim of all church work, we devote some space to a synopsis of it:

The Committee stated that they had this year received reports from all Presbyteries within the bounds, with the exception of the Presbytery of Guelph. The congregations sending returns to the assembly's questions were 120 out of 215. Of the 22 congregations in the Presbytery of Peterborough, 12 furnished returns. Last year 113 returns were sent in from 205 congregations. Nearly one-half of the congregations "contributed no information to the church courts of the state of religion and morals within their bounds." The first question on the Assembly's circular asked for evidences of spiritual growth and

PRACTICAL PIETY.

Understood to refer to the numbers and spirit of these in attendance on public worship, and the replies for the most part report favorably of the church-going habits of Presbyterian people generally.

In regard to the subject of

FAMILY RELIGION,

the Committee regret that the information furnished is neither so definite nor favorable as could be desired. In some congregations only one-fifth of the families observe family worship, but in others there is a gratifying improvement in this respect.

There is reported a distinct improvement in "liberality toward the schemes of the church." This year is decidedly in advance of the previous one in this respect. The Committee suggested the adoption of some plan to secure habits of "systematic beneficence."

In regard to the progress made in "bringing the young to an open profession of faith in Christ," the advance is slow but steady in some congregations, while in others great discouragement and perplexity are felt in the backwardness of the youth in openly uniting with the church. But in the congregation of St. Paul's, Bowmanville, early in last year at the first communion over thirty were admitted to the church, of whom twenty were young people. In answer to the query, as "whether any but ordinary means were employed to attain desired results," this session stated that the movement followed a series of evangelistic services, and in other parishes these have also generally been followed with good results.

The question in regard to

encountered in the work, elicits the usual catalogue of varied forms of carnality wealdliness and error. Among the fleshly lusts, intemperance has not now its former prominence, owing partly to the fact that the subject has been made a special one to be dealt with by another committee. Tobacco is another evil that is alluded to for the first time with reprobation.

The tide of worldliness, speculation money hunger and greed of hasty gain are prominent elements in engrossing members of congregations to the exclusion of spiritual interests. The youthful thirst for the theatre, billiard and ball room, pleasure driving, and visiting on the Lord's Day, are also alluded to as very great hindrances to spiritual thrift. In regard to the removal of these hindrances, there are various suggestions,—one that harmless counter-attractions should be encouraged, but the committee have little faith in these methods, preferring the employment of the more scriptural way—"the expulsive power of a new affection."

In considering means for reaching outsiders and neglectors of Church attendance evangelistic services are again recommended.

In conclusion, the committee submitted several

RECOMMENDATIONS, which, after warm and earnest discussion, were agreed to as follows:—

That the several Presbyteries be recommended to appoint a committee, whose duty it shall be to render assistance to pastors and sessions in conducting whenever, in the judgment of sessions, it shall be deemed advisable to hold such services, and that such committees may institute services in such neglected districts as the Presbyteries may direct.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES,

That the Synod Committee on the State of Religion be instructed to co-operate with those Presbyterial Committees, and with the Ministers within the Synod's bounds on the conduct of special services.

That the Synod, learning with satisfaction that an increased number of conferences upon religious life and work have been held during the past year by Presbyteries and Kirk-sessions, recommend that these conferences be continued in connection with the consideration of the annual reports on the state of religion and otherwise, from time to time, as may be found convenient.

That the second Sabbath of October, be agreed upon as a day of

SPECIAL UNITED PRAYER

and preaching, on the subject of revival, with the hope that the great Head of the Church may bless this measure, to the stimulating of the Church's hope and the increase of her power and prosperity in the land.

That the instructions to the Committee on the State of Religion to carefully consider the best means to carry on evangelistic services be renewed.

FIFTH SEDERUNT.

Synod met at the usual morning hour. After routine, Rev. R. Torrance, Clerk, read the report of the Committee on Bills and Overtures, recommending an order of business that was adopted.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Rev. John Brown, Treasurer, presented the report of the Treasurer and Finance Committee, which was adopted.

TEMPERANCE.

Mr. Fraser, M.A., the Convenor, read the report of the Committee on Temperance. The report, which dealt lengthily with the question, showed that temperance sentiments and work had made great progress during the past year, was considered seriatim and its recommendations adopted as follows:

That the Sessions be recommended to consider the best methods of advancing the cause of temperance, and appoint committees to carry out the decisions arrived at.

That the Presbyteries be recommended to consider the propriety of arranging for

COURSES OF LECTURES

to be delivered within their bounds, especially upon aspects of the Temperance question, which are not usually dealt with in the pulpit, and to exercise due care and watchfulness over the circulation of temperance literature of a healthy character.

That in view of the physical and moral effects of alcohol, the attention of the Government be called to the desirability of introducing into the reading books in use in our public schools some lessons setting forth the results of scientific investigation upon the subject, and that the clerk be instructed to send a copy of this resolution to the honorable the Minister of Education for Ontario.

That we recommend our members to unite with other temperance workers in organizing in our counties and townships, branches of the Dominion Alliance or any other well conducted association, having for its object the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The following committee on temperance was appointed:—Rev. Messrs. D. Fraser, M. A., Convenor, Prof. McLaren, B. D., John Smith, J. B. Mullan, James Cameron, A. Macdonald, B. A., E. Cockburn, M. A., R. J. Beattie, W. Coulthard, W. Crozier, J. Straithe, M. A., ministers, and Jas. Gray, Alex. Gordon, and Thos. Yellowlees, elders.

It was further agreed to:

That in addition to the recommendations of the committee, the Synod overture the General Assembly to instruct its committee on temperance to correspond with other churches with the view to united action in the suppression of the evils of intemperance.

The case of Joshua Fraser was disposed of by the following resolution:—That the Synod finds, that in view of the fact that Mr. Fraser has not complied with the instructions of the General Assembly in his case, the Synod feels itself precluded from proceeding further in his case until such instructions have been implemented, the case in the meantime to remain in statu quo.

The hour of adjournment having arrived, the Synod agreed to sit and hear a report from the Presbytery of Peterborough, announcing that an amicable settlement of the matter connected with the appeal of Rev. Alex. Bell and others, had been arrived at.

The Synod then adjourned.

SIXTH SEDERUNT.

The Synod resumed at 3 o'clock.

The reports of the different Presbyteries of the Synod were attested to as correctly kept.

The appeal case of John Barclay was then taken up, and it was decided to refer the papers to the General Assembly with the request to appoint a commission with assembly powers to examine the whole matter involved. Professor McLaren, Rev. Mr, Wilson and Honorable A. Morris were appointed to state and fully explain the reference before the Supreme Court.

THE BIBLE.

A communication from the Bible Society elicited the following resolutions:—

That in connection with all Evangelical branches of the Church of Christ, the Presbyterian Church recognizes the vast importance of the circulation of the Word of God, and this Synod pledges itself to continue heartily to employ its influence in promoting in the congregations under its care the work and objects of the Upper Canada Bible Society.

THE BELL APPEAL CASE.

The Synod then took up the appeal of Alexander Bell and other members of the Kirk session of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, from a decision of the Presbytery of Peterborough. The parties to the case were called to the bar.

On the question being put as to adherence to the Appeal, a minute of Presbytery was read, stating that an amicable settlement of the case had been made, providing that a certain aforesaid minute of Presbytery be deleted, but leave to erase having been refused, except unconditionally, the matter of appeal was entered into, and the pleadings were made, lasting the remainder of the session, Rev. F. R. Beatty having the floor at the hour of adjournment.

SEVENTH SEDERUNT.

Synod resumed. After routine the pleadings in the appeal case were continued by Rev. Mr. Beatty, Rev. Mr. Henderson and Col. Haultain, on behalf of the Presbytery, and Mr. D. Pentland on behalf of self.

Rev. Mr. Bell occupied some time with rejoinder, the parties were removed from the bar, and the Synod proceeded to pass judgment on the case.

THE APPEAL DISMISSED.

A motion to invest a committee with Synod powers to issue the case was lost.

A motion to sustain the appeal and to direct the Kirk sessions of St. Andrew's to give a decision in the Pentland's matter without unnecessary delay was also lost.

A motion that the appeal be dismissed was carried by a majority of 19 to 15, and it became the judgment of the Synod

From this judgment, Rev. Mr. Bell, on behalf of self and Mr. Thos. Carnegie, on behalf the Kirk sessions of St. Andrew's, appealed to the General Assembly which will be held in St. John, New Brunswick some time in June. Rev. Principal Cavan, Rev. Professor Gregg and Rev. Mr. Henderson, of Cobourg, were appointed to defend the action of the Synod.

The hour having become late, other business was transacted, and the Synod brought its Peterborough session to a close about 2 o'clock a. m. on Friday morning.

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ, worth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still, we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good, honest made Piano at from $185 to $575, and a good honest Organ, (not all stops,) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if no pleasee no keepee, as the Chinaman would say, For the past ten years we have sent both Pianos and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish for a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments, you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood, always sells us more. Address, for prices, etc.,

WINTRY BLASTS ARE SPECIALLY FRUITFUL of coughs and colds. Children who romp out of doors during the cold season are very subject to them, and no household where there are children should be unprovided with an effectual safeguard against lung disease. Such a one is Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a preparation in which the former ingredient possesses the utmost purity, and where its well-known pulmonic properties are increased by the admixture of the lime and soda salts. Of these the basis is phosphorus, an essential constituent of the brain, the muscles and the blood, and long recognized by physicians as a strengthening and fortifying agent of surpassing efficacy. The waste of bodily tissue consequent upon lung, chest, and throat complaints is promptly checked by this time-honored remedy, and the irritation of the breathing organs, arrested and overcome by it. The article has been pronounced by physicians the best preparation of the class, and this professional verdict has found an echo in the grateful acknowledgments of many who, despairing of aid from any source, have nevertheless sought and found relief from it. Persons whose chest and lungs are weak should use it as a preventive. Asthma, coughs, colds, spitting of blood, bronchitis and laryngitis are promptly remedied by it, and it also possesses properties as a blood purifier, very manifest in various types of scrofula. Prepared only by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Canada.

NEWCOMBE PIANOS

BOSTON, 14th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS.—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,
GEO. W. STRATHY, Mus. Doc.,
Professor of the Chair of Music of the University of Trinity College, Toronto, &c.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 11, 1882.

Ourselves.

Owing to the continued increase in the circulation and advertising patronage of the EXAMINER, we have determined on enlarging our paper from its present size, forty-eight columns, to fifty-six. To enable us to do this we have purchased from the celebrated firm of Millar & Richard, Edinburgh, Scotland, a new, large Wharfdale press. The job department of the EXAMINER is also steadily increasing, and to enable us to turn all orders out with the utmost despatch we have also purchased a new Demy Cylinder Wharfdale Jobber from the same firm. The outlay for the presses and increased steam power will be over three thousand dollars. The presses will be in running order about the first of July, and the enlargement will follow immediately after. Our present place of business being inadequate, we will either remove to other premises at that time, or have an extension erected in the meantime to our present commodious building.

Misplaced Merriment.

The Review in an elephantine attempt at making merry, expands itself over a column and a quarter of space to say that the meeting of the Reform Association of West Peterborough on Saturday, was not conspicuous for enthusiasm, and that the attendance was small. It is true that, owing to the busy season, the large hall was not crowded—true that there were not more than three times as many persons present as put in an appearance at the Tory gathering on the previous Wednesday. No nomination was made, because there had been no definite decision come to beforehand, in the matter of a choice. They who live in glass houses should not throw stones. The editor of the Review evidently forgot this sage saw when attempting to belittle the Reform meeting. He also failed to bear in mind the baker's dozen of Tories, who gathered last Wednesday—a lean band of the faithful got together, only by the persistent and desperate efforts of the wire-puller-general, assisted by his well-known "running" mate. The nomination was not made with any great amount of roof-riving enthusiasm, and it is asserted that Mr. Hilliard would not have been chosen if the scribe of the Review could have foisted himself on the convention. In fact so small, unrepresentative, and divided was the gathering that Mr. H. declined to assent, until, doubtless, he could sound prominent and influential members of the party, who were not present at the meeting, as to their endorsation of his canditure.

East Riding.

We would suggest to the Reformers of the East Riding generally, and to the delegates of each township and village particularly the desirability of there being a good attendance at the convention at Norwood, on Tuesday next, the 16th inst., for the purpose of bringing out a candidate to contest the Riding at the coming General Election. It is not unlikely that the dissolution of Parliament will follow prorogation which is to take place before the middle of the present month, so that time for action is short. We trust that our Reform friends in the East will lose no time in getting ready for the fray.

IF Sir John Macdonald is, according to the Toronto Mail, "comparatively poor" on $20,800 a year, what is the proper word to describe the positive richness of the mechanic, who finds everything he needs to buy made dearer by the N. P.

The Tory View of Redistribution.

Sir John Macdonald and his immediate followers having determined by means of their large and slavish party majority, to arrange the constituencies to their own party advantage, it is interesting to notice how the bill introduced for this purpose is regarded by the Conservative press. That any Tory journal should ever find fault with anything Sir John Macdonald does is inconceivable. If he were to state his belief that two and two make five, there would at once arise from the organs a chorus of endorsation—an expression of the most implicit and child-like belief that he was right and that the discovery of the new truth was simply another illustration of his wonderful sagacity. But there are variations in the way in which the Conservative papers defend the "gerrymandering" bill.

The chief organ in Toronto simply laughs at the whole affair as a good joke. This is quite appropriate in a paper edited by men who were imported from Tory journalistic circles in another Province, and who know nothing, and care as little about the feelings and genius of the people of Ontario. This bill does not touch other Provinces; even the Tories of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia would not stand such an insult. It is reserved for the poor craven-spirited followers of Sir John Macdonald's Government in Ontario, to exhibit to the world the degree of subserviency to which he has succeeded in reducing them by a third of a century of corrupt manipulation.

Occasionally we find a Conservative journal adopting the same tone of insolent mocking as the Mail, but, to their credit be it said, they do not go so far with their insults. More frequently they attempt to justify the bill on the general ground that it is based on the principle of representation of population. That they do not themselves believe this is manifest from the fact that in their demonstrations they touch only on a case here and there, and leave the great majority of the altered constituencies out of sight. Take North York for instance. It has been deprived of the township of Whitchurch and the town of Newmarket, and has received the township of West Gwillimbury and the town of Bradford from South Simcoe. Two strongly Liberal municipalities have been taken away and two strongly Conservative ones added with the effect of leaving the population about where it was. What is the justification for this? Is it the creation of the new constituency of West Ontario, to which Whitchurch and Newmarket have been added? Then what is the reason for creating West Ontario. Neither North Ontario nor South Ontario was before so populous as to call for any change, and if Muskoka was insufficiently represented there was a way to remedy the evil, by giving one of the six new constituencies to Muskoka, Parry Sound, and Algoma Districts. The truth is that the real object of the whole charge was to make, if possible, North and South Ontario and North York safe for Conservative candidates, and leave only West Ontario safe for the Liberals.

The above is only a specimen of what has been done in many other places and in some instances the violation of the principle of representation by population has been open and shameless. From North Bruce the Liberal township of Bruce has been taken away to form a new constituency. This could have been justified on the ground both of geographical situation and of population, but the Liberal townships of Saugeen is made to follow Bruce, giving the north riding less population than it requires, and putting it entirely out of shape—and for no other reason than to make two of the Bruce districts safe for Tory candidates. These and similar instances of the flagrant dishonesty and cowardice manifested in these changes have no defenders, and with respect to them the Conservative party in the House of Commons, and their organs in the Province, stand self-confessed the perpetrators and rebellers of a base political trick.

We are glad to learn and announce that instead of sinking under a sense of discouragement, as the result of the unfair means taken to defeat them, the Liberals of this Province are everywhere rising equal to the occasion. The wrong implicited upon and the insult offered to Ontario in first repudiating the boundary award, and their taking steps to ensure the permanent supremacy of Quebec in Dominion legislation, must be averaged and righted. It depends on the straight forward and patriotic members of the Conservative party, as much as on Liberals, whether the disputed territory shall or shall not become part of Ontario, and whether we shall come into possession of a domain estimated to be worth over a hundred millions of dollars for timber alone. Let the tactics developed in this gerrymandering bill become successful, and if we get that territory at all, it will only be after five years of fighting and another general election. Let these tactics fail and Mr. Blake become Premier, and Ontario will have the disputed territory at once surrendered to her beyond controversy forever. This is the issue, and the more clearly it is borne in mind by the electors the better.

THE Ridgetown Standard a strong Conservative journal, in its last issue comes out with a vigorous denunciation of the infamy of the gerrymandering bill. It shows that the excuse for mangling the constituencies is false, and altogether its remarks are an outspoken manly protest by a supporter of the present Government, against an act which no Conservative, troubled with the first symptoms of honesty, could for a moment endorse.

The Reform Platform.

The EXAMINER was one of the first among Reform papers to forecast the probability of the General Elections being brought on during the present summer. As early as the second of March we stated this as our belief and we see no reason to change it. We are of opinion that on such a matter it would be well to have a fixed and definite date, and so do away with the uncertainty, speculation and mystery which now surround it. We cannot understand the necessity of all this close secrecy, nor do we believe it is well to have the date concealed until the eleventh hour. Neither do we consider it is right to dissolve Parliament before the term for which the members have been elected has fully expired. It would be well in Parliamentary, as in municipal matters, to have, first, a fixed date on which to hold the elections, and second, a full term definitely arranged, which members would be expected to serve complete and entire—provided, of course, no change of Government intervened.

But apart from this, which may be considered a matter for difference of opinion, we, as a party, feel prepared to meet the issue, even should Sir John appeal next month to the country. We believe recent events, and especially the infamous and scandalous nature of the gerrymandering bill, must immediately strengthen our cause. We have been asked to explain the issues upon which the Reform party propose to go to the country. We have done so again and again; and we are well convinced that if these great questions, which make up the Liberal platform, meet with an intelligent and careful consideration at the hands of the electors, and are decided solely on their merits, the result will be victory for the Reform cause throughout the wide Dominion. For the benefit of those who may have conveniently forgotten the various planks distinctly laid down as our platform, we will repeat them:

(1.) Abolition of the taxes on fuel and breadstuffs.

(2.) Opposition to land and railway monopolies.

(3.) An elective Senate, or the overthrow altogether of the present useless Second Chamber.

(4,) Ratification of the Ontario Boundary Award.

(5.) Resistance to the attempts made to destroy Provincial self-government.

(6.) Opposition to the present corrupt methods of giving contracts, at a serious loss to the country at large.

Should this not be considered sufficient, there are other important points, upon which we may have something to say hereafter.

The Iron Duties.

There is no class of duties in the whole Tilley tariff so utterly unjustifiable as those on iron. They violate every sound principle of taxation and do it in the most odious way. Iron is a raw material of almost every industry, and as such it ought, in the interest of manufacturer and consumer alike, to be allowed to come into the country as freely as possible. All classes are interested in having iron cheap, and none more so than the farmers. All agricultural implements are, in their essential parts, made of iron, and anything that adds to the cost of iron, adds to the cost of the implement. Every shoe put on a horse is increased in cost by the tax on iron, and if the blacksmith does not charge enough to cover the duty he must lose it, as he does the duty on his coal. The total repeal of all duties on pig and bar iron, would cause an immediate and very great reduction in the price of dozens of articles used by the farmer, and he would, in the same way, get the benefit of any reduction in the amount of the tax levied upon so indispensable an article. If the public revenue were not sufficient to meet the expenditure there might be some excuse for the iron tax, but with a boasted surplus of four or five millions, the duties on iron and steel are utterly indefensible, and are kept up to their present rate solely for the interest of a manufacturing establishment which helps to keep in his seat the man who once denounced Dr. Tupper as the "High Priest of corruption," but is now his collegue. A few days ago the Hon. Isaac Burpee, in the House of Commons, moved a resolution asking for a reduction of the duties on iron, in the interest of the manufacturers as well as the consumers of manufactured goods. Against so moderate and reasonable a proposal, we find recorded the following names:—

BOWELL,
BURNHAM,
GUILLET,
McQUADE,
WHITE, (Hastings.)
WILLIAMS.

Shirked the vote, as usual:—
HILLIARD.

THE Port Hope Times last week slops over with a column of whine and scold over an article in our last issue, pointing out the prosperity of Peterborough, and attributing it in a great part to the Midland Railway. Envy of Peterborough should not incite the Times to abuse THE EXAMINER. The grapes may be sour, but we are not to blame. It must be confessed that the Times' man is excusable for being ill natured. Port Hope hasn't got a cent of Government pap, that has been so freely distributed, and the neglected Times has even been defrauded of its party "divy" of the Government printing steal.

EVERYBODY will regret to hear that the veteran war-horse, Joseph Rymal, M.P., is retiring from public life, after an honest and faithful service of twenty-five years.

JOHN HACKETT,

GEORGE STREET.

Treat Valley Canal.

In common with the public, and also with the Review, "we are rejoiced to learn" that there has been placed in the supplementary estimates, two hundred and ninety thousand dollars, for locks at Buckhorn, Burleigh, and Fenelon Falls. We heartily endorse the appropriation, believing that the project is feasible and it will have to be built, if not by Sir John, then by Edward Blake. But we may be allowed to express our belief that the amount put down will never be expended. For this doubt there are good reasons. The matter of a grant in this great work has been kept dangling before the electors of this district for four years, and not until the eve of a general election does the Government recognise the importance of the undertaking, and put down an appropriation. The project has been years before the public, and the Government understood its claims as well three or four years ago as they do now—a month, perhaps—before the elections. The Murray canal project has been under discussion fifty years and amounts at different times have been voted. In the last session of the House of Commons, the Government felt that justice could no longer be delayed—the work must be entered upon forthwith, especially in view of the fact that the seat in East Northumberland was vacant, and a show of zeal as to the Murray might affect votes enough to carry the Riding in the Government interest. But the Riding spat forth the sop, and returned Darius Crouter. Since then not a dollar has been expended on constructive work. The Belleville Intelligencer, an inspired (Mackenzie Bowell) Government organ, says that the building of the Murray Canal is not a fixed fact, in language that justifies the interpretation that the Grits are opposed to it, and that the whole project may fall through unless the Government is sustained. We predict that a similar fate awaits the Trent Valley, if the present Government is trusted to. If it honestly intended to do justice to this district, there is no reason why the actual work of building the canal should not have begun years ago. Lack of money was no excuse. The Government could afford to give the Pacific Railway Syndicate three million dollars more than another bona fide company offered to accept. This three million dollars might have been saved, to be expended on the Trent Valley Canal—the estimated amount required—and this important work might now have been in an advanced state of construction. But that wouldn't serve Sir John's purpose. Favours gained are soon forgotten, and the matter could not have been any longer used as a bait for the electors. Either the Government intend to build the canal or the $290,000 grant is a gigantic bribe. Regarding it in this light, which, judging from the past, seems to be the most proper one, it appears that $50,000 apiece is a pretty stout sum to pay for half-a-dosen supporters. The jubilation of the Review over the grant is quite excusable. If we believed that the grant would be expended for the alleged purpose we could heartily join him in his jubilation, but since we do not so believe, our enthusiasm is not inspired by the expectation of a fat office on the Trent Valley Canal. The scribe of the Review is lucky; as the prospect of a seat in Parliament recedes, the "soft sit" of a lock-tender on the canal looms up.

THE barefaced claim of Sir John that the Gerrymandering Bill is based upon representation by population is shown in the fact that in Quebec the constituencies range from 9,296 to 49,432 population. He says that Quebec does not want representation by population, and considers that sufficient excuse for carving up the constituencies of Ontario. With Sir John Quebec is everything—Ontario nothing.

The Cost of Living.

In reference to an editorial paragraph in our last issue, the Review revile us for not filing a bill of particulars in regard to the increased cost of living under the National Perdition. If we did furnish details, our statistical cotemporary would ignore our meaning, as it did when we incidentally alluded to the increased cost of fuel. This it wilfully interpreted to mean cord wood, when it must have very well known that by fuel was meant coal, the direct tax on which leaves no ground for dispute as to its having increased in price. But perhaps the information elicited by Dr. Orton's questions, directed to and answered only by parties that were considered "right," will not be cavilled at. "Has the tariff raised the price of woolen goods?" "Yes," say 289 witnesses. "No," 172. Has it raised the price of cotton goods? Yes, 348. No, 234. The price of hardware? Yes, 351. No, 182. Here are 1066 witnesses, selected carefully by Dr. Orton from the faithful of the party as supporters of the N. P. Yet over two-thirds of this "packed" jury give the verdict that the cost of living, as affected by the use of the three articles dealt with, has increased.

Editorial Notes.

THE test case of Messrs. Jas. Harty & Co., of Kingston, who sued Collector Merritt, of the United States Customs for recovery of duty illegally charged upon certain goods which they exported to the United States has been decided in the United States Circuit Court in their favour.

ANOTHER sign of the trepidation now felt in Government circles at Ottawa is the anxiety of Sir John to conciliate recalcitrant Roman Catholics. John O'Connor has ceased to have any influence with his co-religionists, and there are signs of a disposition to throw him overboard and to renew the dickering with John O'Donohoé. The latter assisted to put Sir John in power, and for four years he has waited in vain, for his reward, whatever it was to be. It is now reported that Sir John is once more trying to smooth his ruffled plumage and get him to work heartily with the Government. Perhaps he can be cajoled, though we would be disposed to doubt it. But if he does assist in successfully running the next contest for Sir John what reason has he for believing he will get anything? He has been fooled once, and will be fooled again and again, to the end of the chapter. John O'Donohoe was for years a member of the Liberal party, and if he wants to find his proper place in political life, he can do so only as a member of the same party. Should he decide otherwise, he will find in the long run that such alliances as he has formed never succeed.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

A White Kid Calendar.

The Spring sittings of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, began in the Court House here, on Monday, at 2 p. m., Hon. Mr. Justice Osler presiding.

THE GRAND JURY

was composed of the following gentlemen: John Hull, foreman; Charles Brealy, John Brown, Hugh Collins, Andrew Douglass, Robert Emerson, Henry Garbutt, Hon. Robert Hamilton, D. Kennedy, R. B. McKee, J. C. Shearin, Thomas Campbell, John Cameron, H.W. Dafoe, James Dolan, John Flood, Thomas Johnson, James McCliggot, William O'Brien, William Wilson, John Young.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE

was substantially as follows:—He observed with great pleasure that the calender indicated that there were no prisoners in jail awaiting trial for crimes, neither were there any out on bail. It was extremely gratifying that in so large and populous a county as Peterborough, six months should have elapsed without a crime grave enough to have come within the jurisdiction of this Court. This state of affairs had happened at three out of the six assizes at which he had presided, which indicated that, on the whole, the people of Canada were law-abiding people, a fact in striking contrast to the state of the country which had, only a day since, witnessed a most infamous deed, the news of which sent a thrill of horror through every breast. There was nothing for the jury to ... and at this busy season he would dismiss them as soon as they had inspected the Court house, jail and County buildings.

CIVIL BUSINESS.

There was only one jury case, and after the jury for this was sworn, his Lordship dismissed the remainder of the petit jury panel.

The case was

ERRINGTON vs. COLEMAN.

An action brought by plaintiff, who, with the other parties lives in Darlington (and Bowmanville,) to recover damages for the wrongful seizure of 302 bushels of barley by Coleman, who is bailiff of the 1st Division Court of Durham. Decision reserved.

BRADBURN v. TOOLE, an action of account, and JAMIESON v. SHIELD, were settled—the former by payment of $525. The court adjourned.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separating it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cur they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

REFORM ASSOCIATION MEETING.

Steps for Thorough Organization Taken.

On Saturday afternoon a meeting of the West Peterborough Reform Association was held in Bradburn's Opera Hall. There was a good attendance, considering the busy season of the year, when it is almost impossible for farmers to leave their farms.

The chair was occupied by Mr. G. Edmison, Chairman of the Association, who, in taking it, said that he had, in view of the present being a crisis in the political history of Canada, thought it his duty to call the meeting to consider the best course to be taken, in view of the possibility of an election in the near future. It was necessary in the first place to organize thoroughly and to select a candidate to contest the riding.

A telegram was handed in to the Chairman from Geo. A. Cox, Esq., regretting his inability to be present, owing to the claims of important business.

Mr. Bertram said that he hoped while he was preparing a resolution to submit to the meeting, the older and wiser heads would tender their advice in the premises. He heartily approved of the action of the chairman in calling the meeting. The present was indeed a crisis, in which we were living. If we considered the course and action of the present Government, it was forced upon us to ask whither we were drifting. He referred tersely, but strongly to the North-West Land Regulations, the Boundary Award matter, and the Gerrymandering Bill, which was a scheme for giving the Government a perpetual lease of power. In providing for half a dosen new members, half a hundred constituencies had been outrageously tampered with. Therefore we would have to face the people with more than half the constituencies changed. By removing non-partizan returning officers, substituting creatures of their own, and thus breaking down one of our safeguards, the Government furnished additional proof of their disregard of the rights of the people and the purity of the franchise. It behooved the Reform party to be ready. The question to be considered was the selection of a candidate.

The following resolutions were enthusiastically and unanimously adopted. Mr. Jas. Edwards and Mr. E. Kerr supporting the respective resolutions in brief but effective speeches:—

Moved by Mr. Michael Sanderson, Reeve of Smith, seconded by Mr. Edward Kerr, of South Monaghan:—That this Convention regard with the utmost indignation the persistent attitude of hostility to this Province shown by the Dominion Government in yielding to the pressure of Quebec dictation and domination, and in obedience to these behests, refusing to ratify the boundary award, by which refusal this Province is deprived and defrauded of a vast area of revenue-producing territory, rich in timber and minerals; by interfering with the Local Legislature of this Province and nullifying the same by an arbitrary exercise of the veto power; by the acme of political iniquity and insult in the proposed passage of the Bill for the redistribution of seats, which seems to be an infamous scheme for their retaining power by their own legislation, and giving themselves a prepetual lease thereof; and that we hereby express our warmest reprobation of these unjust discriminations against Ontario, and also our resentment of this last insult, pledging ourselves to remember them by a united front at the polls.

Moved by Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald:—That this convention, with the greatest pleasure takes this opportunity of placing on record an expression of its entire confidence in the personal and political integrity and masterly ability of the leader of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition, Hon. Edward Blake, of heartily subscribing to his political platform, founded as it is on the time-honoured principles of true Reform and of pledging ourselves to use all our efforts and influence to place at the head of the Government of Canada a statesman who through long years of active political life has never stained his name by a corrupt act nor given his supporters cause to regret the confidence reposed in him; and that we also reiterate our confidence in Hon. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues in the Government of Ontario, and in the name of West Peterborough, thank him and them for the assiduous zeal and ability with which they have stood up for the rights and interests of Ontario, and the fidelity with which they have discharged the duties of the lofty trust reposed in them.

The following motion was also adopted:—

"That in view of the uncertainty of a general election taking place in the near future, this convention do not proceed to nominate a candidate, but that it recommend that seven delegates be chosen from each polling subdivision, at meetings to be called for that purpose by officers of the association."

It was also resolved—"That such delegates shall also be empowered to transact any other business necessary for the benefit of the Association."

A PETERBOROUGH GIRL HONOURED ABROAD.—The progress of the "woman's rights" movement is not likely to be promoted by legislation, yet the indomitable sex, by their own efforts, are continually gaining ground and success in asserting their claims. At one of the recent weekly meetings of the Brantford Collegiate Institute, the entire proceedings were conducted under feminine management, and were a very gratifying success. A Peterborough young lady, well known here, Miss Clark, a teacher in the Institute, occupied the chair—chairwoman—and gave an opening address, which, as it is a clever statement of the case, and virtually a declaration of of war against the "lords of creation," we subjoin:—

ADDRESS.

It is at the request of the young ladies of the Institute that I occupy this very dignified and delightful position this evening, for certainly if novelty gives zest and piquancy to an experience, I will find the greatest satisfaction in presiding over this meeting. The young ladies cordially welcome those who have assembled here, but before going on with the programme they would have me say a word in explanation, lest the monopoly of the proceedings to-night be misunderstood by those of whose good opinion they would on no account be unmindful. They do not wish it to be supposed that young ladies necessarily are envious of the privileges enjoyed by gentlemen, or would encroach one iota upon their prerogatives, far from it. Satisfied that their own lot is the much more enviable one, they would rather enlarge privileges and multiply these prerogatives a hundred fold, were it in their power to do so. Conscious that in beauty of feature, grace of form, length of days and numerical ascendancy they have the advantage over their less fortunate brothers, they are content to leave the occupancy of the pulpit and the public platform to them, and only occasionally present themselves before the sceptical world, as a reminder that what they will to do, they have also the ability to perform. Make way for the ladies is the law of civilised society, from the equator to the poles, everywhere and always the same golden rule reigns. Numerically immensely in excess of gentlemen they have the power and prestige of majority. The best of everything, their own way, and the last word in every argument, such are the rights of a woman. The young ladies of this Institute do not fail to recognise what cause they have for gratitude in being thus sublimely privileged.

A Quebec rumour says that Mr. Chapleau, Premier of Quebec, intends becoming a candidate for the Dominion Legislature at the general elections.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

PRESENTATION.—On the evening of the 6th instant, between twenty and thirty of the members of the Presbyterian Church and Union Sabbath School of this place, assembled at the house of James McLean, Esq., where a very pleasant time was passed, and the following address read and presentation made to Mrs. J. F. Gill, daughter of James McLean, on her departure to the North-West.

Mrs. J. F. Gill

We, the members of the Presbyterian Church and Union Sabbath School, of this place, having heard that you are about to leave our midst, and make your home in the North-West, desire to express our deep regret at your departure, and, at the same time, to show that your kind, courteous and ever-ready services of the past, as organist, in our congregation and Sunday School, have been highly appreciated by us; we therefore, before bidding you a final farewell, wish you to allow us, on behalf of those who have assembled here to-night, and of your numerous friends in this place, to present you with this Creet, as a slight token of our esteem and well wishes, which we beg you to accept, not, indeed, on account of its intrinsic value, but because of the spirit that prompts it. And now, in parting with you, we sincerely wish that your future may be happy, pleasant and prosperous in your new home in the North-West, and that, at last, you and yours will receive that eternal reward that is for all those who faithfully serve their Heavenly Master.

Signed on behalf of the members of the Presbyterian Church and Union S. S., by | Mrs. John McLean. Mrs. Thomas Scott. Maggie Best. Rebecca Scott.

In reply, Mrs. Gill said she was so much taken by surprise at the kindness shewn her by the friends present, she felt unable to make a lengthy reply, but would simply express her sincere thanks for the respect shown her by the Presbyterian Church and Union Sabbath School in giving her this token of remembrance, and that at all the services ever rendered by her in either Church or Sabbath School, were considered a pleasure rather than a task in serving the Master whom we should all serve, with the object of promoting His glory and securing for ourselves an entrance to that place that is prepared for all that love and serve Him.

A Kingston man and five of his sons are now in Ottawa seeking a resting place under the government wing. One has already been placed, and a second hopes soon to be disposed of.

FORFEITS.

They sent him round the circle fair.
To bow before the prettiest there.
I'm bound to say the choice he made
A creditable taste displayed;
Although—I can't say what it meant—
The little maid looked ill-content.

His task was then anew begun—
To kneel before the wittiest one.
Once more the little maid sought he.
And went him down upon his knee.
She bent her eyes upon the floor
I think she thought the game a bore.

He circled then—his sweet bebe t
To kiss the one he loved the best.
For all she frowned, for all she chid,
He kissed the little maid he did,
And then—though why I can't decide,—
The little maid looked satisfied.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Treatment of Timothy.

A farmer has come to the conclusion that the treatment generally recommended for timothy is all wrong and contrary to that practiced on other kinds of vegetation. He states that the so-called authorities recommend cutting the stalks quite high, and condemn the practice of pasturing the fields after the crop has been secured for hay or feed. In his opinion the old stalks should be removed after the scythe or mower has cut it off, as it damages the root and prevents it from throwing up sprouts if it remains on the plant. He notices that horticulturists cut away the stalks of bushes that have produced fruit and that they are careful to cut off the limbs of trees that have been broken or show signs of disease. If they remain they are certain to take up considerable sap that would otherwise go into wood in process of formation. The portion of the stalk of timothy between the part cut off by the scythe and the root is bound to go to decay, and the sooner it is disposed of the better for the living parts of the plant. In harvesting timothy for seed he would cut it a little green and then mow close to the ground, curing the last cutting for hay. He thinks it advantageous to pasture a timothy meadow after the crop of hay is secured so as to secure the breaking off of the stalks that remain below the scythe or cutter. If this theory is the correct one it would be well to use a heavy roller on a timothy field after the hay crop has been secured. This would break off the stalks, and if the ground was tolerably wet would press the roots into the soil so that they would be less likely to be injured by the hot sun. It has been generally held that the presence of the stalks that remained after they had been cut by the scythe was beneficial in shading the roots.

The Chicks are Coming Forth.

Chicks are piping now in most all the poultry yards of the country, and the prospects are that a large crop of younglings will be raised during the spring and early summer months. The little ones are quite tender yet, their downy covering is but poor protection against the chilly winds and cold rains that usually assail them in early spring. For some weeks to come they will need constant and watchful care lest they should drop off suddenly from cramps or exposure.

Young chicks are often fatally injured by being exposed to heavy dews. An outbuilding with a southern exposure, that is dry and comfortable, would be a good place to keep young broods until the weather would permit them to forage around. It is best not to allow them in early spring to range in the wet grass, or to go from the shelter of their coops on rainy days, until they get strong and quite feathered out.

While the young birds continue to grow they should be bountifully supplied. The rapid growth of the body and feathering is a great drain on the system. Milk in any form, mixed with baked oatmeal or barley meal, is an excellent article of food to build up a strong and muscular frame. Cornmeal pudding and milk, chopped onions, a little animal food occasionally, wheat, cracked corn and scraps from the table, are nourishing for young or old fowls.

Comfortable and roomy coops, perfectly rain proof, should be provided. The hen should be confined until the chicks get strong and well feathered out, else she is apt to take long strolls as to tire out and lose quite a number of her brood. The early hatched chicks, if they can be given a good start, will usually prove satisfactory, especially the larger varieties.

How to Grow the Cauliflower.

I have been successful in raising cauliflower, and as there appears to be a want of success—so far as I am acquainted—I will give you my method of cultivation. I sow my seed in the open air at the same time I do my cabbage. I am not anxious to raise hot-bed plants, nor even early plants, for I find they do not do as well in our long, hot seasons as later ones. From the 20th to the 30th of May is early enough for our latitude, (Ontario) and our deep, rich, sandy soil. On the 10th of June, 1870, I spaded up a bed of the Wilson strawberry, which had just yielded its last picking of fruit, burying the tops deep in the soil, and the same day set out the ground with cauliflowers. They did well, forming fine curd like heads of fair size. Last season I set my plants on the 25th of May, and although the season was one of long and continuous drouth, they did well, nearly all forming handsome heads, some of which were very large. One head cut short as it could be and closely trimmed weighed twenty-eight pounds. These plants were set between the rows of early potatoes. The potatoes were dug in June, then they had the ground all to themselves. I set the plants out about four feet apart each way and about one foot below the surface of the ground in rich soil, with a liberal supply of ashes mixed through it. Stir the ground often, drawing the mellow soil around the plant. If the plants do well they will completely cover the ground. In the heat of summer I mulch with green grass or weeds—never water, but sometimes flood them with soap-suds. In this way I generally got very fine heads.

Airing the Beds.

It must be a false idea of neatness which demands that beds should be made soon after being vacated. Let it be remembered that more than three fifths of the solids and liquids taken into the stomach should pass off through the pores of the skin—seven million in number—and this escape is most rapid during the night, while warm in bed. At least one half of the waste and putrid matter—from twenty to thirty ounces in the night—must become more or less tangled in the bedding, of course soiling it, and a part of this may become re-absorbed by the skin if it is allowed to come in contract with it the next night, as it must be if the bedding is not exposed for a few hours in the light.

We may well imitate the Dutch example of placing the bedding on two chairs near the window in the sunlight, or in the window, that the best purifier known—the light of the sun—may dissipate their impurities, or neutralize them. At least three hours, on the average, is as short exposure as is compatible with neatness.

Don't be suspicious of everybody. The man who is everlastingly looking for evil can find the greatest quantity in his own life.

The most difficult lesson we have to learn in life—a lesson which begins in the cradle and ends in the grave is that of our significance.

Opportunity has hair in front; behind she is bald; if you seize her by the forelock, you may hold her, but if suffered to escape, not Jupiter himself can catch her again.

The scar which an unkind word leaves upon a large love may be invisible, like that of a great sin upon the tissues of a repentant soul; but for one, as for the other, life has no healing.

We walk in the midst of secrets; we are encompassed with mysteries. We know not what takes place in the the atmosphere that surrounds us; we know not what relations it has with our minds.

When we speak of obedience we should always speak of faith first. Faith is the first and fundamental act of obedience. Faith is the main-spring of obedience.

We may abound in energy, yet effect nothing. Energy is a good steed, but must be saddled and bridled with care, and the reins placed in the hands of prudence; then the goal of efficiency is assured.

We ought always to deal justly, not only with those who are just to us, but likewise with those who endeavour to injure us; and this, too, for for fear least, by rendering evil for evil we should fall into the same vice.

The great difficulty is to feel the reality of both worlds as to give each its due place in our thoughts and feelings; to keep our mind's eye and our heart's ear ever fixed on the Land of Promise, without looking away from the road along which we are to travel toward it.

NEARLY KISSED THEMSELVES TO DEATH.

The London Telegraph says;—Osculation is unquestionably a pleasing pursuit. It has been recognized as such from time immemorial, by generations unumbered of lovers, poets, and even philosophers. There are, doubtless, at the present moment, in this as in other countries, many enamored swains who ask no better than to be permitted to imprint "ten thousand kisses," one after another, upon the lips of the damsels on whom they have bestowed their affections. They may, however, esteem themselves fortunate if their opportunities in this direction are somewhat limited, as the following true story will show: At an evening party in Kelkheim a few weeks ago, the conversation happened to turn upon kissing, and the question arose how many salutations of this class could be exchanged between two ardent lovers within a certain space of time. As usual, opinions differed, and the discussion waxed warm. Presently a fiery youth offered to bet anybody present the German equivalent of a ten-pound note that he and his betrothed would kiss one another 10,000 times within ten hours, provided they were permitted to partake of some slight refreshment at intervals of half an hour during the performance. His wager having been accepted and the money posted, the affianced couple addressed themselves to the achievement of their congenial task. At the expiration of the first hour their account stood credited with two thousand kisses. During the second they added another thousand, and during the third seven hundred and fifty to that number. Then pitiful to state, they both broke down. The youth's lips were stricken with cramp, and the maiden fainted away. Later on in the evening she was compelled to take to her bed with a sharp attack of neuralgia. An even more distressing result ensued from this surfeit to tender endearment, for it led to the breaking off, by mutual consent, of a hopeful matrimonial engagement. Young lovers should keep this sad tale in mind, and moderate their transports, for, strange as it may seem, Dan Cupid himself may be kissed to death.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth. If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

LINDSAY.

The new St. Paul's church will be a fine building, to be built on its present site, to cost $15,000.

Father Stafford expects a consignment of boys and girls from Liverpool.

A base ball club for Lindsay has been organized.

Lacrosse practice has begun in the agricultural grounds.

Grocery stores close hereafter at half-past seven o'clock each evening, except on Saturdays.

The new market regulations make no difference in the amount of fees collected; the farmers availing themselves of the use of the market as freely as ever.

Hon. C. F. Fraser was in town last week, arriving by the new Midland train, and was the guest of Rev. Father Stafford. He was warmly welcomed by his Lindsay friends.

Lindsay town council are considering a by-law to compel merchants to remove and cease to erect swinging or hanging signs projecting more than two feet from the buildings.

Mr. Hugh O'Leary has been appointed Director of the Midland Railway, in the interests of the town. Peter Nicholl has been appointed market clerk at a salary of $200, and Robert Fee assistant constable, at a salary of $335.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WEATHER NOTES.—April, now gone has been a backward, cold month although dry we have had very severe frost and only slight downfall of snow and rain, the former falling on 7 days to the depth of 3 inches, and the latter on 6 days to the depth of 2⅞ inches making a total of water 3¼ inches. The mean temperature of the month at sunrise and sunset was 34.16 degrees above zero. The highest reached was on the evening of the 18th, standing at 55°, and the lowest on the mornings of the 10th and 11th, the mercury coming down to 18° each day, but on the 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 25th it ranged low, on the last named morning the thermometer standing only 20° above zero. This late frost, followed by a hot sun during the day, injured our fall wheat, after standing the open winter so well, at least to the extent of fifteen per cent. Spring work is now progressing favourably, although the air keeps cool; the fields are dry for the season, and farmers are pushing their work forward. Frogs were first heard on the 25th.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an INCURABLE LUNG DISEASE OR CONSUMPTION. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but ACT DIRECTLY ON THE INFLAMED PARTS, allaying irritation, give relief in ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, CATARRH, and the THROAT TROUBLES which SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 42-26ins.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful," "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

A large attendance at the semi-annual meeting of the Northumberland Public School Teacher's Convention last week.

On Sunday evening between the hours of eight and ten o'clock, the grocery and fruit store of L. Woodcock was entered by burglars, and a quantity of cigars and other goods and some cash stolen. Detective W. S. Orr, on Wednesday, arrested two young boys named Alfred Scoon, aged 10, and John Keon, aged about 11 years. They were arraigned before the police magistrate, and acknowledged that they broke into the store with an axe. They were both sentenced to the reformatory at Penetanguishene for two years. They are supposed to have committed several burglaries that have taken place here lately.

PORT HOPE.

The Guide is in high feathers over the elevator. The Caroline Marsh arrived in port on Monday morning, and at eleven o'clock was laden with 15,000 bushels of barley and on her way to Oswego. "Thanks to the elevator."

The Port Hope council are most extravagant financiers. To assist in defraying the expenses of Private Perritt, who goes with the Canadian team, to shoot at Shoeburyness, they have voted the enormous sum of five dollars!

The Midland Land Co. has paid a dividend, on a capital of $150,000, of $5 per share of $100. This is a creditable showing, and cannot fail to be satisfactory to the shareholders. Midland is bound to progress, and the Land Co. with it, thanks to the foresight and able management of the President, Mr. A. Hugel.

The Norseman broke her walking beam on Wednesday, but had it repaired and resumed her trips on Thursday.

HOW TO GET RID OF AN UNWELCOME VISITOR.

"Rheumatism" says Mr. A. McFaul, proprietor of the City Hotel, Kingston, "used to hold its own pretty well, but 'the days of that here are o'er.' St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy has completely conquered the rheumatism, and no man need suffer from it longer. I had it badly until a short time ago, but I used St. Jacobs Oil and was cured, and so can any one be cured in a similar manner."

SELFISHNESS OF MAN'S LOVE.

An æsthetic philosopher expresses himself on the manner of animal a man is in his love, in this manner .—

Where the average young man makes his mistake is in permitting his emotions instead of his reasoning, faculties to do his love-making for him. Fundamentally, every youth in love is temporarily an ass, forasmuch as he allows himself to be guided by his impulses, and nine times out of ten wrecks all his chances, when the application of a little horse sense would direct him to success instead of the failure his blundering seems to court.

A man in love is pre-eminently selfish. If he does an apparently generous thing, it is because of his vanity, which revels in the hope that through the act he makes an impression ultimately to redound to his advantage. He may be unconscious of this, as he is unconscious of the fact that while under the influence of his passion his thoughts are centred in himself instead of the girl who has inspired him.

He dreams of her in his relations to her, and in all his plans and specifications his identity stands before hers, even when he is scheming how to secure her happiness.

Given a man arranging for the comfort and pleasure of some damsel who has smitten him and dissect his ideas. You will infallibly find that in every detail his own preferences are first consulted, and if you anywhere discover the suspicion of a sacrifice on his part, it paves the way to a greater one by her, which will secure to him a heavy percentage on the investment he has permitted himself to make.

MARRIED FOLKS WOULD BE HAPPIER.

If home trials were never told to neighbors.

If they kissed and made up after every quarrel.

If household expenses were proportioned to receipts.

If they tried to be agreeable as in courtdays.

If each would try and be a support and comfort to the other.

If each remembered the other was a human being, not an angel.

If women were as kind to their husbands as they are to their lovers.

If fuel and provisions were laid in during the high tide of summer.

If both parties remembered that they were married for worse as well as for better.

If men where as thoughtful for their wives as they were for their sweethearts.

If there were fewer silks and velvet street costumes, and more plain tidy house dresses.

If there were fewer "please darlings" in public and more common manners in private.

If wives and husbands would take some pleasure as they go along, and not degenerate into mere toiling machines.

Recreation is necessary to keep the heart in its place, and to get along without it is a big mistake.

AN OBSERVANT SAMBO.

The safe in a Macon office had a combination lock, and the numbers were known only to the two members of the firm; yet money was stolen from it frequently, and the lock showed no signs of having been picked or forced. It was clear that the thief unlocked the safe in the regular way, and to solve the mystery, a watch was kept one night. While all was dark the men heard somebody go to the safe, turn the knob and open the door. They fired in that direction, and a yell proved that the culprit was hit. They then lit the gas and found that the thief was a negro boot black, only 13, who had frequented the office. He had learned the combination, not by seeing the figures, for he could not tell one from the other, but watching and remembering the motions made by those who did the locking and unlocking. Several weeks of close observation had put him in practical possession of the secret, and then, by hiding under a counter and being left in when the place was closed for the night, he experimented until successful.

LITTLE THINGS.

More depends on little things than we think. It is said that Voltaire when five years old, learned an infidel poem, and he never was able to free himself from the effects, Scott, the commentator, when despairing, read a hymn of Dr. Watts', and was turned from a life of idleness and sin to one of usefulness. Cowper, about to drown himself, was carried the wrong way by his driver, and went home to write:—"God moves in a mysterious way." The rebuke of a teacher aroused Dr Clarke to great action, who had, up to that time, been slow in acquiring knowledge. Old Bull, the great violinist, rescued from suicide by drowning and taken to the near residence of a wealthy lady, became her protege, and soon acquired fame. Robert Moffat, the distinguished missionary, reading the placard announcing a missionary meeting, was led to devote himself to work for the heathen. One step downwards often leads men to the greatest guilt. It is little words and actions that make or mar our lives.

VARIETIES.

A motto for young lovers:. So-fa and no father.

A woman who has four sons, all sailors, compares herself with a year, because she has four sea-sons.

If you want to know the value of money, try to borrow some, and if you want to know the value of Esterbrook's steel pens you can ascertain it by testing them.

A San Francisco man has been arrested for deceiving a widow. While his crime is to be abhorred, it must be admitted that his genius commands admiration.

A trial of "Kaiser" Machine Oil will convince you that it is the best oil in the market. Sold by dealers. Manufactured by Clarke & Huggart, Woodstock, Ont. 5-38t

Elephants, it is believed, can be taught to play billiards. If so, it will be a great relief to young men who are now obliged to give up so much of their valuable time to this work.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is mild and soothing in its immediate and apparent effects, and possesses far-reaching and powerful healing qualities which its persistent use will demonstrate in any case of coughs, colds, throat or lung troubles of any kind.

A man who wants his wife to love and respect him will never make the mistake of putting his feet into his wifes slippers. Years of devotion will not wipe out the insult.

WHAT TORONTO'S WELL-KNOWN GOOD SAMARITAN SAYS:—I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint for over 20 years, and have tried many remedies, but never found an article that has done me as much good as Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. CLARA E. PORTER.

When it is advisable that a woman should go into the timber trade? When she pines for her lover who is a spruce young man, and of whom she thinks a great deal.

H. F. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation of external use.

"The bees are swarming, and there's no end to them," said Farmer Jones, coming into the house. His little boy George come in a second afterwards, and said there was an end to one of 'um, anyhow, and it was red hot.

C. C. Jacobs, Buffalo, N. Y., says:—"Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured him of a bad case of piles of 8 years' standing, having tried almost every known remedy, "besides two Buffalo Physicians," without relief; but the Oil cured him; he thinks it cannot be recommended too highly."

Gus De Brown (who has prolonged his call considerably after 10:45 p. m.): "So you dont admire men of conservative views, like myself, Miss Angle?" Miss A. (with vivacity): "No, indeed. I prefer people who have some go in them."

A WORD OF CAUTION.—As is usually the case where an article of true merit has attained a world-wide reputation by its wonderful results, as the celebrated Electric Bitters have done, certain unprincipled parties have endeavoured to imitate them, and expect to induce an unsuspecting public to purchase their fraudulent wares. Ask your druggist for the genuine Electric Bitters, that are guaranteed to cure, and take no others. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald at 50c.

"This butter, Mr. Spicer," said the dealer, "carried off the prize at the farmers' fair." And Seth spat out a taste of the compound and remarked: "Unless the prize was a ships anchor and chain, I should think the butter could have carried it off easily."

THE DOCTOR'S SECRET.—Probably no new development will more surprise the public, than to learn the secret of success of certain leading physicians. When they have a difficult case of throat or lung disease that baffles their scientific skill they prescribe Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, having it disguised in a prescription bottle, with their own directions and name attached. The patient is cured, and they get the credit.—Tribune. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size, $1.00.

A brother of Bishop Clark was one of the wittiest men alive. It runs in the family. He once went to see one of his parishioners, a lady with a prodigious family, which had recently been increased. As he rose to leave, the lady stopped him with, "But you haven't seen my last baby." "No," he quickly replied, "and I never expect to!" then he fled.

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, BOILS.—Jeddiah Bellanger, of Cold Spring, Cape May Co., N. J., writes that Peruvian Syrup cured him of Rheumatism and Neuralgia, from which he had suffered so long that he did not think he could be cured. It is ten years since he took the Syrup, and he has been free from the above complaints ever since. Aaron Leaming, of the same place, writes he was afflicted fifteen years with boils, and also badly afflicted with rheumatism. Six bottles of Peruvian Syrup completely cured him. Sold by all drugists.

WHEN INVALIDS come to understand that in all diseases, whether acute or chronic, inflammation or fever, the aim of treatment is to promote instructive work or repair of tissue and arrest excessive waste, they will stop bolting pretentious specifics and cure-alls devoid of medicinal value, and resort to physiological, rational medication. No matter what disease has emaciated and debilitated the body, restoring nutrition is the only means of cure, and we have in WHEELER'S Phosphates and Calisaya, elements of nerve force and tissue restoratives that will benefit any form of debility, no matter what the cause.

EXERCISE.

Exercise is a necessity; it prolongs life and greatly improves living; it better fits us for our duties; without it, we do no more than half live. He only who exercises sufficiently can know the benefit of good health, good appetite, good digestion, refreshing sleep. It causes the blood to circulate quickly, freely and equally, and will drive away the blues. It increases respiration, thus bringing a larger quantity of elixir of life, oxygen, to purify and vitalize the blood. It rounds and hardens the muscles, and educates them into ever-ready, faithful and efficient servants of the will. It limbers the joints, and strengthens every part of the body. It invigorates the mind and renders it active and efficient in all its operations.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment: and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY
Is the Loss of
MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Local News Record.

THE CRICKET CLUB has begun practice.

THE SCAVENGER SQUAD has been paying well-merited attention to upper George street this week.

FOR LACE curtains, cretonnes, table linens, towels, white quilts, call on W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

THE CANNIBAL STORMS, referred to in our Lakefield correspondence, was committed for trial on Wednesday noon.

EARLY CLOSING.—Fourteen of our dry goods merchants have agreed to close their places of business at 7 p.m., every night, till July 1st. The grocers should follow their example, as has been done in Lindsay and Napanee.

DON'T FAIL to see the large assortment of new and stylish clothing for Men and Boys made from good material, also Rubber Coats, Shirts, Scarfs, Ties, and underclothing. Hats and caps in all the leading styles at very close prices, W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 16-4t

GREAT CLEARING SALE.—Remember W. Fairweather & Co's., Great Clearing Sale. The firm have resolved to clear the whole stock off regardless of cost, so that it will be to the advantage of every one to embrace this opportunity of obtaining new and beautiful goods at less than wholesale Prices.

OMISSION.—In our notice of the Guernsey-Listemann combination performance, we omitted to remark that the Company put up at the Caisse House, and were not only greatly pleased at the convenience of their hotel to the Hall, but also with the manner in which Mr. Choate dispensed the hospitalities of his increasingly popular hostelrie.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION. The Dominion supplementary estimates vouchsafe to contain the following:—Trent River navigation, for construction of locks and improvement of navigation between Lakefield, $290,000; survey of Trent Valley navigation, $8,000; Peterborough, dredging, $1,000; river Trent, and Newcastle District Works, for repairs, $3,250.

CRICKET.—In the division of the Province into districts, by the Executive Committee of the Ontario Cricketing Association, district No. 7 is made to comprise Peterborough, Cobourg and Port Hope. There is a mighty hum of preparation in all the clubs elsewhere, and it is certain that Peterborough, as the leading town in everything else, cannot afford to and will not be behind hand in the "noble game."

SPAULDING'S BAY.—Speaking in regard to the filling in of this plague spot and manufactory, a prominent physician ironically remarked to us the other day, that the bay was being "improved" by dumping into it the rubbish gathered about town. Clean, fresh earth would be a great deal better, and the increased taxes would be a profitable offset to the doctor's bills that will have to be paid if decaying filth gathered together is allowed to furnish a perpetual supply of malarial poison.

MECHANIC'S INSTITUTE.—Next Monday night the annual meeting of the members of the Mechanic's Institute, will be held in the rooms of the Institute, for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. There having been the name of only one candidate each for President and 1st Vice President, submitted to the Directors up to their last meeting, Mr. A. P. Poussette, B. A., is President by acclamation, and Rev. V. Clementi, 1st Vice President.

THE LATE DR. BINGHAM.—We wish to explain in regard to a paragraph appearing in THE EXAMINER, relating to the manner of Dr. Bingham's death, that we clipped the item from the Fenelon Falls Gazette, with the express purpose of showing it to his brother, and having him correct it for we felt sure that it was not right as to facts. But the intelligent compositor in pursuit of his inscrutable ways got his hands on the slip and the item appeared in the EXAMINER, exceedingly to our regret.

HAZEL KIRKE.—Considerable interest is manifested here in the approaching engagement of the New York Madison Square Theatre Company, who are to produce their phenomenal success, "Hazel Kirke," at Bradburn's Opera Hall, Peterborough, on Monday evening, May 18th. That it will be unusually well attended there is no reason to doubt. The following, concerning this play, is from a late issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer:—"'Hazel Kirke' received its initial presentation in this city at the Grand Opera House last night, and was greeted with an audience that filled every seat in the spacious auditorium. The play is a strong one. Its story is prettily told, and appeals directly to the best impulses of the heart. It is a play pure in sentiment and elevated in tone, and refining in its influence. Last night it made an emphatic hit; the audience becoming so enthusiastic that the climaxes of several of the acts were greeted with hearty cheers—something unusual in Cincinnati. Much of the success of the play was due to the general excellence of the cast and the splendid matter in which it was mounted."

HAMILTON'S FOUNDRY is being enlarged by the enterprising proprietor. The business has outgrown the premises.

PREPARATIONS are making for celebrating the 12th of July in Peterborough. The neighboring towns and villages will join with local lodges.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Midland Railway was held in the Oriental hotel, on Wednesday. There was a full representa tal of Canadian directors.

THE WEATHER this spring has been phenomenally frigid and disgusting. Instead of the first half of May being, as usual, deliciously fine, it is simply may-liciously foul and disagreeable.

PRESENTATION.—On Tuesday evening, Mr. J. R. McIntyre, of the Oriental Hotel, presented Mr. H. Galbraith, a long and frequent guest of the house, with a solitaire diamond ring, in recognition of favors done.

Is the Twenty-Fourth to be celebrated in Peterborough this year? Mr. John McGivern, lessee of Idyl Wild for the season, will complete, so we are told, arrangements for celebrating Her Majesty's Birthday there.

MERITED PRAISE.—The Mail speaks in high terms of praise of the 100 horse power Corliss engine that furnishes power to the Midland elevator. The engine was built by Mr. W. Hamilton, of this place, and by its aid, a 7,000 bushel cargo of grain can be elevated in an hour.

FIRE.—On Monday night a fire broke out in an old building near the end of Charlotte street. The building, which is an old stable, and belonged to Mr. Elias Burnham, made blaze enough to bring out the brigade in wonderfullly short time, but their services were not made use of. Loss, $50 or $60. No insurance.

ENLARGED.—Our cotem, the Lindsay Post, has done no more than we expected by its energy and enterprise, in coming out in an enlarged form. The increasing advertising patronage of one of the best local papers on the continent, has led the Post to still greater improvements. This journal, from the first-class manner in which it is conducted, is deserving of its success. We extend our congratulations, and intead giving the Post the benefit of the sincerest praise, by imitation of its example. The 1st of July THE EXAMINER will be enlarged to the size of the Post.

A WORK OF FINE ART.—The show window of Davidson's book and stationery store, contains a splendid specimen of the photograhic art treated in oil, from the studio of Mr. G. B. Sproule. It is the portrait of a young lady, piquant and pretty, seated in a swing. The pose is easy and graceful—the latter apparently not altogether due to the artist—the outlines, without being harsh, are well defined, and the blending of light and shadow is dexterously done. The coloring is deftly laid on, the snowy plumes of the hat and the lace scarf being finely brought out. Taking it altogether, the picture is the "pink of perfection," and a first class specimen of the highest artistic plane of the photographer's art.

SALE OF TOWN LOTS.—We call the ptrticular attention of the public to the auction sale of 37 town lots, advertised in this issue of THE EXAMINER. These lots are in an elevated and healthy locality on Smithtown Hill, between the residence of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald and Communication road, and strongly commend themselves to those desirious of securing homes of their own. The air is pure, abundance of good water, and a fine outlook from an elevated point of view. This splendid opportunity of securing town property should not be missed. Peterborough is steadily and rapidly advancing in population and importance, and, at no distant date, will be a city, and opportunities of securing property, on as advantageous terms as by the sale alluded to, will be growing less and less every day. In addition to the Smithtown Hill lots, there will also be sold lots twelve and thirteen on the north side of Dublin and west of George street. The terms, as may be seen by the advertisement, are easy and afford an opportunity to 37 persons to become owners, of lots on a spot, that, in a few years, will be covered with suburban villas and residences. House lots will never sell at so low a price as to-day, property is hourly rising in price. See advertisement and read carefully.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At the last regular election of the Carswell Lodge, I. O. G. T., the following were the elected and appointed officers, viz:—

Bro. Esterbrook	W.C.T.
Sist. Russell	W.V.T.
Bro. Mitchell	W.S.
" Ford	W.F.S.
" Matthewson	W.T.

Sist. Holmes	W.R.H.S.
" Bate	W.L.H.S.
" English	W.D.M.
Bro. Tebb	W. Chap.
" G. J. Earle	Lodge Deputy

On the the next regular meeting the several officers were duly installed in their respective offices, and Sisters R. Ailles, and S. A. Mitchell were presented—by Sisters R. Holmes and F. Douglas—each with a pair of table napkin rings, of beautiful design, and the following address:—

DEAR MRS. AILLES.—The officers and members of Carswell Lodge, have availed themselves of this opportunity of expressing their sincere well-wishes for your future happiness; and beg you to accept this small present, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, as a member of our Order. You have always put forth your utmost efforts to further the good work; and the many valuable services you have rendered the Lodge can never be fully appreciated. Although rather late in expressing our good wishes, we should be exonerated from blame, for your marriage was kept so secret by you, that we were entirely unprepared for the occasion. Hoping you will long continue to exercise your influence in our midst, we will conclude by again wishing you every joy that life can afford.

TO MISS S. A. MITCHELL.—It affords us great pleasure to present you with this pair of napkin rings, in recognition of your valuable services rendered as organist, during the past year. Since your coming among us, you have, by your musical abilities, contributed largely to the entertainment of the Lodge, and though having very little assistance, you have always endeavoured to provide us with a musical programme. The kind hospitality of yourself and parents also, in throwing open your home to the members of the Lodge for weekly practice, and with many similar acts of courtesy, has gained you many firm friends who wish you may be long spared to co-operate with them in this field of labor.

Signed on behalf of the officers and members of Carswell Lodge,

FRANCES A. DOUGLAS.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Third Reading of the Car-Works By-law.

On Friday evening a special meeting of the Council was held in the Chamber, pursuant to call of the Mayor.

The members present were his worship, Mayor Smith, in the chair, and Messrs. McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Rutherford, Menzies and Denne.

Mayor Smith said that he had called the meeting to give the third reading to the Car-works By-law, as a matter of form.

Messrs. Menzies and Denne asserted that several parties that appeared as shareholders had not subscribed a cent, and Mr. Menzies mentioned Mr. Rowe as one of the parties who had told him that his subscription to the stock was only conditional.

Mr. Denne inquired if the Council was bound to give the By-law its third reading?

Mayor Smith answered that the law prescribed a limit of six weeks after a by-law had been approved by the people, withir which the third reading must be given.

ALWAYS OPPOSED TO IT.

Mr. Denne said, as he retired from his seat, he had been opposed to the By-law all the way through, and he would not vote for it now.

His departure would have broken up the quorum, had not Mr. Richardson, entered the Chamber at the very moment Mr. Denne was leaving it.

The by-law then formally passed its third reading, on motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Kelly.

Mr. Alford entered and took his seat.

STREET WATERING.

Mr. Rutherford Chairman of the Committee on Fire, Water and Gas, mentioned the subject of street watering. Though the contract had lapsed the first of May, the street sprinkling was still going on by special arrangement. He referred to the leaky condition of the tank. If the proposed extension of the limits were agreed to, perhaps two carts would be needed, as the present one might give out at any moment.

Mr. McNaughton inquired if a majority of the Charlotte street ratepayers had signed the petition for sprinkling that street?

The Clerk replied that he had not examined the petition closely enough to answer the question.

Councillors Paterson and Alford having in the meantime retired, Mr. Denne now followed their example, thus destroying the quorum.

PERSONAL.

Mr. M. A. Burnham, of Toronto, was in town on Monday.

Mr. W. Toole is home from Winnipeg for a short visit.

Mr. McCelland, has opened a photographic studio in beautiful Bobcaygeon.

Mr. D. W. Dumble returned home on Saturday night, from the aquatic paradise, Manitoba.

Mr. M. Jamieson is in Brantford this week, attending the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Orange True Blues.

Rev W. Joliffe chairman, preached the sermon at the annual district metting of the B. C. Church for the Victoria and Peterboro districts.

Mr. H. Carver, who went to Manitoba to improve his agricultural position, has returned home, somewhat disgusted. He thinks old Peterborough the best place yet.

Mr. Bradburn the owner of the Opera Hall here, is negotiating with the Lindsay council with a view to leasing the town hall to be used for purposes of amusement, for ten years at a rate of $100 per year.

Mr. Allan F. Huffman, of the Dafoe House, Belleville, an old resident and favorite, was in town, revisiting old scenes, on Wednesday.

Mr. J. M. Ferris, M.P.P., East Northumberland, was at the Caissie House on Tuesday. He was in town to attend the meeting of the Midland Railway Directors.

The Intelligencer authorizes the statement that Mr. G. A. Cox is willing to subscribe $10,000 against $90,000 to be raised in Belleville, for the erection of $100,000 car-work.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be noticed that Mr. J. O'Meara of Ottawa, barrister etc., has opened an office for the practice of his profession, in Hatton & Beck's old quarters, Simcoe street.

Mr. Alex. McFarlane, a former much-respected resident of Peterborough and a jolly good fellow, returned on Tuesday evening from Australia, where, for the past six years, he has been engaged in sheep farming.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The union station, Lindsay, is being painted and the offices and waiting-rooms renovated generally. Thirty thousand tons of steel rails for the Midland railway will be sent to Belleville this year. They will be conveyed there from Montreal in barges.

Eight carloads of ties went south on the Whitby branch on Thursday. This is part of a contract being filled by parties north for a buyer in the eastern states.

The engineers of the Ontario and Quebec railway have the road located through Tweed, and are now going west from that point. They expect to meet the staff locating east from Peterboro about the last of this week. They report no great difficulty on the line.

The traffic over the Midland is in all classes of freight unusually heavy just now. The lumber freights in particular have run up beyond anything before experienced in the history of the road, and it taxes the rolling stock of the road to the utmost to handle it. In fact the heavy trains passing south over the main line are almost beyond the power of the engines to haul. Many of the locomotives have a double set of hands and no sooner arrives at Port Hope than it is immediately returned with rolling stock to the stopping points. Every description of car is pressed into service, and the loads are piled unusually high and are of corresponding weight. Even with its equipment of forty-three locomotives the Midland is necessitated to put on new ones which are arriving every week.

H. OWENS'
New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of Instimable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

AMALGAMATION OF

REAPERS and MOWERS.

The undersigned takes pleasure in notifying the Farmers that the Massey Manufacturing Company, of Toronto, has purchased the business of the Toronto Reaper and Mower Company. I have been appointed Sole Agent for Peterborough, and I am prepared to sell the

MASSEY REAPER, MASSEY MOWER,
TORONTO REAPER, TORONTO MOWER,
SHARP'S RAKE and TORONTO CORD BINDER.

This will give the farmer the opportunity of choosing from the various styles of machines, which are acknowledged to be Leading Machines of the Dominion. Samples on view at my Pump Works, Peterborough.

REPAIRS ON HAND FOR ALL THE ABOVE MACHINERY.

HENRY OWENS.

ROOM PAPER!

Gigantic. Magnificent. Grand.

These words fittingly express the nature of our stock for this season's trade.

Our Samples chosen when placed beside those from the city.

"No necessity to go to Toronto for fine Papers in future." Such are the expression of people who have looked through our goods.

From the rush we are having, our papers must be flooding the town.

Our good reputation has found its way to Norwood, Keene, Campbellford, Hastings and Millbrook, &c., and large quantities are being taken to these places.

If you want the latest styles, which are more beautiful than ever before, go to

POLICY HOLDERS IN THE Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Co'y.

Get ALL the net profits; in Stock or Mixed Companies they only get a PORTION, and and the Stockholders pocket the balance. EXHORBITANT SALARIES and COSTLY BUILDINGS are not and cannot be indulged in AT THE EXPENSE and WITHOUT THE CONSENT of the Policy Holders, BECAUSE the POLICY HOLDERS are the owners of ALL the funds and assets and invest them ONLY in the MOST PROFITABLE MANNER for the general interest, themselves.

The Manager is paid a very moderate salary—NOT ONE-FIFTH of the salary paid to the Managers of many Companies, WHO USE THE PEOPLES MONEY AS THEY LIKE, without asking the liberty. The Agents ALL work on COMMISSION, and therefore IF THEY DO NOTHING, they GET NOTHING.

The RESERVE is largely above the Government standard on a 4 per cent. basis, and if calculated at 5 per cent., as in some of the older Companies, would be much further above that standard of safety.

The RESULT of the above features is:—1st, ABSOLUTE SECURITY. 2nd, RAPID ANNUAL DECREASE IN PREMIUMS AFTER THIRD YEAR.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Annual Meeting of Bondholders and Shareholders.

The President's Address—A Year of Unexampled Prosperity—Re-Election of the Old Board.

The annual meeting of the bond-holders and shareholders of the old Midland Railway of Canada was held in the Company's offices, Port Hope, on Tuesday. Among those present were Geo. A. Cox, President; Lewis Ross, Port Hope; Robert Jaffray, H. P. Dwight, Toronto; J. R. Dundas, Lindsay, directors; A. Hugel, E. S. Vindin, Mayor Randall, Port Hope; and others. The annual report was read by the President as below:

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT AND DIRECTORS

To the Proprietors of the Midland Railway of Canada:—

PETERBOROUGH, 16th May, 1882.

Your directors in submitting their report for the year ending 31st December, 1881, with the customary accounts and Auditor's Certificate attached thereto, have again the pleasure of reporting a most satisfactory increase over the earnings of the previous year.

The total traffic receipts for the year have amounted to the sum of $404,360.20, or £83,067. 14s. 3d.; as against $334,084.55, or £68,617. 10s. 3d. for 1880; showing an increase of $70,275.65, or £14,449. 4s. 1d.

It will be observed by these figures that our most sanguine expectations for the year have been more than realized, notwithstanding the fact that one of the largest lumber mills on the line was burned at the commencement of the season, and not built in time to contribute anything to the earnings of the year.

Expenditure.—The working expenses for the year have been $223,598.89, 55.30 per cent. on the gross receipts, showing a slight decrease of less than one per cent., but which may be considered as very satisfactory, looking to the marked increase in the price of all material used by the Company, as well as the increased cost of labour.

Revenue Account.—The net revenue for the year amounted to $180,761.31 (£37,142. 14s 8d.) It has been appropriated as per the revenue statement, herewith submitted, and exceeding, as it does, the interest obligations on the total bonded debt including the municipal payments of the Company, it has fully justified the confidence expressed in the last annual report:—"That the net earnings of the Company for the future would "be quite sufficient to meet all its interest "obligations."

These gratifying results having been accomplished during the past year, while in competition with the Grand Junction Company the first half of the year, and with our elevators and other terminal facilities for the through grain trade, barely completed at the close of the season, it is only reasonable to regard them as fully assured for the future, with the increased earnings that we shall realize from the through trade, and the advantages that we shall derive from the absence of competition.

As indicated in the last annual report, the Surplus and Preference Bonds still held by the Company, and hypothecated upon very favorable terms, enabled your Directors, after the settlement of the entire floating debt of the Company, to expend $224,666.73 in making very important additions and improvements to the property, particulars of which may be seen by reference to the accounts, but amongst the more important of which may be mentioned:—The relaying of over twenty-six miles of the line with new steel rails, at a cost with extra ballasting, &c., of $112,343.94; the construction of a large and commodious wharf, elevator foundation and other improvements at Midland, at a cost of $55,897.18; the expenditure of $33,537.61 in the acquisition of new rolling stock; and of $23,644.33 in laying down additional siding accomodation to meet the increased demands of business, and to afford accomodation for the new mills erected on the line.

The demands for additional rolling stock, beyond what we were able to provide, led to a satisfactory arrangement with the Midland Rolling Stock Company, whereby four (4) Locomotives, eight (8) Conductor's Vans, two (2) Postal and Smoking Cars, one (1) Coach, ten (10) Box and seventy (70) Platform Cars were added to our equipment, upon terms of payment extending over a period of five years, with the option to the Company of paying the full balance due at any time they so desired.

The erection of the Midland Elevator was undertaken and satisfactorily carried out by the same Company, and upon the same terms as the Port Hope Elevator. It was not completed until near the close of navigation, but we shall now be fully prepared, with terminal facilities at each end of the line, and the necessary equipment to successfully handle a large quantity of through grain.

In the last report, reference was made to the fact that the Grand Junction Railway had been completed from Belleville to Peterborough. After a sharp competition with that Company for several months, resulting in demoralized rates, we took possession of it, under lease, on the first of June, and since that date negotiations were entered into, which led to the confirmation of an agreement at a Special General Meeting of the proprietors, held in Port Hope, on the 12th day of December, for the amalgamation with this Company of the Grand Junction, Toronto & Nipissing, Whitby, Port Perry & Lindsay, Victoria, and Toronto & Ottawa Railway Companies, under the name of the Midland Railway of Canada. The agreement was ratified by special Act of Parliament, at the recent session of the Ontario Legislature, and received the Royal assent on the 10th day of March.

The importance of this consolidation to the proprietors of the other interested Companies, and to the section of the country served by the consolidated lines cannot be over-estimated.

The acquisition of the Toronto & Nipissing line, with the change of gauge that has now been completed, gives the entire system direct communication with the City of Toronto, the commercial centre of Ontario.

The Grand Junction line, and the completion of the link between Peterborough and Omemee, now under construction, affords an additional junction with the Grand Trunk Railway at the City of Belleville, giving the best and most direct route between the upper lake ports and the Bay of Quinte, which is at the head of St. Lawrence river navigation, to the Atlantic ports.

The Whitby, Port Perry & Lindsay line extends from the important town of Lindsay on the main line through a rich agricultural district, to a junction with the Grand Trunk Railway at Whitby, and a valuable harbor on lake Ontario.

The Victoria Railway also extends from the town of Lindsay and penetrates 56 miles into the, as yet, only partially developed mining and lumbering districts of the north.

The Toronto & Ottawa line, now under construction from Madoc (a point on the Grand Junction line), eastward, passes through a rich mining and agricultural district, a distance of one hundred and thirteen miles to the City of Ottawa, thus giving the consolidated system a direct and independent line to the capital of the Dominion, where connection is made with the Canada Pacific; Quebec, Montreal and Occidental; and Canada Atlantic Railways, thereby providing a second direct through line from the west to the east.

It will thus be seen that the consolidation into one company of these various lines forms an important system.

It will afford very ample railway facilities to all the principal towns it the Midland district.

It gives a shorter and more direct line between the cities of Ottawa and Toronto.

To connecting lines, such as the Great Western and Credit Valley, it offers another through all-rail-route by which the products of the west may reach the Atlantic sea-ports.

With its magnificent harbor at Midland, on Lake Huron, and its four harbors on Lake Ontario, it possesses the shortest and best mixed rail and water route between the Western and North-Western States and the sea-board.

In addition to the foregoing advantages, the amalgamation under one management of these six lines, heretofore under separate management, must give a more efficient service to the public, and cannot fail to effect an important saving in expenses, besides largely increasing the earnings, which may be safely estimated at $250,000 over the aggregate earnings of the different sections for the last year.

This, taken in connection with the fact that the total net earnings of the various companies for last year, were sufficient to pay interest on the full amount of Consolidated Bonds alloted to the several companies, cannot but be satisfactory to the proprietors.

Under the terms of the amalgamation agreement, there was allotted to the Midland Railway £795,000 sterling of the new Consolidated Company's bonds, for the purpose of redeeming the existing bonds, which are as follows, viz:—

First Mortgage Bonds	£535,000
Preference Mortgage Bonds	150,000
Deferred Interest Certificates	30,000
Total	£795,000

It will be remembered that a certain portion of the above bonds have not been sold, but were hypothecated, for the purpose of securing advances obtained by the Company, for the settlement of its floating debt and expenditure on capital account.

Under the terms of the agreement each company has to pay all its liabilities excepting the bonded debt and Municipal liens. Your Directors were of the opinion, after very careful consideration, that the sale of the bonds, thus hypothecated would be sufficient to pay the amount for which they are pledged, and discharge all other liabilities of the Company, in accordance with the consolidation agreement.

Again, the Canadian Directors have great pleasure in acknowledging the hearty and zealous support and co-operation of their co-directors in London, and the very valuable assistance rendered by them in carrying out the negotiations in connection with the consolidation, which has been so satisfactorily consummated, and which must necessarily result in such permanent advantages to the Company.

Their best thanks are also due to the officers and employees of the Company who have been most successful and untiring in their efforts to promote the general prosperity of the line.

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. A. COX,
President.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

In moving the adoption of the report, the President, Mr. G. A. Cox, said:—"Gentlemen,—In moving the adoption of the report that has just been read, it is not my intention to trespass on your time at any length. The figures on the report speak for themselves. They show a larger gross revenue, a larger net revenue and a lower percentage of expense than any previous year in the history of the Company. All our interest obligations for the year were promptly paid at maturity from net revenue. From the sale and hypothication of surplus and preference bonds, the entire floating debt of the Company was settled, and no less than $224,666.73 expended on the improvements of the property in addition to the ordinary expenditure under that head. The year under review has not only been the most successful, but it has been the most eventful in the history of the Company. At a special general meeting of the proprietors held on the 12th of December, an agreement was confirmed whereby the Midland Railway of Canada, by the absorption of competing and connecting lines, increased its mileage from 142 to 455 miles." After a reference to the recent amalgamation, Mr. Cox went on to say: "The acquisition of the Toronto and Ottawa charter gives us the necessary legislative power to extend to the city of Ottawa, where we can connect with other lines for the seaboard. Some of our newspaper friends have been good enough to say that this charter was obtained simply for the purpose of preventing the construction of that line, and profess to believe that the only hope for the country is in the Ontario and Quebec line which is proposed to cover precisely the same ground. I do not intend to make any very lavish predictions or promises for the future. I prefer to let that speak for itself. I wish to state, however, that scarcely three months have elapsed since the legislation which gave us control of that charter received the royal assent, and already four separate sections are under contract, which will complete our line from Toronto to Perth. Not less than eight hundred men are engaged on the work, and their numbers are being daily augmented, pushing the work forward to completion with the least possible delay. We expect to have our trains running between Toronto and Bridgewater, a distance of 158 miles, not later than the 1st of November next, and the contract for the construction of the 62 miles between Bridgewater and Perth, awarded on Wednesday last to Mr. H. J. Beemer, of Montreal, is to be completed by the 10th of May, 1883. Possibly English capitalists may be found, who, in their anxiety to assist and encourage railway competition in Canada, will furnish the necessary funds to the Ontario and Quebec Company to build a third line over the same ground, lying, as the Credit Valley does, in Western Ontario, between and at a short distance on either side from two existing lines; but the Canadian public, who for a time may benefit by ruinous competition, while willing to encourage this to the extent of writing sensational newspaper articles, will be very careful not to invest much of their own money in it. I therefore venture the opinion that it will be some time before we see this line constructed. But I have taken up more time on this subject than I intended. I shall return to what more directly concerns our own proprietors, and speak of the position and prospects of our own company. By the absorption or consolidation of the various lines to which I have already referred, the earning capacity of our road has been largely increased, and our securities placed in a much safer and more satisfactory position. The aggregate earnings, last year, of the different sections forming the consolidated company, in their disjointed and competing attitude, was enough to pay interest on the entire bonded debt of the new company, and we have already had so far this year (and it is the worst part of the year) an increase of $98,603, or nearly 46 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year. The through grain trade, which was barely commenced last fall, our elevator and wharves having been scarcely completed before the winter set in, and which consequently added but very little to the revenue of last year, has opened with so much encouragement, this season that during the last eighteen days we have handed the Grand Trunk Co. at this station, no less than 315 cars of through grain, besides large quantities of lumber and other freight. The large amount of traffic that we are handing that Company at the different stations where we intersect them explains how the Midland Railway can be both a competing and contributing Company to the Grand Trunk, and while maintaining its own independence as a competitor, at the same time retaining, by its large contributions, the friendly co-operation of that company. And the circumstance that will add very largely to the importance and earning capacity of the Midland system is the exceedingly encouraging prospect of the immediate construction of the Ontario and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, which will form an important connection for this Company. The subsidy that the Ontario Government proposes to grant for the purpose of aiding a line in making a connection between the Canada Pacific and the Ontario system of railways, together with the substantial subsidy of $660,000 to be granted by the Dominion Government for the same purpose, taken in connection with the very encouraging remarks of Sir Charles Tupper in the House of Commons last night, in which he states that the Government have decided to accept the proposal of the Ontario and Sault Ste. Marie Company, affords good ground to hope for the immediate construction of this road, which will throw a large amount of traffic over our own line. There is another matter that I desire to acknowledge, and that is the very magnanimous position taken by the town of Port Hope in not retarding our legislation, as some other towns did, from feelings of petty local jealousies. The legislation providing for the location of the head offices of the Company at Peterborough might very naturally have incurred the opposition of Port Hope, but I was pleased to know that they took too broad a view of what was really in the interest of the Company, and of the town as its most important terminus, to raise any petty objections; and in justice to those who took that position, I desire to say that while the impression has to some extent gained ground that the policy of the Company is injurious to the town of Port Hope, at no time in the history of the Company was there as many men employed, as much business transacted, as much disbursed for wages, as at the present time. In signing a cheque for the Port Hope pay roll yesterday for $8,062.18 I was curious to know what it was for the corresponding month for the first year that I assumed the management of the Company, and I found it was $4,752.38 or very little over one-half what it was for the month just closed; so if Port Hope is not as prosperous as it was, Mr. Ross and his followers must charge it upon the National Policy or some other cause; and Colonel Williams and his followers must claim that it is because they have not yet had the National Policy long enough; but they must both agree in exonerating the Midland Railway from all blame in the matter. I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report.

ELECTING DIRECTORS.

The old Board of Directors were all re-elected. The usual resolutions were adopted, and the meeting adjourned.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Jas. Ormond is renewing old associations during a short visit to Peterborough.

Mr. Wm. Cameron, merchant, of this town, left on Tuesday morning for Scotland, for the benefit of his health. He sails by one of the State Line steamers.

PETEBBOROUGH, MAY 18, 1882.

The Prince Edward Island Elections.

Heretofore there has been very little reason why the people of Ontario should take a special interest in any election contest in Prince Edward Island, for the local issue between parties there have been neither very intelligible to us, nor very significant in themselves. It is different, however, with the general election that has just taken place, resulting in the downfall of the Local Tory administration. For some years prior to 1878, there was in office in Prince Edward Island a Government made up of and supported by Protestants of both political parties, the object of the coalition being to carry into effect a non-sectarian school system for the Province. At the head of that Government was the Hon. Mr. Davies, a rising Liberal lawyer, of Charlottetown. On the eve of the election of 1878, the Conservative members of that Government were induced to betray and abandon their Liberal colleagues and to assist the Roman Catholics of both Irish and Scottish nationality to defeat them. At the general election, which came off about the same time as that of the Dominion, the Liberal party of the Island Assembly were swept almost out of existance, and a purely conservative Government came into power, with an Irish Roman Catholic lawyer, Mr. Sullivan, at its head. The Opposition to this Government consisted of some three or four members, who have been holding the fort ever since 1878, and making their appeal, as true Liberals everywhere always do, to public opinion.

A few days ago the people of Prince Edward Island were afforded an opportunity of deciding between the Sullivan Government and the small party opposed to it, and the result is most encouraging for the Liberal party. The Sullivan Government, though it possessed factitious strength on account of the alliance between the Conservative and the Reform Catholic party, has suffered signal defeat and will, no doubt, have to resign. The Opposition divided the popular chamber, and have, it is said, a working majority. This is matter for rejoicing, so far as Prince Edward Island itself is concerned, but the victory assumes still greater significance in connection with the coming contest for the Dominion. Many of those who supported Mr. Sullivan on account of the educational question, will be found supporting Mr. Blake, when the time comes for them to do so. Nowhere in the Dominion is the Tilley tariff so unpopular as in Prince Edward Island, and there is good reason to believe that five out of the six members, if not the whole six, will be Liberals.

It is not going too far to say that a somewhat similar result may fairly be anticipated in New Brunswick, which is now represented by 11 Liberals to 5 Conservatives. The proportion of Liberals will be increased at the next election, and in Nova Scotia also they will undoubtedly be in a majority. In Manitoba, three out of five members will be returned to break up the railway monopoly, and work for a reduction of the burden of taxation. In Quebec the Liberal party will more than hold their own, and in Ontario they will secure a large majority. How large it would have been but for the gerrymandering bill Sir John Macdonald knows well, but even this last effort to injure and insult his own Province will not avail to keep his party in power. The fate of the Government is sealed.

It is sometimes profitable to be a Member of Parliament. Mr. Rufus Stephenson, M. P., has evidentaly made it so. His annual grab from the public chest aggregates the tidy sum of nearly $7,000 per year—in sessional allowance, civil service salary for son and son-in-law, and printing and advertising for his newspaper, the Chatham Planet. He has indeed, substantial reasons for supporting the Government through "thick and thin."

Politics in Manitoba.

Mr. Greenway, an Ex-M.P. for Ontario who is now a member of the Legislature of Manitoba, moved last week, as an amendment to the address in that body, a motion censuring the Government for not protesting in the Speech from the Throne against the disallowance of the Manitoba South-Eastern Railway charter. This amendment was, after a spirited debate rejected, by a majority of ten. Mr. Greenway did not, of course, expect to carry it in the present House, but he was determined to apply a touchstone which would make his fellow-members reveal themselves, and he has succeeded admirably. The people now know who are on their side, and who are on the side of railway monopoly, and this knowledge is of peculiar value from the fact that a general election is near at hand for the Province of Manitoba as well as for the Dominion.

This knowledge comes opportune for another reason. Owing to the slipshod manner in which the chief owners of the Canada Pacific Railway work their monopoly line from St. Paul, there is now accumulated along that line enough of freight to keep the Company occupied many days in removing it, if no more offered itself for transport. The people of Manitoba, and more who want to go thither are now tasting what monopoly is like. This is a state of affairs that, according to Sir John Macdonald's interpretation of the Syndicate contract, is to be perpetuated for twenty long years, and it is really against such an interpretation that Mr. Greenway's resolution protests. It is to be hoped that in spite of the failure to carry the amendment to the address, the Liberal Opposition to Mr. Norquay's Government will endeavour to re-enact the South-Eastern charter and compel those who think more of Sir John's Government at Ottawa than they do of the interests of the people of the North-West, to declare themselves once more in favor of perpetuating an uncalled for and illegal monopoly of traffic.

Manitoba is, under the redistribution, to have five members instead of four. There is good reason to believe that three if not four, out of the five, will be returned in favor of popular rights, and to this end, Mr. Greenway's motion will conduce. It defines the main issue on which the contest will hinge, and there can be little doubt of the result, when it comes to be a square struggle for supremacy between the rights of a free people and the claims of a gigantic railway corporation, which depend on a certain interpretation of a certain clause in a certain contract.

Fraud in Public Contracts.

Mr. Casgrain, one of the leading Quebec Liberals in the House of Commons, brought a bill last year into that chamber to prevent or punish frauds in connection with the letting of contracts for public works. Those who have paid any attention to the doings of men like Chapleau, Mackintosh, and others whose contract-broking was unearthed by the Pacific Railway Commission, know how much such a measure is needed in the public interest. Ottawa is infested with a class of men who make their living out of the public by fraud and chicanery in connection with the letting of contracts and Mr. Casgrain, in introducing his bill, was actuated by a very laudable desire to purify this important department of the public service. Last session it was allowed a second reading, but was burked in one of its later stages, and this year, at Mr. Langevin's instance it was prevented from even reaching a second reading. About the middle of the session he moved a one month's hoist which was equivalent to postponing the measure altogether. Not content with this high-handed proceeding, the Government, the other day, sought to prevent Mr. Casgrain from bringing up a resolution on the same subject as an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply. The speaker, however, would not consent to be a party to so bare-faced a piece of tyranny, and Mr. Casgrain was allowed to go on with his resolution, which was voted down by the usual party majority. The whole of the proceedings in connection with this matter are extremely discreditable to the present administration, which is itself responsible for so much of the corruption that disgraces the country.

More Merriment.

Our Conservative contemporary continues trying to extract both fun and comfort from the subject of the Reform meeting. It need not take so much trouble, for the Reformers make no hesitation in admitting that they are unable to secure the candidature of the man they would choose. In the matter of a standard-bearer it must be admitted that the Reformers of West Peterborough are a shade more particular than the Conservatives. They want a candidate that will make a strong and creditable run, even under the most powerful and vigorous opposition. The memory of the editor of the Review must serve him badly, or his sense of shame is greatly dulled, else he would not seek to elaborate the subject. Such petty carping criticism of opponents and their party arrangements, certainly comes with a bad grace from a gentleman who, in a run for parliamentary representation, was ignominiously "left" by an opponent who simply issued an address, and was brought out by no convention. The Conservative meeting is called a success, yet it is a little singular that the candidate should take a fortnight to consider whether he will accept the nomination of a meeting in which "the different divisions were well represented by their chosen men."

Editorial Notes.

The Princess Louise will arrive in Canada on the 25th of June.

President Arthur has signed the Bill excluding the Chinese from the United States. The cheap earning, and cheap eating Celestials can come no more

Only six out of forty-two (present at the time) of the old woman's Parliament, the Senate, found courage to lift their hands in opposition to Mr. Costigan's Irish resolutions.

Behold how the gerrymander works! In Middlesex it has fixed things so that 5,644 Tory votes send six members to Parliament, while 4,588 Reform only contribute one member. And this trickery is called statesmanship!

The London Advertiser does not regard it as a good thing for the country when cotton lords are making yearly profits of from forty to fifty per cent., while they compel little girls to work twelve hours per day for thirty cents. Ottawa Citizen, copy.

We are pleased to observe that Mr. Wm. Huston, M. A., long connected editorially with the Globe, and brother-in-law of Mr. Wm. Cameron of this town, has been elected one of the three Members of the Senate, of the University of Toronto, annually chosen.

The Government poses as the workingman's friend, yet this same paternal aggregation is assisting English artisans to Canada, to compete with Canadian mechanics. But mechanics have been deceived too often to be bamboozled with such transparently sham pretences.

It takes a terrible amount of protection to protect protectionists. The pottery trade of Trenton, New Jersey, is in trouble because the protective duty on pottery is only forty-five per cent. and the trade is ruined by the underselling of English manufacturers, who are not bolstered up with a big tariff.

Since Government pap has been denied to Port Hope and Government printing to the Times, the latter has ceased to swear by the great N. P. In giving well-deserved praise to the Lindsay Post on its enlargement, the Times man credits the prosperity of Lindsay to "good times and business energy."

In the discussion in the House of Commons on the gerrymander bill the "brute majority" obeyed well their cue. To every point made in objection, they would cry out tauntingly, "Call in the members," showing that right or wrong, they were ready to betray their trusts, and endorse the crowning political crime of John A. Macdonald's career.

We get it all just before the elections. At a recent Cabinet meeting it was decided to abolish that tax on knowledge, the postage on newspapers, which has always been vexatious to publishers and insignificant as a source of revenue. Sir Leonard Tilly has given notice of a motion to abolish on the first of June the postage on all papers mailed to regular subscribers in Canada.

The sudden activity displayed just now in the Trent Valley Canal matter, says the Lindsay Post, and the placing of $290,000 in the supplementary estimates for locks at Buckhorn, Burleigh and Fenelon Falls is decidedly characteristic. It is a sure indication that the elections are to be sprung on the country as early in June as possible. Taken in connection with Sir John Macdonald's cavalier treatment of the canal deputation in Toronto, the vote simply means that a few hundred thousand dollars are to be expended at the places, and affords no guarantee that the scheme will be carried out in its entirety. A project involving several millions of dollars would not be lightly entered upon; and there is little doubt that the vote is intended for little if anything more than to influence a few constituencies. Some very devoted and orthodox Tories in this section have opposed the project and have laughed at the efforts of their comrades to make political capital out of it. If ministers really intended to carry out this project they would have gone about it in a different way, as anyone can see. The movement is too transparent and will deceive no one.

The Review quotes from a letter sent to the Montreal Witness by the Secretary of the Canada Pacific Railway the following passage:—

"These regulations have been framed expressly in the interest of the actual settler, and the report of the land commissioner is to the effect that they gave entire satisfaction.

"They do not perhaps suit the speculator, who has no idea of settling upon or cultivating the land, but then it was never intended they should."

And the Review adds on its own account:—

The company is doing its best to promote settlement. The dissatisfaction expressed with the regulations, exists only in the minds of disappointed speculators and disappointed politicians.

It is not true that the dissatisfaction with the Syndicate's land regulations exists only in the minds of speculators. The Review cannot speak of its own knowledge and both the Secretary and the Land Commissioner are interested witnesses. It is well known that the regulations are far from satisfactory to the intending settler, but what can he do? The company control half of all the best lands in the railway belt and settlers must choose between buying from them or locating at a distance from the railway. It is impossible to concieve of regulations being satisfactory which contain a provision in virtue of which the settler who fails to fulfil every condition of his purchase shall lose not merely the land but all the improvements he has made on it. No company should ever have the power to frame such regulations, the worst effects of which will not be felt until the process of eviction begins a few years hence.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cur they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Redistribution Debate.

Mr. Blake's Great Speech.

The Tories Speechless—The Iniquity Accomplished.

In the House of Commons on Monday, at 3.35 p.m., Sir John Macdonald moved a second reading of his Gerrymandering Bill. Mr. Plumb, by prearrangement, got the floor first, and proceeded to bewail the wiping out of the historical district of Niagara, tracing its history from 1783 [illegible] Mr. Blake took the floor at 4.25 [illegible] second [illegible] any [illegible] was [illegible] by [illegible] Offi[illegible] Gov[illegible] eoti[illegible] mig[illegible] mai[illegible] the[illegible] did[illegible] ma[illegible] hov[illegible] ser[illegible] me[illegible] cot[illegible] an[illegible] eot[illegible] gh[illegible] th[illegible] as[illegible] m[illegible] O[illegible] ca[illegible] T[illegible] (S[illegible] ol[illegible] it O[illegible] a[illegible] n[illegible] p[illegible] d[illegible] t[illegible] each change. As instance after instance of the iniquity of the Bill was brought out the speaker was loudly cheered by his political friends, while his opponents, with the exception of an odd interruption from Mr. Plumb, maintained a melancholy silence. The shameless gerrymandering in Bruce was particularly condemned, and it was pointed out that not only Sir John's pretended principle of equalizing the populaties was shamelessly violated in the arrangement of the north and west ridings, but in the latter constituency, by drawing from North and South Bruce and North Huron, a riding which on the basis of the election of 1878, would give a Reform majority of 1,000. In twenty-five cases were municipalities carried from one county into another, and forty-one out of fifty changes had been made in Western Ontario, where it was expected the

In ten constituencies where the Reformers had been "hived" the Reform majorities would be as follows:—"On the basis of the election of 1878—North Brant, 723; South Oxford, 688; North Oxford, 1,165; West Ontario, 583; East Simcoe, 558; South Middlesex, 581; West Bruce, 986; Centre Huron, 446; West Elgin, 463; Holton, 290; a total in these ten constituencies of 6,453, or a surplus of 3,000 votes as compared with an equal number of constituencies in which the Tories has been kept together. The object of this legislation was to make a Tory minority in the country and a Tory majority in the House. Honest men could not afford to vote for a measure dishonest and fraudulent. The Government dare not attempt the same thing with the other Provinces, and he appealed to members from those provinces to deal with Ontario as they would wish to be treated themselves. But all this was not enough, and the Government had taken care that they should have the power of appointing their men as returning officers, and to do their "dirty work." He concluded a most masterly and brilliant oration in these words:—Sir, these are the two cardinal principles of this measure—first, to mar the force of the constituencies and alter the municipal bounds, and if by any means in the Liberal Province of Ontario it can be more than usually wordy encounter took place across the floor.

REACHING A DIVISION.

At 2:20 a division on Mr. Blake's resolution took place, the vote standing 51 for, and 111 against, a straight party vote all round.

Mr. Mills immediately rose and moved a second resolution, prefacing it with a few remarks. It was to the effect that the readjustment of the representation should be made without regard to the party complexion of the people, that advantage should not be taken to pack a few constituencies overwhelmingly full of Liberals and a large number of constituencies moderately full of Tories for the purpose of securing party advantage.

The second resolution was also lost on division, 52 to 112. The bill was then read a second time on the same division. Sir John announced that it would be moved into Committee of the whole this afternoon. It has been announced that the Government intend to convey it through Committee in one sitting, if it takes two days. The policy of the Government is simply to vote upon it, but not to speak. The House adjourned at 5.45 a.m.

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ, worth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still, we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good, honest made Piano at from $185 to $575, and a good honest Organ, (not all stops,) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if no pleases no keepee, as the Chinaman would say. For the past ten years we have sent both Pianos and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.

GENTLEMEN,—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,

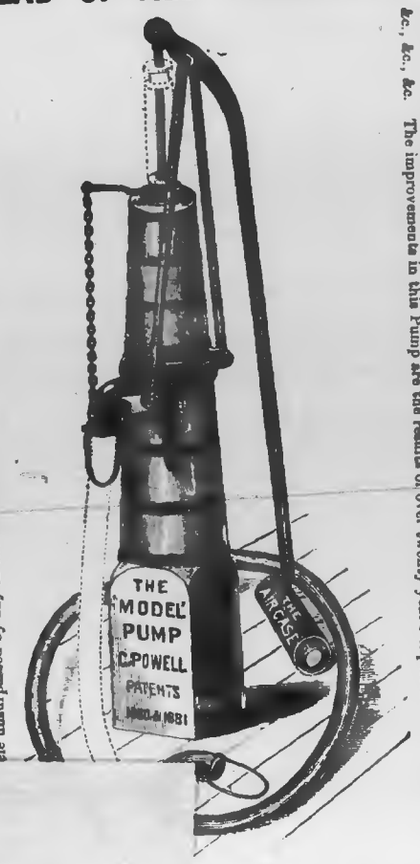
New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.



During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of inestimable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

A FEW EASY QUESTIONS.

BY THE BATH FARMER.

Who was it said in seventy-eight if he got in at Parliament gate, that he would fortunes for us make?

Who was it said with so much scorn, we'll place a tax on western corn that'll make the Yankees look forlorn?

Who was it said so jocularly, the Yankee pays the tax on barley and took us in most unfairly.

Who was it said our barley grain would never be low-priced again if he were but allowed to reign?

Who was it, one year from that date, sent barley down to forty-eight; just think one moment and you'll state?

Who was the political dead beat, who said he'd tax American wheat and not let it with our grain compete?

Who was it then, my rustic beauty, who let this wheat in free of duty and scorned us farmers absolutely?

Who was it said again, again, "it was a moat, a grievous shame, for Uncle Sam" to tax our grain?

Who was it, then, turned right around and taxed the products of our ground and put us farmers all "in pound?"

Who was it told "a bunch of lies" and said we'd have great factories and roll in wealth up to our eyes?

Who was the political "turmoiler" who almost burst his Tory boiler to show his zeal for the land toiler?

Who was it, when he got in power, looked at us farmers very sour, and forgot us from that very hour?

Who was it ever since his reign showed that his utterances were vain and treated farmers with disdain?

Who was it took right out of us the cash which forms his great "surplus" and over which he makes such fuss?

Who was it telegraphed, "Sir Hugh, another ten thousand, will do, and I'll hand the North-West o'er to you?

Who was the jolly old sardine, when he got caught in Sir Hugh's scheme, said, "Gentlemen, these hands are clean?

Who was it destroyed Jim Morton's home, through base treachery all his own, and in old age left "Jim" alone?

Who was it, during his whole career, never one cent for us did clear, but run in debt a million a year?

Who was the man who built "the wall" which shadows our country like a pall and threatens ruin to us all?—Napanee Express.

THE LAND OF ROSES.

The South has been called the land of the mocking bird and magnolia, and the land of orange groves. If I might be permitted to rechristen it, I should name it the land of roses. I don't believe there is any region on earth where roses grow in such abundance, variety, beauty, and sweetness as they do in this (New Orleans) country. A Mississippi gentleman to whom I have been indebted for information on several subjects, tells me that there is growing and in bloom at his home at this moment, a Larque rose-vine 80 feet long. The stem is eight inches through in the thickest part. It was planted seventeen or eighteen years ago. It is twined around a verandah, and its georgous clusters of cream-tinted roses are splendid to behold.

At New Orleans the Marechal Neil roses cause the Northerner to stare in speechless wonder. I saw one of the plants that must have been fifty feet long. I have seen vines of the same rose that long in the North, but they were scraggy and lean looking, and in the florist's greenhouses. At New Orleans they run wild, revel like a midsummer night's dream. The blossoms grow in gorgeous clusters of half a dozen or more, and the flowers are so large that they would more than cover the top of a large sized coffee cup. A single one of the pale gold beauties will fill a room with perfume. They are as plenty down here as "white top" in a Northern meadow. And they sell for one dollar a bad up North!

In some of the private citizens' yards in New Orleans, there are as many as a hundred different kinds of roses all in bloom at once. They do not require protection from cold at any time either. They all stand out-doors in the open ground, and many varieties bloom more or less all the winter through. The rose is a favorite flower at New Orleans. At the Jockey Club races we saw dozens of handsomely dressed ladies with exquisite bunches of rosebuds at their belts and elsewhere in their dresses—the sweet, lovely flower that nature made, none of your abominable artificial things.

WHAT SHALL WOMEN WEAR?

Every summer the question of what is the best description of dress for women to wear comes up. It is never settled. Why? Because the ladies are in the hands of their dressmakers, and they follow foreign modes, and so from year to year fashions change, but they improve little. Still there has been a vast improvement in costumes for some years past, in spite of a few extravagancies. In alluding to prospective radical changes, carrying us away back to the days of hoops—may their advent be long postponed!—Mr. Wm. Morris, author of "The Earthly Paradise," well remarked that the first and greatest necessity of rational and beautiful costume on the part of ladies was that they should exercise liberty of choice; so he begged them to battle stoutly for it, or they would tumble into exploded follies again. Their only chance of keeping that liberty was by resisting the imposition on costume of unnatural monstrosities. Garments should veil the human form, and neither caricature nor obliterate its lines. The body should be so draped as to express endless beauty of motion. This should be especially borne in mind, because fashionable milliners had chiefly one end in view, viz., how to hide and degrade the human body in the most expensive manner, they looking upon ladies as "scaffolds" upon which to hang a bundle of cheap rags, which could be sold dear under the name of dress. If ladies did not resist this to the bitter end costume would be ruined again, and he fervently begged them not to be upholstered like arm-chairs, but to drape themselves like women. Let them resist change for the sake of change, which was the very bane of all arts, and they should use material which were beautiful and durable, and not run after novelties.

PREPARING MILK FOR THE FACTORY.

An esteemed correspondent, J. B. H. of Antwerp, N. Y., sends us the method pursued by one of his patrons in cooling and preparing his milk for the cheese factory:—

"Mr. B. has a tank two feet wide, six feet long and perhaps sixteen inches deep, convenient to his well, in a slatted building, with a good roof which can be kept under lock and key to keep out animals and all intruders. This building need be only large enough to hold the tank. When milking time arrives the milk cans are placed in this tank, and as fast as the milk is poured into the cans water is pumped into the tank in sufficient quantity so that the surface of the latter is on the same level with the former.

A long handled dipper is at hand, and as the milking proceeds the contents of the cans is frequently stirred. If the night is a very warm one, the water in the tank is drawn off and refilled. I consider it indispensable to air the milk as soon as possible in order to get rid of all bad flavors, as it is impossible to make good flavored cheese out of bad flavored milk."

The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

The Redistribution Debate.

Mr. Blake's Great Speech.

The Tories Speechless—The Iniquity Accomplished.

In the House of Commons on Monday, at 3.35 p.m., Sir John Macdonald moved a second reading of his Gerrymandering Bill. Mr. Plumb, by prearrangement, got the floor first, and proceeded to bewail the wiping out of the historical district of Niagara, tracing its history from 1762 down. Mr. Blake took the floor at 4.25, and commented on the fact that the second reading of this Bill had been moved without any remarks, and without any indication of the course pursued. It was proposed to

CHANGE THE ELECTION LAW

by placing the nomination of Returning Officers within the entire control of the Government, instead of requiring the selection of men who, from their position, might be supposed to act in a judicial manner. He pointed out the fact that the language in the preamble of the Bill did not justify the sweeping changes made, and then proceeded to indicate how the increased representation necessary might have been given. Additional members might have been given to the counties of Essex, Kent Lambton, Bruce and Simcoe, and a member given to the county of Dufferin. This would have given six seats without the upsettal of the county bounds. Such an operation as that, or anything like it, would demand but a slight change in the map of Ontario, and require no such cutting and carving up as was proposed in this Bill. The bases which the Hon. gentleman (Sir John) laid for these widespread changes were too narrow altogether, and it was apparent that the political map of Ontario had been altered in such a manner as would be most benficial to the Government. The principle which it was now proposed to apply to Ontario had never been applied before, except in a limited degree, and in 1872 the leader of the Government had intimated, and it had been re-echoed on that side of the House, that the experiment would not be repeated. Proper time should have been given for the consideration of an important measure of this kind, more especially as the Government itself was directly affected by it, in consequence of the bearing it would have upon the approaching election. The Government was judge as well as jury, and this of all measures was one which should have been brought down early in the session. Another reason for full consideration was that this measure proposed a different set of jurors from those before whom the Government had last appeared. "A packed jury," Mr. Rymal remarked, sotto voce, and Sir John made an eye-glass of his fist and looked laughingly across. Mr. Blake continuing, condemned the manner in which the Bill had been prepared, and in scathing language ridiculed the changes made even after the introduction of the Bill to BOLSTER UP THE TORY MEMBERS.

Messrs. Ryxert and Hesson challenged Mr. Blake to meet them in their constituencies, a challenge which met with the reply that they were brave men to speak such words after having had their constituencies fixed to suit themselves. The Bill was not a Government Bill for the redistribution of Ontario, but was framed for low party ends, and aims to use the majority for party purposes. It was a sad commentary on the boasts of the last four years. This Bi showed that the Ministerialists did not feel confident and were seeking by legislation to make up for the loss inflicted by the misdeeds of the last four years. A similar attempt had been made in 1872, but it had not succeeded any more than this will succeed. He was convinced that the people of Ontario would resent, as they did on the well-known previous occasion, an abuse of a high trust. The hon. gentleman would find that though he might transfer men's bodies, he could not transfer their minds, and though he might transfer voters, in many cases he would transfer their votes against himself. It was his duty to appeal, not to conspirators who had concocted this measure, but to gentlemen from other provinces who knew the ties of county boundaries, and ask them to apply to the Province of Ontario the principles they would like to have applied to themselves. The county boundaries, by the Bill, were violated most flagrantly. He again quoted the remarks made by Sir John in 1872, relative to the desirability of

MAINTAINING COUNTY BOUNDARIES,

and said the right hon. gentleman declared he still held these views but justified his present action on the ground that Mr. Mowat had not followed these principles. The excuse would be absurd even if true; but the argument was founded on an utter and entire misunderstanding of Mr. Mowat's Bill, which had recognized throughout the principle of municipal county representation. Mr. Blake afterwards took up the plea of equalizing population, and showed that while some constituencies had 12,000 or 13,000 of a population, others had upwards of 25,000, and this sometimes in adjoining counties; in other cases the population of the very smallest constituencies, such as Monck Haldimand (?) and North Leeds had been reduced. He went over in detail many of the changes to show it was proposed to "hive" the Grits and strengthen adjoining constituencies held by Tories, giving the political effect of each change. As instance after instance of the iniquity of the Bill was brought out the speaker was loudly cheered by his political friends, while his opponents, with the exception of an odd interruption from Mr. Plumb, maintained a melancholy silence. The shameless gerrymandering in Bruce was particularly condemned, and it was pointed out that not only Sir John's pretended principle of equalizing the population was shamelessly violated in the arrangement of the north and west ridings, but in the latter constituency, by drawing from North and South Bruce and North Huron, a riding which on the basis of the election of 1878, would give a Reform majority of 1,000. In twenty-five cases were municipalities carried from one county into another, and forty-one out of fifty changes had been made in Western Ontario, where it was expected the

BATTLE WOULD BE FOUGHT.

In ten constituencies where the Reformers had been "hived" the Reform majorities would be as follows:—"On the basis of the election of 1878—North Brant, 723; South Oxford, 688; North Oxford, 1,165; West Ontario, 583; East Simcoe, 558; South Middlesex, 581; West Bruce, 986; Centre Huron, 446; West Elgin, 463; Holton, 290; a total in these ten constituencies of 6,453, or a surplus of 3,000 votes as compared with an equal number of constituencies in which the Tories has been kept together. The object of this legislation was to make a Tory minority in the country and a Tory majority in the House. Honest men could not afford to vote for a measure dishonest and fraudulent. The Government dare not attempt the same thing with the other Provinces, and he appealed to members from those provinces to deal with Ontario as they would wish to be treated themselves. But all this was not enough, and the Government had taken care that they should have the power of appointing their men as returning officers, and to do their "dirty work." He concluded a most masterly and brilliant oration in these words:—Sir, these are the two cardinal principles of this measure—first, to mar the force of the constituencies and alter the municipal bounds, and if by any means in the Liberal Province of Ontario it can be done, to destroy or weaken the Liberal strength, and give strength by force of law to the Tories; and second, by what the law cannot do by executive authority, administered as the hon. gentleman formerly administered that authority, with the result which he formerly produced, to use his discretion to appoint returning officers, in order that he may no longer have men restrained by the considerations to which I have referred, to act as such ought to act in such a position, but to appoint his creatures to do his dirty work. Sir, we saw an account the other day in the newspapers of a great banquet, at which there were flowers and sumptuous meats and costly wines and great enthusiasm—the banquet of the "old guard." It is not a very numerous body as represented in this House. I do not think anything can more strikingly tell us what the precarious tenure of a Canadian politician's life is than these figures. The hon. gentlemen was, I suppose, 125 strong in this House in 1873 and he is about 150 strong here to-day, but of his 125 of 1873 I see here to-day in his majority of 150 about 38 souls, while of us, who were in a minority of about 80 then and are in a minority of about 60 now, there remains so large a percentage that we appear about 30 strong. These are the mutations of a Canadian political life, and I do not doubt when the hon. gentleman looked at these figures and saw in the midst of his triumph that among his majority to-day those who supported him in 1873 were under forty, he must have felt that there are chances in the future, as there were chances in the past. I wonder if at that great feast, brilliant as it was, whether the Belshazzer of the feast did not at some period see a mysterious handwriting in unknown characters on the wall. I wonder was there any Daniel there to decipher those unknown characters, and tell him that the "Mene, mene, tekel upharsin," being interpreted, was "God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it. Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting. Thy kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians." Aye, whether it was at the banquet or before it the hon. gentlemen saw that handwriting on some wall, and what did he say? "I know that according to the feeling of the constituencies that elected me, my kingdom is gone. I know that according to the views of those who sent my supporters here, and who are to return them again if there be a change. 'I am weighed in the balance and found wanting," but like the unjust steward he said. "I will re-adjust the numbers; I will falsify the weights, I will arrange for trusty enumerators and carvers of the work, who shall give a proper account of the result, and so by adjusted provisions and falsified balances, and by counties of my own making and my own legislation, I will do what in me lies to defeat the characters which are written on the wall. So will I continue my kingdom and return still again to power." But the hand writing on the wall is not reversible by any such fraudulent impotent pretences in that way. The shadows have deepened, the hand writing is darker and more dark, the words are plainer to be seen. They are to be read in your honest English tongue to-day, and they tell us that an indignant and honest people of whatever political complexion is about to resent at the polls the fraud which is attempted to be perpetrated upon it, and to tell the hon. gentleman that the handwriting is true and his kingdom is indeed finished. I believe this measure deserves our attention at this stage, and that it is at this stage we ought to be called on to record our opinions. The hon. gentleman thinks it will pass; he knows the views of his friends better that I do; but if it passes it shall pass over such amendments as shall enable those who vote against it to vindicate the votes we are prepared to give. I move the amendment.

Mr. Blake resumed his seat at 10:30, having spoken four hours. He was attentively listened to through out, and frequently greeted with loud applause. While he was speaking the galleries were crowded. but there was as soon as he finished. Sir John was observed taking notes while Mr. Blake was speaking, and it had been the understanding beforehand that he was to follow. He apparently, however, felt that he would appear to bad advantage before his followers by direct comparison with the leader of the Opposition, and especially when the latter had such a powerful case. He therefore put up Mr. Bowell to do some round throwing, and that gentleman was fully equal to the task. Sir Richard Cartwright condemned the measure in the strongest terms. He spoke at some length, and was followed by other members, which put the time through to 5:15 a.m., long before which time the Speaker went sound asleep, and many of the members dosed to be waked from time to time whenever a long tongued member got upon his feet or a more than usually wordy encounter took place across the floor.

REACHING A DIVISION.

At 2:30 a division on Mr. Blake's resolution took place, the vote standing 51 for, and 111 against, a straight party vote all round.

Mr. Mills immediately rose and moved a second resolution, prefacing it with a few remarks. It was to the effect that the readjustment of the representation should be made without regard to the party complexion of the people, that advantage should not be taken to pack a few constituencies overwhelmingly full of Liberals and a large number of constituencies moderately full of Tories for the purpose of securing party advantage.

The second resolution was also lost on division, 52 to 112. The bill was then read a second time on the same division. Sir John announced that it would be moved into Committee of the whole this afternoon. It has been announced that the Government intend to convey it through Committee in one sitting, if it takes two days. The policy of the Government is simply to vote upon it, but not to speak. The House adjourned at 5.45 a.m.

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ, worth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still, we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good, honest made Piano at from $185 to $575, and a good honest Organ, (not all stops,) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if no pleasee no keepee, as the Chinaman would say, For the past ten years we have sent both Pianos and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish for a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments, you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood, always sells us more. Address, for prices, etc.,

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.—The standard remedy for the cure of coughs, colds, influenza, bronchitis, hoarseness, asthma, whooping cough, croup, sore throat, diptheria, difficulty of breathing, quinsy, phthisic, pain in the side and breast, spitting of blood, liver complaint, bleeding of the lungs, and and all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest, including even consumption. It seems hardly necessary to dilate at length upon the virtues of this favorite remedy. It was introduced to the public by Dr. Wistar nearly a half century since, and by the wonderful cures which it performed, gained an immediate and enviable reputation, which to this day it has fully sustained. From the Gulf of the St. Lawrence to the shores of the Pacific, there are few villages or hamlets without "living testimonials" to the rapidity and certainty of its curative effects. The proprietors, mindful of their responsibility to the afflicted, exercise the utmost care in the selection and compounding of the various ingredients of which the BALSAM is composed; and the sick are assured that the high standard of excellence on which its popularity is based, will always be maintained. Fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.
Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN.—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,

H. OWENS'
New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of inestimable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 18, 1882.

East Peterborough.

The campaign has been opened in this Riding by the nomination of Mr. W. E. Roxburg of Norwood, as standard bearer, in the Reform interest. It depends on the members of this party in East Peterborough, whether the issue of the coming contest shall result in signal victory or disastrous defeat. One of the most important conditions of success has been fulfilled by the selection made by the convention at Norwood, on Tuesday last. Mr. Roxburgh is a man not only thoroughly competent to creditably represent the Riding, as far as mere ability goes, but he is also possessed of sterling qualities of character that will make him an especially valuable and desirable representative. He is an almost a life-long resident of the Riding, has grown with its growth, and been, and is, identified with its every most important interest. His suitability as a representative of a rural constituency is intensified by the fact that he has always taken a warm interest in the agricultural development of his adopted county; as a member and promoter of the interests of agricultural societies he has contributed largely to the success of their exhibitions, and the accomplishment of their beneficial results. He is a gentleman of great personal worth and integrity, and one in whose hands the intererests of the Riding, the district, the province and the Dominion at large may be safely entrusted in full confidence that they will be dealt with both intelligently and honestly. Then the cause he espouses is good. It is the cause of right, justice, political honesty, good government. It is the cause that claims Ontario's soil for Ontario's sons; the cause that protects the many against the few; that resists a policy which enables the monopolist to wax fat at the expense of the poor man; which contends that provincial rights shall not be juggled with and outraged to subserve party ends, and retain in power a Government whose acts and policy per se crushingly condemn them. But the truth of the motto, "Thrice is he armed, whose cause is just" should not lead to one jot of abatement of effort to secure Mr. Roxburgh's return. The East Riding expects that every Reformer will do his duty, and unless he does it to the fullest extent of his ability, success cannot be counted on as certain. Let each one remember the foe against which he has to fight, the wiles he will have to watch against, the tricks that will be resorted to, and that the same spirit that animated the prince of political tricksters in concocting the nefarious gerrymandering bill, has been infused into every one of his followers, and the Reformers of East Peterborough will find modifications of the same spirit abroad in the Riding, in muliftorm shapes.

From this day to the day of polling there is room for neither rest nor leisure. Let every moment be employed, let every man find something to do. In a fair and open fight this unremitting activity would not be required, but it is needed now to circumvent the tricks that will be resorted to by our opponents. Let every elector be thoroughly canvassed and let the present state of Canadian politics be made plain to him—everything be fully explained so that the elector may have intelligible grounds on which to make his choice. Let him be shown the hollowness of the pretenses of the Government, let him be shown that the gigantic bribes to the electors in the shape of Government grants to public works, just before the elections, are too transparent baits to conceal the barb beneath. Let no stone be unturned, no elector be unapproached, who will listen to reason and argument; let nothing be taken for granted. Anticipate every device of the enemy, and circumvent it beforehand. Let each one work as though success depended on his individual efforts alone. We would not consider it necessary to thus urge our Reform friends to action under ordinary circumstances; but the present is a time to try men's souls; immense interests are at stake; extraordinary means will be taken to prostrate and bind in chains the country five long years longer, and extraordinary means must be employed to prevent such a consummation. "And again, I say unto you, watch."

West Peterborough.

As will be seen in another column, meetings have been arranged throughout the Riding, for the purpose of selecting delegates to choose a candidate to contest West Peterborough in the interest of the Reform party. The friends of the party residing in the polling division where the meeting is to be held, should make an effort to be present. We have several men in our ranks who are able to redeem the Riding, and nothing should be left undone to secure one of them to accept the nomination.

The Nefarious Object Confessed.

Mr. H. H. Smith is reponsible for the fact of our confidence (?) in Sir John Macdonald's truthfulness and sincerity being rather rudely disturbed and dispelled. Through a long and stirring career the gallant knight has maintained an enviable reputation for strict adherence to truth (?) in his statements, and the puritanical sincerity of his utterances. He stated that the object of the Redistribution Bill was simply to provide four new seats for Ontario, consequent on the increase of population, and to equalize the population of the constituencies. This, judging from Sir John's past record for veracity, we were bound to accept as true. But the Mail asserted in effect that the object of the Bill was to keep the Blake's, Paterson's and Charlton's out of the House, by mangling their constituencies and making them solid for the Tories. We regarded this as one of the Mail's attempts to tell the truth, with the usual result, and our trust in gerrymander John remained unshaken, but when Mr. H. H. Smith corroborates the Mail our faith is disturbed. He is well known; he is one of us, and on an extension of the principle that blood is thicker than water, we are compelled to believe him. He is always looking sharply and closely after the interests of the town committed to his oversight by the electors, and we suppose that it was in the exercise of this duty that he happened to be present at the meeting of the South Brant Conservative convention. The Mail reports him as saying at this convention, that "although there was a majority against Mr. Paterson in the riding, as now constituted, still it must be borne in mind that he was an able man, a prominent member of the Grit party, and desperate efforts would be made to secure his return." Here is the whole secret of redistribution in a nutshell, and the wirepuller-general of the Tory party is conscious of no sense of shame when he acknowledged its iniquitous intention. The entire scheme had shameless trickery on the face of it, but the open acknowledgement of its intention is something which one had thought the most depraved political gambler would have blushed to his boots to acknowledge. The Tory organ in effect openly avows it, and Mr. Smith, in public, coolly concedes it.

MR. BUNTING, M.P. for Welland, and proprietor of the Mail newspaper, is like all the rest of them. His constituents ask for bread and he gives them a stone. That is, they asked and were promised that the county town should be made a port of entry. Instead, a few days ago, Mr. B., through the local Tory paper, stated that Welland can have all the stone from the canal it wants for street repairs. The elections must be near at hand, or Bunting wouldn't have thought of his constituents, something he hasn't been guilty of before, since his election.

The Opposition Tariff Policy.

The line of action taken by the Opposition in Parliament, with respect to the tariff, is a perfectly intelligible and consistent one. It was the policy of the Liberal party in 1878, to leave the tariff of that day as it was, because it is more important to have a tariff permanent than it is to have it perfect. The tariff of 1878 had been in operation for about 20 years, with some changes in matters of detail and two general alterations in the unenumerated list. The essential feature of the Cartwright tariff—namely the fixed relation of raw materials, partially manufactured goods, and completed manufactures to each other—was the work of Sir Alexander Galt, and it is to be found in the tariff of 1859 as well as in that of 1878. It is true that in 1867 the rate of duty on the unenumerated list of imported articles was lowered from 20 to 15 per cent., and that it was increased in 1874 from 15 to 17½ per cent.; but this was no change of principle and in all essential respects the tariff of 1878 was the tariff of 1859. Had the tariff of 1878 continued unaltered, it would have been immeasurably better for the country which is now compelled to raise each year some four or five millions more than it needs for current expenditure. The Cartwright tariff would have raised an ample revenue when the revival of business took place, and the Tilley tariff did not raise enough until the improvement began.

As the policy of the Liberal party always has been to subject the tariff as little to alteration as possible, so it is now. The resolutions they have moved on the subject during the session show this. They do not seek to throw trade and industry into a state of perturbation by even talking of changes which are impracticable. What they have asked parliament to do is to amend the tariff in a few important particulars, and to these they have confined their attention. They have asked that fuel and breadstuffs—the two prime necessaries of life—shall be left absolutely free from taxation, as free as the air we breathe, or the water we drink. They have asked that the duties on cottons and woollens, which are at present so averaged as to bear most heavily on the poorer classes, shall be modified so as to bear on the rich as heavily as they do on the poor. They have asked that the duty on pig-iron, which is the raw material of all manufacturers of iron, shall be allowed to come in untaxed, for to tax pig-iron is to tax everything manufactured, whether it is made of iron or not. And they have asked that there shall be a considerable reduction in the general rate of taxation, as the people are now asked to pay far more than there is any necessity for. What the Opposition have done is to plant themselves firmly on the platform, the planks of which are economy in expenditure, moderation in taxation, a free distribution of the public burdens on all classes, and perfect freedom in the production or importation of the necessaries of life, and the raw materials of manufacturers.

This is a policy which all can understand, and all can understand, too, its opposite. Those who voted down the Opposition resolutions, thereby declared themselves in favour of raising more revenue than even the present rapidly increasing public expenditure calls for. They declared themselves in favour of taxing raw materials and the necessaries of life. And they declared themselves in favour of a scale of duties, which taxes the goods consumed by the poor man at a far higher rate than it does those consumed by the rich. On such an issue the Liberal party need not fear to commit their case to the people of Canada.

Can't Stand It.

In these days of slavish political subserviency, it is refreshing to find a case of an honest man breaking loose from Tory trammels and openly denouncing the political sins of his party leaders. Such an one is Mr. E. A. Powers, President of the Township of Hope Conservative Association, who has not only resigned that position, but also the membership of the Association, for reasons which we allow him to tell himself in the annexed letter:—

"SIR,—Will you kindly allow me space enough to announce that I have resigned my position as President of the Hope Conservative Club? I placed my resignation in the hands of the secretary of the above club two months ago, and requested him to inform the central Club of the fact. Whether he has done so or not I am unable to say. I am still, however, a warm admirer of the much abused N. P. But notwithstanding that fact, I cannot support the present Dominion Government in their unjust efforts to despoil Ontario of her equitable rights, nor aid nor abet them in their iniquitous measure to legislate themselves into power by Gerrymandering Ontario. In short, I cannot conceive how any free people can tamely submit to such an outrage, without at least, entering a vigorous protest through the ballot box, against such a monstrous deviation from political rectitude. Yours, &c.," E. A. POWERS.

"Hope, May 6, 1882."

This outspoken and manly protest against iniquitous legislation and administration, on the part of a private member of the Conservative party is in striking contrast with the course of the respective representatives of the two Peterborough's. Not only have they not objected to Ontario being despoiled of her territory and her electorate being juggled with by the bill to make the Tory Government hereditary, but they have sanctioned by their votes these acts, which cause the conscience of any honest Conservative to revolt. Evidently they do not go to Parliament as representatives of East and West Peterborough, but as thick and thin supporters of the Government, regardless of how great a sacrifice of the interests of their constituents may be involved in that slavish adhesion.

Work on the Toronto & Ottawa railway is to be begun at once. The line between Peterborough and Perth must be in working trim within the year.

JOHN HACKETT,

A Billingsgate Blast.

In criticising a short paragraph in the last issue of this journal the Review makes a disgracefully abusive attack on us, which no language can fitly characterize. The editor has command of a copious vocabulary of slang and vituperation, which must have been acquired during a protracted flirtation with a Billingsgate fish-woman. We quote a few tit-bits to show his style: "wilful falsifications." "debased and unscrupulous," "champion for mendicity" (sic) "deliberate falsehood," "caluminously states," "gratuitous untruth," "love for falsehood," "ignominious depth of baseness," "mean and cowardly vice," "reckless falsehood," "dastardly roguery," "committing this forgery," "mean and dirty trick." "contemptible act." We have no pleasure in devoting much attention to a journal that can employ such language to a contemporary. All this tempest in a teapot arises from our quoting, in response to the Review's challenge, from the report of Dr. Orton's committee, to prove that the N. P. had increased the cost of living. And when our quotations sustain our contention and the Review man is "hoist with his own petard" he becomes violent and comes out in a long slangy scold. In our quotation of figures, we followed those before us, which we had and still have reason to believe were correct. Our figures were correctly quoted; this we say in spite of the shrewish tirade of the Review man. How are we to know that the figures he quoted against us are not "cooked?" If the report of Dr. Orton's can falsify figures and give misleading and omitted quotations in reference to the relative prices of Chicago and Toronto wheat, why may not the figures it quotes have been subjected to the same process. And if Dr. Orton's committee did not manipulate the figures is it unreasonable to presume that the change may have been wrought in our contemporary's sanctum? The editor of the Review is not entirely unacquainted with the application of the culinary process to Blue Book figures. If he will give us in his next issue a sketch of the manner in which he was detected reading figures interlined in a Blue Book, to answer his own end, on a public platform in East Peterborough during an election campaign, the public will then be able to form an opinion as from what source cooked figures are likely to emanate. We repeat that we correctly quoted the figures in question believing them to be correct, an opinion we still adhere to unconvinced by any less reliable authority than the assertion of the Review.

A Dublin despatch says the Repression Bill has alienated the people, who now show a disposition to withhold assistance to the police in their endeavours to discover the Dublin assassins. The Bill provides for special tribunals of three judges to try cases without jury, in those places where, from disaffection, the ordinary laws cannot be enforced. The judgment of these tribunals must be unanimous, but those of the Supreme Court, to which appeals may be taken, are to be by majority. Sentences pronounced by the lower courts may be diminished but not increased. The fullest power of search and arrest is granted, suspicious strangers especially coming under the new law. The Alien Act is for this purpose to be revised. Membership of secret societies is to be a criminal offence, and intimidation, unlawful meetings and seditious newspapers are to be repressed. Witnesses can be compelled to attend. Compensation for murders and outrages will be demanded from the districts in which they occur, and courts consisting of two stipendiary magistrates are to deal summarily with outrages.

EAST PETERBORO'

Reformers Ready for the Fray!

Mr. W. E. Roxburgh of Norwood, the Unanimous Choice.

A Strong and Stirring Address by Thos. Blezard, Esq., M.P.P.

The largest, most influential, most representative, and most united convention of the Reform party ever held in East Peterborough, met on Tuesday, at the village of Norwood, for the purpose of nominating a candidate, and electing officers of the Association for the current year. After the president, A. R. Kidd, Esq., Reeve of Dummer, had explained the object of the meeting, the following

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED:—

A. R. KIDD, Esq., Reeve of Dummer, President.

E. FOLEY, Esq., of Douro, 1st Vice President.

J. LANG, Esq., Reeve of Otonabee, 2nd Vice-President.

J. W. DRUMMOND, Esq., of Otonabee, Secretary.

THOS. ROBB, Esq., Reeve of Asphodel, Treasurer.

The meeting then took up the business of nominating a candidate, and Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, nominated by Mr. Robert Harrison of Asphodel, and seconded by Mr. John Hull, of Lakefield, was made the nominee of the convention, with entire unanimity and the GREATEST ENTHUSIASM.

Mr. Roxburgh then came forward, and being received with applause, again and again renewed, proceeded to deliver in his best style a rousing address. He referred to the present as being the most important and critical era in the history of the country, and one that demanded the utmost exertion of every Reformer to endeavour to retain the rights and privileges won by nearly half a century of hard fighting in the cause of constitutional government. He referred to the manner in which the present Government had manipulated our magnificent North-West possessions, by which a wide avenue had been opened to land jobbery, to the detriment of the true interests of Canada, and the retardation of the settlement of the country. The Boundary award and the N. P. were briefly alluded to, one as an outrage and insult to Ontario, and the other as a gigantic fraud, through whose operation the interests of the few were promoted to the injury of the many. The whole policy of the Government ignored the true interests of the country, and was calculated chiefly for the aggrandizement of the party and their retention of power at whatever cost. He concluded by accepting the nomination as heartily as it had been tendered, and pledged himself to use every legitimate means in his power and to spare no reasonable personal exertion and sacrifice to carry the banner of Reform when the day of contest should come.

TERSELY BUT TELLINGLY.

TRIUMPHANTLY TO VICTORY

Thos. Blezard, Esq., M. P. P., being called on, gave an account of his stewardship in the Local legislature, in the course of which he ably defended the Mowat Administration against the attacks and aspersions of its opponents, alluding especially to the refusal of the Ottawa Government to ratify the Boundary Award, and the support given his leader, by the present member for East Peterborough to the determent of this province, and the disgust of his constituents, as will be demonstrated at the coming elections.

UNSWERVING AND SLAVISH

Addresses were also delivered by Messrs. Hull, of Lakefield, Galvin, of Douro, Dr. Massey, of Norwood, Murphy, of Asphodel, Foley, of Douro, J. R. Stratton, of the EXAMINER, and others.

Mr. Roxburgh is a gentleman well known throughout the riding as a very popular man of sterling ability and integrity, and will without doubt redeem the riding. The party is and united to a man and the satellites of Sir John Macdonald will meet in this riding an opposition, the like of which they have never yet had to encounter.

WELL ORGANIZED

During the meeting the following were unanimously adopted, brief addresses being made by the movers and seconders:—

RESOLUTIONS

Moved by JOHN HULL, Esq., Lakefield, seconded by W. Learmouth, Esq., Asphodel—That the Reformers of this Riding take this opportunity of recording their unwavering confidence in the ability, political honesty, and personal integrity of the Honorable Edward Blake, the leader of the Opposition, and of those gentlemen who so bravely and continuously battled with him for the rights of the people and of the Provinces, against the wicked attempts of the Conservative leaders and supporters, to deprive the people of their constitutional rights, and against their efforts to make all things subservient to the enemies of the Dominion, with a view to curtailing the provinces of their privileges, guaranteed to them by the Act of Confederation, and all in subservience to the wishes of the Bleus of Quebec, who maintain the Conservatives in power. And believing Mr. Blake to be a Statesman of just, broad, liberal views, who has the interests of his country and of the people at heart, and who desires their progress and prosperity—we pledge ourselves to use all legal efforts, influence and arguments, to return men to Parliament who will support him and his colleagues in establishing a Government unstained by corruption, too honorable to descend to trickery, and too just to encroach on the rights of any of the provinces, or of one of the meanest of the citizens.

Moved by R. HARRISON, Esq., Asphodel, seconded by E. FOLEY, Esq., of Douro,—That the Reformers of this Riding view with alarm and indignation the encroachment of the Dominion Government on the rights and privileges of the provinces, and their wicked attempt to deprive Ontario of her territory, and to filch from her over one hundred and twenty millions of her income from woods and forests and mines. And they would take this opportunity of expressing their just condemnation of the attempt made by Sir John A. Macdonald, aided by the "Bleus" of Quebec, to rob her of her just and equitable representation in the councils of the Dominion, by his last and most iniquitous effort to so carve and shape the constituencies as to secure power for himself and party, and deprive his opponents of every possible means of being represented in the Commons. They also express their condemnation of the use made of the veto power, in undue and illegal interference with the legislation of the provinces in the Streams Bill. Their vetoing the Manitoba and South Eastern Railway Charter, their jobbery in letting of contracts, and favoring those who, out of their unjustly gotten gains, use those gains to promote the return of the Tories to power and misgovernment, and we hereby pledge ourselves to use all legal means to prevent their return to power, by electing good and true men. Reformers, to take their place and restore order, rectitude and justice in the management of the public affairs of the Dominion.

Moved by R. Harrison, Esq., Asphodel, seconded by Thos. Johnston, of Otonabee, and resolved,—That this Convention, having watched the course of Sir John A. Macdonald, and the Conservative party have shown fears for the future of our country if they are returned to power. By their inauguration of the mis-called National Policy, with all its injustice of taxing the poor to build up monopolies; by their profanity in daring to attribute to their trickery what can only be wrought by Divine power; by their corruption in contract-letting, and by their open violation of all constitutional guarantees, they make all good men dread the day of coming wrath and ruin. But with a view to clearing our skirts of either part or lot with these, we express our detestation of them. The National Policy taxes one class for the benefit of another; it favors the rich and oppresses the poor. It has not improved the condition of the farmer, the laborer or the mechanic, but it has increased the cost of living, the cost of raw material and carriage of freight, and thus has been giving a stone instead of bread, and convinced, as we are, that it is wrong in principle, unjust in detail, and injurious to a country's progress, we pledge ourselves to oppose every candidate who seeks election under the plea of supporting it, and as its promoters attribute to it what the Almighty only can do—produce good harvests and abundant crops—we take this opportunity of expressing our abhorrence of those principles, and of that party who put the N. P. in the place of Him who sends the early and the latter rains, and who only fills our barns with plenty; and we further pledge ourselves to oppose them because of their unpatriotic Pacific Railway policy, by which they throw away $3,000,000 and 3,000,000 acres of land, to build up an oppressive railway and land policy in the North-West.

"IMPUDENCE."

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

SIR,—A few days ago I observed in the Review the following comment upon one of the Reform resolutions, submitted and passed at the public meeting held on Saturday, the 6th instant: "No one disputed Mr. Blake's great ability, but fortunately legal ability does not always co-exist with practical statesmanship." * * * * * "It is certainly the height of impudence to thank Mr. Mowat and his colleagues for their zeal in standing up for the rights and interests of Ontario, when for the sake of making political capital, they have betrayed those interests which were entrusted to them, declining to join in a just settlement of the boundary question, and endeavouring to yield up territory to which they themselves admit we have a rightful claim." The resolution expressed our entire confidence in the personal and political integrity of both Mr. Blake and Mr. Mowat, and exercising the right of private judgment, and liberty of expressing our views and sentiments, we placed on record our convictions, without asking liberty to do so from the Review, or the party it represents. But our doing what we have a perfect right to do, is denounced by this organ of the Tory party as "the height of impudence." Permit me, Mr. Editor, to state that I consider such language as the height of insolence.

Without entering into the merits of the rivals of the political Reformers, we Reformers, consider our leaders, men of sterling worth and integrity, honest, faithful, just, able and wise. Their moral character is without a blot or a stain, and knowing and believing this, are we to be prevented from expressing our opinions, because an opponent will not endorse our views?

I could, if I chose to do so, bring forward charges of intolerance like the case above, but I have neither time nor inclination just now to enlarge. We shall continue our approval of the men whom we delight to honor, and hope to place them in power again as soon as the vaunted N.P. will be consigned, as it deserves, to oblivion. The calm usually precedes the storm, and I much mistake if the people of Canada will not show by their votes at the polls their appreciation of that precious humbug.

Yours, etc.,
AN OLD REFORMER.

OUR STEAM FIRE ENGINE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

Perhaps you can tell me what object the Review man can have in continually misrepresenting the condition of our steam fire engine? The fire in Hastings, the incendiary attempts on the old house below the market, the progress being made with the water-works, the fire alarm on Saturday night, have all served as levers by which he could give the steamer a wrench. Now, our engineer is a careful and sensible man, and, we believe, by no means tired of life; and if there was much danger of a blow-up he would want to be at a safe distance. However, on Saturday evening after the engine had returned to the engine house, I asked Mr. English if there was much the matter with the machine, and if the flues did really "leak" so badly as "to put the fire out?" Oh, no, he said, there is not much the matter with her. One flue leaks a little, but nothing to hurt. Whereupon he lit a torch, and, putting it into the fire box, where, to the extreme left and close to the wall of the fire box, I noticed a little water dropping—a drop at a time—from the end of one flue; and at this time there were ten pounds of steam up. I think it would be well to keep the engine in perfect repair, and if this small leak is an indication of a weak spot, it should be attended to at once. In fact, I am told that new flues have been ordered from the parties who made the engine. These, when put in, will make the engine as good as new, but, for the present, unless the leak increases a hundred fold there is no danger of its putting the fire out.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

TEA.—The ladies of the choir of this village, intend having a tea on the Plains on May 24th. The proceeds arising from the tea are to go in aid of the choir. Should the day be fine, a very large attendance is expected. Tea is to be served about 3 p.m.

THE BRIDGE.—The bridge crossing the lake, that was so badly used up by the ice in the spring, is now quite passable, though very tortuous looking.

THE BOAT.—The boat from Bobcaygeon arrives here regularly every forenoon, generally with quite a number of passengers. Such passengers are conveyed from here to Peterborough by the stage in connection with the boat.

MILLS.—We have now three mills in our village—two saw mills and one grist mill—all sharing in the boom of prosperity. Bridgenorth is noted for its manufactures.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

BY ELIZABETH YATES RICHMOND, CHICAGO.

O lady, with the weight
Of island crowns and Indian diadems
On thy o'er laden brow, beyond whose realms
The tireless sun sets never.
We would stretch across these salt-waved seas,
These limitless prairies and unfetterrd hills,
To thee our loyal and responsive hands;
For thy true woman's soul,
Throbbing, unshaken 'neath the grands of state,
Hast woke us who o'er broad hemispheres,
Where oceans palpitate o'er stranger zones,
From tropic isles to ice-bound continents.

Though stranded on an age
Which laughs at sceptres, and at dynasties
Which trail the ermined robes, and jewelled crowns
Of princes in the dust of centuries,
Yet binding to thee by the mountains' belts
Races and tribes of every hue and creed,
Not serfs of the old crowns thy fathers left
With all their tarnished sapphires,
But bound to thee with loyal hearts and hands,
Sworn to defend thy bulwarks and thy throne
Through driving tempests and fierce hurricanes,
God save thee, noble Queen!

From transatlantic continents, we pray;
Build in the high munition of the rocks
Thy stately throne, and through the solemn years
Guard thee with His battalions, shield thy head
With His strong hand, and turn the bolts aside
That meditate thy harm. And when the crown
Drops heavily from they encumbered brow,
Send thee His chariot through the opening cends,
To bear thee up the causeways of the spheres
To yonder rest, far in the great beyond.

Farm, Garden and Household.

The following digest of the returns to the Ontario Bureau of Industries, in reply to a circular of April 15th, asking for a report on the state of crops, live stock, and kindred subjects, as far as it refers to the East Midland group of counties, is given:

EAST MIDLAND GROUP.

The East Midland counties occupy what may be called the lake country of Ontario. The whole region, but the northern portion of it especially, is a network of lakes and rivers. It is consequently well adapted for grazing purposes, and is likely to be more famous in the future for its herds of cattle and sheep than for the quality or productiveness of its cereals. Being, too, on the borderland of the Laurentain system, it is difficult to use modern labor-saving implements to any advantage. The reaper, the mower, and the drill cannot be of much service in a land strewn with primitive rocks. But there is much good wheat land in Victoria, Peterborough and Hastings, and spring grains can be grown profitably in all the counties of the group.

The fall wheat appears to have suffered less this year from winter exposure and spring frosts than in the westerly counties of the Province; but then it must be borne in mind that the acreage under crop is very much less. In Kent and Huron the area under fall wheat is to the area cleared in the proportion of 1 to 5, while in the best townships of Victoria and Peterborough it is in the proportion of 1 to 13.

Clover has suffered the same fate as in all other sections of the Province; it will not be more than half a crop.

Farmers had a good store of fodder throughout the winter, and live stock are reported in fair condition. "Pink-eye" raged everywhere, but it does not appear that many horses died of it. The supply of fat and store cattle is short.

COUNTY OF VICTORIA.

The forty reports received from this county give favourable accounts of the condition of fall wheat. "Very good," "never saw it better," and "good, with some exceptions," run through all the returns. In the southern townships of the county a considerable breadth has been sown, and excepting on low and undrained clay lands it has wintered well, and suffered little from the action of spring frosts. In the northern townships very little fall wheat is grown. No injury has been done by worms or insects, and no wheat land is likely to be ploughed up.

Old clover fields in South Victoria have been injured by spring frosts, more especially on low lands, but the new clover is reported to be very good. In North Victoria it was too early at the date of the returns to note its condition. It was believed, however, to be safe on high and well-drained lands.

A steady improvement has been made in live stock during the past five years. There was a good supply of fodder throughout the winter, and horses and cattle are in better condition than usual at this time of the year. "Pink-eye" has prevailed extensively throughout the county, and many horses have been unfit for work on account of it; very few cases proved fatal. Many lambs have died this spring.

Farmers began ploughing about the 15th of April, but not much grain was sown before the 20th. Spring wheat and peas were sown in large quantities by the 24th. Vegetation is not so far advanced as usual at this time of year, but the ground where properly underdrained is in first-rate condition. Apple and pear trees give promise of an abundance of fruit. Currant, gooseberry, and black raspberry bushes are safe, but red and white raspberries are nearly all killed; strawberry plants have been badly injured, and may not yield a third of a crop.

A large quantity of hay is in the farmers' hands; it sells at $7 to $9 per ton. A great deal of wheat has been sold, but as the harvest was a large one there is more in the country yet than is needed for home consumption. There is also a considerable quantity of barley.

Fat and store cattle are scarce, but a number are feeding for market. Many horses and oxen have been bought up for the North-West.

GENERAL REMARKS. "High prices for produce marketed in the States and England, and bought up by lumbermen, have enabled farmers to go in for higher farming and improved live stock." "Land that has been tile-drained is two weeks earlier on that account." "The general prospects of the farmer for the coming season are good."

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Favourable reports are received of the condition of fall wheat in all the southern townships of the county. It wintered well, notwithstanding the light covering of snow, and but little damage had been done by spring frosts at the date of the returns. The crop was best on loamy soils, but on low and undrained lands it has been partially winter-killed. No injury has been done by worms or insects. In the northern townships of the county very little fall wheat is grown.

Winter rye is grown extensively in Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer townships, and the crop is in good condition. One correspondent says: "It never looked better." In North Monaghan it is reported "extra good." In Otonabee very little is grown—not more than a dozen fields. One correspondent in this township reports; "One soil is chiefly a heavy clay, and rye is only grown on the poorer soils."

The clover crop is considerably injured by the winter and spring frosts. On undrained heavy soils it is nearly all "heaved" out; on higher lands less injury has been done. In Smith township last year's seeding is said to be the worst, but elsewhere the old clover has suffered most. "All killed" is the general expression in North Monaghan. On the whole, it will not average half a crop over the county.

Live stock are in fair order. Hay and straw were abundant for feeding purposes, but there was a scarcity of roots. Cattle and sheep are healthy; "pink-eye" has been prevalent among horses, causing many mares to lose their foals; pigs are plentiful and poor.

Very good progress has been made with spring work, owing to the dry season. Ploughing began about the 15th, and spring wheat, barley and peas were extensively sown before the 24th. Vegetation is very backward, on account of frosty nights and drying winds during the day. It is believed that the fruit trees are safe.

The bulk of the wheat is marketed, but in Otonabee, Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer there is a considerable quantity yet in the farmers' hands. Oats is scarce, and hay abundant.

Horses have been sent largely to the North-West and to the Montreal and New York markets. Store cattle of three years and over were picked up by drovers last fall. Fat cattle are reported in "considerable numbers" in the township of Smith, but elsewhere very few are to be found. Peterborough is a good grazing county; it is well watered, and the grass is rich and nourishing.

GENERAL REMARKS.—"We never consider our fall wheat safe until after the 18th of May." "The county is well adapted for stock raising and the growth of spring crops." "Wheat and barley the chief crops." "People are taking more interest in feeding and raising cattle for the English market." "Night frosts hard on fall wheat, grass and fruit trees." "The promise for the season was never better."

COUNTY OF HALIBURTON.

Fall wheat is sparsely grown in this county. In Lutterworth one man has sown ten acres, and he reports that "it is alive, but looks terribly jaded." Last year he had a good crop. The soil is a light gritty loam. In Cardiff there are only nine acres sown, and 75 per cent. of it has been killed by spring frosts. In Anson and Hindon there are less than twenty acres, but it looks very well. In Haliburton township the crop is reported in excellent condition. The soil is uniformly a sandy or gravelly loam.

The staple crop of farmers is oats, which they sell to lumbermen at good prices. This year, however, a good deal of spring wheat has been sown, as people are anxious to produce their own flour.

Some winter rye is grown and it is in good condition. Spring rye is preferred, as it makes better bread.

Clover has not suffered to any extent from winter or spring frosts.

Live stock are in better condition than usual in some townships, but in others they are thin in flesh. "Pink-eye" was prevalent in Lutterworth, but there were no fatal cases. There was no scarcity of fodder, and there are large quantities of hay in farmers' hands.

Spring work had just commenced at the date of the returns. No signs of growth were visible, but fruit trees looked thrifty. Hay, oats and roots are the staple crops, and they succeed admirably.

Haliburton is well adapted for raising cattle and sheep, and farmers are now turning their attention chiefly to live stock. It pays better than grain, as the land is rough and cannot be worked with machinery. "Our excellent water and pastures," a Minden correspondent remarks, "produce as good beef as I ever tasted, and the best mutton."

The past winter has been very changeable, varying to extremes, and has been very trying both to settler and stock.

COUNTY OF HASTINGS.

In the northern townships of Hastings very little fall wheat is grown. In the southern townships the general condition of the crop is good, but in some townships it has been injured by frosts. On heavy clay and "mucky" land it has been "heaved" out, but on loamy and higher land it looks well. Some fields have been ploughed up, but the outlook on the whole is quite promising. Cold, dry winds were doing the crop injury at the date of the returns.

Winter rye is largely grown, and is in good condition.

Except on loamy soils, the clover will be an entire failure. Frosty nights and sunny days have been the death of it. Farmers are ploughing up many fields. Only one report says the crop is good, and that comes from the township of Marmora.

Live stock are in fair condition. Fodder was plentiful, and hay sold in Belleville all through the winter at $8 to $10 per ton. "Pink-eye" visited nearly every stable in this county, and a number of horses died of it. The disease has now disappeared.

A great deal of grain has been sown this spring. The ground in the southern townships was made ready last fall, and farmers were consequently able to get in their seed as soon as the frost was out. Fruit trees had made no growth at the date of the returns; they appear to have come through the winter safely. Vegetation was in a very backward state.

There is less than enough of wheat in the country to bread the people. In some townships hay and oats are the staple crops, and for these products good markets are found in the lumbering districts.

The supply of store cattle is under the average, and of fat cattle there are scarcely any. "Outside of Crosby's distillery," a correspondent says, "I do not think half a dozen cattle are being fatted in South Hastings."

LAID ON THE SHELF.

Mr. Thos Claydon, Shelburne, Ont., writes: "I have been suffering with a lame back for the past thirty years, and tried everthing I heard of without success.

Not long ago I was persuaded to use St. Jacobs Oil. I purchased a bottle, and, strange to say, before I had used it all, I was perfectly cured. I can confidently recommend it to any one afflicted. No one can speak too highly of its merits." Mr. W. E. Weeckley, also of Shelburne, thus mentions a matter of his experience: "I have been a sufferer with rheumatism for years. I was laid up with a severe attack a short time ago, and I can truly say that St. Jacobs Oil produced the quickest relief that I ever experienced. I cheerfully recommend it to every sufferer."

A COOL AND WET SUMMER.

The following letter, from Mr. Vennor, appears in the Montreal Star:

"From all sections of the United States, letters are reaching me respecting the brilliant display of the Aurora on and contiguous to the 17th of April. In portions of West Virginia the display appears to have been particularly remarkable. "What does this signify?" is the question asked of me by hundreds of correspondents. Simply, I replied thus:—That, in all probability, the approaching summer is going to be cold and wet over a very considerable portion of the continent west and south. This I predicted fully a year ago, when referring to the winter of 1882, and the recent phenomena only strengthens this impression in my mind. And I would now go further, and state that it will not surprise me should each month of the remainder of the year bring frosts. If asked why so? What connection can there be between the Aurora and the rainfall? I would reply for the present, simply: It has been so in the past. Brilliant displays of the Aurora at this time in April, at Toronto, New York, and at more southern points, have in nearly every instance been succeeded by cold and wet summers. It is better to know the probability and prepare for it, than endeavor to ignore what back records demonstrate."

HOW TO RAISE TURKEYS.

Old turkeys can take care of themselves. Our object in this article is to tell how to care and raise young turkeys successfully, and be at the same time a source of recreation and profit to their keeper.

When the turkey chicks appear upon the stage of life, they should not be suddenly removed or allowed to leave the nest, as the warmth of the mother is still necessary for some time after hatching, then give them hard boiled egg in small quantities crumbled fine. Later feed curdled milk and bits of bread soaked in milk, and still later ground corn and barley or oats mixed with milk.

Turkey chicks should be confined to a warm place after being hatched until they get strong. Their dam must not be let out at liberty until the dew is off the grass, moisture and cold being exceedingly injurious to them, occasioning cramps and every kind of infirmity. They can not even endure quarters subject to that degree of cold and dampness in which the common barnyard chicks will thrive and grow. They require dry, warm weather and strong hearty food. When young they make rapid headway toward development, and should be forced along as fast as possible, that the body may keep pace with the quick growing features.

Turkey poults when well fed and cared for grow rapidly. At the age of three weeks their backs are nearly covered and they have obtained their first quill feathers in the wing and tail, and can endure more foul weather. As they increase in growth and strength they should be allowed more and more liberty each day until given free range to go and come at will.

"By asking too much we may lose the little we had before." Kidney-Wort asks nothing but a fair trial. This given, it fears no loss of faith in its virtues. A lady writes from Oregen: "For thirty years I have been afflicted with kidney complaints. Two packages of Kidney-Wort have done me more good than all the medicine and doctors I have had before. I believe it is a sure cure."

Fast, brilliant and fashionable are the Diamond Dye colors. One package colors 1 to 4 lbs. of goods. 10 cents for any color.

SANDERSON'S

A PRINTER'S LOVE-SONG.

Come to my arms you lovely "quad."
My charming little Nell:
My bride I'll set you in "burgeois,"
Trimmed round with "nonpareil."

Your "form" is beauteous to behold,
And ruddy is your "face:"
Your "colour" glows just like to one
Returning from the "chase."

Oh! had I "space" to tell you all
The charms that, when a girl,
You did possess, and gave the "proof"
In "agate" and in "pearl,"

I could not in a "minion" write,
Of "pica" or "brevier,"
The "measure" of your matchless worth,
Or "justify" you, dear.

"Long primer" it would take to do
Your picture and not flatter;
Then "copy" to my heart I'd "press"
For lack of other "matter."

Were you arrayed in costly "dress,"
A "diamond" in your hair,
Or stripped just like a "galley" slave,
You'd be to me as fair.

And should a "minion" round you fawn
On him I'd put a "head,"
And with my trusty "shooting stick,"
I'd fill him full of lead.

Happy through life, in every "case,"
This "rule" we'd rest upon;
I'd be to you true manhood's "type,"
And you my "paragon."

THE COMING COMET.

WHERE HAS IT COME FROM AND WHERE IS IT GOING?—WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT IT.

Early in the morning of March 18, a young man, while sweeping the heavens with a telescope in the Dudley Observatory at Albany, had his diligence rewarded by discovering an infinitesimal spark, which will soon make a brighter display in the sky than has been furnished by any comet since Donati's, twenty-four years ago. This unknown wanderer, christened after its discoverer, the Wells comet, has not been identified with any comet before observed. It is just now rushing onward toward the sun at the rate of perhaps a million miles a day, and its speed as it nears the centre of attraction will increase enormously. The comet according to Professor Boss, of the Dudley Observatory, will have brilliant career. He believes that it has a large and active nucleus; and, if that is the case, we should in June see a tail of immense proportions. "The brilliancy of the display will, however, suffer much from the presence of dawn and twilight; and merely as a spectacle this comet is not likely to take the highest rank. But to comet observers the behavior of the tail during the critical days, near June 10, will furnish phenomena of absorbing interest." Comets in general have often been discussed and explained, so far as an explanation is possible. What their sources, and what their destiny, are questions as unanswerable as the question, what are they made of. The same authority, Professor Boss, says that the real solid nucleus of a comet is small in the extreme, it being doubtful whether we see anything but the luminous vapor which surrounds it. Any known comet, in fact, could not produce a more serious effect by striking the earth than the devastation of some particular locality. Donati's comet might destroy as large a country as the United States. However, a comet would have to come within some 200,000 miles of the earth for the earth's attraction to have more power over it than the sun's. Considering the immensity of space a collision will be seen to be very unlikely. If the comet did come within 200,000 miles, unless it came very much nearer it would probably just take the earth for its sun and revolve round us like another moon. The most reasonable theory of comets' tails is that they are formed of the same matter as the head itself, thrown off and dissipated into such a state of thinness, so to speak, that we can look right through a tail millions of miles thick and see the stars quite plainly on the other side. As the tail is always from the sun, it is supposed that the sun has some great powor of repulsion which acts upon a body with such a tremendous surface compared to its density as a comet's tail, while not strong enough to act on the small and comparatively dense nucleus, which only feels the sun's better known power of attraction. Electricity is known to act in this way, taking account of the extent of surface of the body it acts upon, and not of that body's mass.

A MATRIMONIAL MISTAKE.

The bride of a Green Bay (Wis.) wedding was astonished by receiving from a friend a pair of trousers, with the message, "Loaned for the part you are to play." The bridegroom construed the garment as an insult and the guests unanimously agreed that some decisive form of resentment ought to be shown. While the excitement was high the friend arrived in equal perturbation and explained that the trousers should have gone to a fellow for wear in an amateur entertainment, while a piece of silverware should have come to the wedding. He had hastily whipped the blundering messenger and would submit himself to any punishment the bride might inflict. She made him wait for a kiss until everybody else had been served.

A CHILD CRITIC.

The German sculptor Dannecker worked for eight years upon a statue of Christ. At the end of two years he called a little girl into his studio and pointed to the statue asked. "Who is that?" She replied, "A great man." The artist turned away disheartened; he had failed. He began anew. After another year of patient work he brought the child again before the statue. "Who is that?" After a long silent look with tears in her eyes, she said. "Suffer the little children to come unto Me." And he knew that his work was a success.

Mrs. D. Morrison, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writing about Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, says:—Geo. Bell used it on his son, and it cured him of rheumatism with only a few applications. The balance of the bottle was used by an old gentleman for Asthma, with the best results. It acts like a charm.

"Don't go chopping away at the branches," said an old woodman to his son. "Lay your axe at the root of the tree." And, like a dutiful boy, he did as he was told. He laid the axe at the root of the tree and went for a day's fishing.

Good health is impossible when the blood is impure, or when it is thin and and cold. Under such conditions one disease after another is developed. Boils, pimples, headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, etc., are the result of impure blood, and the wisest course is to make the blood pure, rich and warm by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

O. Bortle, of Manchester, Ontario Co., N. Y., writes;—"I obtained immediate relief from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I have had asthma for eleven years. Have been obliged to sit up all night for twelve nights in succession. I can now sleep soundly all night on a feather bed, which I had not been able to do previous to using the Oil."

Mr. R. C. Winlow, Toronto, writes:—"Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is a valuable medicine to all who are troubled with Indigestion. I tried a bottle of it after suffering for some ten years, and the results are certainly beyond my expectations. It assists digestion wonderfully. I digest my food with no apparent effort, and am now entirely free from that sensation, which every dyspeptic well knows, of unpleasant fullness after each meal."

"What building is that?" asked a stranger of a boy, pointing to a school house. "That?" said the boy, "Why, that's a tannery!" And he feelingly rubbed his back as he passed on.

WHO'S THE BEST PHYSICIAN.—The one that does the most to relieve suffering humanity of the thousand and one ills that befall them, is certainly the best of all physicians. Electric Bitters are daily doing this, curing where all other remedies failed. As a spring tonic and blood purifier they have no equal. They positively cure liver and kidney complaints. In the strongest sense of the term, they are the best and cheapest physician known.—Daily Times. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald at 50 cents.

An exchange, in deploring the necessity of a certain bank officer's retiring, says: "The bank sustains a heavy loss." This is certainly a very kind way of saying that he stole about a million dollars.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.—MRS. Geo. C. Clark, of Port Dalhousie, Ont., states that she had been confined to her room for a long time with that dreadful disease, Consumption. The doctors said she could not escape an early grave, but fortunately she began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and in a short time was completely cured. Doubting ones, please write to Mrs. Clarke and be convinced. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size, $100.

"Do you pretend to have good a judgment as I have?" exclaimed an enraged wife to her husband. "Well, no," he replied slowly, "our choice of partners for life shows that my judgment is not to be compared with yours."

AFTER THE CULMINATION OF MANHOOD at forty, the prime of life begins to decline into old age. The activity of the digestive apparatus, which at first was sufficient not only to provide for the daily waste, but to add new material later on is only able to supply the daily waste, and at last is too imperfect to maintain the balance and sustain the frame in its existing entirety. At this period; when the expenditure is greater than the income WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, by augmenting nerve force and supplying ready-made tissue elements, will have a tendency to prolong life.

PIPES BY THE MILLION.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE PROCESS OF MANUFACTURE IN PROVIDENCE.

The red clay pipe is made in this city at the rate of about two million a year, worth five or ten cents a piece, or ten or twenty thousand dollars. The clay comes from Martha's Vineyard, Governor's Island, N. Y., and Lake Michigan. Three hundred tons are used in a year. The three kinds of clays are mixed or ground together. A workman with a pile of clay beside him, makes from it single rolls of clay, each large enough to make a pipe. The next worker places the clay in a pipe mould, runs a wire into the stem part, puts under a lever and makes the bowl. Fifteen hundred a day are moulded by one man. The moulds may be of various designs to form the decorated bowl. The latest is the "Land League," representing eviction on one side and prison life on the other. In pipes, as in other things, novelties must be given the smoking public, and as those interested in Land Leagues are fair smokers, this pipe will be bought for use and for patriotism. After the moulding process the pipes are laid away to dry or drain until the water is well out of them. They are then put in fire-clay receivers, one hundred and ninety in each, and placed in the furnace or kiln to be burnt. The oven holds seventy thousand pipes. They are then heated to a white heat. The red clay pipe has a wooden stem and a silver band. The stems are made from maple by machinery designed for the purpose. They are made black by the process of enamelling. The band is made from a circular piece of brass, that is to say, a circular piece of brass without break or seam is turned into a cylinder about an inch in length. Some of the pipes are stained, while others are left in the color of the clay to be stained or colored by the smoker.—Providence Journal.

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE, are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs.

When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain.

Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The General Election.

The general election is now on the tapis. It may perhaps be a useful hint to intimate that an absolute need at the polls may be obtained by the judicious distribution to the electors of PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRCTOR, the great remedy for corns. Every sufferer would be made happy, and would certainly vote for the person affording them relief. Safe, sure, painless. Beware of dangerous substitutes. 20

Have you Lost the Sense of Taste or Smell?

If so, it may be from the LEPROSY of the 19th century, Catarrh. The Constitutional Catarrh Remedy will restore you to enjoyable health. It not only cures Catarrh, but all others at the same time. Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an INCURABLE LUNG DISEASE OR CONSUMPTION. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but ACT DIRECTLY ON THE INFLAMED PARTS, allaying irritation, give relief in ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, CATARRH, and the THROAT TROUBLES which SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 42-26ins.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth. If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Is the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LONG, clear bacon, stems of refined lard and one car load of salt this week. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 20-4ins

THE WORST THING about this outrageously backward spring weather, is that the ladies haven't had a chance to exhibit their new spring clothes.

WE have opened a fresh lot of men and boys felt and straw hats making our stock very complete. W. J. WALLACE Lakefield. 20-4ins

A WATER STREET PHYSICIAN who had to drive about six miles in the country on Wednesday night of last week, said the storm was the worst he had encountered in a dozen years' practice.

WE have just received another lot of those Tweed suits good sound goods at very close prices. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 20-4ins

A DOUBLE BREAK.—On Sunday a young man, who with some companions, was engaged in Sabbath-breaking in south-west part of the town preserved the unities by breaking his leg badly while jumping.

Mr. T. Bradburn has leased the Lindsay Opera House for a term of ten years, at $100 per year. It is his intention to make it the model opera house of Canada outside the large cities.

RAINFALL.—According to observations taken by J. Dixon, M. A., of the Peterborough high school, the depth of rain and melted snow for the month of April was 1.50, and the number of days in which snow and rain fell was 15.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC.—Mr. J. Rudd Perry, who is in charge of the location party on the line of this road east from Peterborough, tells us he expects to meet in about a week near Tweed, a similar party coming from Perth.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—On Monday night a little boy named Gain, whose parents live east of the market, fell in the river and was drowned, at least his disappearance and the fact of his hat being found floating in the river, confirms the supposition, for the body has not yet been found.

THE ST. JOHN'S CHURCH entertainment, held in Bradburn's Opera Hall, on Tuesday evening, was a very pleasant success. There was a fair attendance. The programme, while consisting of tableaus and charades, was a good one well carried out. Freeman's orchestra supplied excellent music.

CONCERT.—The final entertainment for the season, held under the auspices of St. Luke's Parochial Association will take place in the school-room, Ashburnham, on Monday evening next the 22nd inst., commencing at 8 o'clock. An excellent programme has been provided, consisting of songs, readings, recitations, instrumental music and dialogues. Admission 16 cents.

SALE OF TOWN LOTS.—On next Saturday the sale of 37 town lots on Smithtown Hill and on Dublin street takes place as advertised. This is the last opportunity we will have of advising our readers in search of cheap and eligible building sites, combining all the requirements of good air, pure water, and fine view, to seize the opportunity offered. The lots are all quarter acre plots. Such a splendid chance for investment should not be missed. The terms of payment are easy. Don't forget the day and place of the sale—next Monday, at Stapleton's Auction Rooms.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We regret this week to chronicle the sudden demise of John Fitzgerald, youngest son of the late Mr. John Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, and brother of Mr. George Fitzgerald, of the firm of Fitzgerald & Stranger, with whom he was employed. Deceased was in his usual health and in excellent spirits on Friday, but towards evening complained of being slightly indisposed, and attributed it to biliousness. Nothing serious was feared until near noon on Saturday, when he was taken with violent pains in his head, and on medical attendance being called in, was pronounced suffering from inflammation of the brain. He lingered, in great pain, until early Monday morning, when death relieved him from suffering.

LACROSSE. A meeting of the Lacrosse club was held at the Caisse House on Thursday evening last, to consider the arrangements for a match on Queen's Birthday. Nothing definite in this regard was arrived at, but the club has since been advised that the "Independent" of Toronto will arrive in town on the night of the 23rd, and be ready for a game in the morning, which will be played in the cricket ground, in case the latter club occupy the grounds with their sports and games in the afternoon. In case the latter do not, the lacrosse match may be played in the afternoon. The club will make their first appearance in their new costumes, which will consist of black and cardinal shirts, the strips running horizontally, with tuque to match, grey knickerbockers and "buff" hose. The outfit is supplied by Mr. H. LeBrun, the popular captain of the team—except the "buff" stockings, which were generously supplied by the fathers and mothers of the members.

LARGE SHIPMENTS of cattle have been made within the past week to the "States."

We had the pleasure of a call from Mr. F. H. Dobbin, of the Lindsay Post, last Monday.

No 1 COMPANY met in the drill shed on Wednesday evening to make arrangements for putting in their annual drill next month.

WE are showing a large assortment of boots and shoes for men women and children, both in light and heavy goods at right prices. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 20-4ins

A FEW DAYS ago Mr. G. C. Rogers made a direct shipment of eight car-loads—1000 barrels—200 tons of flour, direct to Liverpool.

MR. PATRICK GLEN has retired, on the urgent invitation of the Police Magistrate, to the seclusion of his summer seat, Castle McWilliams, for the summer months.

PURCHASED.—Mr. J. Carey purchased the residence of Mr. H. H. Smith on London street, last week, for the sum of one thousand dollars. The sale was made by Mr. D. McLeod.

STRANGE ECONOMY is shown in employing a squad of scavengers to scrape together the mud on George Street, and then allow it to lie unremoved till the rain and traffic distribute it again, to give another job to the labourers. The N.P. principle, where employment is given the working men, and they and others have to pay for it in the shape of taxes.

NORTH MONAGHAN ASSESSMENT.—A copy of the assessment roll of North Monaghan for the present year may be seen by those interested, at the residence of Mr. Joseph Bennett, Sr., in that Township. The Clerk, Mr. John Wood, may be seen on business connected with the Township every Saturday at the Review office from 2 till 3 o'clock.

MIDLAND R.R. TRAFFIC RETURNS:—The Traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending May 6th, inst., was as follows:—Passengers and Mails, $4,222.65; Freight, $18063.98; Total, $22276.63 as compared with $15518.14 for the correspondent week 1881, being an increase of $5758.49; and the aggregate traffic to date is $296,088.67 being an increase of $95414.54 over 1881. This is a state of affairs which must be most gratifing to every body interested in the town and its friend the Midland Railway.

FINE FAT CATTLE.—Last week, Mr. Jos. Redmond, of Otonabee, sold to J. Duncan, an American buyer, 54 head of cattle of the average weight of 1478 lbs. On Wednesday, Rakins & Co., brought to town a drove of cattle, purchased of the parties named with the annexed weights: From Charles Moore, Smith, 34 head, 1,570 lbs.; from Joseph Trennum, 31 head, 1,270 lbs.; from Jas. Elliott, Smith, the bull, "Canton Duke," weight, 2,570 lbs.; from Mr. Curtis, Otonabee, cow, 1,800, and four head cattle averaging 1,792 lbs.: from John Sanderson, Smith, 24 head, 1,250 lbs.; from W. A. Hall, 2 head, total weight, 2,560 lbs.; from Geo. Hilliard, 6 head, 1,411 lbs. These weights show that this county is excellently adapted to the breeding of stock, which is as a rule a more certain "crop" than cereals.

GOLDEN WEDDING.—On Tuesday, May 3rd, 1882, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McNeil celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their weeding day, at their residence, Water street, The original marriage took place in New York, in 1832. There were present several of their children, and other invited guests, and a pleasant reunion took place. There were also many handsome presents, the sons who were too far away to come sending handsome golden gifts. Mr. and Mrs. McNeil celebrated their first wedding with nothing but hope before them, and their golden one with a posterity of twenty-nine—9 children, 19 grandchildren, and 1 great-grandchild. The happy pair have been respected residents of Peterborough for about forty years, and have so trained a large family that in their declining years they are cheered and sustained by substantial marks of filial piety, showing that their sons and daughters have good cause to practice the Divine injunction, "Honor thy father and thy mother."

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—The Peterborough Boating and Cricket clubs, inspired by loyalty and a desire to be equal to the occasion, have combined for the 24th, and now present a splendid programme of games and sports in the Agricultural grounds, on which occasion prizes worth competing for will be worthily won. The programme will present several new and interesting events out of the ordinary rut of such amusements. In the evening a grand promenade concert will be given in the Drill Shed, when an entirely new selection will be rendered by the Fire Brigade Band, in the excellent style peculiar to this magnificent band, of which Peterborough has such good reason to be proud. The Midland Railway will issue tickets at one fare, good for the 24th and return next day, so that those outside the town have little excuse for not attending an entertainment that will be full of interest from first to last. The people of Peterborough owe it to these organizations to patronize them liberally, as it is the only occasion when the Cricket and Boating clubs appeal to public recognition, and support. The two clubs combine the best of our young men, and we trust they will be honored with a large attendance of the public at their celebration of Her Majesty's birthday, in the Drill Shed grounds. Be sure to attend and make your holiday a happy one.

A NEW RESIDENT.—Rev. Father Connolly, late assistant R. C. priest, in the Village of Madoc, according to the North Hastings Review, being about to be removed to Peterborough, by order of the Bishop, was very pleasantly surprised by the members of his congregation, who presented him with the following address:

To the Rev. James Connelly:

REV. AND DEAR SIR,—We, the catholic congregation of Madoc, hear with the deepest regret that you are being removed from amongst us, still, if it is the will of our beloved Bishop to remove you, then we bow in submission. It is now nearly two years since you were appointed as assistant Priest for this parish. During that time you, by your kind and loving manner, have so endeared yourself to us that we cannot find words to express that deep feeling that is in the hearts of all those that have become acquainted with you.

We now wish and always will pray that God may direct you in all your undertakings, may you be one of the brightest stars in our Holy Religion. In conclusion, we beg of you to accept of this small donation as a slight token of that lasting friendship we will always bear towards you.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

CAPT. O'NEILL, JOHN GILLEN,
MICHAEL GILLEN, DENNIS FOX,
THOMAS MCCANN.

The address was accompanied by the very substantial token of remembrance, a purse of $200. The reverend gentleman made a suitable and feeling reply. Rev. Mr. Connelly brought away with him not only the love of his parishioners, but respect and best wishes of the whole community.

THE HASTINGS FIRE.

On Thursday morning last, the trim little riverside hamlet of Hastings had a terrible visitation of fire, which resulted in the destruction of the chief part of the business premises. The fire broke out about two o'clock, A. M., in Bexley's carriage shop. The fierce wind that prevailed at the time, fanned the flames beyond control. The carriage shop of McNichol's, on one side—the north—and Striker's carpenter shop, on the south, next took fire. Peter's storehouse, filled with goods, and stables, were next caught in the sweep of the fiery flood, and the Royal Hotel, owned by Brennan, did not escape, nor did Howard's harness shop or Connor's store and bakery. The flames rapidly communicated to Jackson's drug store and general merchandise. The brick store of Huxley's next burned to the ground. The fire swept on in its unchecked career till Dr. Bogert's drug store, Holland's law office, Dr. Clarke's office, Wilson's harness shop, Fowlds Bros.' office, Chaffey's drug shop, the telegraph and post office, Christie's tailor shop and dwelling, the office and contents of the Hastings Star were ashes. So fierce was the flame, borne by the gale, that the Coughlen Block became a prey to them. With the destruction of the sheds in the rear, the flames seemed to be satiated, and the citizens who worked vigorously and heroically were able to subdue them, but not till they had played hot havoc for about seven hours, and burned to the ground about $53,000 worth of buildings and property of the chief business portion of the village.

The insurance will cover a little over a third of the loss; the amount being somewhere near $15,000. Viewed from a passing train, the village presents a desolate appearance. The prospect of the burnt district being rebuilt is not of the brighest. Though, aided by the insurance, most of those burnt out will be able to rebuild, still from the scarcity of material and workmen (not having heretofore been equal to current demands) it is not likely that the comming summer will witness the restoration of the devastated district to anything like its former condition.

DEATH ON THE GRAND JUNCTION.

A BRAKESMAN CUT INTO PIECES.

On Wednesday, the 1.15 Grand Junction way freight train had just begun backing down to the Midland Station, and was passing under the bridge near Hilliard's Junction, when Ralph Gibson, a brakeman, standing on the roof of the car next the engine, was struck by the bridge and knocked between the car and tender, which, with the locomotive, ran over the unfortunate man, mangling him shockingly.

BOTH LEGS WERE CUT OFF

close to the body, the right one being crushed through in two places. The mangled man was at once taken to the waiting room of the Midland Station and Drs. Fife, King and Kincaid called in, but they at once saw that the poor man was HURT PAST ALL SURGERY.

He did not rally after the shock of the accident, only asking absently and feebly to be allowed to sit up, or have his head, on which were two ghastly gashes, wet with cold water. The poor fellow lived only about two hours. He is about 27 years of age and has only been working about a fortnight on the Grand Junction. His home is in Belleville, near the G.T.R. station.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Navvies are at a premium, the supply for the railway work not being equal to the demand.

The new grain elevator of the Midland at Belleville, will be situated at the company's dock, at the head of Front Street.

Mr. H. J. Beemer has been awarded the contract for the building of the Midland extension from Madoc to Perth.

There was a full attendance of the Canadian directors at the meeting of the Midland Rrilway board on Wednesday.

Mr. C. J. Bailey, consulting Engineer, has been looking over the work on the "Missing Link," and has only approval to express.

The Belleville Intelligencer says that Mr. H. Corby has just arranged with the Midland Railway Company for the hauling of thirty cars of corn from Midland City to the siding of the Alma Mills, over the G. J. Railway. The corn is to be brought to Midland City from Chicago. This is probably the first instance of the Midland system of railways being used by any of our local business men for the transport of goods from Chicago or the far west.

INCENDIARISM.—The terrible spirit of incendiarism seems, at present, to be rampant, from Winnipeg to Peterboro'. Last Monday night week the first attempt was made to feloniously set fire to a building near the premises of Mr. Jas. Johnson, but it was discovered in time. We learn that four or five subsequent attempts with the same malicious design, have been made on the same property. Our police should be on the alert, and the detection of the villian, whose schemes, if successful, might end in serious loss of property, might result. With such scoundrels in our midst, none can feel safe.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

FINDING OUT THE WHY AND WHEREFORE OF RALPH GIBSON'S DEATH.

On Wednesday evening, Dr. Fife, coroner, empanelled a jury of inquest into the cause of the death of Ralph Gibson, the brakeman, at Hilliard's junction, on Wednesday last. The proceedings were held in one of the waiting rooms at the Midland station.

The jury was composed of the following gentlemen:—Messrs. J. T. Stenson, foreman, W. Ball, Jas. Byrne, Geo. Elliott, O. Giles, W. Hetherington, John Irwin, R. Lang, Jas. Little, A. McDonald, W. McElwain, S. P. McCabe, Thos. Montgomery, John Robinson and T. Workman.

The first witness called was H. McGrath, who testified to having been on the road near the bridge, and seeing a man fall from the top of a box car. He did not know whether the train was backing up or not, nor see deceased strike the bridge.

In the absence of other witnesses the inquest was adjourned till Thursday night, when

Wm. Bowes, conductor of No. 9 way freight, swore that he did not see deceased till after he fell. The train was going at 6 or 8 miles an hour. First saw Gibson lying between the rails with legs badly cut. He asked me what the matter was; if his legs were cut off.

To Mr. Poussette, who appeared on behalf of the R. R. Company,—Witness could not say that the bridge was considered dangerous; but he thought it was dangerous. Never heard Gibson or others speak of the danger of the bridge.

Rev. E. J. Stobo, Baptist minister, was on the varandah of his house when the train was passing, about 1.30. Brakeman McNeilly and another were at their brakes and passed through the bridge safely by stooping greatly. Gibson was on the 2nd or 3rd car from the engine, and walking toward the engine and when about eighteen feet from the bridge, the centre truss struck him on the back of the head bending him over double. He shouted to the engineer to "stop, there was a man killed." He went to Gibson and found him between the rails terribly mangled, the flesh of one thigh lying outside the right-hand rail. He was living and conscious, and witness tried to lead his mind to the Saviour, and prayed with him, and sent a train hand for Dr. Fife. Two cars, the engine and the tender went over Gibson. Witness went with deceased to the station, whither he was removed, and staid with him till death came.

The Witness continued to Mr. Poussette: He had seen a good many narrow escapes at this bridge. He and his son had measured and from the under side of the lowest truss was 15 feet 4 inches from the top of the rail.

Robert Wetherspoon, engineer, said the train was backing out at the rate of 4 or 5 miles an hour. Never heard the bridge spoken of as dangerous. He thought it the duty of brakemen to be on the top of the cars while the train was backing up.

J. G. Gordon, Bridge Inspector, said he had examined the bridge in question. It was 15 feet 5 inches from the bottom of the needle beam to the top of the rail. The average uniform height of box cars was 11 feet. By the present law railway overhead bridges had to be 23 feet above the rails. He considered the bridge in question dangerous to brakemen. He had suggested its removal, but understood that the Midland had no right to remove it.

Mr. Poussette quoted from the Revised Statutes of Ontario, to show that the lowest beam of all bridges was required to be 7 ft. above the top of the highest freight car.

Alex. McNielly, brakeman, said that deceased told him to look out for this bridge. Witness was required to be on top of the cars when passing under this bridge.

Wm. A. Russell, brakeman, also considered the bridge dangerous, and that deceased was killed while in the discharge of his duty. By ordinary care the man who knew the danger of the bridge could escape it.

H. Read, Secretary-treasurer of the Midland Railway, said the Midland R.R. Company had no control over this bridge, which belongs to the C. P. & Marmora Railway Co. As Secretary, he had applied to the Superintendent to have the bridge removed, and received a reply stating that that could not be done, but that the bridge might be raised a little.

THE VERDICT.

After an hour's deliberation, the jury brought in a verdict that the deceased came to his death while in the discharge of his ordinary duties, and the negligence of the Midland Railway in retaining the bridge there was censurable, and the removal or raising of the bridge was recommended to be done at once.

Farmers, in an Agricultural Riding elect one of yourselves by voting for Mr. W. E. Roxburgh.

AT ALL SEASONS, but particularly during the winter, persons whose lungs and chests are weak should take every precaution against a cough or cold, as the breathing organs if naturally feeble speedily succumb to its ravages. In spite of sanitary precautions, however, coughs are very apt to fasten themselves upon weak lungs. In such a case ordinary prudence dictates the prompt use of a reliable specific. The ordinary cough remedies are too often inefficient. The best substitute for them is the highly sanctioned, long recognized remedy, Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of lime and soda. As is well known the action of Cod Liver Oil is particularly marked in lung, rheumatic and strumous diseases. In this preparation it is characterized by peculiar purity. The phosphorus in the hypophosphites furnishes a vital element of the blood, brain and nervous tissues, and the lime and soda supply their strengthening properties to the bones of which they are natural constituents. This emulsion promotes expectoration, enabling the bronchiæ to throw off the irritating mucus which obstructs and distresses them; renders the vitiated secretions healthy and heals the lungs. This remedy has also been used with the most beneficent effects in cases of scrofula. As it is exceedingly dangerous to permit a cough to gain headway, the early use of the medicine is urged upon those whose throat or lungs are affected. Look for the fac simile of our signature on the packages and the firm's name blown in the bottles.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

A protracted meeting of the Norwood Board of School Trustees was held here on Friday evening last. The principal topic under consideration was the alleged insubordination of the Public School pupils. This same subject occupied the attention of the Board at a previous meeting, when a resolution was passed whitewashing the principal parties concerned, and which evidently did not calm the troubled waters. The re-introduction of the matter drew forth eloquent remarks from nearly all the members of the Board, and one Trustee, finding his eloquence wasted on his hearers, indignantly took his caubeen and then took his leave. The eloquence of the Board subsided in a resolution being carried to summon all the parties concerned at a future meeting of that body to finally dispose of the emeute. Certainly the matter in dispute is rather a frivolous one to make such a fuss about, as things generally will wag just as they have been wagging no matter how it is adjusted by the Board.

THE ELECTIONS.

We are now busy with the elections, and an extraordinary amount of visiting and hand-shaking is going on in our neighborhood. Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, the Reform candidate, is busily canvassing this Riding, and if he is not returned it will not be his fault, as he is daily on his rounds interviewing the ratepayers. His opponent, will be on his track shortly, and will no doubt press the canvass just as hotly. Both candidates, by the way, are sure of election by overwhelming majorities. However the end is near, and a short time will tell who is elected to stay at home.

GRISTING.

The new grist mill, now leased from Mr. Gould by Mr. R. Rountree, is undergoing thorough repairs, and a large amount of money is being expended by Mr. Gould on its entire refitting.

FOR THE WEST.

Mr. Robert Cannon and Mr. Jesse and John Robinson and families leave on Monday next for the Northwest. There is evidently an abatement in this neighborhood in the desire to fly to pastures green in the Northwest, and very few now seem to care to respond to the cry, "Go West, young man," as it has been learned that some young and old men would gladly return to their Ontario homes if they could well do so.

POLITICAL.

The Conservatives of this Riding held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon to select a candidate to contest the constituency in their interest. As was expected, Mr. John Burnham, the present member for the Riding, was unanimously chosen the standard bearer of the party.

THE WEATHER.

We had a beautiful rain on Monday, which materially changed the appearance of the products both of the field and garden. It was much needed, as growth had been retarded by the cold nights of the past week or so.

PROPERTY SOLD.

Mr. George Hendron has purchased from Mr. R. Gratton the valuable property on Colborne street formerly known as Johnston's Hotel.

There are too many Lawyers now in Parliament. Vote for W. E. Roxburgh.

LINDSAY.

This town possesses a brilliant blacksmith. A farmer took him a broken grindstone to be strengthened by inserting an iron band. When the farmer called for his stone he found that the ingenious Vulcan had encircled it with a substantial band of iron, like a wagon tire. The disgusted agriculturist paid for the work and took the stone sadly home.

Mr. Bradburn is ready to go into the improvement of the Lindsay Opera Hall as soon as the present engagement for the use of the hall expires.

Mr. E. Consadine, clerk in the office of County Attorney Devlin, has passed the examination for articled clerk.

The copings are falling off the cornices of Lindsay and knocking pedestrians senseless.

The Daly house has changed proprietors. M. F. Jewett & Son are the new proprietors.

Incendiaries are at work in Lindsay also.

Mr Harry Dean has very creditably passed his final examinations at Osgoode Hall.

The Warder pooh-poohs the statement in Dumble's advertisement that Peterborough is destined to become a large city.

Vandals have been amusing themselves by uprooting recently planted shade trees.

The barbers are getting ahead of the sign by-law by painting the telegraph poles in the vicinity of their offices in glaring stripes.

We are informed, says the Post, that all the children sent out to Father Stafford have been placed comfortably. We may state that they were all clean, intelligent and healthy looking. They had been in a home in Liverpool for some years, and were well trained. They could all read, and those from seven to eight years up could write.

OMEMEE.

Since work commenced on the missing link, numbers of emigrants have taken up their abode in this village. We hope that the appearance of our thriving town will make such a favourable impression on the minds of the new-comers as will induce them to become permanent citizens.

On Monday last, the teachers in the High and Public schools, decided to give the pupils one hour and a half instead of only one hour.

On Monday evening last, Mr. John English and Mr. T. A. Mitchell were entertained at a complimentary supper in Clarke's hotel, on the eve of their departure for Manitoba.

The egg boom is still at fever heat. Fifteen cents is still the price. Butter eighteen cents per lb.

A. McQuade, M.P., brought home from Ottawa a very fine stallion, for which he paid $2,177. He owns two now. He intends to run again, but the probabilities are that he is not going back to Ottawa anyhow. It is the intention of the Reformers to have a Reformer represent them for the next five years.

THE REP. BY POP. DEFENCE.

The Post points out that the hollowness of the representation by population excuse for the gerrymandering outrage is clearly exhibited by a comparison of the populations of the constituencies, some of which have been gerrymandered and others have not been touched. There is absolutely no reasonable defence for the outrage, and it is not surprising that the longer the matter is considered the deeper becomes the indignation of Reformers. Many Conservatives in fact condemn it; and we advise our Reform readers to call the attention of our Conservative friends to the following figures and ask them if they are prepared to support a measure so clearly unjust and fraught, with such unfair and evil consequences:

BOBCAYGEON.

The Independent says that Mr. Thos. Armstrong, of Port Perry, but at one time citizen of that village, was employed last year as an agent for the Fonthill Nurseries. The proprietors of the Nursery offered a premium of a handsome gold watch and chain to the agent who should prove the most successful during the year. Mr. Armstrong carried of the watch against three hundred competitors.

At noon, on Thursday, a fire broke out in Mr. J. L. Read's fine barn. The men had quit work for dinner, had put their three teams of horses into the stable to feed, and come down to the house. Mr. Read was following them, and was not much over than a hundred yards from the barn, when the whole roof of the barn burst into one blaze of fire. The six horses were burnt, a fine bull, a fat steer, several calves, and several pigs. There was a large quantity of hay, wheat oats, barley, and valuable implements. Loss between two and three thousand dollars; partly covered by insurance.

On Monday morning a chimney in the new portion of the Forest House caught fire, and being defectively constructed, set fire to the roof. Considerable damage was done to the building, both by fire and water, and some damage to the furniture by removal. The loss will be covered by insurance.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. Springer will prove a very popular candidate in South Wentworth.

Dr. Landerkin's candidature in South Grey is being enthusiastically endorsed by the electors.

Mr. Crouter, who made a gallant and successful fight in the interim election, is the Reform candidate in East Northumberland.

Jas. Anderson, of Sutton, was nominated at Bradford to contest North York in the Conservative interest.

Mr. Hay has been re-nominated Tory candidate for Centre Toronto. He will be opposed. The Reform Convention takes place on Monday night.

The Muskoka Reform convention at Rosseau, nominated Mr. J. C. Miller, M.P.P., of Parry Sound, as standard bearer. Mr. Miller will be elected.

Sir Tilley spends four millions a year more than is necessary, on his own showing, to govern this country. He said that the former Government spent two millions more than they should, and he spends two millions more than they did.

Canada spent millions to rescue the North-West from one monopoly, the Hudson's Bay Company, and now turns it over to another monopoly, the Pacific Railway Syndicate.

Hon. Edward Blake has arrived in Toronto. It is believed that during the next month Hon. Edward Blake will deliver a number of addresses on the public topics of the day in various districts of the Province. We trust arrangements will be made to get the Reform leader to speak in these ridings.

No sooner was the virtual defeat of the Tories in Prince Edward Island recognized than supplementary estimates were brought down at Ottawa promising that $312,000 should be spent in the Island. Of course the Islanders will not be caught with such a bait as this. The Dominion Government has broken every promise in return for which it received the Island vote, and such eleventh-hour repentance as this will not avail.

The Senate had a first-rate opportunity of showing that it is not a mere tool of Sir John Macdonald when the bill for the redistribution of seats was sent up to it. It could have declined to pass the bill on the ground that it was an unjust measure. But it passed it without a murmur, except from the few Reformers who happened to have seats in that venerable institution. The Reform party has adopted as one of the planks in its platform the reconstruction of the Senate, and threats have been made of abolishing the institution on the ground that its usefulness is gone. This was its opportunity to show that its usefulness was not gone. It could have taken a good deal of wind out of the Reform party's sails. But it did precisely what everybody expected it would do, precisely what a hide-bound Tory institution would do—it did Sir John Macdonald's bidding.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 25, 1882.

Mr. Hilliard's Retirement.

Our readers will observe by the subjoined letter that Mr. Hilliard has decided to retire from political life, and declines to be a candidate at the elections to be held the fourth week in June:—

To H. H. Smith, Esq., President L. C. A. W. R. County of Peterborough:

SIR,—Since the meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association at which I was unanimously chosen as the candidate of the party, I have carnestly considered the question of accepting the nomination, but find that my business engagements are such as to render it entirely impossible for me to devote the necessary time to the duties of the position.

I must again express my deep sense of the honor done me, and feel much reluctance in causing any disappointment to the friends who have so cordially supported me, and it is only the sense that the first duty is at home which compels me to decline the candidature.

You may rely upon my using every effort to assist in electing the gentleman regularly chosen as the candidate of the party, and I hope that no steps will be omitted to poll the largest possible vote.

Yours, &c.,
GEO. HILLIARD.

Peterborough, May 17, 1882.

In commenting on the above, we might observe that we believe Mr. Hilliard's real reason for retiring is such as he has indicated in his letter, as quoted above. It is quite true that his business engagements have excused if not justified his neglect of his parliamentary duties, and the only element of regret in connection with his late decision is that he did not feel it his duty to place his retirement before his supporters at a much earlier date in his parliamentary career. Throughout that career there have been many things in Mr. Hilliard's course which we were compelled to dissent from, still he deserves the credit of having faithfully adhered to the party whose successful candidate he was. Regarding him as an opponent, we regret that Mr. H. is out of the field. He was an honorable opponent, and on personal grounds, we could heartily have given him the preference over any other Conservative in the whole Riding of West Peterborough, both as a candidate and as a representative, should the electors so egregiously fail to justify our estimate of their sound sense and good judgment as to return a supporter of the present Government. Mr. H's. resignation is so recent that rumour has not yet had an opportunity of designating his successor, but we shall not, perhaps, be kept long in suspense, for the faithful meet to try and select a candidate in the Tory interest in West Peterborough, on Saturday next.

The Iron Duties.

The Review agrees with us that the iron duties are the weak point in the present tariff. But the Review differs from us in wanting to have these duties increased while we want them diminished. The positions occupied respectively by the Review and ourselves on this very important question will bear a brief investigation.

Under the Cartwright tariff, pig iron came in free, and there was but a very low duty on bar iron and steel, which are really the raw material of many manufactured articles. Now there is a duty of two dollars a ton on pig iron and a very heavy duty on bar iron and steel. As there is no iron either smelted or manufactured into bars, at any point except one in the Dominion, in sufficient quantities to affect the question, it follows that the owners of the Londonderry Iron Works have had the full benefit of the new duty on pig iron, and of the increased duties on bar iron and steel. The theory of the Review is that higher duties still would lead to the establishment of smelting-furnaces in other places, and also to the home production of malleable iron and steel. We do not deny that if the duties were made sufficiently high this would be the case. With a sufficiently high duty on oranges and lemons it would pay to grow them in hot-houses for consumption in Canada.

But this is in the region of pure speculation. No one can tell how heavy the tax on iron should be in order to secure competition in home production, or whether our Ontario ores can ever be profitably reduced by means of imported coal. At Londonderry, Nova Scotia, the coal and the iron are found close to each other, and smelting is there conducted under conditions more favourable than they can obtain in any other part of the Dominion. And yet after the Tilley tariff came in force, the Londonderry Works, which had remained in blast through all the hard times of the Mackenzie administration, were shut down for some time during the year 1879. All that is known about the effect of these iron duties so far, is that they have added to the cost of the iron their own amount. Each ton of pig iron costs now two dollars more than it would cost, but for the duty of two dollars a ton on imported pig. This is not saying that it is two dollars dearer now than it was before the duty was imposed; it is saying that if the duty were removed the price would at once fall two dollars a ton.

The tax on pig and malleable iron and on steel of course adds to the cost of all articles which are made wholly or partially of iron or steel. Stoves, ploughs, horse-shoes, tools of all kinds, cutlery, reapers, mowers, threshers, machinery, lumberer's implements, and a thousand other things are all made dearer as the result of the increased duties. If the farmer pays no more for the shoeing of his horse he may rest assured either that he is getting less for his money, or that the tax is placed on the blacksmith instead of on himself. Coupled with the duty on coal, the iron duties are a great source of loss and annoyance, not merely to consumers of manufactured goods, but to the manufacturers. They are taxes of the most odious and injurious kind, and the policy advocated by the Review—increasing them—would only make them more injurious still. We are quite willing to differ from our contemporary in this matter and to leave it to the consumers to decide. The farmer who has to pay several dollars extra for the nails put into a new barn or house, just because the iron they are made of is taxed for the benefit of the Nova Scotian Iron Works may safely be left to say whether he believes, or not, in having the iron duties heavy.

The Twenty-Fourth.

It is pleasant to turn from the turbulent and noisesome arena of politics to contemplate a subject upon which all Canadians are cordially and loyally at one. No matter how bitterly party polemics may rage, how spitefully every argument of an opponent is denounced, when the subject of showing love, veneration and and respect to Her Majesty, Queen Victoria arises, all controversy is hushed and there is a concord of opinion and sentiment, in charming contrast to the acrid antagonism felt on other subjects. Next Wednesday is the sixty-fourth anniversary of the birth of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, and in soportion of the Empire, not even in England itself, will the day be more universally observed nor commemorated with more loving and enthusiastic loyalty than in Canada. Canadians, amongst colonists, have ever taken the lead in feeling and showing a deep and fervent loyalty towards the mother country, which has been intensified by the filial feelings of love and respect for the person and character of Queen Victoria.

In all the capacities of her lofty position is she worthy of honor. As a sovereign, her reign has been marked by a wisdom and prudence which no British sovereign has equalled, not to say surpassed. As a wife she was, when she occupied that blessed relation to a worthy husband, a model in every respect; as a mother, none ever more worthily discharged and dignified that sacred trust. As a christian woman, she has lived beyond reproach. For the forty-five years that she has been a crowned Queen, she has been the cynosure of all eyes, the observed of all observers, yet all these years while she has sat in that "fierce light that beats upon the throne," she has "worn the white flower of a blameless life," and evoked not even a whisper of calumny. Considering all this and considering that she is regarded as combining all the loftest attributes of both sovereign and woman, it is not to be wondered at that the recurrence of her birthday should evoke spontaneous and universal demonstrations of respectful and loving loyalty; and considering the long and happy years of her auspicious reign, considering how that reign has been blessed with peace and progress, we cannot help feeling that heaven has, indeed, hearkened to the prayer that has risen and will rise to-day from millions of hearts—"God Save the Queen!"

Supersensitive.

One would have thought that the editorial sconce appertaining to the literary engineer of the Port Hope Times, was so accustomed to hard hard knocks that its owner could submit gracefully to a little intentionally good-natured badinage without losing temper. In its answer to our criticisms the Times develops a good deal of snappishness which is not important enough to notice except in the general way that it misapprehends the drift of our remarks and consequently draws wrong deductions. It is a little rich to be told that the Times showed no indications of "envy of Peterborough." Regarding the attempted witticism, of hinting that some "amateur editor" was trying his hand on THE EXAMINER, it does not contain enough of the element of originality to be particularly striking. We would ask of the Times man that the next time he criticises us he will be good enough to try to understand what we say. If he will read carefully the first sentence of the paragraph he comments on he will see it expressed as plainly as English can say it, that it was THE EXAMINER not the Times that was spoken of as "pointing out the prosperity of Peterborough." His premises are mistaken therefore his conclusions are erroneous.

Editorial Notes.

THE London Advertiser says that the case to be tried by the electors the 29th of next June is, "The People vs. Monopoly—and the people will win it."

DONATI'S comet is promised us in June. Comets portend disasters dire. Isn't it poetic justice in having the appearance of the comet coincident with the disastrous defeat of the Tories at the polls. The nebulous narrative of the comet won't be more hazy than Sir John's following after the elections.

THE Norquay Government finding that defeat was inevitable if they persisted with the Railway Bill in the Manitoba Local Legislature, withdrew it yesterday. The Premier will, it is said, reintroduce the Bill in a greatly modified form, but nothing short of absolute control of railway matters in the Province will satisfy Manitobans.

MR. R. W. PHIPPS, the foster father of that bad boy, the N. P., and who is chiefly to be blamed for coddling the precious youngster into getting on his legs, still deals in politics. In a recent letter to the Toronto World, (regarding certain circular extracts from the Mail,) showing why Bunting was an unfit man to be in Parliament, he concludes with this significant and truthful sentence, as a deduction from instances adduced of the hostility of the Mail and the Conservative party, both English and Canadian, to any attempts to do justice to oppressed Ireland:—"For these reasons—to my mind amply sufficient—no man connected with the Mail Newspaper should receive the vote of any one who wishes to see the grievances of Ireland redressed, or sympathises with Mr. Gladstone in his efforts to remove them.

IF, as the Review recently pointed out, the Government majority in the House is stronger than at the beginning of the Parliament; if, as we have heard from Tory sheets ad nauseam for the past four years, the N. P., the boon and panacea for all commercial evils has won the hearts of the people; if the past acts of the Government have been such that its present overwhelming majority in the House might reasonably be expected to be reproduced, if not in personnel, at least in numbers, then why the necessity of putting the country to the expense and turmoil of a general election a year ahead of time? What the necessity of scattering broadcast, bribes in the shape of grants for alleged public improvements? Even in the expiring hours of the last session, when many of the members had gone home, and there was by no means a full Parliament, the Government sprung upon the half empty House a motion to grant half a million dollars in bonuses to railways. If the Government is as strong and their measures as popular as we have been asked to believe, what is the necessity of Sir John crowning the closing years of a not altogether irreproachable career, with that cap-sheaf of criminal conspiracy and outrage against the rights of Ontario, the gerrymandering bill? The fact is, the Government dwell in Doubting Castle; they have seen the handwriting on the wall, scored by the omnipotent finger of public opinion, tipped with scorn, and they are setting their house in order against the day of wrath.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. James Fleming, of Brampton, is the Reform candidate for Peel.

Mr. J. M. Currier, M.P., has been offered the Postmastership of Ottawa. He has not accepted yet.

The general election nominations have been fixed, we understand, to come off on the 21st of June, polling on the 28th.

Mayor Beaudry, Montreal, is reported to be very ill. He is suffering from inflammation of the bowels, and his life is almost despaired of.

It is rumoured that Mr. Spencer, Collector of Customs at Winnipeg, has resigned and that the position will be offered to Mr. Ryan, M. P. for Montreal.

Mr. Bunster will again be a candidate for the representation of Vancouver. He expects vigorous opposition, but he is confident of success.

A good many Conservatives have got their pay, and started for their constituencies. Sir John is leaving no means untried to keep the Liberals to the last day.

Rev. Dr. Wild, of the Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto, has hitherto been understood to have decidedly Tory proclivities; but, addressing his congregation on Sunday, he administered a cutting rebuke to the gerrymandering policy of the Tory Government.

It has now been definitely decided that Mr. John McLennan, M.P. for Glengarry, will be appointed to the Senate, and that McMaster will be nominated as the Conservative candidate for Glengarry. He will be opposed by Hon. D. A. Macdonald.

The General Election.

The general election is now on the tapis. It may perhaps be a useful hint to intimate that an absolute need at the polls may be obtained by the judicious distribution to the electors of PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, the great remedy for corns. Every sufferer would be made happy, and would certainly vote for the person affording them relief. Safe, sure, painless. Beware of dangerous substitutes. 29

HASTINGS.

Hastings will celebrate the 24th in spite of her recent scorching.

The death roll the past few days includes John Fink, died on the 12th inst., aged 40 years. On the 13th. Mrs. L. Doherty, 53 years, and Thos. Healey, aged 84 years.

Capt. Howard, of the Star, has purchased an entire new outfit.

There are several crews training for the double scull race on the 24th.

Mr. D. Mather has purchased the butchering business of Mr. John Collins.

Mr. George Whittaker, of Alnwick, has passed away in the 66th year of his age.

Owing to the scarcity of building material and mechanics, the Star says that building operations this season will be very limited.

WESTON.

After a few days illness, Mr. John Shier, P. L. S., County Clerk, breathed his last on Sunday at his residence, in the 74th year of his age. The funeral, which was largely attended by influential men from all parts of the county, took place on Tuesday, from the family residence. All the stores were closed as the funeral cortege passed through the town.

Mr. Brown, Reeve, having resigned, it is likely that a new election will result in the return of Mr. John Blow.

At the ploughing match at Midland, the best work was done by Simpson Rennie.

Oshawa has a bicyle club.

Reformers meet at Brooklin on the 23rd, to nominate a candidate.

Messrs. John Dryden, M.P.P., and H. H. Spencer have gone to England.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Mr. John Eyre, of Brighton, brother of Mrs. Kennedy, of this village, died on Saturday. He was at one time a member of Parliament.

By the change brought about in the constituencies by the redistribution bill laid before Parliament, the whole of the village of Hasting will be added to East Northumberland. The riding is now made up of the townships of Cramahe, Brighton, Murray, Percy and Seymour, and the villages of Colborne, Brighton, Campbellford, and the whole of the village of Hastings.

During his sojourn here, the "Herd Laddie" played upwards of 400 games of draughts, all of which he won but five, which were drawn. Mr. J. W. Johnston, Mr. Maclean and Dr. McCrea were studying over the board with Mr. Wylie in the drawn games.

PORT HOPE.

Photographing pays in Winnipeg. Mr. J. A. Brock, formerly a photographer in Port Hope, but now in Winnipeg, the other day sent to Mr. S. Lelean his cheque for $500 in aid of the Port Hope Methodist Church building fund. He promises another $500 by fall.

The steamer Norseman is shortly to commence cheap Saturday night excursions to Charlotte.

Mr. John Gamble, market clerk, has rung the town bell over 16,000 times during his tenure of office. In all that time the bell has not varied more than a quarter of a minute from the clock.

Thus jubilantly the Times man: "The outcry about the grant to Cobourg for public buildings turns out to have been premature, Port Hope having also $8,000 assigned it for the same purpose. It is always safe to put a fire on before blowing off steam."

Dr. Corbett left for the North-West last Monday.

Mrs John Smart, mother of John and David Smart, an old lady of 80 years, fell down stairs and broke her arm a few days ago.

The next annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of True Blues will be held in Port Hope on the second Tuesday in May, 1883.

About six o'clock on Friday morning a pile of lumber was discovered on fire at one of the centre docks of the harbor. A stiff east wind was blowing at the time, and the flames spread rapidly. The alarm was quickly given, and a great crowd of citizens hurried to the scene. The Midland Railway hands were ordered to the conflagration, and they soon had all the neighbouring piles of lumber floating in the harbor. By that time the flames had reached the docks, and three or four hours had to be spent in extinguishing them, but not until nearly one hundred feet of dockage was burnt or destroyed. The lumber that was burnt belonged to S. C. Kemedy, upon which there was no insurance. It will probably cost two or three thousand dollars to replace the pier. But for the tremendous exertions of the fire brigade and assistance rendered by the steam pumps on the tugs and steamer Norseman the fire would have swept the whole of the centre pier. None of the loss is covered by insurance.

NORWOOD.

The village is to have a baseball club.

The Hasting's fire has stirred up Norwood to talk fire-brigade.

Mr. R. Gratton, of Stanton, Nebraska, has sold his property on Colborne St. (known as Hendren's hotel) to Mr. Geo. Hendren, of this place. The amount was $900.

Mr. McIlmoyle, who has removed from Lakefield to Hastings a few weeks ago, has taken up his residence in this village, and intends opening out a stock of groceries, &c., in one of Mr. Stevenson's stores.

As a young daughter of Mr. M. Nicoll, of this village, was playing with some others around the flume, in the vicinity of Mr. Buck's mill, on Saturday last, she accidentally fell in, and was going down the third time when a son of Mr. James Livingstone's aged 9 years, showed considerable pluck by rescuing her.

The Register is thoroughly disgusted with corner loafers.

Norwood young men are diligently practising at the butts, with a view of entering the matches of the Peterborough Rifle Association.

The park and agricultural grounds by-law has received the majority of the electors.

The other day Mr. D. Barrie, living about five miles from the village, received from the village treasurer, the bounty of $8.00 for a wolf scalp, produced.

CAMPBELLAFORD.

The "Herd Laddie" had things all his own way here.

Eight former residents of Campbellford are now on the plains on their way to Q'Appelle, 360 miles beyond Winnipeg.

Campbellford has one hotel and one shop licenses this year—Thos. Blute and Dinwoodie Bros. respectively.

LINDSAY.

Sentence is being executed against the overhanging street signs.

The storm blew down the smoke-stack of Venette's flouring mill.

Some ruffian fired a bullet at the south-going express on Wednesday night, about a mile from Lindsay. It passed through the window near a brakeman's head.

Captain Crandale has had erected a canvas tent 20 x 60 feet, to be taken to the North-West and used as a portable hotel. A complete outfit of chairs, tables, bedding, etc., goes with it.

PORT PERRY.

The building boom in the neighborhood of Port Perry is great, especially in fine barns. New residences in the village are numerous.

Mr. E. B. Morgan shipped from Port Perry on Monday, 7 carloads, 120 head, of cattle, the first instalment on a contract to supply 25,000 to F. B. Lingham, a Boston shipper to England.

A Port Perry J.P. is hiding from the Fishery Inspector for a breach of the regulations.

KINMOUNT.

Rev. Mr. Ryan has returned from conference, looking hale and hearty. He is to remain for another term.

Messrs. Parry and Mills are pushing matters lively at their mine and blasting furnace.

Mr. H. Graham's store will be ready for occupancy in about two weeks.

Mr. R. Smith has been promoted from section work on the Midland to the charge of the warehouse.

Mr. H. May, of Minden, has been engaged in ironing the new store.

One drive has just passed through. In a few days another will arrive. They will occupy the water until about the first of July.

ORMOND.

THE MISSING LINK.—Work has commenced on the missing link, a short distance north of King-st. Omemee has now a surplus of navvies.

The steamer "Mary Ellen" made her first trip up the river on Tuesday, with a raft of saw logs for Mr. John Kincaid.

At the meeting of the Council on Monday night, Mr. G. Balfour was awarded the contract for building the new sidewalk on King-st.

COBOURG.

At the Annual Meeting of the West Northumberland Reform Association, Mr. Wm. Kerr, Q. C., was nominated and accepted the candidature.

The Rev. J. H. George, M. A. of Ottawa, lately appointed to the pastorate of the Cobourg M. E. Church, entered upon his duties last Sabbath.

The banquet, tendered to the Hon. C. F. Fraser, the Commissioner of Public Works of Ontario, by the Young Men's Liberal Club of Cobourg, will take place in Victoria Opera House, on Wednesday evening, May 31st. Satisfactory arrangements are in progress, and the Committee are in a position to offer cards of admission to all Reformers who may apply.

On Monday of last week, the Rev. F. R. Beattie, M. A., B. D., who for the past 3½ years has been pastor of the Baltimore and Cold Springs Presbyterian Churches, took his leave for his new appointment, the First Presbyterian Church in the city of Brantford. He preached farewell sermons on the 30th ult., and supplied the Cobourg pulpit on the 7th of May. Before leaving he was presented with a very affectionate address, and in connection with the address handed a purse containing $40, as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held by the people there.

Cobourg intends celebrating the 24th by a Grand Athletic Tournament.

The Steamer "Fairy" began running on Rice Lake on Monday.

Cobourg has recently lost a number of valuable dogs by poison.

The Presbyterian Church bell, after 15 years use, is to be replaced by a new one, the gift of R. Mulholland.

Rev. Mr. Jeffrey, of the C. M. Church, has been three years in Cobourg, and on the occasion of his departure was voted flattering expressions of respect, regret, and appreciation of his ministerial labors.

The renovation of the Methodist Church is completed, and the services were resumed in it last Sunday.

IT ALWAYS WORKS JUST THIS RESULT.

Mr. John Bonner, proprietor of the celebrated Young street Dry Goods and Gents Furnishing Store, Toronto, tells a most remarkable story of the Great German Remedy. "St. Jacobs Oil cured me of a bad case of neuralgia, of five years standing, when I had given up hopes of being cured, and had tried fifty different so-called remedies. I now keep it all the time, not only at home, but here in my place of business; it is an excellent thing and something nobody should be without."

SOUTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL.

The Council met, pursuant to a call of the Reeve, in the Town Hall, Centreville, May 15th, 1882, at 10 o'clock, a.m.

Present:—The Reeve, Wm. Rutherford, and Councillors John Lightfoot, A. Dawson, John Riddell and James Perrin, the Reeve presiding.

The minutes of last regular meeting were read and, on motion of Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot, were confirmed.

PETITIONS.

From Wm. Grier, signed by 20 ratepayers, opposing the opening up of the north part of the quarter line, between lots 4 and 5, con. 4.

Moved by Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Dawson,—That the foregoing petition be received and laid on the table.—Carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A circular was read from G. Wilkinson & Co., Aurora, re price list for road scrapers.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee to whom was referred the locating of the line at the south end of the E ½ of lot 12, con. 2, reported that they had established the said line, based on the information derived from owners of adjoining lots.

The Committee appointed to examine the cedar supplied by Thomas Dodds, reported favourably, and recommended payment of the same.

The Reeve reported verbally, that he had met a member of Cavan Council, and that they examined the ditch on west boundary, opposite lot 1, con. 6, and decided not to expend any money at present towards deepening the said ditch.

The Committee appointed last meeting to examine the north half of the quarter line between lots 4 and 5, con. 4, reported that they had examined same and recommended immediate sale of all the timber on said road allowance together with the timber now in a crossway on 5th concession opposite lot 4, and that the proceeds of such sale be applied towards repairing the east end of beat No. 20, on condition that D. Baxter, John Donaldson and J. G. Donaldson each perform 10 days work on said beat, over and above the number now charged against them for present year.

Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Dawson,—That the foregoing Committee reports be received and adopted.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Dawson,—That this Council do now adjourn for one hour and a half, to examine the swamp road, east of Centreville.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned, and resumed at 1.30 p.m., the Reeve presiding.

Moved by Mr. Dawson, seconded by Mr. Riddell, and resolved,—That in future all Committees appointed by this Council, to report on any matter referred to them, shall make such report in writing, and that the same may contain their opinion thereon, and that no report shall be received unless signed by a majority of the Committee.—Carried.

ACCOUNTS

Were presented from Josiah Robertson for goods advanced to E. Giland, an indigent, during 1881, by order of the Council, $6.22; Wm. Rutherford, for provisions for S. Bonar, $7.58; Thos. Dodds, for cedar, $45.56, and were ordered to be paid.

ROAD REPAIRS.

Moved by Mr. Dawson, seconded by Mr. Perrin,—That the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars be appropriated for the purpose of gravelling and repairing roads in the Municipality as follows:—On 1st con. opposite lot No. 5, $50.00; on 2nd con., opposite lot No. 6, $50.00; on third con., in cutting down Clarke's hill and removing clay to swamp opposite lot No. 2, $75.00, and in gravelling that piece of road opposite lot No. 4, $25.00 and on 11th con., opposite lot No. 6, $50.00.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Riddell,—That the sum of $25.00 be expended in gravelling the road between Squirrel Bridge and Wallace Point.—Carried.

Moved by Riddell seconded by Mr. Perrin,—That a Committee composed of the Reeve and Councillor Lightfoot be appointed to advertise and sell the timber on the road allowance between lots 4 and 5, con. 4, and opposite lot 4, con. 5.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Perrin,—That the following committees be appointed to superintend and let the contracts for gravelling, viz:—For concessions 1 and 2, Councillors Perrin and Dawson; for concession 3, the Reeve and Councillor Riddell, and for concession 4, the Reeve and the mover of this resolution.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Riddell,—That this Council do now adjourn, to meet as Court of Revision, on Tuesday, the 30th May, A. D., 1882, at 10 o'clock, a.m., in the town hall, Centreville.—Carried.

New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of incestimable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

I am again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough. I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 25, 1882.

The Writs Arrived.

The writs for the elections in East and West Peterborough arrived on Tuesday. That for the former has come to Colonel Haultain, and for the latter to Sheriff Hall. This looks like and means business. The time for action is brief. Let not a moment be lost in closing up the Reform ranks. Nominations, 13th; Polling, 20th.

West Peterborough.

A convention of the Reform Association of this Riding has been called to choose a candidate to contest the Riding in the Reform interest, on Saturday next at 2 o'clock, p.m., in the Reform Committee Rooms, over Bailey's fruit store. The occasion demands that the chosen delegates for the respective polling subdivisions should every one be present. The elections are on us, and this election is one that demands the vigorous exertions and cordial co-operation of not only every Reformer, but of every elector, whose interests in Canada would prompt him to remove a Government that is doing its utmost to weaken the bonds of confederation, to retain power by resorting to every trick and artifice, however shameless, no matter how grievously provincial rights are outraged and trampled on. West Peterborough must be redeemed to add her quota to a mighty protest against monopoly, corruption and barefaced outrages on popular rights, and it needs only the united and vigorous action of every Reformer within its limits to accomplish this desirable result. Then, let every delegate be present on Saturday next, for on that day a selection must be made. The elections have been sprung upon the country, and not a moment is to be lost.

Vote for Roxburgh. All men treated equally.

Mr. Burnham in East Peterborough.

At the Tory convention held at Norwood on Tuesday, May 23rd, as was expected, Mr. John Burnham was nominated and much to our surprise he has accepted the candidature. We say to our surprise, for with his record of the past session alone rising guiltily before him, his acceptance of the position of candidate is a piece of superlative effrontery and assurance.

During the past session, can Mr. Burnham or his most zealous friend or apologist point out one good and beneficial act of legislation at which he has assisted? No, certainly not, but on the contrary, his record is studded with bad deeds. He has been a faithful and subservient follower of Sir John, through all his snaky sinuosities of deed during the past session. On every occasion his vote has been solid against all attempts at truly beneficial legislation. He has herded with the "brute majority" on every occasion.

He voted to sustain the odious Onderdonk contract robbery, by which one firm of contractors was passed over, and a contract given to Andrew Onderdonk at over $200,000 advance; thus virtually robbing the public treasury of that sum.

He conveniently forgot that he was a representative of an Ontario constituency when he assisted, by his vote, to nullify the award of the Boundary arbitrators. In this he was a willing party to a scheme suggested by Quebec domination, to reduce the area of Ontario till she is less than one half the size of Quebec, two thirds the area of Manitoba, one fourth the size of British Columbia; to rob Ontario of sixty million acres of fertile lands; to deprive Ontario of a vast, revenue-producing territory, whose loss will mean direct taxation for the support of provincial institutions, and a transference of them taxes and all to the municipalities, meaning, at least, a doubling of the rate of local taxation. He has been a willing tool to this nefarious scheme to belittle Ontario, and depose her from the proud position, which, by virtue of her enterprise and intelligence, she holds, as the keystone province of the Federal arch; to reduce her to a position of helpless dependence, and make her an unconsidered cypher in the councils of the confederation. This is the pass to which Mr. John Barnham sought by his vote to bring this, his native province.

He shirked the vote on the amendments to the land regulations which sought to make our Northwest a home for the actual settler and not a preserve for predatory land-sharks, and swindling speculators. Mr. John Burnham follows the pathway of his party, though it lies across and tramples down the present usefulness and prospects of our great Northwest. He favored turning it over to a grasping and half Yankee monopoly—the Syndicate—a country which we spent millions to rescue from the grasp of another monopoly. His vote helped to cripple Manitoba in the very outset of her career, by disallowing a railway charter, that meant for the Manitobans partial relief from the devouring oppression of that monopolistic moloch, the Pacific Railway Syndicate, an outrage on the political autonomy of the Province so gross that even the Tory candidate for Winnipeg denounces it, and calls on the people of Manitoba to declare that they will not submit to have their trade cramped by enormous railway rates from a "foreign corporation."

By his vote, Mr. John Burnham not only condoned but aided the abuse of power and outrage on Provincial rights implied in the disallowance of the Rivers and Streams Bill.

By his vote against the motion of Mr. Laurier to repeal the duties on coal and breadstuffs, Mr. John Burnham builds up the barbaric barrier of taxation between the poor man and his fireside, between the mouths of the poor man's children and their bread.

Mr. John Burnham, who has proven to be a friend to monopolists of every description, voted against giving Parliament the right to protect the people against telegraphic combinations.

Mr. John Burnham refused his vote to allow Canada the reasonable latitude of self-government, involved in making her own commercial treaties.

Mr John Burnham voted against removing the duties from pig iron, sheet iron, boiler plate and tubing, lest the manufacturer would thus be allowed to supply the consumer at a cheaper rate. His motto seems to be protect the monopolist and fleece the people.

But at least, when he came to the crowning iniquity of Sir John Macdonald's corrupt career, the Gerrymander Bill, did he not shrink? No, he voted for it! For it he unblushingly held up his hand, which one honest impulse of independence, one grain of self-respect, one thought for the rights of this province, would have palsied in the act. He fought in the ranks of Ontario's foes all through the heroic struggle of Ontario's real friends, the Reform party, through the series of twenty-three amendments to the iniquitous Bill, which were trampled on with insulting insolence by the "brute majority." With this record of Mr. John Burnham before us, is it any wonder that we express surprise at his effrontery, in again coming forward to solicit the suffrages of the free and independent electors of East Peterborough, to ask them to renew his power to trample on the rights of his native province, to endorse a course which has only the servile merit of fidelity to his party leaders? We have already placed before the electors of this riding the platform of the Reform party. Let them honestly and dispassionately compare it with the platform of the Tory party, of which the partial record of Mr. John Burnham's career, as indicated above, furnishes specimens of the rotten planks of which it is composed. There is no difficulty in making a choice and we believe that the electors of East Peterborough are too honest, have too much self-respect, to perpetuate the existence of a Government whose highest motive is to maintain power at the expense of the dearest rights of the people, and who deem no trickery too vile to be resorted to, no rights too sacred to be trampled on; so long as they stand in the path that leads to the accomplishment of their selfish ends.

Vote for Roxburgh, and have cheap Fuel, Clothing and Food.

The Canadian Constitution.

The British North America Act is a very badly drawn statute. The resolutions adopted at the Quebec Conference, at which the scheme of Confederation was formulated, were in some respects much better than the Act which purports to embody them. Some important changes were at the last moment made in the scheme, under the manipulation of Sir John Macdonald, who was in London at the time, and these changes were in the direction of making it much less favourable to the provincial authorities. Who suggested these modifications it would be difficult to say, but that the purpose was a sinister one is clear from the use which has been made of the Act by Sir John and his party.

The sections defining the relations between the provinces and the Dominion are too vaguely drawn, and the result has been a constant succession of irritating disputes in Parliament and the Courts as to the limits of the several jurisdictions. In time these collisions will sap the foundations of Confederation and destroy the whole structure of the Dominion, if something is not done to put a stop to them. We are making little or no progress, by means of judge-made law, as we may be allowed to term the findings of our Superior Courts on points of constitutional law. They conflict to such an extent with each other, and leave the matters brought before them in so indeterminate a form—to say nothing of the host of new questions which are being constantly raised by ingenious and industrious lawyers—that one is compelled to despair of the defects of the constitution being ever remedied by this slow and unsatisfactory process. Matters might have been better had the party in power at Ottawa been always loyal to Provincial rights, and had the Dominion Supreme Court been disposed to interpret the Federal principle and apply it in a sensible way. But with a party in power which is bent on disallowing Acts of Parliament which are not unconstitutional, and a Court which seems determined to give the Dominion the benefit of every doubt and something more, it is easy to see that matters cannot long be allowed to go on as they have been going.

What is wanted now is a thorough revision of the British North America Act by a competent commission appointed under the joint authority of the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments, or by a convention of delegates, selected from all the Provinces by popular vote. We have had fifteen years' experience of the working of our constitution, and know now from varied experience where its weak points are. There are many ways in which it could be simplified, and made less expensive, as, for instance, by reducing the membership of the House of Commons and abolishing the Senate, which costs enormously, and is of no practical use whatever. Our House of Commons is becoming ridiculously large, and with the creation of new provinces in the north-west, the evil will rapidly be intensified. Under the present Act, the number is fixed by the number assigned to Quebec, which is 65, but a smaller number could be given to that province and a pro rata reduction thus effected all round. Some of the powers and jurisdictions require to be more clearly defined so that the vast mass of litigation caused annually by the uncertainty as to what legislature has jurisdiction in any particular class of cases may be avoided. The power of disallowance requires to be defined and limited now that Sir John Macdonald has openly and shamelessly violated in the case of the Streams Bill his own memorandum on the subject.

The principle of representation must be placed on some other than the present footing. When the Liberals come into power they will be tempted to re-arrange the constituencies, to make them at least as favorable to them as before. But it is quite clear that this practice of arranging them for party purposes must be stopped. One way of stopping it is to adopt the grouping plan, advocated by Mr. Blake, and if he is returned to power this election, we have no doubt that he will at once take the problem up, and find for it a satisfactory solution. Representative institutions are not perfect, and when party leaders, like Sir John Macdonald, make a political living out of cunning, it is time for the people to rise in their might, and say that statesmen shall take their places.

Vote for W. E. Roxburgh and prevent the Lawyers from ruling the country.

A Question of Life or Death for Ontario.

The Globe propounds the following questions to be answered by the electors by their ballots, the 20th of next June:—

Shall Ontario remain the Keystone Province of the Confederation?

Shall Ontario, at the dictation of a handful of French Bleus, be degraded to the position of a fifth rate Province?

Shall Ontario be reduced in size till she is less than one-half the area of Quebec, less than two-thirds of the area of Manitoba, less than one fourth the size of British Columbia, and less than one-half of the size of fifteen or sixteen new provinces, hereafter to be created?

Shall Ontario be deprived of the railway terminus on Lake Superior, with the city which is certain there to spring up?

Shall Ontario be robbed of 60,000,000 acres of fertile land?

Shall Ontario lose the revenue of $125,000,000, the sum which the pine alone, to say nothing of other valuable timber, on the disputed territory is computed to be worth?

Shall Ontario be defrauded of a mineral region, the wealth of which may exceed anything else in the known world?

Shall Ontario be driven to adopt direct taxation for Provincial purposes?

Shall Ontario, by this confiscation of her property, be made to cease supporting her public hopitals, prisons, asylums and the like institutions from Provincial funds?

Shall all these expenses be thrown where they properly belong, upon the municipalities?

Shall the burdens of municipal taxation in Ontario be increased because the province has been robbed of 100,000 square miles of her Crown Lands?

In a word, will Ontario suffer herself to be dismembered and despoiled in order that the Bourbons at Ottawa may be sustained in power by French votes?

Every ballot cast for the Conservative party answers "Yes" to the above questions. Every ballot cast for a Reformer answers "No!"

The future of this Province lies trembling in the balance. And the Confederation will scarcely withstand the shock of a corruptly-gained verdict endorsing the vile robbery proposed to be committed.

A condonation of Sir John Macdonald's shameless repudiation of the Boundary Award involves a loss of property to every man, woman and child in this Province estimated at $300 in respect of the timber alone.

Surely this huge spoliation will not be permitted by the electors of Ontario. Surely it needs but to have the matter submitted to them, and the fate of the Government is sealed.

"Tax the Farmer and enrich the Manufacturer," is the motto of Mr. John Burnham. Vote for W. E. Roxburgh and Light Taxation.

THE Review, in speaking of Mr. Roxburgh's nomination, says that the resolutions adopted by the Convention are just what any "friend of the Dominion Government would desire to fight." No doubt; but no friend of the country, no friend of Ontario, no friend of justice, no friend of economical government, no friend of political purity, would desire to fight them. The Review innocently brings out the distinction between hide-bound Toryism and true Reform; one is a friend of the Tory Government and the other the friend of the people.

THE Tory government poses paternally as the working man's friend. Yet the government advertises assisted passages to old country mechanics and laborers—assists them to come to Canada to compete with our own artisans and laborers. Tilley taxes the poor man all around the house for a not-needed surplus, and to enrich a few cotton lords, sugar kings, etc. The working man has, of course, to pay higher prices for everything he gets, but then he will get higher wages—at least till the swarm of the old country working men, who get eleven dollars a piece to come to Canada, shall glut the market and bring down the price of toil.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

EAST RIDING

OF THE

COUNTY OF PETERBORO'

GENTLEMEN:—

Having accepted the unanimous nomination of a very large and influential Convention to become the candidate to represent the Liberal Party in the pending elections for the House of Commons, I take the usual way of addressing you and soliciting your influence and votes.

Never in the history of Canada were the rights and privileges of the people in such danger of being undermined, and rendered nugatory by the efforts of Quebec to control the Conservative Premier and Cabinet, with an united determination to destroy the influence of Ontario in the Councils of the Dominion. To this end the Boundary Award, fixed by three of the most distinguished arbitrators that could be selected, has been ignored, and sought to be set aside, by Sir John A. Macdonald, urged by Langevin and the Bleus of Quebec, with a view to depriving Ontario of her territory, 100,000 square miles, and the revenue of one hundred and twenty-five million dollars, the sum which the pine alone is estimated to be worth, to say nothing of the other valuable timber and minerals, and resulting in a loss to Ontario of over $300 of property to every man, woman and child in the Province, in respect to timber alone. Not satisfied with robbing us of our property, they have vetoed the Legislation of our Local Government, elected also by you to manage our own affairs, and this at the nod or beck of a political supporter and partizan.

And still more bent on the overthrow of the influence of Ontario, they have cut and carved the Municipalities (of Ontario only) so as, if possible, to prevent the return of Reformers, in order that they may be able to carry out their designs in Contract Letting, depriving the people of their North-west possessions by handing them over to an unscrupulous syndicate, and refusing to give the contract to Canadians, by which 3,000,000 acres of land and $3,000,000 would have been saved to the country and treasury, and their interferring with the rightful political autonomy of Manitoba in the disallowance of the Manitoba and South-Eastern Railway charter, thereby refusing to allow that Province to have more than one outlet to the southward, with enormous railway rates and incapacity of traffic accomodation which they are at present subjected to by a foreign corporation; and now fearing the day of retribution, they are springing the elections on the people a year before their term of office has expired, lest a year's more accumulated misrule and jobbery should ensure their complete overthrow at the polls.

It is not necessary for me, gentlemen, to tell you that if elected I shall seek to have these wrongs redressed by voting against all measures not founded on justice and economy. I will seek, if elected, to limit outlay and prevent the necessity for such enormous taxes as we are compelled to pay under the N.P. regime. I will do my utmost to prevent the increase of monopolies which are enriched out of your hard earnings, and I will seek to limit the expenditure of the Government merely to meet the absolutely necessary requirements of the Dominion.

I shall consider it not only a duty but a pleasure to support by my vote and influence, the construction of that vitally important enterprise, the Trent Valley Canal, recognizing in it a work that will not only specially result in the increased prosperity of this district, but also in the promotion of the trade interests of the Dominion in general, by perfecting the important series of works that will make our internal water-ways a perpetual source of commercial convenience.

While giving a free support to the Reform party, I will ever reserve the right to vote on all matters as in my judgment will best serve the interests of our country.

I will endeavour to call on you, if time will permit, before polling day. In the meantime I solicit your influence and votes to elect me to go to strengthen the hands of those noble men who have so energetically sought to stay misgovernment; to ease the burdens of the people; and to prevent the corruption in contract letting that has prevailed at Ottawa under Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues.

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 30 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

JOHN HACKETT,

GEORGE STREET.

THE GREAT GERRYMANDER.

CLEVER SATIRE BY MR. G. W. ROSS, M.P. —"AN ACT TO BULLDOZE THE LIBERAL PARTY OF ONTARIO."

Mr. G. W. Ross, M.P., made one of the best speeches delivered on the Gerrymandering Bill. In the course of it he said he had an alternative bill to propose in place of the one introduced by the leader of the Government. He then read the following:—

An Act to bulldoze the Liberal party and for other purposes.

Whereas by the census of the year of our Lord, 1881, and in accordance with the B.N.A. Act of 1867, the Province of Ontario is entitled to four additional members in the House of Commons;

And whereas it is desirable to secure, if possible, the defeat of the Liberal party of Canada, and the return to power for the next five years of the present Government; and

Whereas public opinion has been seriously affected by the large increase of the public expenditure, the railway and commercial monopolies created through the policy of the Conservative party, the exodus from Canada of thousands of her best sons, and the interference with provincial rights, particularly with the rights of the Province of Ontario;

And, whereas, it is desirable that the Conservative party should not be bound by the declaration of its leaders in 1872, that municipal county lines should be respected in the re-adjustment of electoral districts.

Therefore, Sir John Macdonald, by and with the advice of party wire pullers and Tory deputations from the Province of Ontario, and with the connivance of Tories from the other provinces enacts as follows:

1. The House of Commons shall consist of 211 members, of whom the majority shall belong to the Conservative party.

2. That several members of Parliament, during the last four years, have loyally supported the present Government, at great sacrifice to their own conscientious conviction of duty, and the peril of their political lives.

3. That it is alleged by the members aforesaid, to wit, the members representing the Electoral Districts of S. Lanark, Cornwall, S. Grey, N. Huron, N. Middlesex, E. Middlesex, Monck, Lincion, S. Norfolk, Centre Wellington, N. Wellington, E. York, N. York, N. Simcoe, S. Bruce, E. Elgin, Kent, that their constituents are very much dissatisfied with many of the votes given by the members aforesaid during the said period of time; that the various gifts bestowed on the said constituencies, to wit, the P. O. in St. Thomas, $28,000; do Stratford, $28,500; do Chatham, $28,000; do St. Catherines, $31,500; do Cornwall, $28,000, have not fully appeased the clamor against the members aforesaid.

Therefore it is expedient so to re-adjust the constituencies of the said members as to prevent their being driven from public life, and their vote and influence lost to the Conservative party.

6. That the appointment of returning officers is a political gift, that all such appointments should be made in the interests of the party, that there is great danger lest the well-known social standing of sheriffs and registrars should interfere with that liberty of action which political exigencies sometimes require; it is expedient therefore to repeal section one of the "Dominion Election Act of 1874," thus leaving the Government free to select such returning officers as in their opinions would best serve party interests.

7. That various schedules to this Act annexed marked respectively from 1 to 54, contain the true boundaries of the electoral districts of Ontario under the provisions of this Act. That several members of the Liberal party represent constituencies that cannot be re-adjusted, that in divers cases, by aggregating the Liberals of two or three constituencies together after the process recently patented, known as "hiving," certain adjacent electoral districts can be rendered more secure for the Conservative party, that in several electoral districts, to wit, the electoral districts of North Lanark, Muskoka, North Ontario, South Ontario, South Wentworth, East York, North York, South Perth, North Bruce, South Brant, West Middlesex, Bothwell and South Norfolk, there can be made such a re-adjustment of the Liberal votes as to weaken the Liberal candidates in said constituencies, that no loss would accrue to the Conservative party from the absence of the members representing said constituencies from the House of Commons, it is expedient, therefore, to re-adjust the electoral districts aforesaid in such a way as to prevent the election of the Liberal members in each and all of the said electoral districts.

Then followed fifty-four clauses concerning the manner in which the constituencies are to be readjusted.

Mr. Ross had a doubt, which perhaps arose from the simplicity of his nature, that the measure now before the House did not honestly represent the purpose for which it was designed, and in order that the leader of the Government might not be liable to be indicted for false pretenses he had brought down this Bill, believing that the leader of the Government would immediately adopt it. (Loud laughter.) Was it not true that the purport of this Bill was to bulldoze the Liberal party of Canada, and did it not originate in the cowardly hearts of the Government supporters, who were afraid the people? Were not the clauses much more honest than those of the Government's measure? Take that regarding the member for Niagara (Plumb) for instance. All knew that the hon. gentleman had vainly protested against the extinction of his riding. There could be no doubt that the leader of the Government, if he wished, could maintain Niagara as a separate constituency. It was not the constituency that must be done away with, but that the hon. member, after his parliamentary training, was well fitted, when resurrected to enliven the debates of what he (Mr. Ross) was told was a lethargic body of legislators having their abode in the other end of the building, and no doubt they would be much edified by the lively corpse to be sent them—(laughter)—and so with the member for Lincoln (Mr. Rykert). He was exceedingly valiant in this House, and hurled across the floor challenges to contest against even the leader of the Opposition but he was not prepared to face the electors of his old constituency, and therefore he wanted his position strengthened, and the Government agreed to do it for him. He (Mr. Ross) desired to see honest legislation and he trusted that his Bill would meet with the favourable consideration of the House. (Loud cheers and laughter.)

Electors of East Peterboro', on the 20th of June record your votes for Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, and have Ontario's soil for Ontario's sons.

GENERAL ELECTION NOTES.

Is Mr. N. Currie only running in West Middlesex to work up a claim for a Government situation?

Mr. Trow, the able agriculturist M.P., has been nominated Reform candidate for South Perth.

Sir John Macdonald is afraid to run either in Kingston or Montreal West, and will try his luck in Lennox.

Ex-Mayor Conklin, of Winnipeg—a former Hamiltonian—has been nominated Reform candidate for that city.

Speaking of the day chosen for the general election, the Toronto Mail says:

"The day, Tuesday, is auspicious. It is the day of Austerlitz."

We don't know what constituency Mr. Austerlitz is running for, but we agree that Tuesday is auspicious. It is the birthday of Mrs. O'Leary's cow.

Messrs. Tasse and C. H. Mackintosh have been nominated Tory candidates for Ottawa city. Mackintosh is notorious for his Government contract-peddling proclivities.

The mysterious telegrams from Sir John A. Macdonald to Rufus Stephenson at the Chatham Convention are said to have been in reference to Rufus entering the Cabinet in room of Aikens, who is to have the Lieut.-Governorship of Manitoba.

The legitimate manufacturers of the country are not slow to realize that a great injury is done their business by placing a tax on coal and other raw materials. Heavy manufacturers of the stamp of Mr. Dennis Moore, of Hamilton, who is the Liberal candidate in that city, are not afraid to trust their business interests to the care of a party who have as their watch-word, "Raw material duty free."

The Intercolonial Railway is owned and operated by the Dominion Government. A curious anomaly is presented in this connection. All the train hands are Civil Service employees, yet the conductors are given a vote while the Post Office clerks who travel on the road are debarred from exercising the franchise. Any person guided by principle would not deny the clerk the privilege granted to the conductor.

A prominent feature in the present campaign is the excellence of the nominations being made by the Liberal party. Gentlemen of the ability of Mr. Mulock, of Toronto, will raise the standard of a House wherein seats are occupied by Rykerts and Boultbees. When people are elected on their merits, or on the merits of their case, gentlemen of the stamp of Mr. Mulock will be more numerous in the House of Commons than at present.

Superstitious people might regard it as a somewhat unfortunate circumstance that two of the most pronounced temperance advocates in Lambton are named respectively Bole and Boosey. Mr. Bole was flowing at the Tory Convention in Wyoming, and he gave it as his belief that "Sir John was the hope of the Temperance party." It is pleasing to know that the Temperance party have hopes of Sir John; he has served as the fearful example long enough.

The Reformers of South Middlesex have chosen a good man. For this in itself the Convention does not deserve much praise, for from the names submitted it would have been impossible to secure a poor one. Mr. Armstrong is known throughout the Riding as an able and thorough-going man, whose record will bear the light, and who in all his long municipal career has made friends instead of losing them. The next House of Commons will be improved by the presence of Mr. Armstrong.

Our esteemed Tory friends of Lambton have passed a resolution thanking Mr. W. R. Meredith for the "noble stand" he took on the Boundary Award. Mr. Meredith, it will be remembered, voted for a resolution urging Mr. Mowat to stand firm, and a year later voted for a second resolution censuring Mr. Mowat for standing firm in defence of Ontario's rights. Which of these votes do our esteemed Tory friends regard as the "noble stand," or did the noble stand consist of Mr. Meredith swallowing Mr. Meredith?

Nothing could better show the temper of the Liberal party than the offering of the South Middlesex nomination to Mr. G. W. Ross and the refusal of it by that gentleman. The offering was a recognition of Mr. Ross's ability, and was a tribute that must have given him a thrill of pleasure. The refusal of it shows that Mr. Ross is not afraid to trust the justice of his cause to the sound sense of his friends and neighbors, and does not care to shirk the issue. The good-will of the adjoining constituency, however, will do Mr. Ross no harm.

FAIR PLAY.

Fair play's a jewel, rich and rare,
And we only ask fair play!
And if you have most numerous votes,
We'll bid you win the day!
And if we have the most to vote,
The members we should send—
We cannot think of a fairer thing—
What say you, Tory friend?

We only ask fair play!
O a jewel is fair play!
We'll give and take with every man—
We only ask fair play!

We planned our counties out with care,
And bank them up with toil,
And got to know each other there,
As tillers of the soil.
We voted with each other long,
Each for his favorite man—
And hope to do the same again—
Do you know a better plan?

We only ask fair play!
O a jewel is fair play!
We'll give and take with every man—
We only ask fair play!

But when each county's wrenched apart,
And pieces scattered wide,
And part is here and part is there—
Carved out on every side—
Let our first vote be to rebuke
The hand that strikes unfair,
And sharp and clear the order sound,
"Ontario, As you were!"

We only ask fair play!
O a jewel is fair play!
We'll give and take with every man
We only ask fair play!

—London Advertiser.

"Fair Canada for the bold Canuck,"
The Tory motto will be ever be:
And this is the way the style is struck:

"In far-off British Columbi-ee,
We build the road with the 'heathen Chinee,'"

And to help Ontario's workingman, we Pay passages out for the British navvee.

Vote for W. E. Roxburgh and sustain Hon. E. Blake in honest Government.

GERRYMANDER JOTTINGS.

MANY MINDS ON THE MATTER.

Grip's cartoons of the "hiving" process and the pie that didn't want a Plumb are really rich. The artist's pencil seems to be wielded with improved effect.

Men who can look at this most unworthy plot of an unworthy Government with other feelings than indignation and disgust are unfit for any position of trust and confidence among their fellow citizens.

Sir John is able to defeat the Grits in Ontario any day, if he can only get his majority to back him in tying their hands behind their backs, putting gags in their mouths and boxing them all up so that they can't strike back. Brave man, Sir John.

The South Riding of Perth as now constituted has a tail ten miles long intersecting the ridings of South Huron and North Middlesex, while South Huron is graced by a similar caudal appendage intersecting North Middlesex and South Perth.

Rev. Dr. Wild, of the Bond-street Congregational church, Toronto, has hitherto been understood to have decidedly Tory proclivities; but, addressing his congregation last Sunday evening he administered a cutting rebuke to the gerrymandering policy of the Tory Government.

A Tory sheet remarks, with owlish gravity, that "very few have really looked into the merits of the Re-distribution Bill." Our conferere is mistaken, Sir Gerrymander John discovered them when he planned it, but, apart from political expediency, the whole plan is an unmitigated curse.

"And is this map North Brant I see?
I fail to understand her;
With only legs and tail 'twould be
A perfect Salamander."
"Hold on," cried Billy Paterson;
"So far you need not wander;
Its likeness tells its parentage—
It is a Johnasmander."

Many Tory members now in Parliament have taken advantage of the redistribution to gerrymander strong Tories in their counties, so as to kill off opposition against themselves individually. This has given deep offence with the Tory party, and the effects are already being felt in the number of protests constantly received by Ministers from their friends, who have been harrowed over to other counties.

To carry out this "infamous," as Mr. Mackenzie rightly called it, this infamous purpose, every electoral district that could possibly be cut and carved, has been so dealt with, and to add insult to injury, this great statesman (?) says, with a mocking sneer, it is to carry out the principles of representation by population. That he lies in so saying, is evident, for it is only Ontario that is to be treated with this oppressive injustice and this mocking insult.

The John Amending Bill is having an effect that was not calculated upon. A large produce dealer in Stratford is authority for the statement that the people of North Easthope and South Easthope declare that as they are joined politically to the town of Woodstock, they will hereafter do their trading there. Mr. Hesson will receive very little thanks from the residents of Stratford for his efforts to legislate himself into Parliament for another term.

Mr. Paterson, Brant, put a "poser" to the Government the other night. It was this: If the object sought for in the Re-distribution Bill was to equalise the population, why was it that the township of Oakland, with a population of 939, was taken from South Brant, with a population of 20,000, and added to South Oxford, with a population of 25,000? Although the answer was urgently demanded none was received. It will remain for the electors of South Brant to solve the problem.

By his policy of cutting and carving Ontario constituencies, Sir John Macdonald has struck a severe blow at our system of representative government, which has so long been Canada's just pride and boast. Had the Premier, instead of redistricting the Province, enacted that each constituency known to contain a majority of Conservative voters should return two members to Parliament, while Liberal constituencies should return only one, his course would have been quite as fair, and quite as worthy of approval. Such a flagrant abuse of power as that displayed in the re-adjustment Bill would scarcely be tolerated by Mexicans.

The Gerrymandering Bill has a business as well as a political significance, and the people of such towns as Stratford and Brantford are said to be just beginning to realize this. There can be no doubt that the political separation of such townships as the Easthopes, Burford and Oakland from the counties to which they belong will weaken the business, as well as the political associations that bind them to their respective county towns. New political associations formed with such a county town as Woodstock will lead to business relations—as the people of such places as above alluded to will shortly find out.

A FARM BALLAD.

A farmer sat on a rude settee
At the April sun went down,
The smoke from his pipe curled gracefully
Up toward the rafters brown.

His good wife stepped to the door; quoth she:
"Be keerful Hezekiah!
Thee'll drop thy pipe right presently,
And the dumbole thou'll fire."

He grinned a gleesome grin nor spoke
As his wife the door way closed;
Then went to sleep, and a cloud of smoke
In the porch right soon arose.

And it wrapped the house about and flames
The farmer soon did roast.
And they crisped the barns and the dairy dames
And burned them all to toast.

But the good wife? E'en her they charred,
But she mustered strength to go
To the black remains of her roasted pard
And say, "I told you so."

Farm, Garden and Household.

Tree Mutilation.

About this time of year there goeth forth, equipped with saw, axe and ladder, a disguised fiend calling himself the "tree pruner." His true name is the "tree butcher." Ignorant farmers, unenlightened villagers, and muddleheaded city fathers, let him loose among the fruit and shade trees, to commit what havoc he pleases. He assails the defenceless objects of his hate, and soon there is an army of despoiled trunks, lifting up their amputated limbs to high heaven in mute appeal against the cruel wrongs that have been done them. He leaves desolation and disfigurement in his track. Orchards are robbed of their beauty, shrubberies laid waste, and highways made unsightly. Mischief is done which the growth of years cannot repair. And all for what? Nobody can tell.

A tree left to its natural development, with judicious training and pruning, is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." The hand of man should never be observed on it. All its growth and contour should seem to be spontaneous and self-induced. Whenever the work of the pruner obtrudes itself on the notice of the beholder, then the work has been badly done or overdone. With proper management, it need never be necessary to cut off a branch bigger than one's thumb. When a tree is first planted, the head should be formed in miniature outline, and all the rest can be done by pinching here and there a shoot or severing here and there a twig. The botching and butchering that are perpetrated every spring disgrace our civilizations and proclaim our ignorance.

Many orchards are slain outright by this ubiquitous fiend in a human form. The removal of a large limb from a tree is like the amputation of a man's limb. It causes a terrible strain on the vitality of the vegetable or animal organism. Were a man to have both arms cut off between the elbow and shoulder, and both legs cut off just above the ankle, it is doubtful if he would survive the shock. Fruit trees treated in this manner often die, and their owners wonder what ails them. If they are not absolutely killed, they have a long and hard struggle for dear life. Meantime they bear no fruit, and with difficulty put forth a meagre show of leaves. Their usefulness has gone, along with their beauty.

If farmers would read agricultural papers and study books on arboriculture, they need never employ the peripatetic tree butcher. It would be pleasant pastime for them to walk among their trees in hours of comparative leisure, and give them what training and tutoring they need. The money thrown away on tree slaughtering tramps, would, in course of time, buy a collection of books on orchard and forest-tree management. Orchards and shrubberies would become scenes of delight and sources of profit, instead of being eyesores and encumberances, as they too often are.

As for shade trees in villages, towns, and cities, they grow, if at all, under difficulties. The minority plant them, and the majority destroy them. Mischievous urchins break their backs while they are mere saplings. The ubiquitous cow cures the itch between her horns by rubbing them until they are uprooted. When they get large, if they succeed in so doing, the municipal councillor or alderman, who is chairman of the committee on streets and sidewalks, launches the tree-butcher at them. If a common-sense man, who knows a little about tree-life, holds the office of chairman of said committee for a few years, there is by-and-by a change. Some nincompoop succeeds him; forthwith there is a crusade against the trees, and in the course of a few hours the whole town is despoiled of its leafy beauty.

SOAP AND SOAP MAKING.

A good receipt for soft soap is worth much to the housewife, for a tub of good soft soap is an excellent lubricator and detergent, in more than one sense of the terms. Here is a receipt given to me by a mechanic who uses the very best soft soap that is possible to be made in his business, and he assures me that it is the finest soap that can be made for washing flannels and clothing. Take 20 pounds of pure caustic potash, to be procured at the drug stores, put it into a vessel of iron or stoneware and pour over it two gallons of hot water. The potash will dissolve in it immediately. Warm moderately 9½ gallons of olive oil, so that it feels quite warm to the hand, and pour it into a keg or half barrel. Then pour the potash solution while hot into the warm oil in a thin stream, with constant stirring with a wooden paddle, two or three inches broad, and stir the mixture continuously until it appears smooth and thoroughly combined. Put away the vessel in a warm place and cover it with a blanket or two, or rugs, or carpets, to retain the heat and favor the change into soap. After three or four days the soap is fully formed, but it is well to stir it up again thoroughly and keep it warm and covered up for three or four days more. This gives time for the perfect change of the mixture into a chemically pure soap, which will not injure the finest fabric or the most delicate skin. As a lubricator for heavy machinery, such as the shafting of mills and iron foundries, it is said to be superior to any oil or grease of any kind. It is a pure potash soap and when dissolved in hot water will make a fine pure soft suds. If any wife of a mechanic reads this let her tell her husband, and if any mechanic let him tell his wife, for the thing is worth knowing.

 "Do boldly what you do at all." Boldly do we affirm that Kidney-Wort is the great remedy for liver, bowels and kidney diseases, rheumatism and piles vanish before it. The tonic effect of Kidney-Wort is produced by its cleansing and purifying action on the blood. Where there is a gravelly deposit in the urine, or milky, ropy urine from disordered kidneys, it always cures.

GENERAL ELECTION NOTES.

Mr. Rufus Stevenson, M. P., has been re-nominated for Kent.

It is understood that orders for the June camps of the militia have been suspended. This is in consequence of the elections taking place next month.

In Toronto, the talk of the street on Wednesday, was to the effect that Mr. Samuel Platt would decline to stand for East Toronto.

One of the humors of the gerrymandering Bill is that East Middlesex is the very image of a frying-pan designed in a fit of delirium. Of course, this prettily arranged constituency has been equalised!

Mr. M. C. Cameron, Q. C., received a most enthusiastic welcome home from his constituents in South Huron. Mr. Cameron has proved an able representative, and has been a sturdy defender of popular rights.

The Brantford Expositor thinks it must have been especially pleasing to Mr. Patterson on Wednesday night to see the Harrises, Wisners, Watermans, Weldings, Suters, etc., a solid phalanx of manufacturers, among the throng that met to do him honor when he came home.

The Ottawa Free Press dubs C. H. Mackintosh and Joseph Tasse, the would-be Tory nominees for Ottawa, "a contract broker and a patronage peddler." These qualities will go a long way to commend Messrs. Mackintosh and Tasse to the present Administration.

Mr. W. Mulock, of Toronto, has received the Reform nomination for North York, and will make a great fight. At the convention, resolutions condemning the outrageous legislation of the Government were passed.

The elections take place next month as already announced. The Gazette of Saturday will contain the official declaration. Not a day should be lost to place the success of the Reform candidates beyond a peradventure. Earnest work will do much.

The Galt Reformer says of the Hamilton Reform candidates:—"Mr. Irving "has already represented the city, and is "a gentleman of well known ability, "while Mr. Moore is one of the wealthi-"est and most prominent manufacturers "in Western Ontario."

One by one the rats are deserting the sinking Tory ship, notwithstanding the attempts to lighten her of her burden by such infamous tactics as the Redistribution Bill. Mr. Carrier, M. P., believing in the old adage "that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," retires from active life, and takes as his reward the Postmastership of Ottawa. Rumors are also published in Tory papers that numerous Cabinet changes will soon take place. It is said that Messrs. O'Connor, Aikens and Mousseau will retire before the general elections.

From Ottawa comes the report that Sir Alexander Galt is to become Minister of the Interior, in order to relieve Sir John A. Macdonald of the duties of that department. It is generally understood that Sir Alexander will again enter active political life and that he will contest one of the Montreal constituencies. It would be an instructive spectacle to see Sir Alexander sitting side-by-side with Sir John Macdonald at the Cabinet Council after the declaration, over his own signature, that after the Pacific Scandal he would never sit in the same Cabinet with its author. One thing is certain: Sir Alexander is tired of living in London; he feels his failure to open up better trade relations between Canada and France very much; and he is determined to come back to the Dominion.

The excuses which the Government makes officially for dissolution before the natural expiration of Parliament are that capitalists are dissuaded from investing in manufactures by uncertainty with regard to the permanence of the protective policy, and that the Redistribution Bill should be permitted to take effect. The real reasons for dissolution are that the Syndicate bargain and the National Policy are bound to become more unpopular as time advances. A bad harvest would leave the country in such condition that the true character of the National Policy—a great and unnecessary burden—would be discerned by all. In good times its oppressions are not fully realized; in hard times they would be so intolerable as to cause the practical obliteration of the party responsible for the iniquity. Sir John Macdonald brings on the elections in 1882 because he dares not run the risk of postponing them till 1883.

A GARFIELD CLOCK.

Mr. S. Holter, a jeweler and watchmaker of Middlebury, Vt, has recently constructed a curious clock, which acts out the assassination of President Garfield.

The machine is a common cuckoo clock, under which is a miniature depot. At one window is a ticket agent dealing out tickets, while at another a telegraph operator is seen busy at work, and truckmen, porters, train-depatchers, etc., are all flying around as natural as life. All of these figures are of wood, two inches long.

At the end of each hour the cuckoo announces the fact, and immediately a figure of President Garfield appears on the platform on which the scene is enacted, accompanied by Mr. Blaine. Guiteau is seen to follow him, having just alighted from a truck wagon, and, as he fires at the President, the latter falls. Just then a train of cars comes dashing in, and in the confusion all the principal actors are carried into the depot out of sight. After the train-despatcher has given the signal and the train has gone, a small door at the left opens and the priest appears, book in hand, in the act of reading the funeral service, while at the same time another door at the right opens and Guiteau appears on the gallows. The priest retires, and anon after the gallows disappears with Guiteau, and the door closes. This is acted out at the end of each hour, and takes about three minutes. Mr. Holter is quite a noted inventor, but this seems to be his master-piece.

VERY MANY CONSTITUTIONS are broken by acute diseases. After typhoid, scarlatina, measles, small-pox, diphtheria, we have emaciation, prostration of vital force and partial suspension of the functions of nutrition. Recovery is protracted and wearisome, and, as results of systemic impoverishment, the frame is often permanently impaired by kidney troubles, lung diseases, enlarged glands, ulcers of flesh and bone, and failure of nerve power to run the machinery of the body. After every case of fever WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA should be used to restore nutrition and arrest destructive tissue waste.

A young man who thought he had won the heart and now asked the hand in marriage of a certain young widow, was asked by her, "what is the difference between myself and Mr. Baxley's Durham cow?" He naturally replied, "Well, I don't know." "Then said the widow, "You had better marry the cow."

NEWS CONDENSED.

Dynamite outrages have broken out in St. John, N.B.

McCarthy, the Winnipeg incendiary, has confessed.

The new Eddystone lighthouse has been opened.

Pink eye has killed 500 colts in Montreal Island this spring.

The next Chief Secretary for Ireland has been re-elected to the Imperial Parliament by acclamation.

Six thousand Swedish and Norwegian emigrants passed through Hull on the 16th, on their way to America.

The civic authorities of Winnipeg have offered to some Toronto firemen as high as $900 per year to go there.

The death of Mrs. Slocum, New York, the humanitarian and leader of the woman's suffrage movement, is announced.

The closing ceremonies of Convocation week at Victoria University on Thursday, were especially interesting.

Guiteau's counsel, despairing of obtaining a new trial, is circulating petitions for the assassin's pardon and confinement in asylum for life.

An unknown Canadian committed suicide in the street at Detroit on Wednesday. Indications are that he hailed from London or Hamilton.

The steamer Progress, sent with provisions for the disabled Peruvian, was burned on Wednesday night near Riviere du Loup. Three lives were lost.

The Rev. Edward Vaughan died at Trocadie Convent, N. S. For 54 days previous to his death he was sustained by water alone.

A fireman on the steamer American Eagle was killed and several hands seriously injured by the explosion of her boiler while racing off Sandusky, Ohio.

The Ottawa Police Magistrate has decided that it is not an infraction of the law for a grocer to deliver liquor to a customer after 7 o'clock on Saturday night.

It is rumored in Winnipeg that General Manager Hickson of the Grand Trunk Railway, has been appointed General Manager of the Canada Pacific Railway.

Saturday's Canada Gazette will announce the dissolution of the present Dominion Parliament. Nominations take place on June 21st, and polling on June 28th.

The free grant townships of Bangor, Wicklow, and McClure, in the County of Hastings, have been set apart as a new agency. Mr. Charles R. Stewart has been appointed agent.

Gen. Rosser has been charged by the Pacific Syndicate with obtaining important papers on false pretences. The trial is expected to be an interesting one. The General expresses his intention of suing for damages.

It is reported that 36 Chinamen, with small-pox, while being conveyed from the steamer Allenower, at Quarantine to the pest house, San Francisco, were drowned by the capsizing of a barge.

A destructive hurricane has swept the coast of West Australia. The town of Rosebourke, the site of the pearl fishery, and Port Cossack, eight miles distant, were totally destroyed. Three deaths.

A large wooden factory of the Star peg Manufacturing Co., at Waterloo, Quebec, was totally destroyed by fire on the 17th. A portion of the machinery and most of the lumber was saved. About 50 hands are thrown out of employment. The loss is estimated at about $100,000. There is no insurance.

The search for the Irish assassins on the Scythia proved unsuccessful. A report from New York states that the real assassins were emissaries in the pay of the extreme Irish revolutionary party in the United States, who were originally instructed to assassinate Forster and Gladstone, but the orders relating to the Premier were afterwards countermanded.

SANDERSON'S

A SIGN WHICH CONQUERED.

A Wayne County farmer who is much annoyed by tramps came to Detroit a while ago and had half a dozen signs of "Small pox—Beware!" painted to post up on his house and grounds. Although he had one on either side of the gate, they had not been up two hours when a rover passed between them and knocked on the door and asked for food.

'Didn't you see those signs on the gate?' demanded the farmer.

'Yes'r, but I can't read.'

The next one said he was near-sighted and thought the sign read 'for sale.' The third had small-pox and was willing to nurse the family. The fourth had been vaccinated and was reckless. The fifth had a remedy to sell, and the sixth, after getting away with a cold bite, turned to his benefactor and said,

'If you want to beat the boys knock down them signs and put up one reading: 'Help wanted.' It never fails to keep 'em joggling straight along.'

The farmer followed the advice, and he hasn't had a call since.

MR. DARWIN'S HABITS.

Raising always at the early hour of 6 to take his cold bath—into which he was accustomed to plunge both morning and evening—he breakfasted alone; and after his first morning walk was in his library at 8. At 9, when the post boy arrived from Farnborough, he would spend a little time in the dining-room opening letters and skimming the papers, and in the evening would linger an hour or so in the society of his family, or some of those friends distinguished in the world of science, who occasionally found, their way to Downe court; but the greater part of his time was spent in his library, his gardens, and the outlying parts of his domain. When he extended his walks into the country round about, it was observed that he was rarely seen in the village or met on the roads, preferring, as he did, th take his way, generally southward, by the foot-paths through the woods and meadows. Little children, who have a quick instinct for a kind gentle nature, would run to open a gate when they saw Mr. Darwin coming, encouraged thereto by a smile and a kind word.—London Times.

THE SULTAN'S CAVALRY.

In a private letter to Gen. Carnahan of of Indianapolis, the American minister at Constantinople describes a wonderful exhibition of horsemanship which he recently witnessed. Gen. Wallace writes: "I was invitd a few days ago by the sultan to go with him and witness a drill of his household troops. The old 11th could beat his infantry, but the preformance of his Circassian cavalry was something extraordinary. As a sample: Four companies magnificently mounted were in line. A bugle call and the right company dashed through to the front full speed. Another call, there was a beautiful feat. Each man reached out his right hand, caught the rein close to the bit, pulled hard, threw his horse flat on its left side, dismounting as it went down. Then, on the ground behind the horse, he began firing as a skirmisher. A third call, the company rose up with their horses, and retreated at full speed, re-forming as they went. As I had never even heard of such a thing, you can imagine my astonishment."

UNEXPECTED CRITICISM.

One of the most eloquent and popular clergyman of Austin, Texas, being about to ascend the steps leading to his church a few days ago, was asked by a partially blind old lady, who did not recognize him, to help her up the steps. With his usual urbanity he complied with her request. Just as they reached the top steps she asked him who was going to preach.

"Parson Smith," he replied, that being his own name.

"O Lord exclaimed the old lady. "Help me down again. I'd rather listen to a man sawing wood. Please help me down again. I dont care to go in."

At first the clergman was inclined to refuse, but, on reflection, he gently assisted her down the step again, remarking as they reached the bottom: "Your are quite right, madam, about not going into the church. I wouldn't go in either if I was not paid for it"—Editors drawer, in Harper's Magazine for June.

A WONDERFUL MAP.

At the nobles' school in Tokio, Japan, is a physical map of the country 300 or 400 feet long, in the court behind the school bilding. This map, or model, is made of turf and rock, and is bordered with pebbles which look at a little distance like so much water. Every inlet river and mountain is reproduced in this model with fidelity to detail which is simply wonderful. Latitude and longitude are indicated by telegraph wires, and tablets show the position of the cities. Ingenious devices are employed in illustrating botanical studies also. For example, the pine is illustrated by a picture showing the cone, leaf, and dissected flower, set in a frame which shows the bark and longitudinal and transverse sections o the wood.

Steel pens may not be weighty, but weighty articles, reviews and judgments can be written with them. Esterbrook's are the standard.

Why suffer from Indigestion and Dyspepsia when Burdock Blood Bitters will positively cure these ailments? A trial bottle only costs 10 cents. 20-2t

It is easy enough to have a temper of one's own; the great thing is to keep it.

A trial of "Kaiser" Machine Oil will convince you that it is the best oil in the market. Sold by dealers. Manufactured by Clarke & Huggart, Woodstock, Ont. 5-38t

No wonder that a man is sometimes a "brick," seeing that he is a son of clay.

A common, and often fatal, disease is Jaudice. Regulate the action of the Liver, and cleanse the blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, and the worst case may be speedily cured. 20-2t

Many a man who thinks himself a "big gun" is nothing but a great bore, and not a smooth one either.

"Kaiser" Machine Oil is the standard for quality, warranted not to clog or gum. Ask your dealer for it. Manufactured by Clarke & Huggart, Woodstock, Ont. 5-38t.

A gentleman who did not trust to his memory wrote in his memorandum book, "Must be married when I get to town."

Thousands suffer untold miseries from Nervous Weakness, Pain in the back, and other distressing symptoms arising from disordered Kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters is the Sovereign remedy. Trial bottles 10 cents. 20-2t

Russian proverb says: "Before going to war, pray once; before going to sea, pray twice; before getting married, pray three times."

Erysipelas, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all diseases of the skin and blood are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It purges all foul humors from the system, imparting strength and vigor at the same time. 20-2t

Tommy, seated on his mother's lap, and reading about Eve and the serpent: "She wasn't like you, mamma, for you're afraid of a mouse."

It is impossible for a woman after a faithful course of treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable compound, to continue to suffer with a weakness of the uterus. Enclose a stamp to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for her pamphlets. 20-2t

"Father," said an inquisitive boy, "what is meant by close relations?" "Close relations, my son," replied the father, "are relations who never give you a cent."

Mr. H. McCaw, Custom House, Toronto, writes:—"My wife was troubled with Dyspepsia and Rheumatism for a long time; she tried many different medicines but did not get any relief until she used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable discovery. She has taken two bottles of it, and now finds herself in better health than she has been for years."

"Adolphus, let us leave the walks and stroll along the margin of the river." "Not any, Evangeline; no more margins for me." (Adolphus had been speculating in Manitoba lots that week.)

A beautiful head of hair is appreciated by everybody, and how to secure it interests everybody. The hair and scalp must be kept free from scurf and dandruff, and not allowed to get dry and harsh. The roots must be stimulated to healthy action. Flexibility and a handsome gloss are essential. All these requisites are easily secured by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Two young ladies recently agreed to read Shakespeare together, and one said, Let us begin with 'Romeo and Juliet.' "Why," exclaimed the other, "we can't read both of them at once."

Mrs. Barnhart, cor. Pratt and Broadway, has been a sufferer for twelve years through rheumatism, and has tried every remedy she could hear of, but received no benefit, until the tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. She says she cannot express the satisfaction she feels at having her pain entirely removed and her rheumatism cured."

A handsome lady entered a dry goods store and inquired for a "bow." The polite clerk threw himself back and remarked that he was at her service. "Yes, but I want a buff, not a green one," was the reply. The young man went on measuring goods immediately.

Mr. W. R. Lasier, Bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes; "I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stable. I have used it for bruises, scratches, wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gave the best satisfaction. We use it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., and it is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by paring them down and applying it occasionally."

A witty physician in Paris, being called to attend a pretty actress, pronounced that marriage was the only cure. "You are single, are you not, my dear docter?" she asked. "Yes madam. But the doctors only prescribe remedies—they do not take them," was the rejoinder.

Nine Physicians Outdone.—It is generally considered a pretty difficult task to outdo a physician, but the following will conclusively prove where nine were completely outdone: Mrs. Helen Pharvis, 331 Dayton St., Chicago, Ill., was treated for Consumption by nine physicians, and all pronounced her case incurable. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and convince yourselves. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's drug Store. Large size $1.00.

A negro was suspected of surreptitiously meddling with his neighbors fruit, and being caught in a garden by moonlight, nonplussed his detectors by raising his eyes, clasping his hands, and piously exclaiming, "Good heavens, dis yere darkey can't go nowhere to pray widout bein' 'sturbed."

Do Not be Deceived. In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we can vouch for as being a true and reliable remedy, and one that will do as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaint, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.

An Irishman, who was very near-sighted about to fight a duel, insisted that he should stand six paces nearer his antagonist than the other did him, and that they were both to fire at the same time. This beats Sheridan's telling a fat man who was going to fight a thin one that the latter's slim figure ought to be chalked on the other's portly person, and if the bullet hit him outside the chalk mark, it was to go for nothing.

LORE THAT LADIES LOVE.

FASHION FANCIES.

Panier polonaises are popular.

Pongee never goes out of fashion.

New hats are laden with feathers.

Mull neckties and scarfs are passe.

Shot or changeable silks are again in vogue.

Shepherd's check is liked for mountain dresses.

Pink and brown together are stylish for bonnets.

It is the fancy to tie the neck ribbon on one side.

Lace is worn with everything and on everything.

Sewing silk grenadine is the fashionable choice.

Pelerines are worn smaller than they were last year.

Bronzed China crape appears among late novelties.

Hip draperies and tunics are much tucked and gauged.

The new Spanish hat is all black and is called the Dolores.

White suits for Summer are of wool in preference to lawn.

Velvet strings and a velvet Alsatain bow trim new bonnets.

Morning wrappers are made of the new barred mull and nainsook muslins.

The newest goods have round spots as large as the palm of a lady's hand.

Pale gray and terra cotta, pale blue and canary yellow, are favorite combinations for tea gowns.

The colors for neck ribbons are terra cotta, aurora pink, porcelain blue, mahogany ruby and cardinal red.

The dogma of fashion for hats and bonnets this Spring is: Wear what you please, so that it is becoming.

Double close checks in brown and green are the favorite novelty in ladies dress goods in England at present.

The long plain skirt of some rich, heavy stuff, with a box plaited ruche at the bottom, worn with a pioneer bodice, gains ground everyday.

And now when gowns of navy-blue flannel grow on every bush, and may be picked off and carried home for almost nothing, fashion says cadet-blue for the mountains.

The light materials, such as tarletan and tulle, formerly used for ball dresses, are almost entirely superseded by soft woollen veilings and crapes, in all shades of color, and black and white.

Neck ribbons are from one to two inches wide, and are worn around the neck inside the dress collar and outside the standing linen collar. Then they are tied in a long looped bow, with longer ends.

Porcelain-blue woollen street suits are made up with trimmings of black braid and black frogs, but the effect is not good. There are very few shades of blue beside which black does not look rusty and ugly.

Collars opening on the side are the newest innovation mentioned. There are becoming enough, but a sore trial if one have old-fashioned kinsfolk who do not understand the vicissitudes of fashion.

An Irish footman, having carried a basket of game from his master to a friend, waited a considerable time for the customary fee, but, finding no present appeared, scratched his head and said, "Sir, if my master should say, 'Paddy, what did the gentleman give you?—what would your honor have me to tell him?"

A person who has no object in life is apt to run a vagrant and useless career. A man who aims at nothing cannot reasonably expect to hit anything. In military law there is always what is called the objective point. The objective point is the point to be made, the thing to be done.

The Vital Forces are speedily renewed by Mack's Magnetic Medicine, the great brain and nerve food, it is the best and cheapest medicine ever discovered. See advertisement in another column. 20-2t

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted. "as it really is the the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an Incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the Throat Troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 43-26ins.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth. If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. Ayer's Pills are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

Ayer's Pills are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these Pills are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

FREQUENT AND FICTITIOUS fire alarms are a serious annoyance and trouble to Engineer English, but better fifty false alarms than one real fire slighted.

ON THURSDAY a party of fifty English immigrants, who came over in the Circassian, arrived at the Midland R. R. station. There are some mechanics in the party, but they are principally laborers, who will, no doubt, pursue researches on the "Missing Link." There was only one woman in the party.

LACROSSE.—The team that met the "Independents," of Toronto was composed of Messrs. J. Donoghue, goal; W. Rudkin, point; J. Joyal, cover point; M. Halpin, defence field; M. McDonald, defence field; A. Yelland, centre field; J. Simpson, field; M. Tierney, field; R. H. Fortye, field; C. Rutherford, home field; E. Hartley, 2d home, and Geo. Giroux, 1st home.

A VICIOUS BRUTE.—On Thursday, a vicious bull came near committing murder. Two men were delivering it from Otonabee to a cattle buyer in Peterborough. On Hunter street, the brute, goaded to fury by its restraint, turned at bay, and, making a furious attack on its drivers, carried one of them across the street on its horns, inflicting severe injuries. The brute had to be killed on the street.

VAGRANT COWS.—Are the streets of Peterborough—especially the residence ones—for the convenience of our citizens, or an improved cow pasture? On Sunday the bovine band came out in strong force, dotting the streets wherever a patch of herbage tempted their tooth. They wandered over the sidepaths, trampled the beautiful swards and played the mischief generally. Is there not a by-law to restrain these undesirable vagrants?

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada, for the week ending May 13th, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and Mails, $5,580.33; Freight, $13,330.05. Total, $18,900.38, as compared with $15,711.03 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $3,189.35; and the aggregate traffic to date is $214,989.05, being an increase of $38,603.89 over 1881. J. Frith Jeffers, Auditor.

CHANGE OF DIET.—On Friday William Storms, charged with assaulting Christopher Fagin near Lakefield, with intent to maim, was tried before his Honor Judge Dennistoun at interim sessions, Mr. C. A. Weller prosecuting and Mr. J. O'Meara defending the accused. Storms' offence consisted in biting a piece of Fagin's lower lip an inch long and three quarters of an inch broad. His Honor suggested the change of diet from live lip to goal gruel, implied in a sentence of six months at hard labor.

ON THURSDAY evening Croft's cab team while left standing at the hotel door for a few minutes, dashed off on their own account on Hunter street. They didn't however have things their own way long for the pole of the cab came in collision with the rear of a farmers' waggon and both horses were thrown flat, but not hurt for they were straightened up and driven to the next train. Leaving horses unfastened in the streets is not only contrary to by-law but also dangerous to whoever may be in the streets should they, like Croft's team, take a fancy to run away.

THE "CANADIAN CRICKET FIELD."—We have received with pleasure the first number of this bright publication, a paper intended to be a medium of communication between amateur cricketers. It is an eight page sheet, well printed on highly-toned paper, its mechanical get up being altogether exceedingly neat and creditable. The matter is well arranged and full of interest to the patrons, players or lovers of the "noble" game. The first number opens a series of papers on "Cricket and How to Excel in It," from the graceful pen of Dr. W. G. Grace. The Cricket Field deserves the handsome support we hope it will receive.

NOW IS THE VOICE of the turtle, the bullfrog, and the politicos heard in the land.

TWENTY APPEALS against the assessment roll of 1882. Most of them involve only unimportant changes.

OUR OTTAWA letter arrived shortly before going to press, the hour of which was anticipated in order to give our staff a holiday on the 24th, therefore, the letter is held over for our next issue.

ADJOURNED SALE.—The sale of lots in Block B., Smithtown Hill owned by Mr. Dumble, will be continued at Simpleton's Auction Room, (Market Block) on Saturday night, at 8 p. m. Terms easy.

READY MADE RESIDENCES.—Mr. Wm. Lasher is pushing the new business of building houses to be shipped in sections to Manitoba. The houses are complete in all respects, and all the settler has to do is to set them up as a cooking stove or a bedstead would be put up, and they are ready for occupancy. Mr. Lasher is doing his work at Baptie's planing mill, and it is to be hoped that this new venture will be profitably rewarded.

MEDICAL.—The many personal friends of Dr. W. Arthur Allen, in this town and vicinity will be pleased to learn that he has decided upon locating in Peterborough for the practice of his profession. He has opened an office on George Street, opposite the Methodist Church, where he may be found at all hours of the day and night. Besides being a graduate of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, the Doctor is a Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians, London, England. We wish him every success.

ONTARIO & QUEBEC RAILWAY.—An editorial paragraph in the Globe says that the necessary money to build the Ontario & Quebec Railway has been advanced, and that the road is under contract to be finished by the 1st of January, 1884. The line will connect with the Credit Valley, of which it is virtually an extension, north of Toronto. Then if the above be correct, this line emerges from the region of speculation and bids fair to become an accomplished fact. One more easy grade on the line of advance for the town of Peterborough.

AN INFANT INCENDIARY.—Last Saturday, a little boy about five years of age, sought to amuse himself by kindling a boulfire in one of the new villas in course of erection on the corner of Macdonel and Harvey streets by Mr. John Carlisle. The frame work of the buildings is of wood to be veneered with brick, and the little rascal piled up very skilfully a heap of rubbish, and applied the torch of the incendiary to it, and clapped his hands with delight as the blaze mounted up the angle of the wooden structure. Fortunately, Mrs. Duncan, who lives opposite, saw the fire and gave the alarm to her husband, who put it out before any great damage was done. Matches should be added to the list of articles that children and fools should be kept from trifling with.

MECHANIC'S INSTITUTE.—An item respecting the fourteenth annual meeting of the Peterborough Mechanic's Institute was crowded out of our last issue. The undermentioned officers were elected for the current year:—By acclamation: A.P. Poussette, President; Rev. V. Clementi, 1st Vice-President; R. M. Orr, Secretary Treasurer. By ballot: J. Lewis, 2nd Vice-President. Directors: Messrs. W. H. Trout, R. Robertson, Jas. English, E. J. Toker, Wm. English, Geo. Munro, John Corkery, A. M. McFarlane, Geo. C. Rogers, J. F. Jeffers, Jno. Braden, W. Manson. The report of the directors stated that the membership had increased considerably during the past year and that it was now 313. There have been added during the past year, 241 volumes at a cost of $322.35. The number of volumes in the library is now 4,494, and 6,-194 volumes were issued to subscribers. The total receipts for the year were $1,-521.22, and expenditures, $1,497.94, leaving a balance on hand in the Ontario Bank of $23.28.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.—A Kingston despatch says that a gentleman who returned from New York, states that on Thursday last, a meeting of the Canadian Pacific Railway Syndicate was held at New York, at which Mr. Hugh Ryan, of Perth, was taken into the company. Mr. Ryan is a contractor of high reputation, a railroad builder, and director of the Kingston Locomotive Works. It was decided to proceed at once with the Ontario and Quebec railway from Toronto to Ottawa, the link from Perth to Sharbot lake being taken up first. Five millions of dollars will be spent upon this work, two millions of which are now placed at Mr. Ryan's disposal. It is the policy of the syndicate to give the control and management of the different divisions of their work to separate members. Thus, Mr. Van Horne has charge of the lines in Manitoba and the North-West, Mr. McIntyre looks after the Canada Central, its extensions, and the Quebec, Montreal, and Ottawa, and Mr. Ryan will be responsible for the Ontario and Quebec.

A NEW CONSTITUENCY.—New wonders of wickedness of the Gerrymandering Bill are constantly coming to light, but the most recent is the discovery of a new constituency in the Midland District. In mangling East Peterborough, the townships of Galway and Cavendish were detached from this Riding, and Galway tacked to Victoria, but Cavendish was left out in the cold. It thus belongs to no riding, and inferentially composes a constituency of itself, for the electors can legally vote in no other riding, and they cannot be deprived of their votes. There were, in good times before the N. P. brought the exodus, two voters in Cavendish, but one joined the exodus, "and then there was one." There will, of course, have to be appointed a returning officer for Cavendish, ballot boxes prepared, poll clerks, and all all the paraphernalia of an election, provided for this one voter as will be required for the 50,000 inhabitants of Ottawa county. This Riding is the only case of inadvertant injustice done by the gerrymandering outrage; all other instances are flagrantly intentional. It is not likely that the election contest in Cavendish will be very exciting. It is almost certain that if a resident candidate is selected he will be elected by acclamation. Sir John is sure to be defeated in Lennox. He must be tired of representing Indians and Chinamen in British Columbia, and therefore the Riding of Cavendish presents a good harbour of refuge for the gallant knight. It will be a cheap constituency to buy up, and Sir John had better close the bargain at once.

An explosion of sulphur occurred in the Buck Ridge colliery Saturday, causing the instant death of James Lawrence, Frank Oaman, and fatally burning David Green and Fred Hoffman. Green has since since died.

The gulf port 88. Valetta, 507 tons, Captain Anderson, from Cow Bay, N. S., laden with coal, arrived in portat Montreal on the 12th. She reports nine days' detention in ice between Cape Ray and Cape North, in efforts to escape from which she broke a portion of her bow plating.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Rubidge, C. E., is engaged in looking after the survey of the longed-for Trent Valley Canal.

Messrs. Hickey and Robertson, battery boys, have secured fourth class—short course—certificates in B. Battery, Kingston.

Mr. Fred. Siberia, a Peterborough boy, and a former student of the Peterboro' Collegiate Institute, having successfully passed his final examination, was admitted to the degree of B. A., at the Convocation of Victoria University held in Cobourg last Thursday.

From a copy of a little book on "Essenozo" and her industries, we learn that sundry of Peterborough's former citizens are doing thrifty strokes of business and practice in their respective lines. Among the familiar names are those of Messrs. Walton & Bird, wholesale and retail hardware merchants; Clurton & Boughton, real estate agents, and Mr. F. E. Bernham, barrister and real estate dealer.

RAILWAY NOTES.

A splendid new station of the Midland is to be built at Orillia.

According to the Madoc Review the west pier of the Toronto and Ottawa bridge over Deer creek at that place is nearly finished.

There will be required 1000 men for the work to be begun shortly on the Toronto and Ottawa R. R. from Bridgewater to Perth.

The steam navvy is doing big work on the missing link at Fowler's cut. The excavator never gets drunk nor goes on strike.

The express business over the Midland is to be done, the coming year, on commission on the quantity of stuff carried over the line. In this, as in every other respect, the traffic has greatly increased.

According to the Globe Mr. White, Traffic Agent of the Midland Railway, has been in Chicago negotiating arrangements for through freight from that place west by way of Midland and over the Midland Railway.

During the past year the Midland has used 11,933 cords of wood to supply fuel to sixteen locomotives, as against 7,133 cords to supply eleven locomotives three years ago. The current year will result in a very large increase in fuel consumption.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. J. R. Mullin, a wholesale merchant who formerly held a seat in the City Council, has been nominated as the Liberal candidate for the Centre division of Montreal.

Mr. James Bethune, Q.C., is a possible Reform candidate for Stormont, but nothing definite has been determined. Mr. Bethune is an able and capable politician, and ought to make a strong candidate.

The East Grey Reform Convention chose Mr. Peter Christie, of St. Vincent, to contest the Riding for the Commons. Mr. Christie is a representative farmer.

Mr. Guthrie, Reform member for South Wellington, will not again run for that constituency. Like a good many more M. P's, he has found that an honest representative, if a business man, is a loser by going to Ottawa.

As we predicted, Mr. Bunting has fled from Welland, and will try one of the Toronto. The Mail manager knew he had no chance of re-election in a constituency whose population had become so thoroughly disgusted with his public career. Dr. John Ferguson, Niagara Falls, has been nominated to lead the forlorn hope.

Mr. C. E. Britton was elected Reform standard-bearer for South Leeds, at the Convention in Gananoque yesterday. Mr. Britton is well-known and popular in the constituency. D. F. Jones, the sitting Tory member for the Riding, declined to accept the nomination, and Mr. Geo. Taylor was selected in his place.

There was a lively time at the Tory meeting at Montreal west. Henry Balmer and Col. Stevenson both wish to run and neither will retire. A committee selected Col. Stevenson, and at the meeting so reported. A motion was made for the adoption of the report, when a counter motion was made to amend the report by substituting the name of Henry Balmer. Confusion followed. The Balmer party wanted a vote, while the show of hands was called for by Colonel Stevenson. Then a division was called for. In the interim the party called each other hard names, and some members of the party charged Mr. Balmer with having spoken in a sneering manner of the Conservative juniors. R. D. McGibbon, for the juniors, told the senior Tories that when the party was in Opposition they were not to be seen anywhere. He also charged some of the manufacturers with having been Reformers when the latter were in power and Conservatives to-day. At length the meeting adjourned until Saturday evening.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

PETERBOROUGH, May 23rd, 1882.

There is very little doing in grain, as farmers are busy at their spring work. The grain offering sells as follows:—Spring wheat, $1.36 to $1.37; fall $1.35 to $1.36 Gandier wheat, $1.50 to $1 17. Barley, very little offering; quait at 65 to 70c. Peas are scarce, selling 75 to 80c. Oats are more plentiful and lower, 45c being about the outside price.

ON THE MARKET.

the principal offerings are butter, eggs and potatoes. Butter is very slow and plentiful from 14 to 16c. Eggs are plentiful, and hotly looked after by shippers, 13 to 15c being freely paid. Eggs are higher this season of the year than they have been for many years. The principal offerings in fresh meat is veal, which is rather dull from 5c to 7c. Mutton brings 7 to 8c. Chickens, 45c to 60c per pair. A few turkey gobblers offering, which are not in favor, but are disposed of from 75c to $1.00. Potatoes continue firm, and in most cases bring $1 do per bag. Other commodities unchanged. Wood will soon be in the market, and from the depressed state of carded combing wool in the United States, it will be safe to say that 20c will be the opening price.

OTTAWA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Saturday evening, at 6 o'clock the Canada Gazette was issued, containing the Governor-General's proclamation dissolving Parliament. The writs for the election of a new Parliament have also been issued, dated May 18th, and returnable on the 7th of August. The nominations in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are fixed for the 13th of June and the polling day for the 20th June, so that in less than one month the political fight will be practically over, all but counting up the number of the slain.

OVERSHOT THE MARK.

The Government and their friends here, both local and sessional comers and goers, at first thought they had fixed things; hived the Grits, as they said, by the Redistribution Bill, so as to make their continuance in power, with a majority from Ontario at their back, sure and certain. It did not matter that that majority was to be elected by a minority of the whole people; that was the intention, and showed just where the smart statesmanship came in. They did not, however, count on the people of Ontario being so thoroughly aroused by the injustice and infamy of the measure and the disgust and loathing with which every honest right-minded man must regard it. They failed, also, to recognise the fact that there are a very large number of electors throughout the country who are not, strictly speaking, party men; who sometimes go one way, sometimes the other, as between the two great political parties. Take the election after the Pacific scandal, when Sir John was so entirely routed, and the notable contest of 1878, when Mr. Mackenzie was just as badly beaten. A very large mass of voters must have changed front between these two contests, immediately following each other. They have also predicated their gerrymandering changes largely on the abnormal contest of 1878, and now they begin to understand that they have made a mistake and overshot the mark.

NO HONEST MAN CAN BE FOUND

to defend the Gerrymandering Act, and friends as well as foes, in their sober quiet moments, condemn it. Some think, and their supporters try to excuse it by saying that Mr. Mowat had done the same thing; even if he had, it would hardly do to bolster up Tory acts by saying they got the copy from the miserable Grits, but when the statement is untrue, it shows the shifts to which they are driven.

The friends of the Government here are much alarmed at the way the campaign has opened thus far. They are manifested in the Reform ranks all over the country. Their surprise at that is only equalled by their surprise at the coldness and supineness of the supporters of the Government.

CAPITAL POLITICS.

In this city, it has often been said, the Reform party could not elect a pound-keeper, and yet, in this contest, the Reform candidates are carrying all before them, and it is conceded that only the most desperate efforts of the Government can save their candidates from defeat. This is no mere bounce, as events will, I am confident, prove. Our friends fully recognise the nature of the fight they have undertaken, and will fight manfully. The candidates who are opposed to them are backed by the Government. They are unscrupulous, and fertile in tricks, and the manufacture of that basest of lies, a half told truth. Macintosh, the contract broker, the man who was held up to public execration in the printing contract business, and the man that young Whitehead said, before the precious Railway Commission, had squeezed a large sum out of his father, as payment for his influence in bringing pressure to bear upon the Government. This is the man the Ottawa Tories delight to honor. Well, no, I take that back; they do not, as a body, delight to honor him; that would be too degrading; but there is a clique of grabbers of small sops from the Government kitchen who back him, intending to use him when the time comes; they shoved the respectable men on one side, and a packed convention gave him the nomination. An instance in point: There was organized in 1878, what they called the

YOUNG MEN'S LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION

and it had for its president a young law student named Stewart, a member of a wealthy family here, made so, principally, by the rise in the value of real estate. Well, this needy young man thought he had rendered great assistance in saving the country by helping to put in power the present Government, and he, thoughtful patriot that he was, thought that he should get paid.

He is supposed to have some influence in the county of Russell, so he brought pressure to bear on the Postmaster General, who sits for Russell, and that gentleman kindly gives him a contract to make some boxes. This young worker in the Conservative ranks, who was so very anxious about the good and welfare of the workingman of Ottawa, in 1878, appears to have forgotten them in 1882, and sent to Montreal, where they had better apparatus for making boxes, to have the contract filled. Purchasing in the cheapest market, and as there was no tender, he no doubt sold in the dearest, and one patriotic soul was for the time being satisfied. We have a lot of patriots like him about here, but the working people, what there is left of them, are finding them out, and are not to be gulled any longer. But that is the kind of men who nominated the contract-broker.

TOO SANGUINE.

It was said that every county east of Kingston was safe for the Government, but to the utter surprise of the Tories, an Opposition candidate will be found in every county, and so far they have met with great encouragement. Cheerful news comes from Renfrew, North and South. Glengarry is another, and her old tried friend, Hon. D. A. Macdonald, will no doubt redeem her. Albert Hogan will give a good account of Prescott and Russell has intimated to the Hon. J. O'Connor that he had better pack up his valise and go west, and risk another constituency. This county will be redeemed by W. C. Edwards, the head of the Rideau firm of lumbermen. They are the largest concern in the county, and employ most labor. He is a young man of great energy, and very first rate business talents, as shown by the marked success that has attended the concern under his management.

The friends of

REFORM IN THE OTTAWA VALLEY

are greatly encouraged by the enthusiasm manifested for the cause in the west. Go ahead and do your duty in the Peterboroughs, and send men of principle to represent you. I know, Mr. Editor, you will do your duty, but every Reformer should, so to speak, consecrate this month to work for his country and good government, and redeem it from the corruptionists that are riding it to ruin and dishonor. This gerrymandering teaches the idea that every trick is fair in politics. Old men, do you want your sons to grow up with the idea that there is

NO HONOR IN POLITICS,

and that it is only knaves that can prosper in political life. Sir John Macdonald has done more to educate the young men of this country—educate did I say? no, debauch them, by inculcating this idea, by himself practising every kind of dishonorable trick his debauched mind could suggest. Let all who would desire to see the political life of our country established on honorable principles to send men to support Edward Blake, the tribune of the people.

WORK AS THEY NEVER WORKED BEFORE

Aside from the political life, manifested through the election contest, Ottawa is dull. The members have all fled to their counties, and their absence, with the camp followers, makes a very marked difference in our streets. The fashionable season has closed, and our wealthy families are making preparations for their summer trips.

The Globe's correspondent made mention of the fact that the Speaker of the Senate has been treating himself to a at the public expense. As the Globe man is in a little error, I will give you full particulars, derived from authentic sources. Let me first premise that the Speaker of the Senate has been irreverently called "Jumbo," and as Barnum's Jumbo being a big elephant carried a big trunk, our Canadian "Jumbo," being a ponderous writer of renown, and boss Senator also, wanted a big valise. So he ordered one, price £12.10 stg., ($62) payable out of contingencies. The meanness of the latter transaction will be more forcibly brought out by your readers being informed that during the Speakership of the Hon. Mr. Cauchon he ordered some table glassware for the Speaker's apartments. Our "Jumbo" being then writing, or paying somebody else to write pamphlets on the extravagance of the Grit Government, refused to pay for the glassware, which would have remained the property of the Senate. Naturally being like Brutus, an honorable man, the boss Senator will leave that despatch box behind after the elections are over, and he retires to the quiet of private life. Verily, it makes a very great difference whose ox is gored.

NEW DESPATCH BOX,

RAILWAY.

At the request of a number of the leading gentlemen of Norwood, the Directors of the Ontario & Quebec Railway have consented to allow a re-survey of their line through this vicinity, for the purpose of making a change in the route, so as to run through the village. For the past few days a surveying party has been making the necessary soundings of the "little lakes" in the road, and surveying the country on each side of the village, so as to secure an available route. This, the surveyors say, will be accomplished without any difficulty, and slightly reduce the length of line, as well as, with the exception of an increase of grade on the approach to the village from the west, give a straighter line than the one previously laid out by the former surveying party. The company is certainly performing a very praiseworthy part in thus complying with the wishes of our villagers, who also deserve praise for the highly commendable and prompt manner in which they responded to the call for substantial aid to induce the company to make this very desirable change for their benefit. With the recent announcements made in the daily papers, concerning the prospects and intentions of the Ontario & Quebec Railway, all doubt regarding the construction of the road has vanished, and ere long we expect to see work vigorously prosecuted on the road.

COURT OF REVISION.

The Court of Revision for the municipality met on Monday last, when considerable changes were made on the assessment of some of our ratepayers, and consequently a number of hearty complaints and anathemas are frequently heard from those who have been properly compelled to add a trifle more to our exchequer in the shape of taxes.

DISTRICT MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro' District of the Methodist Church of Canada was held here on Tuesday and Wednesday last. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Mr. Shaw, of Peterborough, chairman of the District. There was a large gathering of lay and clerical gentlemen from the different stations on the District, and a considerable amount of business was transacted. A public meeting was held on Tuesday evening, when the church was well filled from the community generally. The services were of an interesting character, and an elegant address was delivered by one of the visiting clergymen. All the visitors spoke in high terms of praise to the attention bestowed upon them by the people of Norwood.

BOWMANVILLE.

Bowmanville has five taverns and two shop licenses this year and the rest of the license districts fourteen hotels and one shop.

Bowmanville has a Philarmonic society. Practice has begun with J. Green as director.

Millbrook beat Bowmanville at lacrosse on the 24th.

Jas. McFeeters has been appointed Returning Officer for West Durham.

The General Election.

The general election is now on the tapis. It may perhaps be a useful hint to intimate that an absolute need at the polls may be obtained by the judicious distribution to the electors of PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, the great remedy for corns. Every sufferer would be made happy, and would certainly vote for the person affording them relief. Safe, sure, painless. Beware of dangerous substitutes. 20

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

BIRD NESTING.

A mania for collecting coins, stamps, bird eggs, &c., has taken hold of the boys of our village, but they are not aware that they are liable to punishment for destroying the nests or eggs of insectivorous birds. Chapter 201 of the Consolidated Statutes imposes a fine of from one to twenty dollars for each offence. So, look out, boys!

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

The 24th passed very quietly in our village. The stores were all closed, and numbers of our citizens went to town, up the lake, or away visiting friends, so the streets looked deserted.

RUNAWAY.

A number of our Conservative friends went down to Norwood on Tuesday morning to attend the Convention there. They felt very enthusiastic and the horses seemed to share the feeling, or else were grittish and did not want to go. Shortly before the time to start they bolted off on their own hook and ran some distance down the river road and turned into the swamps, where they were secured without any damage being done.

SANITARY.

The health Inspector is now on the warpath seeing that the yards, &c. are clean. While the council compels the removing of all rubbish, &c. from the yards, they do not provide any place to deposit it. It has been usual to deposit all refuse on the bank of the river below the old lime kiln but several who reside in that vicinity or have to pass, are talking of putting a stop to the practice, so it will puzzle many what to do. Were the Council to build a rough stone kiln on the river bank each person could burn up their refuse which would do away with the present objections and would do better for all concerned. It need not cost but a trifle.

STEAMER CRUSIER.

The steamer Crusier, is kept at work night and day towing logs and bringing down wood from the upper lakes. We understand that arrangements will shortly be made to have one or two excursion days each week so that parties in town or Millbrook can come up on the train in the morning, visit Burleigh and Mount Julian as well as see the beauties of Stony Lake and return by the train in the afternoon. Parties who trust themselves to Captain Secret's care will have no cause for complaint.

FORESTER'S.

The regular meeting of Court Lakefield No. 43 C. O. F., was held in the Union hall on Thursday evening, the 25th ult.

FIRE.

On Monday about noon, a dense, black smoke in the north part of the Village gave notice to our citizens that a fire was in progress. For a time it was considered to be brush; but the English Church bell soon gave the note of alarm and all hurried to render such assistance as was in their power. The fire proved to be in the large lumbering stables of Ross & Co. One of the men managed to get the horses out, but the harness and a large quantity of hay and oats went, together with the building. Two dwelling houses near by were on fire several times, but by hard work with the little hand engines they were saved. The cause of the fire is unknown and as Mr. Wigg is from home I cannot learn what insurance, if any, is on the property destroyed.

ORANGE.

The regular meeting of L.O.L. No. 122 will be held in the Orange Hall next Monday evening the 5th inst., and the semi-annual meeting of the Lakefield District L.O.L. will be held in the same place on the evening of the 7th, Wednesday.

MASONIC.

The regular meeting of Clementi Lodge No. 313 will be held in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening the 6th inst.

FISHING.

Our sportsmen are having a good time with the finny tribe at present. Several splendid maskinonge have been caught with the rod in the rapids below the mill, and it is no trouble to get a good string of bass.

FINED.

Three farmers from Ennismore were up before John Hull, Esq., one day last week charged by the local fishery officer with spearing. They were fined $8 and costs each, and now conclude that a fish diet don't pay when obtained illegally.

ELECTIONS.

So far there is very little excitement in the Village over the coming elections, but as Messrs Hilliard and Burnham hold meetings to-night and Mr. Roxburgh on Saturday evening, we may soon expect things to be at a fever heat.

DARING.

A well known individual was observed a few days since going down the main street with a spear in his hand, evidently not having the fear of the law before his eyes, and the Inspector in the Village, too. That is what I would call "bearding the lion in his den" with a vengeance.

CRICKET.

At a meeting held on May the 25th, for the purpose of organizing a cricket club for the Village of Lakefield, the following officers were elected for the season:—President, R. C. Strickland; Vice-President, A. J. Wright; Secretary and Treasurer, W. D. Strickland; Captain, James Watson. Managing Committee: L. Lillicrap, R. C. Strickland, James Watson, F. Dinwoodie, G. A. Strickland.

LINDSAY.

Samuel Irwin of Lindsay, one of the strongest Tory partisans in the province has been appointed Returning Officer for the riding of North Victoria.

The Lindsay sidewalks are not smooth and safe enough for bicycling.

A reward of $20 has been offered for the conviction of the shade tree destroyers.

Mr. G. H. Hopkins, of Hopkins & Martin, will sail for England shortly for the benefit of his health.

The hanging signs have been pretty well removed.

The promoters of the Manitoba South-Eastern Railway Company have applied for running powers over the C. P. R. This, it is thought, will force the hand of the Syndicate.

April 13th, 1882

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JNUE 1, 1882.

Mr. Burnham's Address.

Mr. John Burnham has consented to "offer himself as a candidate for the House of Commons." His platform is not very broad, the biggest plank in it being borrowed from the words used by the Governor-General in proroguing Parliament, put into his mouth by Sir John Macdonald. In this paragraph the manifest failure of the N. P. is practically conceded. Yet in spite of its failure, as confessed by it's concocter, Mr. Burnham frankly declares himself in favor of maintaining it. He is also in favor of the early and rapid construction of the Canada Pacific Railway. One cannot doubt this when his anxiety is shown by his voting to give a foreign company three million dollars in money and three million acres of land more for its construction than was necessary, and that much more than a bona fide Canadian company was willing to build it for. He is in favor of the rapid development of the North-West, although he declares his adhesion to the government, that is doing its very best by its mischievous land regulations and manipulation of public lands, to retard the settlement and development of that great country—the Government whose high-handed disallowance of Manitoba railway legislation adds another link to the chain of monopoly, in which the half-Yankee Syndicate has bound our North-West with the power and purpose of imposing the most odious and burdensome restrictions on travel and trade traffic, and which is every day placing new stumbling blocks in the way of the actual settler and, consequently in the way of the real and practical "development of our North-West Territories," which Mr. Burnham professes to be so much in favor of. A man professes to be your friend and neighbour, yet he allows robbers to enter your premises and bind you and spoil your goods. Mr. B is opposed to any action in the direction of Independence or separation from the British Crown." He is here supposed to darkly allude to Mr. Blake's resolutions in favor of Canada making her own Commercial Treaties. If he is opposed to this he must also be opposed to the action that has taken place "in the direction of Independence," as implied in our possessing the extent of self-government, represented by the political rights we now possess, which do not tend to independence one whit more than the patriotic resolutions of Mr. Blake. To call these attempts to secure to ourselves the making of our own Commercial Treaties, "the direction of Independence," is mere claptrap, and Mr. Burnham and his quondam constituents know it. He is in favour of the Trent Valley Canal—so is Mr. Roxburgh, so is Mr. Blake, and so are we all. In that respect Mr. Burnham is not an exceptionally conspicuous monument of interest in local matters, and his arrogating to himself and party all credit for interest in the work is more mere claptrap. It has taken him four years to bring his interest in this great local matter to any practical issue, and then only in the shape of a sham appropriation just before the elections. The gist of Mr. Burnham's address is that he will, if re-elected, stick to the government, with the same injurious fidelity that has marked his past four years in the house, and, most lame and impotent conclusion, he "trusts" that the policy he advocates will justify the electors in again electing him as their representative. If the trust he has in the electors is no stronger than the trust he has inspired in them, his hopes of being returned cannot be of the brightest.

Vote for Roxburgh, and have cheap Fuel, Clothing and Food.

The exports of England have grown since 1846 from fifty-two millions per year to two hundred and twenty three millions in 1880. Yet England has no N.P. to bolster up her manufacturers.

Editorial Notes.

Mr. John Burnham in his address, carefully avoids any reference to the unparalleled iniquity of the gerrymander outrage, the Boundary Award matter, the vetoed bills, or any other live issue. He insults the intelligence of the electorate by trying to force on their belief that the Governor-General in propria personæ, used the language, quoted by Mr. Burnham, with regard to good times. Any man who has the slightest knowledge of political matters, knows that the words were only official nonsense, put by Sir John Macdonald into his Excellency's official mouth. Mr. Burnham, however, is not really to blame, he is only faithfully carrying out the policy of the government he supports—the government of dishonest pretences.

Thos. Thompson is a Toronto merchant. In his advertisement in the Globe he remarks:

I make mention of this particularly because of the immense quantities of "showy, worthless stuff" now imported by wholesale houses, and sold to retailers in this city and to peddlers and country merchants throughout Canada; and as these goods pay a large profit to the dealer a thousand and one devices are employed to sell them. This is partially in consequence of the iniquitous customs duty—or tariff—levied against pure staple every-day goods—a tariff so framed as to make a few manufacturers rich at the people's expense, and also bearing heavier against the poor man than the rich. This statement I make from no political standpoint, but from a positive knowledge of the business that I am engaged in, and the goods that I am daily handling.

This is the fact. Our shoddy Government encourages the use of shoddy. The tariff discriminates against the poor and in favor of the rich. Let the rich support it; the poor will take care of their own interests at the polls.

The Government of Sir John A. Macdonald has corruptly given the power of oppression to the Pacific Railway Syndicate, and nobody ever thought for a moment that the latter would hesitate to use it. As quickly as the proper time—to them—comes, the screws are put on with unrelenting persistence. In witness: Before the Syndicate got possession of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railroad the rate for a grain car from Ottawa to Montreal was $14. The moment the Syndicate got control of it, the rate is advanced from $14 to $28 or $29. Thus the farmer enriches a grasping monopoly by paying them five cents on a bushel of the 550 bushels that compose a car-load, which amount is, of course, taken from the price which the farmer would otherwise get. And yet it is the Government that saddled this gigantic swindle upon the country, that has the assurance to call itself the farmer's friend and to ask the farmers to return it to power, and give it another chance of flaying the honest agriculturist alive.

The Ottawa Free Press supplies the following epitome of the Tory battle cries at the coming elections:

"The Tories ask the electors to vote for Railway Monopoly!

Contract Farming!
Contract Broking!
Patronage Peddling!
Nepotism!
Gerrymandering!

The Tories also ask the electors to vote for taxation

On Bread!
On Pork!
On Coal!
On Coal Oil!
On Salt!

In like manner they demand the electors to support discriminating taxes

On the Poor Man's woolens!
On the Poor Man's cottons!
On the Poor Man's blankets!
On the Poor Man's boots and shoes!

This is the Tory programme that a few persons, who have piled up enormous wealth at the expense of the people, call upon the electors to sustain.

How wildly enthusiastic must they expect our people to be when they unfold their banners bearing these soul-stirring devices!

The people are called upon to vote for the abolition of taxes on bread, coal, meal, pork and salt. Those who believe that these infamous taxes should be abolished are asked to vote for Liberal candidates.

The Review quotes from the Napanee Standard to the effect that the Napanee Glass Works have received an order for a ship load of glass to be sent to Manitoba, and that the works are so pressed with orders that it will be some time before they can fill this last one, if at all. The Review calls this "more of the stagnation caused by the oft quoted National Policy." Of course the N. P. is directly responsible for this state of affairs, but it is not surprising that a protective duty of 30 per cent. should exclude other glass and make a demand on the execution of the Glass Works beyond their capacity. The former tax of twenty per cent. on window glass was not enough to "press with orders," but the moment the 10 per cent. additional was added—enough to exclude foreign glass—there was a rush of orders that would naturally tax the capacity of the Napanee Glass Works. The result is that the price of glass is largely increased, and persons all over Canada who contemplate building will feel that they have to pay for the prosperity of a manufacturing establishment fattened by a prohibitory tariff. Of course, Mr. John Herring is a shrewd business man, and taking a business view of the matter, takes advantage of his chance to enhance the price of glass. The peculiar beauty of the N.P. is that it makes one man rich and "pressed with orders," while all who use his wares must tax their own income to contribute to the bank account of the monopolist. Glass is a necessity and the public must have it if the price is doubled. The essence of the "oft quoted"—and oft cursed—National Policy" is to enrich the few at the expense of the many.

Notes of the Day.

The persecution of the Jews in Russia still continues, and the misery and sufferings of these poor unfortunates is indescribable. At Brody ten thousand are without shelter, and there are fresh arrivals daily. The population is unable to afford refuge and further relief. The wealthier classes are forming secret clubs to facilitate emigration in large numbers. Ignatieff, it is rumoured, will resign the Ministry of the Interior, owing to his defeat on the Jewish question. His object is to accelerate Jewish emigration, and to drive them out of the country. Owing to the loss this will likely bring to the exchequer, the Minister of Finance strongly objects to such a scheme—hence the division in the Cabinet. The damage done by the anti-Jewish movement amounts to $110,000,000, all lost to Russia. This includes damage to property, and money taken away by emigration, but not the losses which might be added, resulting from the prevention of labor and profit, and the general stagnation of trade.

We had occasion, recently, to refer to the opium trade with China, for which the British Government is responsible, and which is producing considerable agitation at present in England. It now appears that the use of this noxious drug is becoming very extensive in the United States. A calculation has been made which states that not less than ten out of every thousand of the population in the domains of Uncle Sam, use the deadly narcotic in some form or other. No country in the world, with the exception of China, suffers more terribly from the curse. Fashionable ladies use opium very extensively. The giddy round of pleasure and amusement must be kept up at any cost, and so, to enable them to do so, recourse is had to opium as a stimulant. It is a sad thought that 500,000 persons in the United States, most of them women, are in the habit of using opium—three fourths of them constantly, the remainder occasionally. It will now be in order to commence a crusade against opium here, as they are doing in England with regard to its exportation from India. No one can doubt but its use leads to more real misery and suffering than even accrues from the giant evil of intemperence.

St. Margaret's Church, within a few paces of Westminster Abbey, was recently the scene of a very interesting event, and one which ought to be specially attractive to printers everywhere. A memorial window was erected there, in honor of William Caxton, the father of English printing. Its cost, amounting to $2,150, was met by the pennies of London compositors. The design of the window, which is a triplet, is very beautiful. On one side is the venerable Bede in his cell, dictating the last words of his translation of St. John. On the other, Erasmus revising the earliest sheets of what became the precursor of the Reformation, and in the centre is a figure of Caxton himself. The motto in the glass is the words "Fiat Lux," "Let there be Light" and these words formed the text of a sermon preached by Canon Farrar on the occasion referred to, viz., the dedication of the window in honor of Caxton, whose first attempt at setting up type in England, was made within a few hundred yards of where the window now stands. Canon Farrar's sermon was, as usual, a masterpiece of brilliant thought and elegant English. He spoke highly of the press, and of its efforts in advancing the cause of truth. He said the printing press had brought light into mediæval dungeons, and destroyed the instruments of torture. It was the press which had made the nation free and strong, and the same power had shaken the thrones of tyranny and persecution. He quoted, with approval, Sheridan's words: "Give them a corrupt House of Lords, a venal House of Commons, and a tyrannical Prince, and let me have an unfettered press and I will DEFY them to encroach on the liberties of England."

A mandement, or pastoral letter, issued by Bishop Fabre, has called forth much comment in Protestant circles throughout the province of Quebec, and particularly in Montreal. The Bishop takes somewhat strong grounds regarding intercourse between Roman Catholics and Protestants—indeed, so much is this the case that some of his adherents say it is impossible to observe the rules laid down He forbids Roman Catholics to discuss religious matters with Protestants, lest the prejudices, false ideas, or sophistical reasonings which are the strongholds of the latter, (as he declares) should make a conquest of people of obscure intelligence. Roman Catholic servants are to abstain from taking portion in Protestant prayers with their masters. They must not attend Protestant baptisms, marriages, sacraments or any Protestant ceremony. No Protestant is to be invited to take part as a pall bearer at the funerals of Roman Catholics, and none of the latter may enter Protestant churches, houses or ceremonies to participate in the funeral rites or ceremonies. The pastoral also contains many other particulars respecting the behaviour of the faithful, but these are sufficient to show the spirit which actuates Mgr. Fabre. Whatever may be the result of such strict commands, we hope it will not prevent the exercise of fervent charity on the part of both Protestants and Roman Catholics. Though they differ in religious matters, there is no reason why their intercourse in business, commerce or politics, should not be tempered with patience, forbearance and a tolerant spirit, so that they may dwell together in peace and love, practise brotherly kindness and mutual good-will.

The Czar of Russia will be crowned on Sep 6, at Moscow.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBORO'

Gentlemen:—

Having accepted the unanimous nomination of a very large and influential Convention to become the candidate to represent the Liberal Party in the pending elections for the House of Commons, I take the usual way of addressing you and soliciting your influence and votes.

Never in the history of Canada were the rights and privileges of the people in such danger of being undermined, and rendered nugatory by the efforts of Quebec to control the Conservative Premier and Cabinet, with an united determination to destroy the influence of Ontario in the Counsels of the Dominion. To this end the Boundary Award, fixed by three of the most distinguished arbitrators that could be selected, has been ignored, and sought to be set aside, by Sir John A. Macdonald, urged by Langevin and the Bleus of Quebec, with a view to depriving Ontario of her territory, 100,000 square miles, and the revenue of one hundred and twenty-five million dollars, the sum which the pine alone is estimated to be worth, to say nothing of the other valuable timber and minerals, and resulting in a loss to Ontario of over $300 of property to every man, woman and child in the Province, in respect to timber alone. Not satisfied with robbing us of our property, they have vetoed the Legislation of our Local Government, elected also by you to manage our own affairs, and this at the nod or beck of a political supporter and partizan.

And still more bent on the overthrow of the influence of Ontario, they have cut and carved the Municipalities (of Ontario only) so as, if possible, to prevent the return of Reformers, in order that they may be able to carry out their designs in Contract Letting, depriving the people of their North-west possessions by handing them over to an unscrupulous syndicate, and refusing to give the contract to Canadians, by which 3,000,000 acres of land and $3,000,000 would have been saved to the country and treasury, and their interferring with the rightful political autonomy of Manitoba in the disallowance of the Manitoba and South-Eastern Railway charter, thereby refusing to allow that Province to have more than one outlet to the southward, with enormous railway rates and incapacity of traffic accomodation which they are at present subjected to by a foreign corporation; and now fearing the day of retribution, they are springing the elections on the people a year before their term of office has expired, lest a year's more accumulated misrule and jobbery should ensure their complete overthrow at the polls.

It is not necessary for me, gentlemen, to tell you that if elected I shall seek to have these wrongs redressed by voting against all measures not founded on justice and economy. I will seek, if elected, to limit outlay and prevent the necessity for such enormous taxes as we are compelled to pay under the N.P. regime. I will do my utmost to prevent the increase of monopolies which are enriched out of your hard earnings, and I will seek to limit the expenditure of the Government merely to meet the absolutely necessary requirements of the Dominion.

I shall consider it not only a duty but a pleasure to support by my vote and influence, the construction of that vitally important enterprise, the Trent Valley Canal, recognizing in it a work that will not only specially result in the increased prosperity of this district, but also in the promotion of the trade interests of the Dominion in general, by perfecting the important series of works that will make our internal water-ways a perpetual source of commercial convenience.

While giving a free support to the Reform party, I will ever reserve the right to vote on all matters as in my judgment will best serve the interests of our country.

I will endeavour to call on you, if time will permit, before polling day. In the meantime I solicit your influence and votes to elect me to go to strengthen the hands of those noble men who have so energetically sought to stay misgovernment; to ease the burdens of the people; and to prevent the corruption in contract letting that has prevailed at Ottawa under Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE'S ADDRESS.

A Reform Manifesto.

Below we republish the address recently issued to the electors of West Durham by Hon. Edward Blake, the great leader of the Reform party in Canada. The address is something more than a mere statement of platform and policy to the electors of the riding; it is a declaration of the principles on which the Reformers of Canada intend to contest the coming election. It is a brilliant, comprehensive, patriotic appeal to the heart of every man to whom the welfare of his country is dear:

TO THE FREE AND INDEPENDENT ELECTORS OF WEST DURHAM.

GENTLEMEN,—The Government, which but a brief space since was craving a longer trial before judgment, has prematurely dissolved Parliament, and precipitated a general election.

For what reason? Because it felt that it would be weaker next year than it is to-day, and that its only chance of victory lay in a surprise! But it has not ventured to appeal to the constituency of 1878. It has packed the jury.

By an iniquitous measure it has concentrated in a few districts large numbers of Liberal voters, in order to weaken the effective Reform strength in many ridings, to impair the prospects of election of leading Liberals, and, if possible, to turn a minority of the people into a majority in Parliament.

For these purposes it has discarded the county bounds, disturbed the electoral districts, and violated long-standing associations of friendship, business and convenience throughout the greater part of Ontario.

But even this was not enough.

Repealing the law which makes sheriffs and registrars the returning-officers, it has taken power to appoint where it pleases its own nominees to do its work, and so to re-enact the scenes of ten years ago, when men defeated at the polls in Muskoka and West Peterborough were made into members of Parliament by the will of these officials.

Such acts are subversive of these principles of justice, equality and fair play on which our constitution rests, and which give a moral sanction to the law.

They show that Government, notwithstanding all its boasts, feels itself beaten in a fair fight; and so attempts foul play.

We are appealing to all good men, without distinction of party, to rebuke this gross abuse of power; and to show its authors that, though they may exchange townships and cut up counties as they like, the votes of the electors on whom they count cannot be transferred to the supporters of iniquities like these.

We are calling not only for an enthusiastic, vigorous and organised effort on the part of Reformers, but also for the support of many, heretofore indifferent or hostile, who will yet decline to become accomplices in this transaction. And our call is answered! Such a spirit has been aroused among the people at large as I have not seen before—such a spirit as warrants the belief that the attempt will fail of its base purpose, and will recoil with just severity on the heads of the concocters and supporters of the plot.

On what do the Government ask a renewal of your confidence?

On a record of broken pledges and of added burdens.

They promised that they would not increase the rate of taxation; they have enormously increased it.

They denounced the former scale of expenditure; they have largely raised it.

They declaimed against the additions which were made to the public charge in order to carry out a policy and engagements settled under their own former rule, and left by them as legacies to their successors in 1873. They have greatly added to that charge; and have, as far as in them lay, ensured the recurrence of a period of severe financial difficulty and distress.

They boast of an increased revenue: due, so far as they are concerned, to increased taxation only.

They boast of an enlarged prosperity; due not to them, but to the general revival of trade throughout the world, to large products at home, and high prices abroad.

They pride themselves on their Pacific Railway contract. I condemn that bargain as improper, being made in secret, without public tender, contrary to the existing policy of the people and of Parliament, and opposed to the provisions of the law. I condemn it as extravagant, since the enterprise will cost us sixty million dollars and twenty-five million acres of the choicest lands, while the road is to belong to the company which will realise the cost of its part of the work out of its land and money subsidies.

I condemn it as outrageous, in conferring on the company a practical monopoly, for twenty years, of the trade of our North-West Territories, and large privileges and exemptions, very valuable to them and still more detrimental to the public.

I condemn it as indefensible, being consummated in the face of a tender to perform the same obligations for three million dollars less money, for three million acres less land, without the monopoly of trade, without the exemptions from taxation, and on other conditions more favourable than those of the contract.

I condemn it as premature, since the true policy was to provide for the rapid completion of the line from Thunder Bay and for the immediate construction of railways through the prairie, and by assuring the early development and settlement of the North-West, to give added value to our lands and a prospect of trifle for the road before commencing for the completion of the eastern and western ends.

The progress of the North-West is due to the work we did and propose to do.

The difficulties and drawbacks which exist, very serious now and far more serious in the future, are due to the obnoxious terms of the contract.

One short year has vindicated our policy. Who can doubt that, had it been adopted, we could to-day make a bargain for the undertaking under which it would be completed as soon, and on terms infinitely better than those to which we are now committed? The Government and Parliament declined to give you an opportunity of deciding on the question. We have now to ask the popular judgment on the men who refused that opportunity and consummated that contract.

You know well that I do not approve of needless restrictions on our liberty of exchanging what we have for what we want, and do not see that any substantial application of the restrictive principle has been, or can be, made in favor of the great interests of the mechanic, the labourer, the farmer, the lumberman, the shipbuilder, or the fisherman. But you know also that I have fully recognised the fact that we are obliged to raise yearly a great sum, made greater by the obligations imposed on us by this Government; and that we must continue to provide this yearly sum mainly by import duties, laid to a large extent on goods similar to those which can be manufactured here; and that it results as a necessary incident of our settled fiscal system, that there must be a large, and as I believe, in the view of moderate protectionists, an ample advantage to the home manufacturer.

Our adversaries wish to present to you an issue as between the present tariff and absolute free trade.

This is not the true issue.

Free trade is, as I have repeatedly explained, for us impossible; and the issue is whether the present tariff is perfect or defective and unjust.

I believe it to be in some important respects defective and unjust.

We expressed our views last session in four motions, which declare that articles of such prime necessity as fuel and breadstuffs should be free; that the sugar duties should be so adjusted as to relieve the consumer from some part of the enormous extra price he is now liable to pay a few refiners; that the exorbitant and unequal duties on the lower grades of cotton and woollens should be so changed as to make them fairer to the masses, who now pay on the cheapest goods taxes about twice as great in proportion as those which the rich pay on the finest goods; and that the duties on such an article as iron, which is in universal use, should be reduced, so as to enable the home manufacturer, to whom it is the raw material, to produce cheaper goods, for the benefit of his home consumer, and the encouragement of his foreign trade.

I believe that by changes of the character I have indicated, monopoly and extravagant prices would be checked, a greater measure of fair play and justice to all classes would be secured, and the burden of taxation would be better adjusted to the capacity of the people who are to pay.

Depend upon it, a day will come when by sharp and bitter experience we shall learn the truth; and many who even now applaud will then condemn these particular incidents of the tariff.

But I believe that our brief experience has already convinced many former supporters of the need of amendment; and that a majority of the intelligent electors are in favor of such modifications, in the direction I have pointed out, as may be made with due regard to the legitimate interests of all concerned.

I challenge the North-west land policy of the Government, which has in various forms given facilities for speculation, whereby great areas of the choicest lands are falling into the hands of middlemen, who will hold them till they exact from the immigrant large profits, thus at once retarding the development of the country and lessening the prosperity of the settler.

Our motto is, "The land for the settler, the price for the public!"

The report of the Civil Service Commission shows that the existing system has resulted in bad appointments, extravagant salaries, the retention of unfit officers, the discouragement of many deserving men, and great injury to the public. It shows that the true remedy is the abolition of political patronage, the substitution of appointment by merit, and the reorganisation of the system.

Agreeing in the main with these views, I believe that the new Act, which proceeds on other lines, will not remedy the admitted evils.

Provision is needed to prevent improper practices in connection with tenders and contracts for public works; but the Government has thwarted such legislation.

Those who have not forgotten the events of 1872 will know the reason why.

Our provincial rights are amongst the chief jewels of our constitution; and on their preservation rests the prosperity and the permanence of the Confederation.

Of these the most valuable—that indeed on which all else depends—is the right of effective local legislation on local affairs.

This right has been grieviously infringed by the disallowance of the Streams Act, which dealt with a subject purely local, and in no wise conflicted with the Dominion interest.

Its disallowance on the ground that in the opinion of the Federal Cabinet it was not a proper Act, creates a dangerous precedent, and asserts a power destructive of the autonomy of the Provinces.

The majority of the late Parliament sanctioned, while we denounced that disallowance.

It is now for the people to decide whether they will abandon or regain their threatened liberties.

The respective Governments some years ago submitted the boundary question to the judgment of a commission of eminent, able, and impartial men. The fact was communicated to and discussed in Parliament, and although several sessions elapsed, no adverse motion was proposed. On the contrary, Parliament, without dissent, voted the moneys necessary to carry on the reference, and thus adopted the policy.

It was the received opinion that the natural, reasonable and customary mode of settling an international question by arbitration would not be thereafter questioned.

The award was made in '78; the present Government in '79 declined to state its policy on the question; in '80 it prompted the appointment of a partisan Committee of Enquiry; in '81 it brought Manitoba into the controversy by its mode of enlarging her eastern limits; then it announced the opinion that Ontario did not comprise even her old settlements in the neighborhood of Port William; and at length, in 1882, it took courage to declare to Parliament that the award should be disregarded in order to help a struggle to continue, if possible, within them narrow bounds the limits of our Province.

The majority of the late Parliament has sanctioned, while we have condemned, this action. It is for the people to decide whether the reference and award shall be repudiated or respected.

The Senate is constituted on the principle of appointment for life by the Administration of the day, thus creating a legislative body responsible to no one, without provision to secure effective Federal representation, or the necessary degree of harmony between the two Chambers.

I think this plan defective, and out of keeping with the true principle of popular government as at this time developed.

Some would favor the abolition of the Senate; but we must not forget that on this subject the other Provinces are differently circumstanced from Ontario; and that the Senate was established as a part of the Federal system in the professed interests of the smaller Provinces.

I do not propose that this Province should be deprived of the right, which many value, of Federal representation, in the present proportions, in a second Chamber; but I would advocate the reduction of its numbers, and the election by the people of its members. Our own experience in old Canada gives proof of the wisdom of this plan.

I am in favour of a true national policy and of every measure tending to the real progress of our country and the fulfilment of its great destiny.

The other day I gave my heart and voice for the assertion of our right, as members of the empire, to express our views on the subject of Ireland, a truly Imperial question, beyond our legislative competence indeed, but in which, notwithstanding, we have from many points of view a most substantial interest; and I congratulate you on the action to which Parliament agreed.

It is a main ingredient in our national progress that we should secure a larger trade and freer access to the markets of the world.

Our efforts in this direction have hitherto been abortive.

I believe that a fuller freedom to manage for ourselves this part of our own affairs would give a better prospect of success: and, as advocates of a truly national policy, we have recorded these views in a motion, which was defeated in Parliament, but for which I ask a verdict at the polls.

Gentlemen, the occasion is a grave one.

To the people is now remitted the opportunity of judging of the conduct of its rulers and of settling the lines on which public affairs shall be conducted, for five years at any rate and mayhap for a much longer time.

I hope to be able, before the close of the election, to explain at a greater length my opinions on public affairs, but I have thought it right, at the earliest moment, to state frankly my views on some important questions as fully as is compatible with the limits of an address.

I cannot expect every one, even of my own supporters, to concur entirely in every sentiment I express.

Men's minds are not so constituted that one can hope to secure such absolute and complete assent.

It is only on a large, general, and comprehensive view that we must act. If in the main you differ from me, it is your duty to reject me as unsuited for your services; and I shall accept your decision with unfeigned respect and unbated friendship.

But if in the main you value the principles and approve the policy I have announced; if you are prepared to condemn the fraud which would cheat our people of a fair representation, the wrong which would deprive us of our Provincial rights, the injustice which would repudiate an international award, the crime which has placed our future in the hands of a great monopoly, the additions, in breach of solemn pledge, to taxation, expenditure and public charge, the schemes which substitute for the good of the masses and for fair taxation, the aggrandisement of the few and the rich, and the oppression of the many and the poor; if you are prepared to give your voices for freedom and justice, for retrenchment and reform, for fair play and equal rights, for real progress and true national development—then I ask for your support, and will do what in me lies to justify your decision.

And in the hope and belief that such will be your verdict,

I am, gentlemen,
Your faithful servant,
EDWARD BLAKE.

THE CANADA TEMPERANCE ACT BEFORE THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

The appeal of Charles Russel vs. the Queen, on the information of Woodward, New-Brunswick, was before the Privy Council on Tuesday and Wednesday. Mr. Benjamin, Q. C., and Mr. Archibald Brown represented the appellant, and Mr. Maclaren, Q. C., of Montreal and Fullarton, appeared for the respondents. The court hearing this important case was composed of Sir Barnes Peacock, Sir Montague Smith, Sir Robert Collier, Sir James Hannen and Sir R. Couch.

The point at issue is whether the Temperance Act of Canada, passed by the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa, was or was not ultra vires of the provisions of the Confederation Act of 1867. The appellants deny the right of the Dominion Parliament to pass such a permissive prohibitory act applying to the whole seven provinces. The whole of Tuesday was occupied by Mr. Brown opening the case during which he read the lengthy judgments which had been given by the courts before which the case had been heard, both in New Brunswick and in the Superior Court. On Wednesday morning Mr. Benjamin addressed the Privy Council for an hour, after Mr. Brown had occupied a similar time in closing his part of the statement. At half-past twelve Mr. Maclaren rose for the respondents. The judges had consulted for a short time and intimated the points to which they wished him to direct attention. Mr. Maclaren was thoroughly at home upon the question. In the course of two hours he cleared up many difficulties, and after him Mr. Fullarton followed for a few minutes. The judgment will be delivered in a few days. So far as we can gather there are grounds for hoping for a favorable decision. We may safely say that so much of prohibition and temperance legislation never before came under the consideration of a court in Great Britain. —Alliance News, May 6th.

The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 1, 1882.

Mr. John J. Lundy.

Mr. John J. Lundy is the candidate of the Reform party for the representation of West Peterborough, in the House of Commons, and his claims to the ballots of the electors are paramount. He is emphatically one of ourselves — native and to the manor born—the only candidate that has ever offered for this Riding that was born in it. He possesses all the qualifications, and will make a good, honest, conscientious representative. If the people elect him, they may count on having at Ottawa, a representative, who will always be found at his post, a man whom everybody knows to be worthy of trial. He occupied the position of Mayor for two years in a manner to show that he would not allow the interests of the Town to suffer at his hands. He has the time, talents and inclination to attend to the duties of a representative, if the people honor him and themselves by electing him. He is too well and too favorably known to require any lengthy commendations, and we believe his candidature will be so heartily endorsed at the polls, that J. J. Lundy, the people's favorite, will be triumphantly elected.

Cautious and Crafty.

The Mayor of Peterborough was at recent Tory conventions announced as the "Agent of the Government." What asks an exchange, does the Government need of an "Agent?" The John A. mandering faction of Toryism think they own the country, and appoint "Agents" as a landlord might a steward to see that the tenants are kept in trasce. Ireland and Poland have not shown such good effects from the Government "Agents" that Canada should tamely submit to the system.

THE great "statesmen" must have had some motive, occult to the general public, in reorganizing his cabinet on the eve of a general election. Sir John has removed Hon. John O'Connor and Hon. J. C. Aikins from the Cabinet to make room for Messrs. Carling and Costigan. Mr. Carling becomes Postmater General and Mr. Costigan takes the department of Inland Revenue. Mr. Aikens will succeed Mr. Cauchon as Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and it is expected that Mr. O'Connor will get a judgeship. The changes may have little political significance. Western Ontario has had no representative is the Cabinet during the last Parliament, but if the appointment of Mr. Carling is meant to make reparation it comes very late in the Day.

IT is stated that the Methodists, a large and influential religious body who have a legitimate claim for representation, are not at all pleased with the cavalier manner in which Hon. Wm. Aikens has been expelled from the Dominion Cabinet. Methodism may not have a representative in the Cabinet, but beer has in the person of Mr. Carling.

MR. HILLIARD'S SELF SACRIFICE.

His Record of Last Session—How he Didn't Serve His Country.

HIS BEAUTIFUL BLANK RECORD—BUSINESS BEFORE DUTY.

Mr. Geo. Hilliard is now before the electors as a candidate, and to show the electors how much time and personal profit and interest he has sacrificed by his assiduous attention to his Parliamentary duties, we append a schedule showing the divisions of the House he took part in and those he evaded. It is a wonder to us that after the late hours of session, his constant attendance on the floor of the House, and his elaborate oratorical efforts, that his health, not to speak of his conscience, should sufficiently stand the strain to admit of his carrying on an election contest. Before compiling the following table we waited for the Review man to write a history of Mr. Hilliard's parliamentary career, some morning while he was waiting for his coffee to cool. The following are the divisions of the House, and they show how Mr. Hilliard voted sometimes, and how generally didn't vote at all :—

Second reading of Bill concerning marriage with a deceased wife's sister.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
Second reading of Casgrain's Bill to prevent fraud in the letting of contracts: On Langevin's motion for one month's hoist.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
Second reading of Charlton's bill to make seduction and adultery criminal offences.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
Bourassas's motion for six months hoist to Bill to extend powers of Credit Foncier Franco Canadien.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
Mills' amendment to recommit deceased wife's sister bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On a similar motion, re same bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Strange's amendment to the same bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Blake's motion, condemning the mode of letting timber limits without public competition. Here it would be supposed Mr. H. was right at home, but—	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Mackenzie's impeachment and condemnation of Onderdonkism, Mr. H. first turns up in the House, on Tuesday, the 28th March, and cast his first vote, and of course—	Hilliard voted NAY.
His next appearance in the House was on Tuesday March 31st. On Mr. Laurier's motion to repeal duties on coal, coke and breadstuffs, he could see no reason to repeal these duties that ground the poor man down, and of course	Hilliard voted NAY.
Temporalities Bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Plumb's motion to rob Ontario in the Boundary Award matter.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Patterson's motion to amend the duties on sugar, which by the present tariff places a tax of over two millions and a half on our imported sugar, and puts a million dollars of illegitimate profit into the pockets of the refiners, and robs the consumer correspondingly.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Charlton's amendment to the land regulations, which had in view the carrying out of the Reform motto, "The land for the settler, and the price for the people."	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Cameron's, (Huron), motion condeming the unconstitutional disallowance of Ontario legislation, in the Rivers and Streams Bill matter.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Blake's motion to authorize Parliament to limit telegraphic rates so as to prevent companies from extorting rates from the public.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On another amendment to the same bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Wallace's amendment in re Trust & Loan Company.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Blake's motion permitting Canada to make her own commercial treaties, on the same principle that she now makes her own laws.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Anglin's motion to reduce the taxes on cotton and woollen goods, so as to favor the poor man.	Hilliard voted NAY!
On Burpee's amendment to reduce the tax on bar and pig iron, etc., so that the consumer could be supplied more cheaply.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Cartwright's motion condemning the alarming increase of the public expenditure of over four millions in four years.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Blake's amendment to the second reading of the iniquitous Redistribution Bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
Mills' amendment to the same bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On the main motion on the same bill.	Hilliard SHIRKED the vote.
On Casgrain's motion to prevent fraud in letting contracts.	Hilliard voted NAY.
On the twenty-three divisions which took place on the 12th of May, on the amendment to the Redistribution Bill.	Hilliard voted NAY.

The above is a sample of how Mr. Hilliard has looked after the important public interests that were submitted to his care. A man entrusted by the electors [with the representation of West Peterborough in the House of Commons, is present only on five occasions, as far as the public records show, during a session that lasted from the 9th of February till the middle of May, and the five votes he did cast were all given against the interests of the people, and in favor of a Government who have shown themselves willing to sacrifice everything to the retention of power. Mr Hilliard, on his own showing, cannot fulfil the duties of a representative. His past course and the following letter also show the same :—

To H. H. Smith, Esq., President L. C. A. W. R. County of Peterborough.

SIR,—Since the meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association at which I was unanimously chosen as the candidate of the party, I have earnestly considered the question of accepting the nomination, but find that my business engagements are such as to render it entirely impossible for me to devote the necessary time to the duties of the position.

* * * * * * *

It is only the sense that the first duty is at home, which compls me to decline the candidature.

Yours, &c.,
GEO. HILLIARD.

Peterborough, May 17th, 1882.

Mr. Hilliard has criminally neglected his duties to himself and his constituents in the past, but it is doubtful whether Mr. Hilliard has forgotten his Parliamentary duty to himself. It is the privilege of the electors to know this, and it is the privilege of any elector to ask Mr. H. how much of the sessional indemnity he had the conscience to accept. In spite of his flagrant failure as a representative of West Peterborough, Mr. Hilliard has the assurance to come to the electors and say "Here I am, gentlemen, again! You sent me to Parliament once, but I neglected its duties, but all the same I pocketed the pay. I want you to re-elect me. I won't do any better next time. No matter what grave crisis may arise in Parliament, the interests of the country and West Peterborough must take care of themselves, as far as I am concerned, for I must attend to business. Under these circumstances, I think you are fools enough to re-elect me, and I appeal to your support. You are mere voting machines, and will cast your ballots for the nominee of the party, no matter how unfit he may be to serve you. If you do me the honor of re-electing me I may be in Parliament less often than I was last session, for my business is naturally increasing, and will demand more of my time than heretofore." This is practically what George Hilliard says to the people of West Peterborough; and the electors, by voting for him, vote to keep out of Parliament a man who has all the qualifications, including the time and inclination, to look after their interests in Parliament.

It will be no difficulty in persuading the electors that it is their duty to drop such a candidate and vote for the people's favorite, Mr. J. J. Lundy.

Editorial Notes.

THE fixing of the earliest possible day for the general elections is a confession on the part of the government, that they wish to stave off discussion. Not content with attempting to secure Tory seats by act of Parliament, they must prevent inquiry into, and discussion of their own corrupt and detrimental deeds. The government dreads discussion and have so arranged to admit of the least possible amount of it. Our reform friends will only have to work the harder in the short time that is allowed them. It is about the measure of fair play that could be expected from the Tory government.

THE Review upbraids the Globe, and inferentially accuses it of lack of patriotism, because the Globe called attention to the fact that the taxation per head of the Dominion was, in 1878, $5.33 per head, and in 1882, $8 per head. Of course it is wrong and unpatriotic for the Globe to call attention to these things. Your true Tory principle is to have the mass of the people tamely submit to taxation, tamely stoop, and tamely submit the neck to the Government or official foot of oppression. To the true Tory mind the people were specially made for taxation, and the more they are taxed, the better they serve the purpose of their creation.

LANDLORDISM or land monopoly is, one must correctly opine, mainly responsible for the monstrous evils that afflict Ireland. While the master minds of several generations of British statesmen have struggled with the evil and so far vainly sought for an efficient remedy—some feasible cure—our "statesmen" have not the prudence to carry out the motto, in relation to our great North-West, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." The future of our North-west will be likened to the present condition of Ireland, through the effect of immense grants of lands to land companies, and an authority is not far astray in saying that these lands will ultimately be let to tenants at larger rents than the fee simple of the soil nets the Dominion. The present Tory government is one of retrogression, not of progress. The old world is trying to shake off the incerbuss of landlordism, while the Tory government of Canada is doing its best to saddle it on the country. Let the electors choose which they prefer, the government plan of retarding the opening and settlement of our North-West by farming out whole township which will be witheld from settlement till surrounding improvements shall make them valuable, or the Reform land motto, "grants of public lands to actual settlers only,"—"The land for the settler, the price for the public." One is a policy hostile to the rapid settlement and improvement of our North-West, and the other is wise and patriotic.

WEST PETERBORO'.

Immense Reform Meeting.

Unprecedented Unanimity—Unequalled Enthusiasm.

J. J. LUNDY THE UNANIMOUS NOMINEE.

The Meeting a Mighty Unit in his Favour.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ONSLAUGHT.

Without exaggeration or the bias of party feeling there is nothing but the solid truth, in saying that the largest, most enthusiastic, and most encouraging political Convention ever held in the West Riding of Peterborough, assembled in the Reform committee rooms last Saturday afternoon. At the advertised hour the large hall was literally packed with delegates from every part of the riding—without exception—delegates selected to represent the Reformers of the different polling subdivisions.

On motion of Mr. G. A. Cox, Mr. D. Ullyot occupied the chair, and briefly stated the object of the meeting, asserting that he never saw so large an attendance at a Convention before.

THE NOMINATION.

Mr. Bertram, ex-M.P., was also pleased to see so great a gathering present. He had never seen a larger and more purely representative meeting in the riding. He was not only pleased but proud that West Peterborough had not lost heart, but when there was something to fight for, Reformers were ready for the contest. He referred to the meanness of the Government in trying the hands of Reformers behind their backs and then challenging them to fight. The splendid gathering before him to-day showed him that there was abundance of fight in the Reform party still. All that was wanting in West Peterborough was and he was prepared to nominate a gentleman who he believed from the expressed opinion of 19 out of every 20 he had talked with, would carry the riding. Who was that man? Mr. J. J. Lundy. (Tremendous cheering.) Mr. Lundy had no great desire to run, but if he consented to do so, he had the pluck to fight vigorously and win. He believed that if Mr. Lundy accepted the nomination he would leave this committe room at the adjournment to work, and not quit until five o'clock on the 20th of June. He had great pleasure in proposing Mr. John James Lundy. (Great cheering.)

A LEADER,

Mr. John Walton seconded the nomination, endorsing the remarks of the previous speaker, and adding that Reformers had to fight all their lives for their principles, and they must be prepared to carry out that policy to-day.

The Chairman inquired if there were other nominations? "No! no! no!" cameforth loudly and almost indignantly from every part of the hall, and the nomination was carried by the convention rising en masse to their feet, and breaking into deafening cheers, prolonged for several minutes.

Mr. Lundy rose to his feet and was greeted with another storm of applause. He said that he had come to town with the determination of having nothing to do with politics, but the unanimous nomination just made, together with the sterling and representative character of the meeting, had overcome that decision, and he

UNRESERVEDLY ACCEPTED THE NOMINATION.

(Cheers.) He placed himself in the hands of the Reformers of West Peterboro', with the determination to work night and day from now till the 20th of June, though at the same time he depended on the co-operation of his friends. He would issue his address on Monday, and the party that had done him the honor of selecting him as their candidate, might depend on this, that whether defeated or not he would, if alive, "toe the mark." (Loud and prolonged applause.)

The Chairman remarked again that he had never before seen a nomination made with such remarkable unanimity and enthusiasm. After remarks by Messrs. Edwards, G. A. Cox, and Cummings of Ennismore, and D. W. Dumble, all of whom were full of hope for the success of the contest, and who congratulated the Convention on the

they had secured to carry the standard for them, the meeting at once entered on the work of the contest. Mr. Ullyot was elected chairman of the Central Committee, and arrangements made for carrying on the work of the canvass in each polling subdivision. The meeting separated with enthusiastic cheers for the Queen, Mr. Lundy, and Hon. Edward Blake.

The prospects of redeeming this riding are exceedingly encouraging. Not only is the electorate deeply stirred to indignation at the scorn with which the Ottawa Government has regarded Ontario, and their generally mischievous and corrupt course during the past, but the candidate selected is the very strongest man whom the Reformers could put into the field. He is a gentleman of good ability, and while always a Reformer in principle he has held a straightforward, independent position in politics. Personally he is exceedingly popular.

EVERYBODY SPEAKS WELL OF HIM.

He is a man against whom the finger of reproach cannot be pointed, and in all respects he is a man whom the people will delight to honour. He is wealthy, and has, therefore, the leisure to devote himself unreservedly to the duties of a representative. In this respect he is a striking contrast to his opponent, Mr. George Hilliard, selected as candidate by the Tories on the same afternoon, who is so absorbed in his business that he cannot spare a moment from it to devote to politics. So much so is this the case that since the first meeting of the Conservative association, Mr. Hilliard resigned the position of virtual candidate of the party in a letter which, we published in our last issue.

Mr. Hilliard's letter was full of truth, and had he adhered to its spirit and left politic's alone he would have earned much praise, but being on his own confession unfit for the position of representative, a fact proved outside of his own admission by his having only appeared in the House about five times the past session, and then in the extremity of his party seeking the suffrages of the electors of West Peterborough for elevation to an office whose duties in the past have not been done, places Mr. Hilliard in a position which no honest man would covet filling. His shilly-shallying and trifling with the representation of West Peterborough, as though it was a toy to be tossed at will by himself and the Tory clique that works with him, has weakened his candidature, and with an opponent of the sterling worth and immense popularity of Mr. Lundy, Mr. Hilliard has a very fair chance of being elected to attend to his own business, which demands, and has always demanded, his time, to the utter neglect of his Parliamentary duties.

SIR JOHN IN NAPANEE.

His "Reception" a Gigantic Fizzle—No Enthusiasm—A Dreary Lookout for the Premier.

It was expected that Sir John's bodily presence in the riding of Lennox, where he is to be defeated, would bring out his personal magnetism and infuse no end of enthusiasm into local Tories. But the prospect is too dreary, and his "reception" last Friday, must have struck a chill to the core of the chieftain's heart. Sir John Macdonald arrived in Napanee by the evening train to address the mass meeting. As it was understood he would be on the train arrangements was made for a "reception" at the station, and the Napanee band was procured for the occasion. About 50 or 60 members of the party were on the platform when the train arrived. The number certainly did not exceed that, though in all probability there were a hundred more persons there than usual. The balance was made up of Reformers and others who were induced to go up for mere curiosity. Lady Macdonald accompanied Sir John and they were driven to the Huffman House and gallantly "escorted" from the carriage to their apartments by the bus-driver (an actual fact) and after that time no demonstration whatever took place.

In the evening messengers were sent out for several leading members of the country and a confab. was held. It is is supposed the "burning question" was if the Chieftain can yet be relieved from the awkward predicament of the Lennox candidature. It will not surprise many in Napanee if he still backs down from the whole job!

In the evening the usual weekly meeting of the Young Men's Liberal Club was held, and before the hour of opening their commodious rooms were filled beyond their capacity. The Mayor, who was present kindly offered the use of the Town Hall which was nearly filled, and a more enthusiastic meeting of the kind has not been held in the county in a dozen years. The Reformers were never more sanguine.

It was arranged to commence a series of meetings at once, and an Executive Committe was appointed to supply the speakers, not only for these but also to attend the different Tory meetings which are already announced. It is probable that the contest for the next few weeks will be as exciting a one as Lennox ever saw.

JOHN BURNHAM,
Solicitor, Peterborough.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBORO'

GENTLEMEN :—

The Government of the day having unexpectedly dissolved Parliament, and with extreme haste issued the Writs for a general election, it has become necessary for you to choose a representative.

While personally, I had no desire to place myself as a candidate before the electors, yet having received the nomination form a large and representative gathering of Liberal delegates from all parts of the riding, I feel it my duty to accede to their wishes, and am now in the field.

Should I have the honor of being elected, my best attention will be given to the duties of the position, and my aim will be to represent the West Riding of Peterborough in Parliament, and not act as the slavish supporter of any political party.

A majority of the late Parliament approved of the Gerrymandering Bill introduced by the present Government, whereby constituencies were cut up, and county lines obliterated, with the evident intention of so arranging the electoral districts that a minority of electors may return a majority of representatives. Legislation of this kind has my strongest disapproval, and I would be in favor of some course being pursued that would make this impossible in future.

I do not approve of the taxation policy of the present Government, whereby a much larger amount than the requirements of the country calls for is taken from the earnings of our people; and such protection to the Farmer as placing a duty on the kind of wool we do not import, and bringing in duty free, other wool, I consider absurd.

It will be my endeavour to encourage all Canadian industries, but the present enormous tariff on such articles of common use as cottons, coarse woollens and other items, should be lowered and so arranged as to press with less severity on workingmen.

The grant to the Pacific Railway Syndicate in land and cash, with the road already built and under construction, was exhorbitant and unnecessary. But I condemn more particulary the agreement with the Syndicate granting them a monopoly of the carrying trade of our great North-West for twenty years to come, with exemption and privileges added.

I do not approve of the policy of selling or leasing in our North-West Territories large blocks of land to companies and individuals, as I believe it is against the interest of the actual settler, and I strongly endorse the motto of the Hon. Edward Blake, when he says :—"The land for the settler, the price for the public."

I believe it was the duty of the present Government to give effect to the Boundary Award, and condemn the attempt to rob our Province of Ontario of half her territory rich in timber and minerals.

I am an advocate for the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and will do all in my power to aid in the prosecution of this important work.

In the short time allowed for a canvass I will endeavour to see as many of the electors as possible, and will hold meetings in the different townships, of which notice will be given.

Soliciting your hearty vote and influence,

I am, Gentlemen,

Your Obedient Seavant,

JOHN J. LUNDY.

The Conservative Nomination.

After the first meeting of the West Peterborough Reform Association, the editor of the Review broke into uncontrollable spasms of merriment over its alleged failure as a public meeting, and made as much sport of it as his ill-natured and petty, carping disposition would admit of. His churlish criticism didn't greatly affect us, for we felt sure that the public who have had a sufficiently disgusting experience of his peculiar style of journalism, would place a true estimate upon his splenetic and uncharitable invectives, and take them for what they were worth. But he evidently had not in view at the time, the motto he is so fond of quoting in reference to glass houses. If he could have, for a moment, foreseen the pitiable display of Tory tactics brought out at the Tory convention on Saturday last, he would have felt it wisdom, for once at least in his journalistic career, to mind his own business, and tidy up his own premises, before he operated as Mrs. Grundy on those of his political opponents.

The convention assembled in the old music hall, and there was a fairly good attendance of delegates, but there was a sad lack of that enthusiastic and confident unanimity that characterized the Reform Association, held at the same hour. After considerable hole and corner conversation, Mr. John Carnegie, was successful in being duly nominated and seconded, and his morbid desire to be a candidate (no matter how certain of defeat he might be) was for the moment in a fair way of being gratified. But another nomination was made in the person of Dr. Kincaid, who was also duly proposed and seconded. This last nomination commended itself to the good judgment of the convention to such a degree that the prospects were that he would be the selection. For, owing to the feeling of hostility against the first nomination, that cropped out among the delegates, and to save the convention from being divided (and demoralised) upon the two candidates, the name of Mr. Carnegie was forced to be withdrawn. His reputation throughout the Riding was felt to be such that his nomination was the surest guarantee of defeat. This left the field to Dr. Kincaid, but that gentleman appeared to be obnoxious to the clique of wire-pullers, who are not content unless their proposals and wishes are carried out, and he must summarily be sat upon. Therefore more wirepulling was performed, and Mr. Geo. Hilliard was bulldozed into stultifying himself, and practically giving the lie to his letter of resignation, in which he acknowledged himself unfit for the position of representative of West Peterborough. In spite of this he was weak enough to yield, and to try and save his party and brother-in-law, from the certain defeat that awaited them, in case the latter should, by some wily manœuvering, be thrust upon the convention as their nominee. Mr. Hilliard is now the Conservative candidate; contrary to his own expressed wishes, he has had greatness thrust upon him, and been forced into a false position by a man who acts as though he would be willing to wreck the party rather than be thwarted in his ambitious or selfish aims. Him Mr. Mr. Hilliard can thank for the fact that he stands to-day before the people in a much less favourable light than he did a few days ago; that he has earned the title to being a vascillating server of the purposes of a clique; that he has been dragged into a contest for a position which his conscience tells him he is unable to fill, and which he has expressed himself in private as incapable of filling, and which his honest, better judgment compelled him to resign. Him the party can thank that weakness and want of unity have crept into their ranks; him the party can thank for having weakened their chances in the coming contest, by a foolish persistence in carrying out his own ends. But the disappointed nomination-seeker is magnanimous. Like Artemus Ward, he is willing to sacrifice all his relations, his brother-in-law included; willing to sacrifice the prospect of the success of his party, and sacrifice the feelings of fellow Conservatives, who have as good right to be candidates as he. After such a lamentable failure in the way of a convention as the Conservative gathering of last Saturday was, the Review man will feel more forcibly how misplaced and ill-timed were his heavy attempts at poking fun at the Reform convention.

The Trent Valley Canal.

The Review in an article on the "Issues of the Campaign," places as second in importance the Trent Valley Canal scheme. Locally considered this question takes a very prominent position and is one which has received and ever shall receive our warmest encouragement and support, in fact the strongest, ablest and clearest paper ever issued in favor of the scheme was issued from this office. We believe in its feasibility and feel that its importance is too great to admit of its being used as a mere electioneering expedient as the present government is evidently using it. The bribe is skilfully placed before the people and the Review deserves credit for the clever manner in which it tells us that the grant of $290,000 is intended as a big bribe to the Midland district. But it is too diaphaneous to deceive those who are on the lookout for guile, who are justified in being wars of "the Greeks even when bringing gifts." The inspired scribe of the Review says: "The money will be expended and navigation between Lakefield and Balsam Lake completed if the present government are sustained." The dire effects are hinted of thisdistrict sending opponents of the present government to parliament. The Review man expresses his doubt of the government going on with the work, yet it is best he thinks for the electors to give no uncertain sound now upon this subject. Indeed now is a very bad time to trifle with the chances of the government candidates. The bribe has been given and the faithful of the Tory party and the weak-kneed of the Reform or of no party at all, must duly appreciate the munificence of the bribe and vote this time for the government that can legislate a surplus of some seven millions from the people's pockets and then coolly return $290,000 of it as a grant to aid the construction of a canal which they no more intend to build than they intend to dig a navigable ditch to the North pole. This claptrap of the goverument building the canal is the most unmitigated bamboozlement of the electors. We have the example of the Murray canal before us, which has been surveyed often enough to make an expense equal to an amount necessary for building it, yet after all we are told by a local journal inspired by a member of the government that the Murray canal may not be built unless the district send supporters of the government, and the same fate awaits the Trent Valley Canal. We don't believe the government has the honest intention of buildi ngthe canal. Do they go to work as if they "meant business?" If the project was intended to be carried out would the government trifle and dabble with a few patches on dilapidated locks in the middle of the line of navigation? A farmer who means to plough a field doesn't begin in the middle of it, but at one end and in a straightforward business like way. If the government meant to construct the Trent Valley Canal, why were not the surveys completed and the contracts let as in the case of any other public work? Would one have thought that the government before they had sold the North-west to the syndicate, intended to build the Pacific Railway if they had made a grant of a few thousand dollars to build or repair a bridge over the Red River and not a sod turned on any other part of the line? Who thinks for a moment that the Trent Valley Canal will occupy the attention of the government ten seconds after the elections are over? In spite of the Review, Mr. Roxburgh and Mr. Lundy are as much in favor of this scheme as Mr. Burnham, and they are pledged to the support of a party who if they promise to build the canal will do it, a party whose leader has never placed one stone in the way of the work. One candidate is as much in favour of the scheme as the other and no more so. The Review's extra show of zeal is merely for the purpose of securing the full benefit of the bribe of $290,000 dangled before the electors by the tricky coterie at Ottawa called a government.

As we said on a previous occasion the only way to make the Trent Valley Canal a certainty is to return supporters of the Hon. E. Blake to manage the affairs of the country.

MR. ROXBURGH'S MEETING AT WARSAW.

Mr. Roxburgh held the first meeting of the Campaign at Warsaw on Tuesday night last and met with a most encouraging and enthusiastic reception. It soon became evident as the audience gathered that the room in which political meetings are usually held in the village, would be entirely too small to hold them and an adjournment was made to the Agricultural Hall, where the meeting was organized, with the Reeve, Mr. Kidd, in the chair. The audience was by far the largest ever assembled at a political meeting in Dummer and augurs well for Mr. Roxburgh's success.

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we so anticipate.

A voter in a new suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this general rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S, and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

New Suits, at	$ 6.50
Neat Suits, at	7.00
Nobby Suits, at	7.50
Excellent Suits, at	8.50
Good Suits, at	9.50
Tony Suits, at	10.50
Strong Suits, at	11.50
Aesthetic Suits, at	12.50
Fine Suits, at	13.50
Heavy Suits, at	14.50
Can't be Beaten Suits, at	16.00

GENTLEMEN:—Suits at these prices will hold good until the 20th of June.

This opportunity may not occur again for the next five years. Then, DON'T DELAY.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Why Some Farmers do not Succeed.

The Southern Farmers' Monthly gives the following reasons why some farmers do not succeed :—

They are not active and industrious.
They are slothful in everything.
They do not keep up with improvements
They are wedded to old methods.
They give no attention to details.
They think small things not important.
They take no pleasure in their work.
They regard labor as a misfortune.
They weigh and measure stingily.
They are wasteful and improvident.
They let their gates sag and fall down.
They let their fowls roost in the trees.
They have no shelter for stock.
They do not curry their horses.
They leave their plows in the field.
They hang the harness in the dust.
They put off greasing the wagon.
They starve the calf and milk the cow.
They don't know the best is the cheapest.
They have no method or system.
They use no good in a new thing.
They never use paint on the farm.
They prop the barn door with a rail.
They milk the cows late in the day.
They have no time to do things well.
They do not read newspapers and books.

The Sheep and Lambs.

Fatten and market dry ewes as soon as possible. Some ewes which have lost their lambs, or from which they have been taken, will need to have the milk partially removed from their full udders for a few days. Neglect not to remove filthy tags. It is well also to clip the wool from about the udders, as much disease in the lambs is often caused by dirt from the ewe's wool. There is but little in favor of washing wool on the sheep's back, and for old and feeble animals it is a positive injury. The practice is unnecessary, disagreeable and dangerous to the health of both men and sheep, and may well be abolished. Sheep ought to be so kept, that the unwashed wool may be clean enough for market. Newly shorn sheep need protection during storms. If this be looked after properly, early shearing is not objectionable. After shearing, the ticks gather on the lambs and may be destroyed by dipping them in tobacco water, with sulphur added, or one of the various effective "sheep dips."

Treatment of Bones.

Bones accumulate on every farm, and a hunt for them will bring out many more than one would expect to find. When properly treated, they furnish very valuable food for growing plants. Whole bones, as they are thrown out from the kitchen, are so slowly decomposed, that they are of little more use, unless applied very largely. They need to be broken up or made fine in some way that the larger amount of phosphoric acid, etc., contained in them may be valuable. It is not practicable for ordinary farmers to have bone mills, and the next best thing is to break them up somewhere with an axe or heavy hammer, and mix them with unleached ashes, keeping the heap moist enough so the alkali will "eat" them and render the bones soft. The bones thus treated will crumble to fine pieces when dried, and are then ready to spread upon the land. Every farmer should see that all bones are made into a valuable home-made fertilizer.—American Agriculturist.

The Poultry Yard.

The young chicks will thrive best when kept clean and dry. Those hatched this month, if of the best breeds, usually begin to lay early in the fall, and if kept warm and well fed, will give a supply of eggs through the winter. If the coops are placed in, or adjoining the garden, to allow the chicks to wander freely through it, they will do little harm, until large enough to scratch up the beds, and nibble at the plants, while they will destroy many insects. Let them have an abundance of pure water and wholesome food; these, with good housing from the wet and cold, will secure health and a profitable growth.

What can be Sown in June.

Those who have a time of "making garden" in early spring, and doing up the sowing all at once, do not get the greatest good from their gardens. There are many vegetables of which the season can be greatly prolonged by making successive sowings. A striking example of this is Sweet Corn, which, by judicious sowings may be had every day until frost stops its growth. In many localities, the most thoroughly tropical plants, such as Lima Beans, Okra, and the Melons, do better if put in now than if sown earlier. For succession, after the first sowing, put in Bush Beans, Beets (allowing plenty to be used as beet greens) Cucumbers, and pickle plants. Carrots, Kohl Rabi, and Salsify, are among those that may still be sown and make a crop before frost arrives.

Culinary Scraps from Miss Munro's Lectures.

There is not much nourishment in rice without the addition of milk or eggs.

Purple tinted beef has died a natural death.

Pork or veal is bad for poor digestion.

Scrape carrots slightly, as the sweetest portion is the nearest the surface.

Take a thick peeling off turnips; as the outer portion is bitter.

Soup costs less than whiskey and does more good.

Never wash mutton; always scrape it lightly.

Cabbage should always be cut across the grain and before cooking should be soaked in salt and water half an hour to kill the slugs.

Scurvy is the cause of salt meat, but by its poverty, the pickle having robbed the meat of its strength.

Better pay a little more for fresh vegetables than to make your dinner of stale ones.

Always boil pudding that contains suet.

You never can err in boiling a pudding half an hour over time.

To get the correct blending of flavor use double the quantity of carrots you do of turnips.

Sew a piece of red braid on one side of your pudding cloth to distinguish it from the dish-cloth.

Boil potatoes with their jackets on.

Haddock is very nice for breakfast.

Carrots are very good for children.

Potatoes should be boiled very slowly, or else the strength will be boiled out of them.

There is a great deal of nourishment in cheese—cheese neither too old nor too young.

Celery and asparagus are exceedingly good for rheumatics.

A clean oven is as necessary as a clean stew pan.

Never throw away a scrap of fat.

Men employed in open air ought to eat a good deal of cheese.

There are four teacupsful of flour in a pound.

Peas don't boil mellow without the help of fat of some kind.

Macearani is very nutritious in soup, as it is made of the finest of wheat.

You require very little butchers' meat the day you have pea soup, as it contains the same nutriment.

MIDLAND DISTRICT DASHES.

The Cream of Occurrences Skimmed from Contemporary Columns.

RICE LAKE.

DROWNED.—On the fourth a man named Thomas Lancaster, aged about 50 years, who resided near Bewdley, was drowned near the head of Rice Lake. He was trolling in a punt and was noticed to fall into the water, by some men who were fishing close to him. Those who saw the accident at once rowed to the place where Lancaster was seen to go down, but could render no assistance as he did not rise to the surface again. He leaves a widow and family. The body has not been found.

MILLBROOK.

A Reform Convention was held here on Wednesday. There was a large attendance from all parts of the Riding of East Durham.

After stirring speeches from Dr. Gilmour and Mr. A. Hagel, cordially endorsing the policy of the Hon. Edward Blake, resolutions were passed condemning Sir John Macdonald and the sitting member, Col. Williams, and condemning the policy of the Dominion Government. Two ballots were taken, the second of which resulted in a largely increased vote for Mr. Lewis Ross, ex-M.P. The nomination was then made unanimous amid great enthusiasm.

Rousing speeches were made by Messrs. Preston, Smith, Hagel, Barry, Clattick, Randall and Bedford, and the Convention adjourned. Prompt measures were instituted to carry the campaign to a successful conclusion.

COLBORNE.

About two o'clock Wednesday morning the Globe Hotel was discovered to be on fire. The first intimation the inmates had of their danger was the presence of smoke in their rooms. Several of the boarders had narrow escapes, barely escaping with their lives. In an incredibly short time the whole block, shed and stables, and bowling alley were in flames. The fire communicated to the old Methodist parsonage on Church-street, and the residences of Mrs Pomeroy and Dr. Gould, all of which were totally destroyed. At the same time the flames spread eastward and attacked the store of Mr. Wm. Coxall, which, being almost fire-proof, was saved by strenuous exertions. The Scott Block, however, was not so fortunate, and was burned to the ground. The stores on the south of King-street caught fire several times, and only escaped destruction by the sudden veering of the wind. Kesler's Block was somewhat damaged, and together with the buildings east of the Park only escaped by the most determined efforts of the people. As their was no fire engine or any appliances to check the flames the citizens were comparatively powerless. Hence the severe losses which are partially covered by insurance It is impossible however at the present date to ascertain the exact amount of the losses. The fire has given a great blow to the success of Colborne, and will doubtless lead to the purchase of proper fire appliances.

PORT HOPE.

A dastardly attempt was made to burn out the Weekly News office, owned by W. T. R. Preston. An entrance was effected through one of the rear windows, and the fire fiends then saturated the staircase with an inflammable oil, and also started another fire among the paper up stairs. Owing to the prompt action of the night watchman the alarm was given and the fire brigade was on the spot in short order. Owing to the inflammable nature of the oil used, the flames made rapid headway, soon enveloping the press and job rooms. All that was consumable about the Wharfdale and Gordon presses was destroyed, together with a large quantity of wood type and some forms of metal type. The flames spread to the adjoining premises, which were occupied by W. G. Stevenson, merchant tailor, completely destroying his books, papers, and a large part of his stock. The buildings were completely gutted, so that what was not injured by fire was seriously damaged by water. The authorities are satisfied that the fire was the work of an incendiary, and believe they are on the track of the scoundrels. Mr. Stevenson was insured for $3,000, and Mr. Preston for $1,000, on their stock.

The old residents are fast passing off. Robert Douglas, of Clark, being one of the last called away, at the ripe old age of 80 years. He had been a resident of of this section for some 45 years.

Mrs. Susannah Jewell, widow of the late Wm. Jewell, Esq., died at the family residence, lot 29, 5th Con, Clark, on the 7th inst., full of years and highly respected by a large circle of friends and relatives.

Electors of East Peterboro', on the 20th of June record your votes for Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, and have Ontario's soil for Ontario's sons.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS. — On Tuesday evening last, at the social and concert held in aid of the funds of the Sunday School at Selwyn, opportunity was taken to present the Rev. G. Washington, M.A., with the following address :—

DEAR PASTOR AND FRIEND.—It is with feelings of the deepest regret that we regard the speedy approach of the time when the bonds that unite us as pastor and people must be severed. We take this opportunity of publicly expressing to you our heartfelt appreciation of your earnest and self-sacrificing efforts to benefit us since you came among us. In three years during which you have ministered to us you have endeared yourself to us all, not only by the earnestness of your pulpit ministrations, and the faithfulness which has characterized your preaching, but also by the geniality and ready sympathy which you have ever manifested in our personal intercourse, one with another, as you have visited us from time to time in our homes. It is not necessary to refer to the details of your work here, but we desire to express our gratitude to you for two especial instances of self-sacrifice and earnest effort on your part. We consider you deserve our hearty thanks for the assistance you so cheerfully gave, in more ways than one, last year when our church was being built. We have now a neat and comfortable sanctuary in which to worship God, in connection with which we shall ever remember your name. Your deep and steady interest in conducting among us a weekly Bible class, we also desire to express our gratitude for, and we pray that the seed sown therein from week to week, may speedily bring forth fruit to God's honour and glory. We desire you tomorrow as a very slight evidence of the esteem in which we hold you, this "autograph quilt" and we trust that in future years you may look upon it when perhaps far away from here, with none but pleasant thoughts associated with your remembrance of Selwyn. Your removal from us will leave a gap which it will not be easy to fill, but we trust, that though removed from us, you may long be spared to labor in the vineyard of the Master. We trust, too, that your new field of labor, wherever it may be, may be a pleasant one, and that God's blessing may follow your labors therein. We shall not forget you in our prayers to our Heavenly Father, and we are sure that you will also remember us at the throne of grace. In our wishes and prayers for your prosperity, both temporal and spiritual, we would join with your name, that of your esteemed wife.

Trusting that Heaven's choicest blessings may be given you as you toil on in the service of King Jesus, we bid you "God speed" in your work, the noblest to which man can devote himself.

Signed, on behalf of of the members and friends of the Selwyn Methodist Church.

ANNIE McKEE,
J. HERBERT BURROW.

May 12th, 1882.

Mr. Washington made a brief reply, expressing his sense of the very great kindness and honor shown him by those who always had shown a constant and ardent purpose to co-operate in any toil that would tend to extend and establish the Kingdom of the Great Redeemer. He had found it one of the special joys of his work, to attend the weekly Bible-class, which their attendance and interest had done so much to render a success.

He hoped to keep to the end of life the valuable memento, now given, and with great comfort read over its names, each one of whom, he hoped, would be associated with Christ, and his cause here, and found written forever in the "Lamb's book of Life."

The social was well attended, and the concert part of of it was, in every particular, most satisfactory.

"Tax the Farmer and enrich the Manufacturer," is the motto of Mr. John Burnham. Vote for W. E. Roxburgh and Light Taxation.

THE CROWNING OF THE CZAR.

Preparations are being made for the coronation of the Czar of Russia on the sixth of September. The coronation of a Czar is always a grand affair, and calls for the expenditure of a great deal of money. There have been only three coronations during the present century, that of Alexander I. in 1801, of Nicholas in 1826, and of Alexander II. in 1856. On the occasion of the coronation of Peter III, it is said that some of the distinguished noblemen and courtiers who lent a hand in assassinating his father took part, whereupon one of the ambassadors whispered "there he goes, preceded by the murderers of his grandfather, flanked by those of his father and followed by his own." As for the present Czar, he seems to be a poor tool, and goes skulking from one place to another, fearful of his life. Nothing much has been heard lately of Nihilist intrigues, although a declaration was issued some time ago saying that the Czar would never be crowned and warnings are being sent out to invited guests to keep away from the coronation if they value their lives. It is likely that the ceremony will be postponed. It would be a mistake to suppose that because we do not hear much about Nihilist plots the revolutionary party is dead, or even in a state of suspended animation.

JUST AT THE WRONG TIME.

Mr. Robert Wilson, of the City Surveyor's office, and Street Commissioner of the Eastern Division under the Board of Public Works, Toronto, Ont., who is very fond of shooting, says: "To lose a duck hunt is a loss for which there is no adequate recompense. This misfortune lately overtook me. The boys got together recently and made arrangements for a good hunt. At the same time the arrangements were entered into I was in good health generally; but, just as the shooting was to take place, my old enemy, the rheumatism, came back to stay with me awhile again, and I had to forego the pleasure. The rheumatism has been a source of great bother to me, and I have done a great deal of doctoring for it, without much good. When this last attack came on me and crippled my hands so that they were drawn up, a friend of mine recommended St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I tried it, I am happy to say, and the result is that I am now cured and as well as ever. St. Jacobs Oil succeeded where more than a score of other liniments and medicines had failed."

FLIRTATION'S FOLLY.

A theatre in Philadelphia. Seated in the orchestra a lady and gentleman, the former much enamored of the latter, in fact, desirous of winning him. The lady, however, has flirting tendencies, and indulges them with a handsome party in the circle. The escort is not unobservant of this little by-play, and finally asks, smilingly:

"Do you know that gentleman with whom you are flirting?"

An embarrassed negative is the reply.

"Then excuse me a moment."

The escort immediately crosses the theatre, and puts a similar question to the other occupants:

"Sir, are you acquainted with the lady at whom you have been smiling this last half hour?"

"No.'

"Would you like to be?'

Very much surprised. "Certainly.'

"Then come with me."

A moment later the escort introduces the not altogether comfortable pair. Then the mild expression leaves the insulted gentleman's face, and he says sternly:

"Now, sir, you may accompany this lady home."

With a bow he takes his leave, and the woman who loves him never hears his voice again.

IN THE TWO CAROLINAS.

A young South Carolina woman named Mills, living just over the State line from North Carolina, rejected a young agriculturist who wanted to marry her. He finally gave her up and found consolation in the society of Miss Jane Jackson, who lived in North Carolina. This aroused the ire of Miss Mills, who hated the woman who was willing to take what she rejected, and the two began to refer in uncomplimentary terms to one another. The South Carolina young woman also set to work, but unsuccessfully, to win the young man from the North Carolina young woman. One Sunday night the North Carolina young woman was visiting in her home with a friend, when a voice called her outside. She went, but never came back. The next morning the ground near showed evidence of a dreadful struggle; the fence was torn down, the earth clotted with blood. Jane Jackson's body was found in a creek with her head crushed in, her hands clutching some of her rivals hair. The two women met on the spot and had a desperate fight, which was ended by an unknown coming to Grace Mills' assistance and killing her rival.

RATHER PERSONAL.

Kosciusko Murphy, who is remarkable for his large, generous ear, has had a falling out with Miss Esmeralda Longcoffin, an Austin belle, towards whom he had been suspected of entertaining matrimonial intentions. Somebody asked him the other day why he and Miss Longcoffin were not out buggy-riding as much as usual, to which Kosciusko replied that he did not propose to pay buggy hire for any woman who called him a donkey." "I can't believe that Miss Longcoffin would call any gentleman a donkey," was the reply. "Well, she didn't come right out and say I was a donkey, but she might just as well have said so. She hinted that much." "What did she say?" "We were out riding, and it looked very much like rain, and I said it was going to rain on us, as I felt a rain-drop on my ear, and what do you suppose she said?" "I have no idea." "Well, she said, 'that rain you felt on your ear may be two or three miles off.'"

A CANNY GUIDWIFE.

A couple belonging to one of the coast towns of Fife, who had been but a few months married, recently took advantage of the railway to Edinburgh to see the ceremonial at the laying of a foundation stone. The young wife proposed staying a few days with her friends in Edinburgh, but it was necessary that her husband should proceed homeward by the boat on Saturday morning. To try the strength of his helpmate's affection, he remarked that he "doubtit the boat would be nae safe, bein' laden that they wad a' gang to the bottom." "Dae ye think sae?" responded his affectionate partner. "Then, John Anderson, ye had better leave the key of the house wi' me."

THE MEN who are favorites with men are the best and truest in their relations to women.

Mr. T. C. Wells, chemist and druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery sells well, and gives the best of satisfaction for all diseases of the blood."

"SALLY, what time do your folks dine?" "Soon as you go away—that's missus's orders."

"Kaiser" Machine Oil is the standard for quality, warranted not to clog or gum. Ask your dealer for it. Manufactured by Clarke & Haggart, Woodstock, Ont. 5-38t.

Dropsy is essentially a watery condition of the blood, dependant upon disordered kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters are strongly diuretic, and consequently the best known remedy, acting as it does upon the entire Secretory System. 22-2t

Thousands of ladies to-day cherish grateful remembrance of the help derived from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It positively cures all female complaints. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for pamphlets. 22-2t

Jacob Lockman, Buffalo, N. Y., says he has been using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for rheumatism; he had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression, "cured him up." He thinks it is the best thing in the market.

A TEXAS juryman stored so load in the jury box, that he woke the judge from a sound nap, and was promptly fined for contempt of court.

Nervous debility is a result of indiscretion in the mode of living. Heed nature's unerring laws and take Burdock Blood Bitters, the Great System Renovator and Blood, Liver and Kidney regulator and tonic. Sample bottles 10 cents. 22-2t

The noiseless tenor of their way—the smooth, easy writing pens of the Esterbrook Steel Pen Co., whose makes have become so deservedly popular. No stationer's stock is complete without them. At wholesale by the leading Toronto stationers.

Take no more nauseous purgatives. Burdock Blood Bitters act mildly, pleasantly and thoroughly upon the bowels, and occasion no inconvenience, while it regulates the Liver and Kidneys and tones the enfeebled system. Trial bottles 10 cents. 22-2t

"Your arguments are sound, my son, and delivered with force," said the clergyman to his boy, who had been hanging away at his drum for an hour or more; "but we have heard quite enough on that head."

Consumption, that dread destroyer of the human race, is often the result of bad blood and low vitality, a scrofulous condition of the system. Burdock Blood Bitters cure Scrofula in its worst form. 22-2t

Ayer's Ague Cure is the only medicine in existence which may be considered an absolute antidote for fever and ague, and kindred diseases. It not only affords immediate relief, but it eradicates the malarial poison which produces the disease, without leaving any enervating or injurious effect, as in the case with many of the ague medicines advertised.

THE CANADIANS have naturalized "bulldose" and "gerrymander," and are using them as freely and as indignantly as any political on this side of the line.

Henry Clement, Almonte, writes: "For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism, at times wholly disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit, until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, told me about it. I began using it both internally and externally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns, cuts and bruises, it has no equal."

If a rich man doesn't give, he is called miserly; if he does give, he is accused of doing it for notoriety.

GOING TO HIS GRAVE.—There he goes again direct to a saloon and pours down another heavy draught of strong drink, not so much because his appetite demands it, but for the artificial buoyancy it produces—the after effects of which leave him more miserable than before; it is this direct road to the grave that is daily sending thousands to premature graves. A remedy for all this is found in the true friend of temperance—the best and purest of all medicine—Electric Bitters. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald at 50 cents.

When a man attains the age of ninety years, what figuratively, can he really be set down at? As XC-dingly old.

DR. WARNER'S ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA supplies a much needed want among invalids of a safe combination of restorative agents that may be taken for a prolonged period in all forms of debility, without ever stimulating or depressing the organism. It maintains a constant impulse on nutrition that secures the repair of wasted tissues, and creates a uniform supply of nerve force to tide the worn-out frame over attacks of extreme depression. Over-worked men and women will find its SUSTAINING POWER of great value.

A disappointed young man says he wishes he was a rumor, because a rumor soon gains currency, which he was never been able to do.

BEWARE OF THEM.—A good article that has achieved success, and attained a world-wide reputation by its true merits and wonderful results, is always imitated. Such is the case with Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Already unprincipled parties are endeavoring to delude an unsuspecting public, by offering imitations of this most fortunate discovery. Do not be deceived, but insist on having the true remedy, and take no other. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

A wag speaking of a friend whom he suspected of living altogether beyond his means, observed that he believed he "would owe several thousand dollars after all his debts were paid."

 "Many silly people despise the precious, not understanding it." But no one despises Kidney-Wort after having given it a trial. Those that have used it agree that it is by far the best medicine known. Its action is prompt, thorough and lasting. Don't take pills, and other mercurials that poison the system, but by using Kidney-Wort restore the natural action of all the organs.

☞No woman really practices economy unless she uses the Diamond Dyes. Many dollars can be saved every year Ask the druggist.

A trial of "Kaiser" Machine Oil will convince you that it is the best oil in the market. Sold by dealers. Manufactured by Clarke & Haggart, Woodstock, Ont. 5-38t

Rheumatism is greatly dependent on a vitiated condition of the fluids, and may be eliminated from the system by cleansing the blood and regulating the kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters will do this most effectually. Trial bottles 10 cents. 22-2t

MANY a man's genuiness is just as good as new at forty, for the simple reason that it has never been used.

At the approach of spring great attention should be given to purify the system engorged with foul humors during the winter. Burdock Blood Bitters is nature's own purifying and regulating tonic. 22-2t

IT WAS A CUSTOM among the American Indians to burn up the wigwam of a deceased brave to prevent his relatives quarrelling over his property. In civilized nations the property of the dead is handed over to the lawyers for similar reasons.

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE, are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and depurent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

ITEMS OF ECONOMY.

A strip of thick paper laid over the edge of each stair, under the carpet will preserve a stair carpet from wearing through one-third longer than otherwise.

Clean brass kettles, before using, with salt and vinegar, to avoid being poisoned by the verdigris.

Gum tragacanth dissolved in water makes a good and cheap paste, which will keep when it is sealed up.

The flavour of common molasses is much improved by boiling and skimming before using.

Damp tea leaves scattered over the carpet before sweeping, improve the colors, and give it a fresh clean look.

When you want a dust pan, have it made to order, with the handle turning down instead of up, so as to rest on the floor, and tip the dust pan at the proper angle for receiving the dust. It is a great convenience, as you do not have to stoop and hold it while you are sweeping.

Not One of Our Peculiarities.

So-called respectable people would hesitate considerably before puttering your pockets in a crowded thoroughfare. That would be too too. The same discrimination is not indicated by the so-called respectable druggist when that wonderful corn cure, PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, is asked for. He will pilfer your pockets in the most genteel manner by substituting cheap and dangerous substitutes for the genuine Putnam's Corn extractor. Watch for these gentlemen, and take none other than Putnam's Corn Extractor. Sold by druggists everywhere.

EXHORBITANT SALARIES and COSTLY BUILDINGS are not and cannot be indulged in AT THE EXPENSE and WITHOUT THE CONSENT of the Policy Holders, BECAUSE the POLICY HOLDERS are the owners of ALL the funds and assets and invest them ONLY in the MOST PROFITABLE MANNER for the general interest, themselves.

The Manager is paid a very moderate salary—NOT ONE-FIFTH of the salary paid to the Managers of many Companies, WHO USE THE PEOPLE'S MONEY AS THEY LIKE, without asking the liberty. The Agents ALL work on COMMISSION, and therefore IF THEY DO NOTHING, they GET NOTHING.

The RESERVE is largely above the Government standard on a 4 per cent. basis, and if calculated at 5 per cent., as in some of the older Companies, would be much further above that standard of safety.

The RESULT of the above features is:—1st, ABSOLUTE SECURITY. 2nd, RAPID ANNUAL DECREASE IN PREMIUMS AFTER THIRD YEAR.

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS.—The Police Magistrate has showed Thomas Purcell that the house, even of a woman of shady reputation, is her castle, for he sent him to gaol 3 months for breaking into the "house" of a lady on Elm street.

THE BOAT CLUB, at their last meeting, elected thirteen new members, making their number thirty-two. Tuesday nights are to be devoted to canoeing. Messrs. Budden, Loch, (G.C.) and Orr were made the rowing committee, and Messrs. Beck, Flavelle and Wood, canoe committee.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—The traffic returns for the week ending May 20th, 1882, are as follows:—Passengers and mails, $4,565.71; freight, $14,446.66; total, $19,012.37, as compared with $16,994.30 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $2,018.07; and the aggregate traffic to date is $334,001.42, being an increase of $100,621.96 over 1881.

THE TOTAL ASSESSMENT of the town of Peterborough for the year 1882 is $2,641,865; the total number of ratepayers is 1,873. The number of horses owned in the town is 348, and the number of dogs is 347, and no bitches assessed. The constant increase of our dog population can be explained only on the theory of spontaneous generation or spontaneous lying on the part of the owners of maternal canines.

BARNS BURNED.—On the twenty-fourth, about four o'clock, P.M., smoke was seen rising densely apparently in the north-west part of the town. It proved, however, that the premises of Mr. Richard Parnell, of Smith township, were on fire, and that five farm buildings with their contents were destroyed, including a horse and seven cattle. The total loss was about $2,200; covered by an insurance of $1,400.

COUNTY COUNCIL.—Owing to the fact that the polling day and the meeting of the County Council fall on the same day—the 20th—the council meeting has, by consent, been postponed till Wednesday, the 21st. This is the longest day in the year, and the council ought to do a good deal of work unless they are too much elated or demoralized on account of the result of the elections, to apply themselves to business.

MR. D. BELLEGHEM, furniture dealer, Hunter street, has shipped an elegant sideboard for Goulais' Hotel, Bobcaygeon. It is a handsome article of furniture, and a credit to local manufacture. Mr. Belleghem has also the contract of furnishing the hotel throughout. In the arrangement of appartments in the hotel, there has been, it is said, a cosy back parlor reserved for Mr. "Smiff" and his fishing friends.

MANY THANKS.—The Toronto World "wonld like to see" a better printed weekly than THE PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER. In this respect we are in the same boat with our comical cotem. and we thank him for the compliment implied in his remark, and at the same time intimate that the present "print" of our sheet is not a circumstance to what it will be when our new presses are set up. THE EXAMINER can't afford to be, and won't be behindhand in anything in any respect requisite for the publication of a first-class weekly journal.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN.—The Rev. F. W. Bowre, representative of the Bible Christian Conference, England, who has recently been visiting the Colonial Mission work in Australia and New Zealand, and who is now in Canada for a similar purpose, and to be present at the Bible Christian Conference in Port Hope, early in June, before returning to England, will address a meeting in the Bible Christian Church, Peterborough, on Tuesday, June 6th, at 7.30 p. m., embracing the incidents of his missionary tour and the work generally. A special collection will be taken on behalf of the Missionary Society. An invitation is extended to the general public to be present on the occasion.

THE LOCKS BRIDGE.—It has been decided by the joint committee of the county and town councils to repair the locks' bridge temporarily. The report of the committee recommending the construction of a new iron bridge, was adopted by the town council on Monday night.

NEW YORK CHURCH CHOIR.—This charming company will occupy Bradburn's Opera Hall with one of their delightfully diversified entertainments on Monday evening, June 5th. The programme will consist of concert and comic opera, quartettes, duos, solos, etc. Miss Rosina Clifton, the clever pianiste and vocalist of the party, will have a prominent place in it and Mr. Clifton will appear in amusing specialties and ventriloquisms. The entertainment is a pleasing variety, combining classical and popular musical renditions with humour and refined fun. The press endorsations of the company are very flattering. Tickets 25 cents and 50 cents at Davidson's Bookstore, where plan of seats has been opened.

AN OLD FRIEND HEARD FROM.—A former resident of Peterborough, now in Scotland, writes to us thus encouragingly:

4 Miller's Place, Airdrie, Scotland.
May 15, 1882.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Inclosed please find $1.40 as payment in advance for another year of your interesting and instructive paper, the EXAMINER. I think that it is now about seven years since we first got your paper by post; three years of that time it has been sent to us in this country, and I may say that in that time we have never missed a single copy, which speaks well for the management and order in the EXAMINER office, and also for the splendid post office system existing between the two countries. Your paper is a perfect mystery to some of the post office people here, inasmuch as it leaves the EXAMINER office in Peterborough and arrives at our door without the first sign of having passed through a post office, as there is neither stamp nor post-mark of any kind on it, neither has it ever yet found its way to the dead letter or dead paper office, which, I think, is an undeniable sign of life, and with the apparent good management and care bestowed on the EXAMINER, I guess the day is very far distant when it shall be found among the dead.

Hoping that everything is "booming with you," and that in spite of the N. P. your bread, water, and melons are still good and sure.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A meeting of the Town Council took place in the chamber on Monday evening. The demands on our space compel us to condense the report into the shortest possible space. There was not a full board present. Mr. Rutherford in the absence of the Mayor, through politics, occupied the chair, and Mr. James G. Macdonald acted as clerk in the absence of his father, through illness. Two or three petitions were referred to appropriate committees. Mr. Poussette, Chairman, presented the report of the Joint Committee of the town and county, in reference to the Locks bridge, recommending that it be repaired for the present, but that the timbers were so greatly decayed that it must soon be rebuilt. The committee recommended that in case of a new bridge being built, an iron one be erected. Mr. Poussette explained that a wooden bridge would cost $1500 and an iron bridge $2500, and moved the adoption of the report, which was done. Mr. Cahill brought up and read the report of the Street and Bridge Committee, recommending the performance of street work and building of walks, etc., to the extent of about $1000. Mr. Cahill said this was only a partial statement of the work that would be required, the street expenditure ranging from $6,000 to $12,000 a year. After some discussion the report was adopted. Mr. Poussette called attention to the necessity of the committee taking formal action in the matter of watering the streets. Mr. McNaughton made inquiries as to the opening of certain streets as had been directed by resolution of the council. He would like to know if Mr. Johnston was to run the town after a motion passed by the Council. Mr. Poussette said the Chief of Police was to blame for not enforcing the resolution to open these streets. Unless the Chief took action before the next meeting of the council he (Mr. Poussette) would move for his dismissal. Mr. McNaughton—"and I'll second it." After unimportant discussion the council adjourned till the 26th of June.

PERSONAL.

Mr. P. R. Randall, Mayor of Port Hope, was in town on private business on Monday.

Mr. Thomas Jaffray, of Toronto, a Director of the Midland Railway Company, is recovering from a serious illness.

Mr. G. A. Cox has been appointed a member of the board of Directors of the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company of Canada.

Mr. C. D. McDonald, town clerk, who has been kept from his office about a fortnight by illness—erysipelas—has recovered sufficiently to resume the discharge of his duties.

The following residents of Peterborough were on the ill-fated steamer, Manitoulin, at the time of her destruction by fire, but managed to escape: J. Guerin, V. Guerin, Joseph Gawen and W. McCoy.

Messrs. Murray, travelling agent of the Intercolonial Railway and Richardson, passenger agent of the Union Pacific Railway were in town the past week. They were the guests of the Caisse House.

Messrs. G. A. Cox, —— Boundrett, J. F. Holden and J. F. Jeffers have been selected as members of a committee to arrange for the appointment of a Dominion Railway Committee, as auxiliary to the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. F. C. Upton, late general freight agent on the Toronto and Nipissing Railway, is now freight inspector of the Midland. On leaving his former employment he was presented by Mr. Wm. Gooderham, President of the company with a splendid silver pitcher.

Prof. Dixon, Peterborough's ventriloquist, entered into a week's engagement at Harry Miner's Theatre, New York, on Monday last. On the 1st of June he begins a week's engagement at Bunnel's Museum, Broadway, and another at Bunnel's Museum, Brooklyn, the week after.

We are greatly pleased to note that Mr. Charles R. Stewart of the Bobcaygeon Independent, has been appointed Crown Land Agent, residence at Haliburton. It is a new agency consisting of the Free Grant Townships of Bangor, Wicklow, and McClure. We congratulate our old friend on the fact of the recognition of his merits thus substantially, and the Ontario government is to be commended for the graceful compliment to the press implied in the appointment. No other rural newspaper has been so freely and generally quoted as our lively cotem, the Independent, which we are happy to say will be conducted as usual by the son, Mr. C. E. Stewart, with, we hope, Mr. Smiff, a frequent contributor

THE TWENTY-FOURTH.

HOW IT WAS CELEBRATED IN TOWN.

Her Majesty's sixty-third natal day was not celebrated in Peterborough with any marked degree of enthusiasm, yet there was a general suspension of business, a general donning of holiday attire and a general pursuit of pleasure, indicative of a loyal recollection of the occasion. The first event that collectively attracted public attention was which took place in the morning, on the Ashburnham cricket ground, between the Peterboroughs and the "Independents," of Toronto, so called, for there is reason to believe that many of the best players at the game, available in the city, were induced to join the holiday outing for the sake of wiping out the stain of the defeat incurred by the Independents at their visit here a year ago. And they did carry out that programme to the fullest, for the home team was downed in three straight games. The teams were composed as follows:

THE LACROSSE MATCH,

INDEPENDENTS.—J. Hughes, goal; M. Matthews, point; S. Hewson, cover point; J. Burns, J. H. Lucett and J. O'Neil, home: Jos. Burns, J. O'Farrell, F. Bourdin and J. Morrison, field; C. Lynden and J. Dunn, home; J. Kew, captain.

PETERBOROUGH.—J. Donoghue, goal; W. Rudkins, point; J. Joyal, cover point; M. Halpin and M. McDonald, defence field; A. Yelland, centre field; J. Simpson, M. Tierney, R. H. Fortye, field; C. Rutherford, home field; W. Morrow, 2d home, and Geo. Giroux, 1st home; W. A. Sanderson, captain.

The umpires were D. Fitzgerald for Peterborough, and J. Ryan for Toronto. Mr. Andrew McNeil acted as referee.

Toronto won the toss and selected the west goal, which gave them the advantage of the wind. Exactly one minute after eleven the ball was faced, and play began in good earnest. In the first stage of the game, the home team had the best of the play; the ball being kept uncomfortably near the Toronto goal, which had several narrow escapes. There were some splendid and well judged long throws made by the Peterborough lads, but it was not long before it was evident that the visitors had the advantage in the little arts of finesse that count so much in this lively game; they played well together and into each others' hands, and this is something the home team doubtless made a note of. After 20 minutes of pretty well balanced play, the game was interrupted by a heathenish act by O'Neil, one of the Independents, who, in a struggle with J. Simpson for the ball, seized the latter savagely by the shoulder with his prominent teeth and bit till the blood ran down Simpson's back, and also bit a piece out of the hand of McDonald, who was trying to choke him off his bull-dog grip. This little specimen of cannibalism stopped the play for about ten minutes, and the fact of O'Neil's appearing on the field afterwards, showed the gentlemanly forbearance of the Peterboroughs in a most favorable light, in face of the fact that a person of his brutish proclivities should never be allowed to lift a stick in another match. The play continued, and after sixty-five minutes, counting the time consumed by the Toronto cannibal's collation, the Independents secured the first game. They also secured the second in twenty minutes, and the third in ten minutes, thus winning the match in three straight games. But they were not by any means easily won. They were sharply contested, and had the Peterboroughs had a little more practice together this season, the victory would likely have been on the other side. The home team had the advantage in weight and all they lacked was the practice to make them a twelve hard to beat. We hope that by the time they appear in public again they will, by continuous practice, have placed themselves in a position to secure a victory. There was a great attendance to witness the match, showing that the interest of the public in the game itself, or in the home team, was very great.

SPORTS AND GAMES.

These began at the Agricultural grounds at 2.30 o'clock. There was also a good attendance here, but the competitions for the various prizes were not in all cases keenly enough contested to make them of much interest. The following is a list of winners:—

THROWING CRICKET BALL.—J. Hayes, 93½ yards.

HUNDRED YARD RACE.—Three heats.—1st, Fairbanks; 2d, Morris.

HUNDRED YARD RACE (Boys).—1st, Burns; 2d, Lynch; 3d, Larone. A protest was entered against Burns receiving the 1st prize, on the grounds that he was over 15 years of age, and the others, therefore, became 1st and 2d.

ONE MILE RACE.—For this there were three entries: McNaughton, McGregor and Bird. The first two dropped out before the end of the mile; McGregor on the third lap, and McNaughton on the 6th, Bird, therefore, was an easy winner in 5 minutes.

THREE LEGGED RACE (Boys).—1st, M. Orde and P. Sherwood; 2d, E. Stratton and P. Smith.

QUARTER MILE RACE (Boys).—1st, M. Orde; 2d, E. Stratton.

QUARTER MILE DASH (Open).—1st, Morris; 2d, Hughes.

HURDLE RACE (Boys).—1st, P. Smith; 2d, E. Stratton.

HURDLE RACE (Open).—1st, L. E. Fairbanks; 2d, G. Orde.

EGG RACE.—1st, M. Orde; 2d, P. Smith.

THREE LEGGED RACE (Open).—1st, Orde (G.) & Sewell: 2d, Orde (M.) & Sherwood.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.—J. Hayes, 4 ft. 7 in.

CONSOLATION RACE (Boys).—1st, T. Cronan; 2d, F. Burritt.

250 YARD RACE (Open).—1st, G. Orde: 2d. M. Sewell.

TUG OF WAR.—1st, Messrs. P. Kane, F. Driscoll, S. Scott, M. O'Brien, J. May and W. Crowley.

There was no competition for the other prizes on the programme.

The position of judges was filled by Messrs. Judge Dennistoun, Hon. R. Hamilton, Rev. V. Clementi, C. A. Weller, F. J. Lewis and R. A. Morrow.

The starters were Lt.-Col. Rogers, Messrs. J. McClelland and W. H. Budden.

The band was in attendance and gave life to the proceedings by several creditably rendered selections, considering the illness of the band master, left them without a leader. For the same reason, and also owing to the coldness of the evening, the promenade concert in the Drill Shed did not take place.

ROYAL SALUTE.

At 1.30 the Battery fired a salute of twenty-one guns in the Court House Park.

On the whole, the day passed away quietly, though towards evening there were evidences of a considerable consumption of whiskey, but the artificial loyalty of the imbibers did not tempt them into displays of enthusiasm inconsistent with the preservation of the public peace.

The Review's Insult of the Irish

His Intolerant Turpitude Attacks and Slanders Irish Immigrants because they are Poor.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

DEAR SIR,—He would be a base-minded Irishman who could read the miserable lampoon on his countrymen, which appeared in last Saturday's issue of the local organ, without a feeling of indignation. No true-hearted Irishman could be otherwise than insulted by that disgraceful article; although no Irishman who knew anything of the editor of the Review could be surprised at it. It has been his habitual practice to never refer to the Irish people without endeavouring to bring them into contempt. His inveterate hatred of their nationality is such that no time is unseasonable for the use of his pen to comment on their poverty and ignorance. It is so congenial to his nature to belittle the character of the Irish people, that, although in the heat of an election campaign, his malignity to their race prevails over his cunningness. The feeling that he entertains towards them is clearly indicated from the fact that he could not repress his strong passion to vent scurrility on them, even when on the eve of an election.

With peculiar satisfaction he graphically describes the misery, and ignorance of the Irish emigrants, but, like a bigoted partisan, he omits to express one word of censure on the causes which reduced them to such a state of wretchedness. He carefully avoids mentioning that these poor people were lately the victims of a remorseless and tyrannical system of landlordism, which drove them almost paupers, from their native land. He could not endure the pain of explaining, as an excuse for their penury, that but two years ago they eked out an existence through a dire famine which threatened, for many months, to relieve them of the misery of their lives; and that, after having struggled through that period of great distress, they lived long enough, in their own country, to grow a crop of potatoes, not to feed themselves with, but to be distrained and sold in order to procure luxuries for their avaricious absentee landlords. He did not endeavour to enlist the sympathies of his townsmen for those helpless "strangers in a strange land," who were forced to quit their ancient homes, their friends, and all those associations which had made up the only happiness of their lives. No—but he preferred to engage his descriptive faculties in portraying their squalor and poverty. And it was more gratifying to him to draw public attention to their ignorance than to condemn the cruel policy of that Government, which for several centuries by means of the iniquitous penal statutes, had deprived them of education, and which has unfortunately resulted in making them an illiterate people.

But the editor's chief fault lies not so much in remaining silent concerning those facts which account for the impoverished state of the Irish emigrants, as for the maliciously false statements which he makes in regard to them. He says that "the lowest class of Canadians are superior to them in every respect." When he uses such language as "in every respect," it is impossible to escape, by any mode of reasonable construction of his words, the inference that the Irish emigrant are morally and intellectually inferior to the most viciously depraved Canadians. But he fails to show that the band of Canadian rowdies who attacked, by night, with clubs and stones the building in which these friendless and homeless emigrants were gathered, were in "every respect" superior to these peaceable and terrified strangers.

That nightly scene presented an impressive contrast between the characters of the two people; between the terror-stricken Irish mothers and their shuddering children, frightened out of their much needed slumbers, and the gang of ruffians who made the night dismal with their violence and blasphemy. It is true that these emigrants were in want of food and clothing, but it can be safely said, without having recourse to the Scriptures, that such want was neither a sin nor a crime. And it may be that these poor Irish women are as virtuous and those Irishmen as honest as those who compose the elevated society to which the editor of the Review belongs.

The editor of the Review chooses to say that the emigrants were "exceedingly ignorant" because they very wisely did not supply his inquisitive reporter with as much information regarding the unfortunate country they left, as that intrusive youth desired. They felt that his impertinent inquiries were prompted by no desire to sympathize with them in their sufferings but to make them the subject of derision and contempt. He expresses his disappointment that the Irish mothers and their daughters did not, within a few hours of their arrival, rush out in the midst of the rain storm, and plunge themselves into the river Otonabee, and there perform their ablutions, under the immediate inspection and sonorous gaze of his observant reporter; it seems to be here necessary to inform the Editor of the Review that modesty is one of the virtues belonging to Irish women.

If the Irish people can judge of the esteem in which they are held by the Conservative party in this electoral Riding, by the contemptuous manner in which the party's mouthpiece speaks of them, they should, in order to maintain their self-respect, liberate themselves at once from Tory domination, at least in this constituency. They are at present an important factor of the electorate, and no one has better reason to regret that than Mr. Carnegie. On two occasions within the past twelve months he has been unable to obtain the nomination of his political party, owing to the disaffection from him of the Irish Conservatives. And he will not conciliate this Irish element until he abandons that vile course of slandering and abusing their race, which he has so persistently pursued, through the whole of his past editorial career.

A MAN FROM GALWAY.
Enniscorthy, June 5th, 1882.

The Best Kind of Constituencies.

Mr. Joseph Donovan of Toronto, a well known Roman Catholic barrister and politician, has come out with an appeal to his co-religionists to support Mr. Blake in the pending election contest. Mr. Donovan is a life-long Conservative, but just now he feels disposed to cast off the old allegiance, and advises others to do the same. Better still, Mr. Donovan is able to give an excellent reason for making the change at the present time. He believes that unless something is done to put a stop to such gerrymandering of constituencies as Sir John Macdonald has just been guilty of, irreparable injury will be done to our representative institutions, and he believes that the true remedy is to be found in the grouping scheme, advocated by Mr. Blake in the campaign of 1879. It will be remembered that at that time Mr. Blake's views were endorsed by many leading Conservatives, and some Conservative journals. Even our contemporary, the Review, approved of them, and expressed its belief that the adoption of some such scheme would greatly improve our electoral system.

There are three evils intimately connected with our present system of allotting one member to each of a number of small districts:—(1) the temptation to alter the boundaries of the districts, whenever a party advantage is to be gained by doing so; (2) the disproportion between the relative strength of parties in Parliament, and their relative strength in the country; and (3) the impossibility of securing a fair representation of other minorities besides the regular opposition minority. These evils would be to a large extent remedied, if not entirely removed, by Mr. Blake's grouping system, endorsed by Mr. Donovan in his letter of last week. Mr. Blake proposed groups of seven of our present constituencies; Mr. Donovan proposes to divide Ontario into thirteen electoral districts. As we have now 92 members it will be seen that the proposals are practically identical.

Take a group made up of the two Peterboroughs, the two Northumberlands and the three Hastings and see how it would work. In the first place there could be little or no gerrymandering attempted, for no Government would be able to materially alter the outside boundaries, and the lines between counties inside would lose all political significance. In the second place the regular Opposition strength in the enlarged district would stand a much better chance of being correctly indicated in the representation where seven members are to be chosen than where there is only one. And in the third place the Roman Catholics, who have in the above group enough of votes to elect one member of their own persuasion, would be able to do so by concentrating their strength on one candidate. The same is true of other minorities, and there is no reason why in a theoretically perfect system of minorities should not, as far as possible, be represented. It is hardly necessary to add that the chances of electing really good men to Parliament would, under such a system be greatly improved. Under the present purely territorial plan, a ward politician, by persistent intrigue, can capture a party convention and force himself upon his own party. By its aid he may succeed, by similar tactics, in forcing himself on the constituency and the country, to the detriment, if not the disgrace, of both. With large areas, such as those proposed by Mr. Blake and Mr. Donovan, good men would have a better chance of being elected, and the power of the mere ward politician would be gone.

What chance is there of getting such a measure of Reform from the men now in power? None at all. Sir John Macdonald, who has just perpetrated the most cowardly piece of gerrymandering ever tried on this continent, is not the man to remedy an evil of his own introduction. The more imperfect our electoral system, the better for such manipulators as he. To make matters worse he is surrounded by men worse than himself, for bad as he is he would never have gone so far but for the pressure brought to bear upon him. To Mr. Blake Mr. Donovan turns for relief, and from Mr. Blake, if he gets into power as the result of the present contest the reform will come. He is the very man to prepare a Bill which in principle and detail, in scope and purpose would be the perfect antipodes, of the cowardly gerrymandering movement of Sir John and his friends. Let him have the opportunity then. Take Mr. Donovan's advice, and without respect to party support the man who holds statesmanlike views, has the ability to embody them in legislative form, and is not afraid to trust the people.

THE "CHIEFTAIN'S" VISIT.

The Premier and his Poetic Pal, ex-M. P. Plumb, Orate and Edify the people of Peterborough. The Affair a Political Failure.

The visit of Sir John Macdonald to Peterborough last Monday night was a fact, but the success attending the attempt at a demonstration was a factitious display and very far from being a political success. The Premier was to have arrived at 7 o'clock, at which hour, had he been on time, he would have had a very much tamer reception, but by delaying almost an hour longer, the lads and lasses and boys, out for evening strolls, naturally meandered toward the station, and when the "Chieftain" arrived in the official car of the Midland R. R., kindly placed at his services by G. A. Cox, Esq., there was a pretty fair crowd present, but its party composition was betrayed when only about a hundred throats gave vent to the scattering and promiscuous cheers that welcomed Sir John to Peterborough. Lady Macdonald accompanied the chieftain, and they and their party, with leading Conservative citizens, who had gone down to Fraserville to meet them, took carriages and drove in procession, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, to the Oriental House, where refreshments were served for the visitors.

THE SPEAKING

took place at the Drill Shed, where a large crowd had gathered. There was a very large attendance of ladies, and the boys were out in full force. There were, perhaps, over two thousand persons present, but judging from the appearance of the crowd, only about a quarter were electors.

J. Stevenson, Esq., occupied the chair, and first introduced Mr. J. Burr Plumb, who, after saying it was the biggest political meeting he ever addressed, broke into the following poetic gem:

Had the notice been longer
The crowd had been stronger, and continued in fulsome praise of Sir John and the Government, and elaborate excuses for their misdeeds. His labored efforts caused him to sweat profusely, the perspiration pouring down his face and neck till his collar was merely a wet string. That his prosy bore of a speech was listened to at all was great praise to the audience, who had not come to hear him, and they gave him such broad hints to that effect, that he finally wound himself up and cut his oration short.

Sir John was received with loud cheers. The Chieftain was evidently fatigued, and lacked the vim and jaunty personal bearing with which he generally meets and wins a crowd. His address lasted for about an hour, and consisted of mere assertions, not one proof being adduced, nor one well defined argument employed. He glorified the N. P.; gloried in the surplus which enabled the Government (just before the election) to give grants to build post offices, and patch the locks at Burleigh and Fenelon Falls, but he didn't mention how convenient it was to give contract grabs to Onderdonk and men of his kidney. He praised his Canada Pacific Railway Syndicate, and took credit for great things in the settlement of the North-West. As in duty bound, he referred to the Trent Valley Canal scheme, that lay close to the Government's heart, and, though he didn't "wish to God he could catch him," he worked plainly enough to catch the elector's vote by this pretext. He made altogether a weak and prosy speech for him and was about to conclude without referring to any vital questions, such as the Gerrymander and Disallowance, when an elector called his attention to the latter, and then, as a "constitutional lawyer," he gave an explanation of that and the Boundary Award matter that would mystify a jury of lawyers.

After the meeting a torchlight procession escorted the Premier to the station, whence he went to Toronto, to join the conspiracy of manufacturers held on Tuesday, doubtless for the purpose of "fixing" the election.

The success of the visit must have discouraged the originators and showed them that the people of Peterborough and vicinity had allowed themselves to be wheedled by Sir John's graceful flattery and specious special pleadings too often, and have now made up their minds to decide upon the issue of this election themselves. The demonstration has certainly done little to improve the chances of either candidate in either riding. The chances of the Reform candidates in both ridings are improving every day, and it will take more than the prosy platitudes of Mr. Plumb and the sophistry of Sir John to neutralize the feelings of hostility to the Ottawa oligarchy that is spreading among the electors.

THAT KEY.

MR. EDITOR, DEAR SIR,—Some of Mr. Burnham's friends have been circulating that Mr. Burnham was not allowed the use of the School house in section No. 4, Dummer, to hold a meeting in. The plain facts are these: neither Mr. Burnham nor any of his friends asked either trustee or teacher for the use of the School or key, previous to the time of holding the meeting, and, of course, when they went there the School house was not open. Mr. Burnham is welcome to our School house, and the blame rests wholly with his friends, that this meeting was not held in it on 30th May last.

PETEBBOROUGH, JNUE 8, 1882.

"A Disgrace to Journalism."

The Review is entitled to the medal as the most unfair and squirmy, as well as most abusive journal in Canada. In our last issue we had an item commenting on the statement we saw in another newspaper, respecting Mr. Aiken's retirement from the cabinet. This innocent reference calls out the Review in such language as "several wilful falsehoods," whereas since there was no statement made there could be no falsehood. But the man who finds it torture to tell the truth, is very apt to consider everybody else as base as himself, and impute the most dishonorable motives. THE EXAMINER has not been able to differ with the Review on the most trivial political points and in the mildest language, without having been stigmatized as a "disgrace to journalism." We have become so accustomed to this that we heed it no more than the barking of a cur at our heels, but when this same spirit is carried into the slandering and abuse of an honorable and able public man, we feel it our duty to hold the perpetrator up to public reprobation. A few days ago the Review man operated on the Hon. Edward Blake. A column of abuse of the leader of the Opposition or any other man, of such bitter and unreasoning vindictiveness and slanderous spitefulness, as that referred to, it has never been our humiliation to read. Mr. Blake is styled by this journalistic bully, "that prince of political hypocrits"—several times repeated—"political poltroon," "this same Edward Blake," "regardless of truth, justice or right." This language applied by the editor of the Review to Hon. Edward Blake, one of the few men who has been his length of time in political life who has not stained his career by a corrupt act; who has kept his personal integrity unimpaired, and kept his political character up to the high standard of an honorable and honored Canadian statesman, is worse than slander, it is crime. The most that Mr. Blake's bitterest political opponents have argued against him, (till the Review ribstabber, assassin-like, assailed him) was that he was inconsistent and impracticable and rather a great lawyer than a leading statesman. The idea of a man like the editor of the Review thus savagely slandering a man like Mr. Blake—a man to whom the leader of the Opposition in point of honor, rectitude and moral worth compares as the Angel Gabriel to Lucifer—would be ridiculous, were it not supremely painful to think that Canadian civilization could produce and tolerate such malicious meanness. But it is only abroad that such journaliam can disgrace Peterborough. Here the editor and his abusive and vindictive style are known too well to expect anything better from such a source. The editor of the Review, by his bitterly abusive style has alienated even the friends whom political sympathy would naturally attach to him, he has lessened the influence of his paper, he has brought the editor in such bad odor with his own party, that his morbid ambition to get into parliament cannot secure even the slighest of primary encouragements—a nomination; he has driven more than one member of the party from its ranks; his pointless and sneaking tirades have brought upon him well-deserved personal chastisement, whose smart was unassuaged even by the sympathy of his own political party. Not only is nobody's private character safe from the venom of his spleen, but his treatment of his confreres should debar him from remaining a member of the journalistic guild. Unscrupulous and morally pliant, he sticks at no statement, hesitates at no insinuation that can carry his point, he deals in broad generalities and sneaking insinuations that are neither argument nor truth, and when detected in false quotations or deliberately biassed statements, he crawls into hiding like a chastised cur. In all respects as a journalist, either in his relations to his editorial opponents or to the public, the editor of the Review has yet to learn the first ethics of journalism or the first principle of civil treatment of personal or political opponents.

Notes of the Day.

Temperance reformation is making very rapid advances in England. Even Mr. Gladstone, as Chancellor of the Exchequer admits that the movement is now sensibly telling on the income of the Excise department of the public revenue. In 1874 fifty-one per cent of all the taxes raised in England was received from levies on alcholic liquors; in 1881-82 this amount was only 46½ per cent. This was not due to depression in trade or to hard times, for at present the diminution continues and the deposits in saving banks are increasing. The Church of England Temperance Society, headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and supported heartily by Bishops and Clergy is exercising a potent influence for good in this direction. The society makes temperance a part of church work and embraces both total abstainers and temperance men who are non-abstainers. In twenty-five dioceses last year the membership was 339,667, an increase of nearly forty thousand over the previous year. Besides these is twenty-two dioceses a juvenile membership of 160,000 was reported. A Temperance Sunday is generally observed wherever the movement has a footing, on which occasion sermons on the subject are preached in the parish churches. Recently on this day 350 such sermons were preached in the Diocese of Rochester, and 240 in London. This shows the growth of this very encouraging and much needed work and attests the hold it has on the minds of England's most active and influential men.

THE mission of the press is world wide. Its power is ever on the increase and its influence is gradually and steadily extending. In almost every heathen country the newspaper and periodical agency is an immense lever in helping on the work of christian missions. Indeed it is only second in importance to the Scriptures as a means of reaching the people. Religious newspapers we believe had their origin in America, and now they have extended to every quarter of the habitable world. In Constantinople there are now two religious papers—the Zornitza a weekly, published in the Bulgarian language, and the Avedaper published in Armenian, Armeno-Turkish and Græco-Turkish. The circulation of the former is 4000 copies and of the latter 2200. These wholesome Christian journals penetrate into a thousand places where no colporteur or missionary would be admitted and are exerting a most beneficial influence. In Japan they have a monthly, the Chrysanthemum published in Yokohama, and devoted exclusively to religious questions. This has impelled the Buddhists and Shintoists to follow the same direction and accordingly the native press now alludes to Christianity and its teachings in almost every issue. Much good must result from this movement and the cause of truth be extended thro' free and enlightened discussion and the agency of the newspaper and periodical.

THE pension item in the annual budget of the United States is no small matter and every year it increases under the fostering care of departmental indifference and fear of the soldier vote. The pension bill for the next year amounts to the astonishing sum of one hundred million dollars. It is said on the best official authority that one-fourth of this sum, viz: twenty-five million dollars is paid to those who have no right whatever to it. There is a steady and continued increase in the number of applications, which is only natural, when fraud is so successful as this would indicate, but no effort is put forth to protect the people from being swindled in the name of patriotism and sympathy. Not a voice is heard against these impositions and "rings" have everything their own way, in order that members of congress may at any cost capture the soldier vote. One fact shows the extent which this pension system has reached. The payment of pensions at present to meet all applicants amounted to $20,000,000 more than the entire interest on the public debt last year. In the annual budget it is the largest item, and yet as we have said not a single voice is raised against the iniquitous appropriation. Verily the "boys in blue" are powerful in the congress and at the polls!

The Irish Canadian says that in countries where Roman Catholics are in large majority the Protestant minority are freely accorded more than a fair share of representation in the councils of the nation. France, Spain, Belgium and Ireland are instanced as examples. In the British Empire and there only, the minority, if it be Catholic is ostracised. In England and Scotland out of 550 odd members of Parliament there is only one professing the Catholic faith, yet in these two countries Roman Catholics number between two and three millions. In Ontario the minority has only two representatives to a population of nearly two millions, while Quebec has six Protestant senators to a population of 196,000. The minority is also well represented in the Local Parliament of Quebec, and in the House of Commons. From this statement the Irish Canadian puts in a strong plea for the same liberality in Ontario which is meted out to the Protestants of the Lower Provinces. Their co-religionists here should receive as a minority equal justice with the minority there. There appears both reason and common sense in these remarks, but we imagine the only fault is their own as even in strong Roman Catholic ridings nominations are given to others and they are content to be "hewers of wood and drawers of water."

EXCESSIVE taxation and a consequent increase in the revenues leads to all sorts of extravagance and political jobbery. The United States as well as Canada gives numerous instances of this fact. Recently the sum of one million eight hundred thousand dollars was voted for additional work upon the state capitol of New York at Albany. Thirteen millions have been expended on the building already, though the estimated cost was but four millions! The edifice is termed a monument of colossal extravagance, and engineers say it is likely to tumble down owing to the bad workmanship. All sorts of persons, friends of the State Senators, are employed thereon, no matter what their qualifications may be, and this is the result. Again we are told nearly seventeen and one-half millions are voted as a river and harbor appropriation. Last year for the same purpose eleven millions were spent, much of it uselessly and foolishly, and no one thought the audacity would be repeated. But here the call is made again and for an increased sum. The improvements spoken of have neither merit nor national importance but are simply for the purpose of disbursing the people's money among the members' constituencies. Needless taxation has accumulated an enormous surplus and so it must be squandered! Let the people make a note of this in Canada, and sweep from power the National Policy men, and so remove this temptation to extravagance.

THE DISCRIMINATION AGAINST THE POOR.

Let any impartial man study the facts given below, and then let him declare whether this is a fit state of things to exist in an alleged free country.

TAXATION ON THE POOR MAN'S COATING AND TROUSERING.

	Per cent.
The tax upon a cheap tweed coating, at wholesale in England, 18 cents a yard, and weighing ten ounces to the yard, is	41½

The taxation on a blanket costing in England 15 cents a pound, is	110

TAXATION ON THE RICH MAN'S BLANKET.

The tax on a superior quality of blanket costing 45 cents a pound, if imported, would be about	85
But as Canadian manufacturers have a practical monopoly of the home trade in superior blankets the taxation is according to their accounts	Nothing.

In order to bring out more vividly the odious character of the tariff discriminations against the poor, we collate the figures given above, and present them in a different manner.

AN HONEST OPINION.

Mr. Charles Durand, a former editor of the Toronto Leader, continues his able letters on Dominion politics to the World. In his latest he says: I am desirous of saying that there is a crisis in this Dominion and other issues—especially as to Ontario, and we must rise above the interests of mere office-seekers and office-holders. Very few of us can be office-holders, and I trust that all patriotism is no yet gone—that there are yet true men among Conservatives as well as Reformers, that the abominable doctrine of "vote for your party whether right or wrong" is not the motto of the majority. Well what are the true issues in the Dominion? One is the syndicate. Sir John A. should be condemned for handing over this great heritage of the people to a company of speculators for ever! Yes for ever! for granting unheard of privileges for at least a generation—for mortgaging the revenues of the country for its benefit—for crippling the freedom of the lands there—and choking off all competition in railroads. He should be condemned in Ontario for setting aside a just award made by his own friends in our favor, and much more for proclaiming as loud as his trumpet could do it "I am afraid of public opinion—afraid of the constituencies, afraid of the fair expression of the people's minds, and therefore I will destroy their constituencies and manipulate them so as to select my friends."

To the Free and Independent Electors of the EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBORO'

GENTLEMEN:—

Having accepted the unanimous nomination of a very large and influential Convention to become the candidate to represent the Liberal Party in the pending elections for the House of Commons, I take the usual way of addressing you and soliciting your influence and votes.

Never in the history of Canada were the rights and privileges of the people in such danger of being undermined, and rendered nugatory by the efforts of Quebec to control the Conservative Premier and Cabinet, with an united determination to destroy the influence of Ontario in the Counsels of the Dominion. To this end the Boundary Award, fixed by three of the most distinguished arbitrators that could be selected, has been ignored, and sought to be set aside, by Sir John A. Macdonald, urged by Langevin and the Bleus of Quebec, with a view to depriving Ontario of her territory, 100,000 square miles, and the revenue of one hundred and twenty-five million dollars, the sum which the pine alone is estimated to be worth, to say nothing of the other valuable timber and minerals, and resulting in a loss to Ontario of over $300 of property to every man, woman and child in the Province, in respect to timber alone. Not satisfied with robbing us of our property, they have vetoed the Legislation of our Local Government, elected also by you to manage our own affairs, and this at the nod or beck of a political supporter and partizan.

And still more bent on the overthrow of the influence of Ontario, they have cut and carved the Municipalities (of Ontario only) so as, if possible, to prevent the return of Reformers, in order that they may be able to carry out their designs in Contract Letting, depriving the people of their North-west possessions by handing them over to an unscrupulous syndicate, and refusing to give the contract to Canadians, by which 3,000,000 acres of land and $3,000,000 would have been saved to the country and treasury, and their interferring with the rightful political autonomy of Manitoba in the disallowance of the Manitoba and South-Eastern Railway charter, thereby refusing to allow that Province to have more than one outlet to the southward, with enormous railway rates and incapacity of traffic accomodation which they are at present subjected to by a foreign corporation; and now fearing the day of retribution, they are springing the elections on the people a year before their term of office has expired, lest a year's more accumulated misrule and jobbery should ensure their complete overthrow at the polls.

It is not necessary for me, gentlemen, to tell you that if elected I shall seek to have these wrongs redressed by voting against all measures not founded on justice and economy. I will seek, if elected, to limit outlay and prevent the necessity for such enormous taxes as we are compelled to pay under the N.P. regime. I will do my utmost to prevent the increase of monopolies which are enriched out of your hard earnings, and I will seek to limit the expenditure of the Government merely to meet the absolutely necessary requirements of the Dominion.

I shall consider it not only a duty but a pleasure to support by my vote and influence, the construction of that vitally important enterprise, the Trent Valley Canal, recognizing in it a work that will not only specially result in the increased prosperity of this district, but also in the promotion of the trade interests of the Dominion in general, by perfecting the important series of works that will make our internal water-ways a perpetual source of commercial convenience.

While giving a free support to the Reform party, I will ever reserve the right to vote on all matters as in my judgment will best serve the interests of our country.

I will endeavour to call on you, if time will permit, before polling day. In the meantime I solicit your influence and votes to elect me to go to strengthen the hands of those noble men who have so energetically sought to stay misgovernment; to ease the burdens of the people; and to prevent the corruption in contract letting that has prevailed at Ottawa under Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues.

The Salvation Army.

Doubtless this term is somewhat familiar to many of our readers It is the title of a peculiar organization in England which has for its object the reformation of the profane, the drunkards and the criminal class, and which seeks to effect this by somewhat singular and out-of-the-way methods. In many respects it is a sensational movement; it appeals to the lowest strata of society, morally and socially and yet its success is most surprising in the face of decided and frequent opposition. The originator of this singular form of enthusiasm—Mr. Booth, a quondam lay-preacher of the Methodist body, has cleverly caught at the Scriptural metaphor that the Christian is a soldier, and his life a warfare, and on this he has based his methods of working. This truth he has made apparent in a grotesque manner by the adoption of military titles, uniform and an aggressive spirit on the part of those who are enrolled in his society. The enthusiasm of this singular organization is very wayward, many of its methods we must admit are irregular, its doctrines may in some cases appear erroneous and its noisy proceedings a nuisance, and still, that it has accomplished much good and been the means of reclaiming some of the vilest among the debased and outcast is a statement that cannot be contradicted for a moment.

Differing altogether from the methods adopted by Messrs. Moody and Sankey, and laboring amongst a far different and still more wicked class of people it has been, as we have said, singularly successful in accomplishing good. Five years ago this month, the "army" had twenty-six stations or places where they preached, now they have more than 284; then they had only thirty-six Evangelist "officers" as they called them, now they number 623; then they had 600 of what they called "volunteers" who were drilled and ready to speak, indoors or outdoors; now they have nearly 20,000 of these same persons. Five years ago their incomes was £4,000 annually, now they are collecting at the rate of £57,000 or $285,000 per year. Large halls for the purpose of holding services have been purchased in various towns throughout England, and one of these costing originally over £7,000, was opened only the other day at Colchester. The movement has also extended to France, and Paris itself has yielded over a hundred proselytes as a result of the first campaign. As yet no efforts have been made to commence work in America, although a couple of years ago this question was mooted and "General" Booth promised to inaugurate a series of revival meetings in New York. But their hands are full in the great cities of Britain and though the "officers" and their adherents have been subject to much persecution and opposition from the lowest mobs, everywhere their self-denying efforts have been crowned with wondrous success. Many of the most estimable among the English clergy have admitted that though they are not themselves in sympathy with the peculiar traits of this people, the words of the preachers are listened to eagerly by the most degraded and debased and have produced an effect for which they are extremely thankful. Wherever the "army" holds its meetings the buildings are crowded, and the enthusiasm which is said to be awakened is very great.

To account for its success is not difficult. It is the people's protest against secularism—a proof that the thought of God has not passed out of the minds of the least educated classes, and a witness of what zeal and energy in good works can accomplish, when they are accompanied with common sense. The ranks of this strange army, which has often shown forbearance when roughly attacked by brutal mobs, are filled with very earnest, and perhaps very excitable and nervous people, but people possessed with one idea and devoted to one true doctrine and that is, Salvation by the Cross. Fully convinced of the sin and wickedness that abound in the world and knowing that the Saviour alone can rescue men from sin, their chief aim is to draw men from their sinful courses by leading them to believe in the Son of God. They have in fact but two main doctrines viz. the misery of sin, present and future, and the blessedness and joy of being converted to Christ. Now that these truths put before the most degraded and basest of men, forcibly and plainly with all the usual accompaniments of music and good singing can impress men for good, Mr. and Mrs. Booth and those associated with them, like many others before them, have plainly proven. The only fear is that while men under the excitement of enthusiastic devotion may admit sin is a hateful evil and determine to forsake it; when they stand again face to face with the old temptations, and old associations reassert their power, and the first fervour of devotion has passed away, they will too readily allow themselves to be overcome and without guidance or help drift into their old habits and follow their old sinful ways. All such revivals and associations for the purpose of evangelization should be followed by something else. If not, a few may stand firm and conquer, may study the deep things of God and get help to resist the evil and strength to follow the good. But others and alas! as is usual the greater number will probably try a time to mix self-indulgence and devotion—much outward godliness and spiritual torpor, until all longings for a better life cease, and they become powerless to resist what is a part of themselves and their daily life, and their last state becomes worse than the first. The experience of revivals in our own town proves the need of sympathy, and the necessity of showing an interest in and watching over with real devotion and patient love those who have but started on the right course, and who require to be led gently.

Spiritual awakenings are often we fear allowed to dissipate because no man cares enough for the souls of those so awakened as to give freely of his own time and labours for their permanent good. It would be a great pity if the mighty efforts of the Salvation Army resulted in evil instead of good as too many similar revivals have done, and it is to be hoped that means may be taken to help forward by personal influence and personal sympathy those who have entered on a godly course through the self-denying efforts of these peaceful soldiers of the Cross.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Hon. Wm. Macdougall has come out as the Liberal candidate for Algoma.

Mr. John O'Donoghue and Mr. John Riordan are to be made senators and the former, it is said, is to enter the Cabinet.

Mr. J. R. Dundas and his party have in some way managed to appease Mr. McQuade who was cuckooed out of his candidature. What is the quid pro quo?

Sir John Macdonald has spoken at Napanee and Toronto, He is as jaunty as ever. His only defence of gerrymandering was the equalization of population—the weakness of which has been fully exposed.

More leaving the sinking ship; Mr. Drew, M.P., has been appointed county judge of Wellington, and the Hon. Mr. Walkem, premier of British Columbia, has received a judgeship of the B. C. Supreme Court.

The best thing out is the sending of boss Bunting of the Mail to West Durham "to keep Mr. Blake at home." The West Durham Reformers were "all broke up" when they heard the news, and wept copiously. They wanted a harder conundrum.

Mr. Carling, the new Postmaster-General, says that the change of the law making Sheriffs and Registrars Returning Officers, was in order to do away with the partisan spirit. That is to say, men who have retired from politics are held to be more partizans than those who are active seekers after office.

There are "other provinces," we are told, interested in the Boundary Award. We know that one other Province has interested itself, but we don't know what business it had to. Quebec has no business in the matter at all, but only for Quebec influence the award would have been ratified long ago.

Mr. James Innis of the Guelph Mercury has been nominated for South Wellington, and Mr. James Somerville of the Dundas True Banner, for North Brant. These are excellent nominations. Both gentlemen are effective speakers and will add strength to the min—well we mean the Reform side at present. Election sure.

Mayor McMurrich, J. D. Edgar and Mr. Thos Thompson are the Liberal candidates for West, Centre and East Toronto. Prospects excellent. A grand ratification meeting in the Opera House Tuesday evening was a most enthusiastic affair. The Ministerial candidates are Messrs. James Beatty, Robt. Hay and Ald. Small for the West Centre and East.

ANOTHER BAIT FOR THE CONSTITUENCIES.

The Government is asking for tenders for the construction of two lift locks, bridge piers, and other works at Fenelon Falls; also the construction of a lock at Buckhorn Rapids, and for the construction of three locks, a dam, and bridge piers at Burleigh Falls; all these in connection with Trent navigation. Tenders are also asked for the construction of the Murray Canal. Both the advertisements bear date of the 22nd of May, the last day on which the Privy Council met, and when no doubt this advertising was agreed upon as part of the electioneering programme. Tenders will not be opened until after the election, when having used the intended construction of these works as an election card, the Government will use its own discretion about proceeding any further.

ROUGH SIEGE LAID TO HIM.

Mr. James O. Neville, the well known General Import and Export Agent of the "Allan Line," and General Dominion Shipping Agent, of 528 Dorchester street, Montreal, is an active member of the Shamrock lacrosse Club. "While on a late exhibition trip to the States," said Mr. Neville to the writer, "my old foe, the rheumatism, attacked me, and gave me a rough siege. I suffered with the ailment all through my trip and long after my return home. I tried several remedies and found them entirely useless. Having read the indorsements of well known people who had used St. Jacobs Oil, and been cured thereby, I determined to give it a trial. Upon the first application, I saw at once it was what I required. In two weeks time I was as well as ever, and fully able to attend to my business. I have not had the least suggestion of rheumatism since. It certainly is a remarkable remedy and one that seems to me to be infallible."

The cricket club promises to be a strong one this season. The grounds have been greatly improved.

On Tuesday night of last week, a fire broke out in Harlow's saddlery, destroying that and spreading to the residence of the Murrays, and McConnell's residence, which were destroyed. The saddlery and dwelling were the property of Mr. Murray and were insured for $300, as was that of Mr. Harlow, but McConnell was without insurance.

Lindsay is deeply grieved over the death in the full flush of manhood and hope of Mr. Wm. McDonald, jr., of that town, barrister, etc. He was most highly respected of all classes. Many in Peterboro will remember him as having married a daughter of the late Thos. Fortye of this town.

"Presumption begins in ignorance and ends in ruin." On the other hand, the production of Kidney-Wort began with wise cautious and scientific research, and its use ends in restoring shattered constitutions and endowing men and women with health and happiness. "My tormented back," is the exclamation of more than one poor hardworking man and women; do you know why it aches? It is because your kidneys are overtasked and need strengthening, and your system needs to be cleansed of bad humors. You need Kidney-Wort.

So great is the faith reposed in Ayer's Pills by those who have given them a trial, that the consumption of them almost passes belief, far exceeding any precedent. They cleanse the blood, improve the appetite, promote digestion, restore healthy action, and regulate every function. They are pleasant to take, gentle in their operation, yet thorough, searching, and powerful in subduing disease.

Peter Kieffer, Buffalo, says:—"I was badly bitten by a horse a few days ago, and was induced by a friend who witnessed the occurrence, to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It relieved the pain almost immediately, and in four days the wound was completely healed. Nothing can be better for fresh wounds."

Rheumatism is greatly dependent on a vitiated condition of the fluids, and may be eliminated from the system by cleansing the blood and regulating the kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters will do this most effectually. Tried bottles 10 cents. 22-2t

At the approach of spring great attention should be given to purify the system engorged with foul humors during the winter. Burdock Blood Bitters is nature's own purifying and regulating tonic. 22-2t

The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 8, 1882.

Mr. Blake in Peterborough.

We are pleased to announce that Hon. Edward Blake will address a public meeting of the free and independent electors of the East and West Ridings of Peterborough, in the Drill Shed, Peterborough, on Friday the 16th of June, at two o'clock in the afternoon. This meeting will give thousands a chance to listen to the Opposition leader. His thorough mastery of the political problems now before the people, and his patriotic devotion to the cause of justice to his own province, make his addresses, at this juncture, of more than ordinary interest. The ladies should make an effort to be present early, so that the accommodation arranged for them may not be disturbed by the rush for seats.

Sir John in Peterborough.

The political pilgrimage of Sir John to Peterborough had less of success than political significance attending it That the Peterboroughs, which the Tories profess to consider safe for the Government, need the assistance of the Premier himself to bolster up his tottering support, is a plain confession of weakness and want of faith. Sir John's speech, simply a rehash of his campaign address delivered elsewhere—contains little to consider—arguments he did not deign to use, and the assertions he made have been too often discussed and refuted in the EXAMINER, to make it necessary to treat of them now. The Reformers need not fear the political effect of this visit, which did not even evoke the tributes to his personal popularity, which he has so often received heretofore. It has not, apparently, added one iota to the strength of his candidates, and the chances of the champions of Reform and honest Government, Messrs. Roxburgh and Lundy, have been robbed of none of their brightness by the grand political failure of last Monday night.

The Peterboroughs.

The canvas in both Ridings has begun and continues most encouragingly. The series of meetings so far held in Mr. Roxburgh's interest have resulted in enthusiastic endorsations of his candidature, the honest yeomanry evidently well pleased and complimented that one of their own class, so capable as Mr. Roxborough is a candidate for their suffrages. The desperate efforts put forward by Mr. R's opponents show that their boasted confidence in Mr. Burnham's return is only a "thin" expedient—a sly form of whistling to keep their spirits up. There is little doubt that Mr. Roxburgh, the farmers' friend, will head the poll on the 20th with a good majority.

In the West Riding Mr. Lundy is meeting with unexpected success in his canvas. The people have evidently come to the conclusion that it is time they had a representative in Parliament that will attend to their interests. One who can spare the time from his private business to look after his parliamentary duties. Mr. Lundy presents himself to the people as an opponent of the Government that deserves condemnation because it has shown itself unfit for the trust, by its betrayal of public interests, by unjust, unnecessary and discriminating taxation; by wasteful expenditure of public moneys; by the enormous increase of the controllable expenditure; by corruptly giving contracts to favorites, at great loss to the public funds; by unwarrantable interference with provincial legislation; by unjustly refusing to confirm the boundary award; by wickedly gerrymandering the constituencies to prevent a majority of the people of Ontario returning a majority of representatives, and by every means, no matter how unjust to the people and injurious to the interests of the country, which will have a tendency to perpetuate their lease of power. Mr. Lundy is in favor of a Government whose policy will be to remedy all these evils, adjust the tariff so that it shall bear less severely and more justly on the masses, and not hamper the development of our manufacturing industries by burdensome taxation on raw material, and that will conduct the affairs of the country with every regard to honesty and economy.

The Reformers of the West Riding are working with a will and energy inspired by the justice of their cause, that will, without doubt, show great results on polling day. They have every confidence in their candidate, and they feel in urging the claim of Mr. Lundy, they are endeavoring to confer both an honor and a benefit on West Peterborough.

The Parliamentary Absentee.

In our last issue we took occasion, as we doubtless had a right to do, to examine Mr. Hilliard's parliamentary record to show how closely he had attended to his parliamentary duties. This of course the Review calls a "flood of personal and foul abuse," but our remarks were no more than the occasion called for. Our inconsistency in thus treating of Mr. Hilliard's acts, with our favorable comments the week before, is pointed out. There was none. Our first remarks were entirely personal, and our last article a consideration of Mr. Hilliard's public acts as our representative. While we praised him for honorably resigning a trust which he could not discharge, we did not feel relieved from the responsibility of dealing with his acts, when he again presented himself as a candidate under the same disability. If Mr. Hilliard had adhered to his first decision to retire, as expressed in his letter to the Association, we should have considered his political record as past and gone, but he chose to eat his own words, accepted the nomination and returned to the bad company he keeps politically, and, therefore, we must oppose his candidature and make plain his record to his constituents. As a representative, we, in common with every elector, have a right to criticise his parliamentary record; and the manner in which he has neglected his parliamentary duties, does not, it is plain, entitle him to a renewal of confidence. Last week we gave a record of his few votes as an index of his attendance. Mr. H. has kindly supplemented the meagre information of the sessional proceedings. He stated at a meeting held in the West Riding, on Friday night, that the last session lasted 63 days; that he was forty days absent, and therefore, present twenty days. He made fourteen trips between Peterborough and Ottawa; going down when "business" called him. In the interest of his constituents, "business" required him to be in Ottawa all the time. For these twenty days attendance, Mr. Hilliard drew $680, besides mileage, or at the rate of $34 per day; whereas the most he was entitled to was $10 per day. This is Mr. Hilliard's own explanation of the matter, which justified our remarks in reference to the manner in which he has neglected his parliamentary duties. Personally, we feel and have shown toward Mr. Hilliard every respect, but when we come to consider him as a politician, we ignore him in that regard, and treat him as a supporter of a policy and government which we think is hostile to the true interests of the country. And we believe his election will not be for the the benefit of this riding, for two reasons: He will not attend to his parliamentary duties any better in the future than in the past; and what voting he may do will be in support of a government and policy under which the public debt is growing and the burdens of the people are continually increasing, the rights of Ontario tramped on, and everything made subservient to the retention of the power they have so gravely abused.

The Senatorial Embroglio.

The proposed appointment of Mr. John O'Donohue to the Senate and the post of a Cabinet Minister, raised last week a breeze in Orange circles. To Orangemen everywhere Mr. J. O'Donohue is, of all Roman Catholics, the most obnoxious, because they have, over and over again, declared their belief that he is a Fenian sympathizer, and utterly disloyal to the British Crown. The rumour that he was to be so honored by Sir John Macdonald caused the Conservative canvassers in Toronto to strike work, and in reply to a deputation of Orangemen, Sir John was forced to beg for time in order to find a way out of the difficulty. The way he found was characteristic of him. He persisted in putting Mr. O'Donohue in the Senate, and he has given Senator Frank Smith the portfolio he had promised Mr. O'Donohue. By this compromise he hopes to keep the Orangemen straight until after the election is over.

Of course everybody who knows Senator Smith is well aware that he has not the slightest intention of remaining in the Cabinet. He has a large wholesale business on hand, and is the President of the Toronto Street Railway—a business large enough of itself to tax the time and energies of one man. The hoax perpetrated on the Orangemen is, therefore, one of the clumsiest. Mr. O'Donohue seems to have Sir John completely under his thumb at last, and has made sure of the portfolio as well as the Senatorial seat. The former he has consented to waive for the present, and Mr. Frank Smith has consented for a few weeks or months, to keep the seat in the Privy Council room warm for him. Will the Orangemen see through the trick, or will they accept Sir John's word once more, and once more be deceived? On the other hand, if Mr. O'Donohue is not able to secure his portfolio, what about his position and the votes of his friends? Are they willing to put implicit confidence in the word of a man who has led them a wild goose chase for four years, and caved in only when on the eve of the present contest, he was cornered so closely that he was not able to squirm? We shall see.

We do not believe it makes much difference now which side gets the best of it in this unseemly bargaining and huckstering, for it is now almost as certain as anything can be, that the Government are going to be defeated. The accounts from all parts of the Dominion are most satisfactory for the Opposition, who are everywhere united and enthusiastic, while the supporters of the Government are discouraged and divided. Instead of fifty seats in Ontario, the highest number they ventured to name a few days ago, the Opposition now expect to carry at least sixty, and among them will be both Peterboroughs, and two, if not three, Hastings.

In North Hastings, the Minister of Customs has been brought completely to his senses, and is as little certain this moment of victory as a Cabinet Minister ever was. Whatever strength he had left will be dissipated as the result of his taking to his bosom Mr. John O'Donohue, who voted against Mr. Bowell's motion to expel Riel from the House of Commons as a fugitive from justice. But after all it is only another case of misery making strange bedfellows. Dr. Tupper accepts as a colleague Mr. McLelan, who publicly designated him the "High Priest of Corruption," and who still believes that he prostitutes his public position to put money in his own pocket; why then should Mr. Bowell's loyal stomach turn at having to cross legs under the Privy Council table with a man whom he believes to be disloyal to the Crown, and who did his best to thwart him in his attempt to purge the roll of the House of Commons of the name of a man under sentence of banishment for engaging in rebellion?

GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH.

To the Electors

OF THE

EAST RIDING

OF THE

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:—

Having been requested by the Liberal-Conservatives of the Riding again to offer myself as a candidate for the House of Commons, I have consented to do so. The Parliament elected in 1878 has been dissolved, and a new election ordered. The Governor-General in proroguing Parliament used these words:—

"I heartily congratulate you on the rapid and successful development of our manufacturing, agricultural and other industries. I am, however, advised that this progress would have been still greater, were it not that capitalists hesitated to embark their means in undertakings which would be injured, if not destroyed, by a change in the trade and fiscal policy adopted in 1879. In order, therefore, to give the people, without further delay, an opportunity of expressing their deliberate opinion on this policy * * it is my intention to cause this Parliament to be dissolved at an early day."

I am in favor of the maintenance of the trade and fiscal policy of the present Government, as being best adapted to the wants of the country. I am in favor of the early and rapid construction of the Canada Pacific Railway, and the development of our North-West Territories. I am opposed to any action in the direction of Independence or separation from the British Crown. I am in favor of the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, now undertaken and commenced by this Government, and will, if elected, continue my efforts to have the same completed at as early a date as possible. I shall endeavor to meet you in your several localities, and explain my views upon the questions of the day; and trust that my explanations and the policy I advocate, will justify you in again electing me as your representative.

Yours truly,

JOHN BURNHAM.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

WEST RIDING

OF PETEBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:—

At the urgent solicitation of my political friends I have consented to be again a candidate for your suffrages at the approaching election.

While I would have preferred not to have been a candidate on the present occasion, yet now that I have placed my services again at your disposal, you may rest assured that no private duty or engagement will be allowed to interfere with the proper discharge of my duties as your representive, should I be honoured with your confidence for the second time.

Although I failed to be present at every division during the recent session, I would venture to challenge my political opponents to specify a single instance in which I have neglected the interests of my constituents or failed to discharge the duties devolving upon me as your representative to the best of my ability and judgment.

During the past four years I have rendered a cheerful support to the government of Sir John A. Macdonald, believing that it has not only redeemed the pledges given previous to the last general election, but that its policy has been and is one eminently calculated to promote the prosperity of the country, and should you again honor me with your confidence I shall continue to give the present government the same cordial support, so long as their policy commends itself to my judgment.

In conjunction with the other representatives from this section of Ontario, I have done all in my power to secure the early construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and the large measure of success which has attended our past efforts should assure the electorate of this district that if their present representatives are re-elected and the present government sustained, this great and long-looked-for work will be brought to an early completion.

As it will be impossible for me to undertake anything like a personal canvas between this and polling day, I trust those favorable to the cause of good government will render me their hearty support without waiting to be asked, and that all the electors will make it a point to attend the meetings which I propose holding in different parts of the constituency for the purpose of public explanation and discussion of the several questions involved in the present campaign.

Again thanking you for the confidence reposed in me in 1878, and soliciting a renewal of the same,

I am, gentlemen,
Your ob't. serv't.,

GEO. HILLIARD.

CAPITAL $5,000,000. All classes of Fire Risks taken at moderate rates.

J. H. ROPER, Agent

To the Free and Independent Electors of the

WEST RIDING

OF PETERBOROUGH COUNTY.

GENTLEMEN:

The Government of the day having unexpectedly dissolved Parliament, and with extreme haste issued the Writs for a general election, it has become necessary for you to choose a representative.

While personally, I had no desire to place myself as a candidate before the electors, yet having received the nomination form a large and representative gathering of Liberal delegates from all parts of the riding, I feel it my duty to accede to their wishes, and am now in the field.

Should I have the honor of being elected, my best attention will be given to the duties of the position, and my aim will be to represent the West Riding of Peterborough in Parliament, and not act as the slavish supporter of any political party.

A majority of the late Parliament approved of the Gerrymandering Bill introduced by the present Government, whereby constituencies were cut up, and county lines obliterated, with the evident intention of so arranging the electoral districts that a minority of electors may return a majority of representatives. Legislation of this kind has my strongest disapproval, and I would be in favor of some course being pursued that would make this impossible in future.

I do not approve of the taxation policy of the present Government, whereby a much larger amount than the requirements of the country calls for is taken from the earnings of our people; and such protection to the Farmer as placing a duty on the kind of wool we do not import, and bringing in duty free, other wool, I consider absurd.

It will be my endeavour to encourage all Canadian industries, but the present enormous tariff on such articles of common use as cottons, coarse woollens and other items, should be lowered and so arranged as to press with less severity on workingmen.

The grant to the Pacific Railway Syndicate in land and cash, with the road already built and under construction, was exhorbitant and unnecessary. But I condemn more particulary the agreement with the Syndicate granting them a monopoly of the carrying trade of our great North-West for twenty years to come, with exemption and privileges added.

I do not approve of the policy of selling or leasing in our North-West Territories large blocks of land to companies and individuals, as I believe it is against the interest of the actual settler, and I strongly endorse the motto of the Hon. Edward Blake, when he says:—"The land for the settler, the price for the public."

I believe it was the duty of the present Government to give effect to the Boundary Award, and condemn the attempt to rob our Province of Ontario of half her territory rich in timber and minerals.

I am an advocate for the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and will do all in my power to aid in the prosecution of this important work.

In the short time allowed for a canvas I will endeavour to see as many of the electors as possible, and will hold meetings in the different townships, of which notice will be given.

Soliciting your hearty vote and influence,

I am, Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,

JOHN J. LUNDY.

The Boundary Question.

The time for argument about the best method of settling the disputed boundaries of Ontario is now past. The whole question is in the hands of the electors for decision, and it remains for them to say whether we shall have our territory at once, or be compelled to prolong the dispute for another five years. The question is the most important now before the electors for the people of Ontario. The commercial policy of the country is a matter which must be determined by circumstances, and which may change from time to time as our circumstances change. But this question of disputed territory is a matter which, once settled, can never be reopened. If we lose the territory, we lose it for all time, and if we gain legal possession of it, nothing can ever deprive us of it, any more than of the unsettled lands between here and the Ottawa river to the north of us.

Fortunately for the people of Ontario there is a way in which they can obtain undisputed and permanent control of the whole region covered by the boundary award. All they have to do is to return a majority of the House of Commons to support Mr. Blake and the thing is done never again to be undone. French Tory intrigues can never again threaten us with the loss of our patrimony. The award made by the arbitrators has already been assented to by the Legislature of Ontario; let it be assented to by the Parliament of the Dominion and the dispute is over and done. It will be assented to at once if the present Ministry, which is under Bleu domination and exists on the sufferance of the Quebec Tories, is overturned.

This plan is much simpler than referring the dispute to the Privy Council, which, in any event, cannot by its decision bind those who refuse to be bound by the late award. A judgment by the Privy Council in this case would be simply another arbitration, and its award would be accepted by the French Bleus only if it took from Ontario the territory they cannot bear to see us have. To settle the dispute by a change of Government would also have the advantage of putting an immediate stop to the depredations of trespassers, who are even now stripping portions of the territory of valuable timber. Every stick cut in this way under pretended authority from Ottawa means so much money abstracted from the Ontario treasury, and even a few months may make an enormous difference when there are operators of the magnitude of the Syndicate.

It is for the people of Ontario to decide now whether they shall be content with their present area of 100,000 square miles or have added to it 97,000 square miles more; whether they shall obtain undisputed possession of timber calculated on the best authority to be capable of producing to the Province a total revenue of one hundred and twenty-five millions of dollars; whether they shall have the award of the arbitrators respected and enforced or repudiated and dishonored. This is the question of questions just now and on it every elector in Ontario should vote. Let there be unanimity on this point, whatever else we may divide on. Let us stand by the Province and the rights of the Province, and insist on having them at the peril of Confederation itself. That is what it is coming to in the long run. If the award of the arbitrators is finally repudiated by the Dominion, the breach of faith will be the signal for a contest which can have only one ending, what we need not specify. Electors, give Ontario her rights, by voting for Roxburgh and Lundy.

If Hon. Mr. Blake is elected in West Durham, as he most certainly will be, will the Tories of West Durham hanging their Banting at half-mast in effigy, or in propria persona?

East Peterborough.

The Bobcaygeon Independent, an independent paper, has the following remarks in reference to this Riding:—"Since our last issue the party candidates have each put in their appearance, and are busily engaged in the contest. Mr. Burnham, the Conservative, is a gentleman who will unquestionably take the whole Conservative party vote of the Riding. He is a candidate to whom no exception can be taken, even by his opponents, and should he be beaten the House will lose a thoroughly respectable member, and a gentleman of unblemished honor. But that he will be beaten is the opinion of those who know the Riding best, for the Reform candidate, Mr. Roxburgh, will not only take the straight party vote of the Reformers, but he will carry with him many of those who form the fluctuating element in politics. In the back townships there is a strong feeling prevailing that the gerrymandering bill has affected them improperly, and the people view with unaffected aversion the separation from the constituency of the townships of Minden and Snowden. Mr. Burnham moreover, has scarcely ever visited his constituents since his election, whilst Mr. Roxburgh is a farmer, one of themselves, and understands all their wants, difficulties, and requirements. From Mr. Burnham and Conservatism, not a cent of public funds can be obtained for roads or other improvements whilst Liberal Government is so highly esteemed in the northern districts, and is so identified in the minds of the settlers with subsidies of money for railways, and with grants of money for roads, and for schools, and for agricultural societies, and for other purposes, that Mr. Roxburgh, as the candidate of the Liberal party, will find many friends and staunch supporters. At least, that is the view of those who know the constituency, and it will not be surprising to find at the close of the poll that the majority of twenty or thirty which Mr. Burnham obtained over Mr. Buck, will be changed to a large majority for Mr. Roxburgh.

The Trent Valley Canal.

The Conservative party in these Ridings is in a bad way about the Trent Valley Canal. They must feel that the thinness of the pretext implied in the grant of $290,000, at the present juncture, may arouse the suspicion of the electors to the insincerity of the Government respecting the work. Neither party of this section can, will nor should yield anything to the other regarding the desirability of its construction. The only grounds of difference are the means to which it will be the safer to trust. The local organ of the Tory party calls the election card, asking support for Mr. Roxburgh and the Trent Valley Canal a "low piece of trickery," which provokes the retort that the bogus appropriation of $290,000 to build the canal is "a high (priced) piece of trickery". Have the Conservatives a copyright of the Trent Valley Canal that their organ is so sensitively suspicious of its political opponents saying a word in its favors? It is likely that playing the Trent Valley Canal scheme as a mere dodge, as the Government and its supporters are evidently doing, that they suspect us and the Reform party of playing a similar "game?" The Review office has issued a fly-sheet, in which the position of the EXAMINER, on this subject is placed in a false light. We defy the Review to indicate a single instance where we have showed the slightest hostility to this important scheme, either expressed or implied. We have been and are still anxious to see the canal built. But we can't believe that the present Government is sincere in making a little peddling appropriation of less than one tenth of what the canal is estimated to cost, and that just on the eve of an election. It was in the dying days of the session that the Trent Valley appropriation, a mere afterthought, was brought down. Why, if the project, as Sir John and J. B. Plumb said on Monday night, reposes next to the heart of the Government, was not the appropriation included in the general estimates? For the simple reason that the Government did not think of it till the recollection of the elections suggested it as a big card. If the scheme was a cardinal part of the Government policy, why was it necessary for the local managers of the show, to prompt, suggest and urge upon the orators of Monday night the importance of speaking upon that subject to the electors? If the Government had appropriated the whole three millions it would be no sure sign that the canal would be constructed. How long is it since the appropriation was made to the Baie Verte canal and what fraction of a cent has been spent on it? The grant to the canal just on the eve of election is certainly suspicious—and brought down too in the supplementaries as a trivial matter, that had been overlooked or came as an emergency, along with "$150, to provide for a third-class clerk!." Our position is this: we want the canal constructed, but we object to its being trifled with by the Dominion Government, therefore we ask the electors to support Messrs. Lundy and Roxburgh, whose hearts are in the work, and who will support Mr. Blake, or any other party, who will see that justice is done to every public interest, and who could not afford, even if he were disposed to do so, to slight the strong claims, that this district has to the speedy construction of this important public work. We believe that Messrs. Burnham and Hilliard are sincere in their advocacy of the canal, and we know that the Reform candidates are, therefore, bearing in mind the "false pretences" of the Government towards it as shown in their throwing at these ridings a little supplementary grant, just before the elections, we also call on the electors to VOTE FOR MESSRS. ROXBURGH AND LUNDY, AND THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we so anticipate.

A voter in a new suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this general rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S, and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

ONTARIO'S BATTLE SONG.

AIR.—"Maryland, my Maryland."

The following stirring song was sung with thunderous applause, at the triumphant reception of Mr. Blake in the Grand Opera House, Toronto, a few nights since. The sentiments being soul-stirring, the refrain frequently recurring and the air familiar, the whole audience joined in the chorus, as we are sure every honest Ontario heart will concur in its sentiments :—

The traitor's hand is on thy throat,
Ontario, Ontario!
Strike down that traitor with thy vote,
Ontario, Ontario!
Avenge this outrage on the right,
Stand forth with helmet flashing bright,
'Tis for thy liberties we fight,
Ontario, Ontario!

The desperate, reckless Tory crew,
Ontario, Ontario!
At bidding of the Quebec Bleu,
Ontario, Ontario!
Would rob thee of thy rich domain;
But all their plots shall be in vain,
They'll never get thy vote again,
Ontario. Ontario!

To tie thy hands behind thy back,
Ontario, Ontario!
They've passed the gerrymander act,
Ontario, Ontario!
But patriot hearts with insult stung,
Shall burst the tyrant, coward thong;
And they shall feel thy anger strong,
Ontario, Ontario!

Then up and follow Edward Blake,
Ontario, Ontario!
His name makes miscreant Tories quake,
Ontario, Ontario!
We'll stand by Blake, and help him fight,
For justice, liberty and right;
Let's ring the Tory knell to-night,
Ontario, Ontario!

Farm, Garden and Household.

Beets for the Garden.

Those who only know the long late "Blood Beet," have yet to learn the difference in beets. As soon as any part of the garden can be worked, a sowing of early beets should be made. Select a light soil if possible, and manure it well; make the rows a foot apart, sow the seeds thickly, at least two inches deep, and press down the soil firmly with a deep roller, or pat it down with a hoe. The earliest varieties are the "Egyptian," and and "Blood Turnip." The "Bassano" is not quite so early, or so fine grained, though good. The thick sowing is advised in order to have plenty of young beets at the thinning; when two or three inches high, thin to 4 to 6 iches in the row, saving those that are pulled out to be used as "greens." Many prefer them even to spinach. It is well to sow seed for a succession, once in two weeks up to July. The "Block Turnip" is so much superior to the large beets, that we prefer it for winter use. For this purpose the seed should not be sown before the middle of June, else they will grow stringy.

How to Make Good Butter.

First, milking should be done regularly, or as nearly so as possible, and as soon as the milk is brought in let it be strained in thoroughly cleansed and scalded pans. When it is cool weather I place the pans on the stove and let the milk come to scalding heat, not boiling; then remove and place them away for the cream to rise. Place the pans separately, without covering until cool; then rest the pans one above the other with small boards between, and being cool, no steam will rise to make dampness or mold on the underside of the covers. I find this process, in cold weather, makes an improvement in quantity flavor and color. In cold weather place the churn where it has a chance to become gradually warmed through the day, churning in the evening. In warm weather churn early in the morning, and you will have finer and yellower butter than if churned at any other time of day. I also think milk ought to be kept where a fresh current of air passes through the cellars or apartment most of the time. Always wash the butter with two waters, pouring off carefully and then salting. Place it in a cool place and let it remain one or two days, then thoroughly work out all the brine. My butter is then fit for packing or working into rolls to sell. If you pack in oak barrels, place a cloth inside the barrels, saturated with brine, to prevent the butter touching the wood; then pack the butter firmly, placing a strong brine of salt alone on top; also place a weight to keep it in place.

If I do not have butter enough to fill my jar or barrel at the time of commencing, I fill with brine, pouring off each time I wish to put in more butter, and replacing the brine each time. This excludes the air. I have never failed to keep butter sweet and good for a year. Very few persons would believe what a difference it makes in the milking qualities of cows to give them a good carding every two or three times a week. Nor are the milking qualities alone affected; the animals will make better growth and thrive better in every respect, and do it on less food than they will without this little hygenic attention. One of the best dairymen in Canada says:—"I have come to the conclusion, after seven years' experience in the feeding of meal every day to such of my cows as were giving milk, that if in future I would feed more meal instead of less. I believe that when the cows have been properly selected, and are of a breed that are reliable as to butter qualities, it amounts to a certainty that all we feed them above what is required to sustain their bodies, will be returned to us in butter with a large profit on the investment. At the same time care should be taken not to overfeed. Gilt-edge butter cannot be made from cows thin or poorly fed.

Locust Trees for Waste Lands.

The value of the wood of the locust is so great that it comes next to iron and steel and stone as a material on a farm. Fifteen years ago, or more, I planted part of waste corners and knolls, and a fence row or two with sprouts and seedlings of locust. but just then the locust borer was so prevalent and destructive and seemed so difficult to master that I gave up in despair. Soon, however, some unseen but abler adversary than myself quietly attacked this destroyer, and put an end to his mischief. It is very rare now to see a mark of it. The trees planted have become large and valuable, and my regret is that I did not maintain faith enough in the good will of Providence to persevere in well doing. There are many different strains of locust growth, as of many other trees propagated from seed; and in some localities certain types seem to prevail. Some are dwarf, some are branching, some erect, some nearly thornless, others ferociously armed. The wood differs, too, in color, and probably in strength; but I have found none that is not hard heavy, and amazingly enduring. In France the railroad cuts, etc., are covered with these trees, called there "acacias"; and nearly all supposed to be the progeny of a tree that was planted in the Jardin des Plantes, Paris, nearly 150 years ago, and which is one of the most notable things in these famous grounds, or was ten years ago.

FARMERS AND THE N. P.

BRIEF REVIEW OF TARIFF MATTERS.

The Many Ways in which Farmers are Injured and Unfairly Treated.

What has the National Policy done for the farmer?

Has it given him a better market?

No! There is not one single article of farm produce that was exported in 1878 that is not exported now. In other words, the foreign market fixes the Canadian price now just as it did in 1878.

No!! For the reason that the National Policy has not added to the number of customers. It has driven away a greater number than it has found work for. Sir Leonard Tilley could only furnish a list of 7,000 additional persons employed in Canadian factories in 1882 over 1878, counting those employed from every cause, and this shows a slower growth than that which took place under the revenue tariff, as is proved by the census tables.

No!!! If the farmer's home market had been improved the exports of agricultural produce must necessarily have fallen away, whereas the following is the state of affairs :—

EXPORTS OF CANADIAN FARM PRODUCE.

1878	$41,358,176
1879	60,706,289
1880	59,791,137
1881	63,959,737

This table not only confounds the arguments of those who say that the N. P. has found for the farmer a home market, but it proves where the present prosperity comes from—namely, from Canada having been able for the last few years to sell abroad a greater quantity of her produce.

Has the N. P. increased the prices received by farmers?

No! For the average prices received by farmers have been lower since the N. P. came in than they were during the alleged bad times that preceded 1879. In The Daily Globe of 23rd May, and in The Weekly Globe of May 26 will be found facts and figures for this assertion. It is there proved that :—

A farmer received on the average for a given quantity of farm produce in the five years of the Mackenzie Government	$68 77
And that, for the same quantity of produce, he has received on the average during the four years of the present Government	55 44
Farmer's loss under the new tariff	$11 33

The farmer's receipts for a given quantity of farm produce have, been twenty per cent. less under the new tariff than he received for the same amount of produce under the old tariff.

Again, farmers' prices have not been increased, but actually diminished by the tariff, for since 1878 prices in Canada have frequently fallen below the point at which they would have stood had the old tariff been left alone.

On every occasion since the N. P. came in the Canadian markets have failed to respond to the speculative advances in Chicago. For fully two years out of the last four, the prices of wheat at Toronto have been actually below the prices at Chicago; whereas if the proper relation of prices at places respectively so far distant from a common market had been maintained, Toronto would have been at least ten cents the higher of the two. As a matter of fact, the average price in Toronto for six years preceding 1878 was seventeen cents higher than the Chicago prices.

As it has been with wheat, so with oats, rye, and other produce. Since the N. P. came in, the prices received by Canadian farmers have been far below those received by American farmers living a similar distance from the seaboard.

In 1874-1878, Canadian market prices were so much better than American prices that it used to "grieve to the heart" Sir John Macdonald and the Tory crew to see American produce coming in. It would not pay American farmers to send in their produce now to our miserable prices even if there were no duty to pay. The N. P. depressed Canadian prices so much that it closed our markets to American farmers.

Has the N. P. increased the value of Canadian farmers' land?

On the contrary, it is twenty years and more since Canadian farms were as cheap as they have been since the year 1879. From almost the very day of Alexander Mackenzie's defeat the prices of Canadian farms have been depressed, and it is as plain as noonday that Canadian farms will never be worth their old prices again UNTIL THE PURCHASING POWER OF THE FARMERS' DOLLAR IS RESTORED TO ITS OLD HEIGHT.

What has been the effect of the N. P. on farmer's expenses?

The effect has been to compel farmers to pay $1.35 or more for every dollar's worth of cotton goods his wife has purchased.

To make him pay $1.40 to $1.60 for one dollar's worth of woollens.

To put a new tax of at least $5 a year upon him for the sugar he consumes.

To make him pay at least $1.10 for every dollar's worth of boots and shoes, harness, and other leather goods purchased.

To take away at least twenty per cent. of the metal from his implements, and to make him pay at least $1.10 for that which, if the taxes on iron were abolished, he would get for $1.

To make him pay $1.32 for one dollar's worth of carpets.

To make him pay at least $1.50 for a dollar's worth of earthenware.

To tax his dairy salt 25 per cent., and his cheese cloth 97 per cent., and at the same time when the tariff is depressing the price of his cheese by increasing the cost of freight and handling.

In short, the effect of the N. P. on farmers' expenses has been to lop off certainly ten cents, and probably fifteen cents, from every dollar that comes into his hands.

Does the N. P. actually discriminate against farmers?

It certainly does.

It leaves him without protection on those varieties of wool which Canadian woollen manufacturers have to purchase.

It admits hides free of duty, while protecting leather and leather-workers.

It permits the introduction in bond of American produce to be manufactured in Canada, though the total exclusion of this American produce was one of the promises of 1878.

It permits large millers to bring in American wheat, and the Government does not prevent the Tories among these millers from flooding the Canadian market with flour from this wheat.

It allows pork-packers to bring in American swine in bond, and the consequence is that in 1881 there was imported 50,000 head against 14,000 in 1878. Pretty protection of the native hog there!

It places a tax on phosphates, land plaster, salt, and other fertilizers, which are as truly the farmers' raw materials as the untaxed wool is the raw material of the woollen manufacturer.

How the N. P. an evil influence on the farmer in any other direction?

It has. The tax on coal and other railway supplies adds materially to the cost of inland transportation. The whole of these taxes on railways have to be collected from that part of the business which consists in hauling to market Canadian farm produce. None of the money can be levied by the railways on their American business. The whole of it must come out of the Canadian farmer. And, as we showed some time ago, there is reason to believe that these new taxes represent an increase of five cents a bushel in the cost of conveying wheat from Western Ontario to tidewater.

Is there any other reason why farmers should vote down the N. P.?

There is, and a great one. If the Government is sustained at this election, THE BURDEN OF THE N. P. UPON THE FARMER IS TO BE INCREASED. Sir John Macdonald said as much in Montreal on his return from England. The whole tenor of his speeches since then has been to the same effect.

Besides, it is not to be thought of that other Canadian manufacturers will sit tamely by while the cotton lords are reaping their 50 per cent. dividends. At present nineteen out of twenty manufacturers are actually injured by the tariff. Is it likely they will stand this treatment when they know that, by simple squeezing the Government, they can extort the privilege of levying taxation upon their own account? Depend upon it that, if the Government is sustained, an irresistible demand will be made by those whom the tariff now injures, or whom it benefits but slightly, that they be put upon a level with the cotton lords.

As it is, the N. P. chastises us with whips. Let the farmers of the country omit to vote it down at this opportunity and it will chastise us with scorpions.

Every farmer who wishes for fair treatment, fair prices, and fair money's worth should

VOTE FOR THE REFORM CANDIDATES.

Household Hints.

INEXPENSIVE BLACK PUDDING.—An inexpensive black pudding is a good finish to the Monday dinner, as it can be steaming on the back part of the stove while the washing is going on. One cup of molasses, one cup of water, two tablespoonful of melted butter, one tablespoonful of melted soda, three cups of flour one cup of raisins and currants mixed; spice to suit your taste. Steam for three hours and serve hot, with maple syrup or sauce.

BREAKFAST ROOLS.—Mix half an ounce of sifted white sugar in two pounds of the finest flour; make a hole in the centre and put in about two tablespoonful of fresh yeast, mixed with a little water; let it stand all night; in the morning add the yolks of two eggs, a piece of butter the size of a walnut and sufficient warm milk to make it of a right consistency; divide into two rolls (about twelve or fourteen); bake half an hour in a brisk oven.

PEANUT COFFEE.—The roasted nuts must be shelled, the brown skins removed and the kernels roasted the second time very dark brown; then by crushing or coarsely grinding them, they can be boiled with water, affording a pleasant beverage when used with hot milk and sugar. The quantity of nuts required to make coffee of the desired strength must be decided by individual taste, but a first experiment might be made with a cupful to a quart of water.

OLD FASHIONED APPLE DUMPLING.—Mix a pint of prepared flour with a cupful of finely chopped suet, a little salt and cold water, roll it out slice the apples in a heap, and draw the four corners together as for an old fashioned "turn over," make the edges stick by wetting them; lay the dumpling in a cloth dipped in boiling water and when floured, fold it over, pin and tie firmly, place in a kettle of boiling water, with an old kitchen plate on the bottom to keep from sticking or burning; boil an hour and a half without stopping. Serve hot with lemon sauce or maple syrup, or sugar and cream.

CREAM PUFFS.—Into half a pint of cold water, stir until smooth, one and a half cupsfull of flour, turn the same into a spider with a small cup of butter, cook and stir all the time until done; when cooled, add four beaten eggs, beat well and drop the dough in small round balls on a tin, so that they will not touch one another, and bake them; they will then be probably hollow balls; cool them on paper as soon as possible, so they will not sweat. For filling, take a half pint of milk, two beaten eggs, half a cup of flour or corn starch, rub them smooth, and add a cup of sugar, cook in a tin pail set in a kettle of hot water, stir well; when cool flavour with extract of lemon and vanilla; open the puffs with a sharp knife and insert the custard.

Skinny Men.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1.

FORTUNES FOR FARMERS AND MECHANICS.—Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of yourself and family. If you are Bilious, have sallow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those wonderful Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of 50 cents.—Tribune. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald at 50 cents.

TESTIMONY OF AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN. The proofs which authenticated the claim of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites to be regarded as the finest pulmonic in use, emanate in many instances from physicians of eminence. Dr. J. Corlis, of St. Thomas, writes as follows :—

"During ten years of active practice. I have had occasion to prescribe Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. Since your preparation came under my notice I have tried it, and take great pleasure in saying that it has given great satisfaction and it is to be preferred to any I have ever used or recommended. I have used it in my own family during heavy colds and in every instance a happy result has followed. I cheerfully recommend its use in all cases of debility arising from weakness of the muscular or nervous system.

What can be more convincing than this. Here is a professional man of long practise and high reputation bearing direct and positive testimony to the value of a remedy which he has thoroughly tested. Who can read and doubt? Assuredly no one of common sense.

This matchless specific for throat and lung disease is also most serviceable in scrofulous cases. Purchasers should be careful to observe that each wrapper has a fac simile of the firm's signature upon it. Prepared only by Northrop & Lyman Toronto, Canada.

New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of inestimable values in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggries and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty years experience.

COURT OF REVISION.—The South Monaghan Council met as Court of Revision to hear and determine the appeals from the assessment roll for 1882, at 10 a. m., May 30th, pursuant to adjournment of last meeting. Present, the Reeve, Mr. Rutherford, Councillors Lightfoot, Dawson, Riddell and Perrin. Each member was duly sworn in by the Clerk, after which they took their seats. Councillor Dawson was called to the chair. Freeman Thompson appealed to have W. R. Morrison assessed for ½ an acre—pt. of lot No. 12, con. 3; value $200, the same being now assessed to the appellant. On motion of Mr. Riddell, seconded by the Reeve, the appeal was granted. Robert Lang appealed to have the name of Wm. Lang erased from the assessment roll as farmers' son, on the grounds that he was not of age. On motion of the Reeve, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot, the appeal was granted. James Perrin appealed to be assessed for ½ acre—pt. lot No. 10, con. 2, the said property being now assessed to George Moncrief. Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot,—That James Perrin be assessed for an additional ½ acre—pt. lot No. 10, con. 2; value, $10.00, in lieu of George Moncrief.—Carried. J. W. Gray appealed to be assessed for ½ an acre as tenant, in lieu of James Wood. On motion of Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Perrin, the appeal of J. W. Gray was granted. On motion of Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by the Reeve, the court did then adjourn for one hour and a half for dinner, and resumed at 1.30 p.m., Mr. Dawson in the chair. B. Hesalip complained that he was assessed for too much land, and appealed to have James and Joseph Perrin assessed for a portion thereof. Neither appellant or other parties interested appeared. Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Perrin,—That B. Hesalip's assessment be confirmed.—Carried. John McCallister appealed to have his name erased from the roll for 1 acre—pt. of lot No. 1, con. 1, on the grounds that he has ceased to occupy the property. The appellant did not appear. Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Perrin,—That John McCallister's assessment be confirmed.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by the Reeve,—That Wm. Geo. Kerr be assessed as tenant, and Wm. Kerr as owner for the N. W. ¼ lot No. 1, con. 1, 47½ acres; value $2,400.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by the Reeve,—That Edward Stirton be assessed as joint tenant for the N. ½ lot No. 11, con. 2.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Perrin,—That the name of John Raper be erased from the roll for pt. lot 1, con. 2, and that the name of John Atken's be inserted in lieu thereof.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by the Reeve,—That the assessment roll for the year 1882 for the Township of South Monaghan be now passed as revised and amended.—Carried. Moved by the Reeve, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot,—That this court do now adjourn sine die.—Carried. The Chairman did then declare the court adjourned.

"MERELY A COPY FROM NATURE"

About fifteen years ago the French painter Herbert was engaged upon a fancy picture, the model of one of the figures of which was a little Italian girl of exquisite beauty. The Duchess de Noailles, whose portrait Herbert was then painting, remarked the face and asked the artist how he managed to conceive and realize such an ideal. "It is merely a copy from nature," he replied, and he sent for and presented this little model. "Great wealth," added the painter, "collects beautiful things. What greater ornament could anyone dream of for a drawing room than this lovely child if she were only brought up and educated?" The idea struck the duchess, and while the picture went to Ferrieres, Rothschild's suburban villa, the original of the lovely face, Pasqua Maria, was loaned, as it were, by her parents to the Duchess de Noailles, educated in the great lady's house, and turned out to be the remarkable beauty she promised. Herbert's picture perished in the fire which took place at the Ferrieres villa in 1872, but Pasqua Maria flourished, and is the wife of a rich Englishman.

It was a Chicago lady who sent to Rome to a celebrated sculptor for "one marble figure of Appoller in his clothes, to cost no more nor one thousand dollars!"

Mr. Henry Marshall, Reeve of Dunn, writes:—"Some time ago I got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery from Mr. Harrison, and I consider it the very best medicine extant for Dyspepsia."

A Buffalo paper tells of a lover who began to propose to his girl just as his horse began to run with the sleigh. Being determined to have it over he got the question out the moment the sleigh struck the mile post. The girl was thrown high into the air, but as she came down she uttered a firm "Yes, Charlie," and then fainted.

Take no more nauseous purgatives. Burdock Blood Bitters act mildly, pleasantly and thoroughly upon the bowels, and occasion no inconvenience, while it regulates the Liver and Kidneys and tones the enfeebled system. Trial bottles 10 cents. 22-2t

It is said that the fashion of wearing eye-glasses has seriously injured the sight of four-fifths of the Russian army officers. An order has been issued forbidding their use by officers in uniform, except on a medical certificate declaring them to be necessary.

IN ALL FORMS OF STOMACH troubles known as Dyspepsia, we have in Dr. WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES and CALISAYA a remedy worthy the attention of those suffering from this protean disease. Under its use brain fog, irritation, depression of spirits, acidity, flatulence, water brash, torpid liver, brick dust deposited in urine, irregularity of the bowels, rapidly disappear, and nutrition is restored by the resumption of the normal work of the nervous system.

"Ah! my friend," said a clergyman to a parishioner, who was the husband of a termagant, and who had made application for a divorce, "we should be yielding and forgiving. There are no divorces in Heaven." "That's the reason," said the sufferer, "why I am so anxious to get a divorce here."

W. W. McLellan, Lyn, N. S., writes: "I was afflicted with rheumatism, and had given up all hopes of a cure. By chance I saw Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil recommended. I immediately sent (fifty miles) and purchased four bottles, and with only two applications I was able to get around, and although I have not used one bottle, I am nearly well. The other three bottles I gave around to my neighbors, and I have had so many calls for more, that I feel bound to relieve the afflicted by writing to you for a supply."

An old farmer was in town last week looking for an editor's table on which to build a hen's nest. He explained that he had learned from the papers that the biggest eggs were always laid on the editor's table, and he wished to ascertain whether the papers lied or not.

THE DOCTOR'S LAST HAPPY RESORT.—Evansville, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882. I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much against my wish, to use a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to ever expect, she was completely cured. The name of this remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice.—Leading M.D., Evansville. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size, $1.

COULDN'T BEAR PROSPERITY.

There was a singular illustration of this in the New York Police Court the other day. A good-for-nothing looking wretch was brought up charged with drunkeness. it was a clear case. The testimony showed that he had been on a spree for a week. He was asked what he had to say for himself "Well, yer honor," said he, "me and my old woman never did live easy together." "That's no excuse for your getting drunk," said the court. "You're right, yer honor, and so it ain't. We used to fight like cats and dogs together." "Drinking only made it worse," put in the court. "That's true. She discouraged the life out of me, and kept me poor, until last week, when——" "Well, what did she do last week?" "She died, yer honor." "And you have been drunk ever since?" "Yes, yer honor."; I never could bear prosperity."

HEIGHT OF WOMEN'S HEELS.

For a long time, says the St. James' Gazette, the alarming height of the heels of woman's boots has been a source of deep anxiety to her many friends and admirers, but it is generally felt that any remonstrance with her on the subject, would only irritate her. An action was brought in London the other day to recover compensation for personal injuries, and was defended on the ground of contributory negligence. The plaintiff was a butcher, who, with his wife, went on board a steamer belonging to the defendant for a short sea trip. While stepping on board the vessel the plaintiff's wife slipped and fell, breaking her leg. A question was raised in the course of the inquiry as to the height of the heels of her boots. She described them as being not very high—about the usual height. A medical witness expressed his opinion that the heels of the boots worn by plaintiff's wife were not very high; but admitted that high heels led to many accidents, and in some cases "conduced to injury of the spine." In the end the jury found a verdict for the defendant.

WHO WAS WAITING ON HER.

An amusing incident recently took place in a dry goods store in a Canadian town. A good-looking honest-faced country girl came to town with her lover to do a trifle of shopping. The magnitude of the store, the piles on piles of goods, the dazzling array of articles, the rows of busy clerks the flitting cash boys, quite overpowered her, and she scarcely knew what to do. Her swain obstinately refused to go in, but loitered about the door. The clerks being all busy just at the moment, the young lady was obliged to remain standing a few moments. At length a dapper fellow with gold watch and chain and flourishing moustache came bowing and smiling up to the blushing customer with, "Anybody waiting on you, madam?" The color deepened in her cheeks as she hesitated and drew a long breath; till finally with a nod of her head toward the door she faltered, "Yes, sir, he is."

"IMMIGRANT CHILDREN."

Mr. John T. Middlemore, the founder of the Orphan Children's Emigration Charity, London, Ont., left Liverpool on the 1st inst. in the S. S. Polynesian with a party of 23 girls and 29 boys between the ages of 3 and 18 years, who are brought out to this country for adoption or hire, chiefly among farmers. They are expected to arrive at the Guthrie Home near London, Ont, on or about 14th inst. This will be Mr. Middlemore's 10th annual visit to these shores with juvenile emigrants from Birmingham, England, since 1872. Already many applications accompanied with good references have been made for the children expected to arrive, but more are required. Further particulars may be obtained by addressing Mr. H. Gibbens, Manager of the Guthrie Home, London, Ont.

An Important Omission.

Sir L. Tilley in his return in reference to tall chimneys omitted to mention a very important industry, and one which has not only given employment to many hands, but has through the influence of the N. P. relieved thousands from physical suffering. We refer to that great remedy for corns, "PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR." Sure safe and painless. Sir Leonard may exclaim, "Canada for Canadians," but we most emphatically say "Putnam's painless Corn Extractor for corns." Sold everywhere.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

Not One of Our Peculiarities.

So-called respectable people would hesitate considerably before pilfering your pockets in a crowded thoroughfare. That would be too too. The same discrimination is not indicated by the so-called respectable druggist when that wonderful corn cure, PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, is asked for. He will pilfer your pockets in the most genteel manner by substituting cheap and dangerous substitutes for the genuine Putnam's Corn extractor. Watch for these gentlemen, and take none other than Putnam's Corn Extractor. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth. If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

"The Man in the Moon."

From the earliest period of history many people have believed that a man really inhabitated the moon; some thought he was made of green cheese, while others had their doubts about it—be that as it may, whether there is a man in the moon or not, there is no doubt in the solid fact that

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY

Is the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

We have opened a fresh lot of men and boys felt and straw hats making our stock very complete. W. J. Wallace Lakefield. 20-4ins

The air is full of politics, and several of the electors are beginning to get "full" of—politics, too. Though it is not generally known by that name, it often is made to answer the same purpose.

We are showing a large assortment of boots and shoes for men women and children, both in light and heavy goods at right prices. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 20-4ins

Waterworks.—The bulk of the mains pipes have arrived, and their being distributed along George street, gives a more business look to this enterprise. The work will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible.

Long, clear bacon, stems of refined lard and one car load of salt this week. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 20-4ins

Cameron vs. Bickford.—This case has at length been decided, Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot giving his decision against the plaintiff with costs.

The Midland Railway.—The Perth Courier says that ground was broken for the Midland Railway at Perth on Tuesday last, on the Thornton property. We understand work has also been begun at Glen Tay.

Fire.—About 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning, the fire brigade were called out for a fire which had broken out on Simcoe street, in a vacant wooden building, owned by Joseph Hall. The buildings, which were not of much value, were destroyed.

Cheese Market.—At the fortnightly cheese market held in the drill shed, here, on Wednesday, 1,121 boxes were purchased by Mr. W. H. Wrighton, at 9¼ cents. June 6th, Ingersoll, 9¾ to 9⅞ Montreal, 9¾ to 10¼ cents. Liverpool, 58 shillings, a decline of 2 shillings in five days.

Immigrant Arrival.—Last Thursday about a hundred immigrants arrived at the Midland station, by special train, to work on Mr. Beemer's contract on the Missing Link. Their families, to the number of fifty, arrived on the noon train next day. About a dozen and a half of them found situations as servant girls.

The Missing Link.—Work on this is progressing rapidly, about 500 men being now employed, and is fast approaching the town. The link will strike the Midland track near the junction of Brock street, with it, follow the main track to Dalhousie street, thence diagonally to the river, which it will cross near the cemetery.

T. & O. R. R.—According to the Madoc Review work on the Toronto & Ottawa Railway is progressing in such a way as to earn the approval of the Chief Engineer, J. C. Bailey, who made a visit to the works at Madoc recently. The grading between Madoc and Bridgewater will be finished in a few weeks. The average monthly pay sheet amounts to about $6000.

Spaulding's Bay.—Our local manufactory of miasma is still in active operation, and its victims are daily receiving additions. This is an industry that the N.P. has certainly not injured. It is like the other benefits of the N. P., it helps the few and injures the any. The doctors and druggists are the chief beneficiaries, while the people are shaken up generally.

County Court and the General Sessions of the Peace opened on Tuesday, before His Honor, Judge Dennistoun. There was only one civil case, an appeal from a magistrate's decision and the criminal docket was nil. The case McGhee vs Bradburn, an appeal for the conviction of Police Magistrate Hatton in re a verandah in rear the Market Block. Conviction quashed—Mr. Weller for appellant, Mr. Edwards for respondent.

Pastoral Peterborough or the bucolic borough would not be a bad name for the town It is pleasing to note that we still retain the Acadian simplicity that should mark a country town—the delightful blending of rural and urban characteristics, as seen in the harmonious intermixing of cows and carriages, geese, goslings, pigs and pedestrians in our handsomest streets.

Dominion Day. — Peterborough is showing her loyalty to the natal day of the Dominion by a grand celebration on the 1st July. A committee of seven each from the Lacrosse Club and the Fire Brigade have the matter in hand. In the morning there will be a lacrosse match, between the Earls of Kingston and the home team for the Gildersleeve Cup with a prospect of its remaining in town. In the afternoon there will be a procession of the Fire Brigade, with apparatus decorated and the Lacrosse Club in uniform, to be followed by athletic sports and games (with events for both amateur and professional competition) at which substantial prizes will be given. In the evening there will be a promenade concert in the drill shed, a torch-light procession, and a grand display of fireworks. The 1st of July falls on a Saturday.

[illegible] employment for the people [illegible] provide the means of paying [illegible] taxation which is levied upon them," [illegible] was speaking in the session of 1878. Leonard Tilley, the present Finance Minister, the gentleman who is especially [illegible] for the financial and fiscal policy of the Administration, addressing [illegible] constituents whose suffrages he was [illegible] in the fall of 1878, just before the general election, used these words:

[illegible] am now going to touch upon a delicate question, and I am well aware that I will be [illegible] in Parliament for any expression of opinion which I may now give. If I had been in Parliament I would not have voted to increase a duty on the unmanufactured articles from [illegible] per cent. Government supporters have been spreading the report all through the country that the policy of Sir John Macdonald and his followers is to increase the taxes of the country. It has been stated that Sir John Macdonald had even named the rate to which he proposes to increase the tariff—35 per cent. No idea ever entered his head or that of any of his followers. The tariff will always be [illegible] by the necessities of the country. It [illegible] about thirteen millions a year from [illegible] duties and five millions from [illegible] to carry on the ordinary public [illegible] of the country. How best and [illegible] justly to distribute the question of [illegible] of taxation to constitute, I do not [illegible] that any question is equitably levied as [illegible] and therefore I am in favor of modifying the tariff, which will render the burden [illegible] to all classes of the people throughout the Dominion, but this Bill [illegible] does not suit our opponents. If you suppose the [illegible] you will vote for increased taxation [illegible]; but it is re-arrangement that is needed [illegible] increased taxation. This reminds me [illegible] incident which occurred during the Confederation campaign. A gentleman opposed to Confederation went into a house during the [illegible], and patting a fine boy on the head, [illegible] 'You do not want this boy to fight the [illegible] of Canada, do you?' and then settled the [illegible]. We want no increase in the taxation, [illegible] we want the taxes properly imposed.

[illegible] again within a few days, speaking to [illegible] people, he used these words:

[illegible] would now come to the question of taxation, which was an important one in the present [illegible]. If a supporter of his was met by a [illegible] man he was told that the Opposition proposed to put a duty on flour, on coal, and increase the taxation accordingly. [illegible] Mr. Burpee made the assertion he (the [illegible]) was in favor of a reciprocal tariff with the United States. Mr. Burpee [illegible] no right to say, as the speaker had never [illegible] any statement of the kind. [illegible]

We learn by the Nelsonville Mountaineer that Mr. Wilmot Haultain, son of Col Haultain, is following the advice of Horace Greely to its fullest extent, and has gone furth r west.

Messrs. H. LeBrun, President, and W. H. Sanderson, Captain of the Peterboro' Club, were delegates at the tenth annual meeting of the National Lacrosse Association, held at Toronto on Friday.

The veteran Mr. Jacques—the "Old Man"—gave us a call on Thursday last. He was making arrangements for the visit of the "Big United States Circus," to be here on the 15th of June.

Mr. J. G. Burns, of the firm of C. Martin & Co., clothiers, Toronto, was in town a day or two since, after having taken a business trip over the Midland Railway. He had occasion to come in contact with all the leading officials of the line, and speaks in warm terms of the uniform courtesy, consideration and kindness he received at their hands.

The Nelsonville (Manitoba) Mountaineer has the following:—Yesterday we were greatly surprised by a visit from his jolliness, J. C. Sherin, Esq., of Lakefield, Ont. Mr. Sherin is on an extended visit to Manitoba and the North-West. He has been visiting friends in Minnesota and Dakota, and gone over quite a portion of this Province, and he informs us that Nelsonville and vicinity is the finest section he has yet seen. We wish friend Sherin a pleasant trip through this country, and hope he may see fit to settle amongst us.

"Mr. Melville Millar," says the Orillia Packet, of June 2d, "leaves this morning for Peterborough, where he has re-purchased his former business from Mr. John Bertram. He takes with him the good wishes of the people of Orillia. We are assured on the best authority, that the rumours of Mr. Millar's financial losses have been grossly exaggerated, and that his position to-day is better than that of three-fourths of the men in business throughout the Province. In returning to Peterborough he is in a measure going home, as he was in business there for a long time before coming to Orillia." In common with very many others, we extend a welcome to Mr. Millar on his return to town, and trust his business career will be eminently successful. We also hope that Mr. Bertram's retirement from his present business does not mean his retirement from Peterborough.

Robinson & Elliott's saw-mill at Nogey's Creek is receiving a large quantity of machinery, shafting, circular saws etc., sent out by Mr. John Makins, of Lindsay. The capacity of the mill will be about 20,000 feet per day. A large quantity of ties, shingles, etc., will be cut at this mill, the firm having several large contracts for them on hand.

THE PROCESSION.

LIVELY SCENES ALONG DUNDAS AND RICHMOND STREETS, ON THE ARRIVAL OF THE CIRCUS.

(From the London Daily Advertiser.)

This Metropolitan western paper, referring to this Show, says:—

"Early this morning two large trains of cars arrived over the Great Western, containing the combined shows, consisting of the Big United States Circus, Museum and Menagerie, and the New Great Eastern Circus Caravan Show. As might be expected, the street procession and display was at once gorgeous and imposing.

THE TABLEAUX CARS

were numerous and lofty, and many of them carried on the roofs all the elements and material necessary to excite the risibilities of the thousands of night-seers assembled all along the route, and cause the average boy to go into ecstacies of delight. A leading feature of the procession was the presence of one composed of white, and the other entirely of colored performers. The cars, or rather the chariots, containing the musicians were very grand indeed. A mammoth elephant, a second edition of Jumbo, and a number of camels followed the first band waggon. On one of the cars aloft, and securely chained, stood which glared with rolling eyeballs at the baby carriages which lined the edge of the sidewalks, as if he would like to interview their contents. The cavalcade of lady riders and equestrians was very imposing indeed. The circus has the reputation of having not only the most daring of riders, acrobats, etc., but likewise the Prince of Clowns, in the person of Billy Andrews, who is quite popular throughout the Dominion, having on former occasions visited London, in connection with some of the best shows. The procession wound its way to where the mammoth pavillions are pitched. From the unusually crowded appearance of the city, and the turnout to the procession, it might be concluded that the show will be largely patronized, the tent crowded afternoon and evening."

TWO SPLENDID BRASS BANDS,

A LIVE JAGUAR,

THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS,

The Big United States and New Great Eastern Combined Shows will give two grand performances in Peterborough, on Thursday, June 15th, 1882.

Messrs. B. Mowry & Son, well known in Peterborough, have decided to remove their foundry, and machine shops from Lindsay to Gravenhurst, and a part of the plant is already on the way. Their departure from Lindsay is generally regretted.

Traffic Returns.—The traffic on the Midland Railway for the week ending May 27th, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $5,379.21; freight, $14,444.52; total, $19,823.73, as compared with $15,685.65 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $4,138.18; and the aggregate traffic to date is $353,825.15, being an increase of $104,760.14 over 1881.

Revision of Assessment.—The Court of Revision, consisting of Messrs. Rutherford, chairman, Patterson, Poussette and Alford, met on Tuesday evening of last week for the first time, to revise the assessment of the town of Peterborough for the year 1882, when about twenty appeals were disposed of, several having been dismissed, and others laid over for future consideration at the next meeting—on Monday, June 9th. Most of the cases are unimportant.

SPEECH OF HON. EDWARD BLAKE

Delivered at Hamilton, May 29th, 1882.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER.

HON. E. BLAKE.

Grand Reform Rally in Hamilton.

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS

Reasons Why the Country Should Not Support the Administration.

THE LIBERAL TARIFF POLICY.

Disallowance, Boundary and Gerrymander.

The Grand Opera House, Hamilton, was filled to overflowing on Monday night by an audience anxious to hear the promised address of Hon. Edward Blake on the political questions of the day. In the private boxes a number of ladies were seated, and in the body of the hall and the gallery the sturdy voters, members of both political parties, filled every available space.

The Chairman then presented the Hon. Edward Blake.

MR. BLAKE'S SPEECH.

Hon. Edward Blake rose to his feet amid the enthusiastic cheers of the vast assemblage.

He said—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, electors of Hamilton, it is now for the third time that I have been permitted the privilege of addressing the electorate of this great constituency upon critical occasions in the history of our country. (Cheers.) On the occasion of the general election of this Province in the year 1871, and on the occasion of the general election for this Province in the year 1879—when I had the honor of speaking to you in another room not far removed from this in reference to what were the issues which divided the two Provincial parties at that time, and what I believed to be the duty of all good citizens of this country in those emergencies; and upon these occasions I was fortunate enough in the result of the election (cheers) to find myself in sympathy with the views of the majority of the electors of Hamilton (great cheering), and they say, sir, that the third time is the charm. (Applause). But I can only say—I cannot hope for any better charm, or any greater measure of success than that which attended the efforts of the Liberal party in these former cases (cheers); and I will say this to you beside—that whatever might have been my hopes of the Province of Ontario and of the city of Hamilton doing their duty upon these former occasions, I am able this night—from the events which have transpired during these last few days, and from the despatches which I have seen and to-day received, from the strength of the nominations which the Liberal party has made, and from the degree of enthusiasm and the high spirit which our friends are showing everywhere throughout the Province—to lay my hand on my heart and say to you: at no time did it beat higher with hope and confidence, as to the result of this great struggle, than it does at this moment when I am now addressing you. (Cheers.) Now, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I felt it to be my duty at the earliest instant after the dissolution had been precipitated upon us, to place my views before the electors of my own constituency and speak not alone to them, but through them to the electors of Canada at large, and place, I say, my views on every issue which is before the people in this contest, plainly and frankly, and as fully as was possible within the limits of such a paper, before them, and as you, sir, have observed it is impossible in a public address to be delivered within the limits of an evening, by a man who has to use his voice in many counties within the next few days, to discuss all these topics, or even any one of them, at as great a length as would be desirable (hear, hear.) I must with great difficulty make some selections, and upon even

ANY ONE TOPIC

I am not able, so fully as I should wish; but I laid them before you in my address, and I crave your careful attention to the words which I use in my indictment against the men who at present control the destinies of this country—I crave you to weigh carefully the reasons why, in my opinion, they should be condemned; why their policy ought not to receive your support, and I will point out to you the views which I believe true Liberals ought to aspire to, and which it will be my hope and aim, if entrusted with the opportunity, to direct their course towards. (Applause.) Now, gentlemen, I believe that in the first place—though the subject is somewhat dry—it yet becomes my duty to direct your attention to the portion in that indictment which deals with the promises and the pledges which were made by those gentlemen before they received your confidence and the confidence of this country, and to consider for a short space how far those promises and those pledges have been redeemed by the men who made them when they obtained power, which they obtained by such means; and as I have done elsewhere, I shall show you, gentlemen, to-night—not speaking to you in my own words—what those promises and pledges were; and I will read you them in the words of those who made them, and I think that you will agree with me, whatever your views on politics are, that this is as fair a way as this question can be placed before you. (Hear, hear.) I will first show you from the language of their chief speakers what it was that they promised, and then I will show you from the Public Accounts and the documents which they themselves have issued what it is that they have performed, and I will leave to you to judge how far promises and performances have gone hand-in-hand together. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, there was the promise made that the expenditure of this country should be reduced, rather than be increased (hear, hear); that the taxation of this country should not be increased, but only be readjusted. (Hear, hear.) There was the allegation made that those who preceded these gentlemen in office had been extravagant, and that by their extravagant conduct of affairs they had justly merited the condemnation of their countrymen. Let me read to you proof of these assertions of my own:

SIR CHARLES TUPPER,

during the session before the last general elections, in Parliament used this language: "I trust I have satisfied the House that it is not a question of high or low taxation, any further than this: inasmuch as we governed the country with smaller taxation, and inasmuch as we are prepared to govern the country again without those extravagant expenditures which have been made by the present Government since they have been entrusted with power, all that we ask is, not that the taxation of the people shall be increased—because we do not require so much money as hon. gentlemen opposite—as we have shown by our economy in the past and which we are prepared to practice in the future; but that the money shall be levied in such a way as will furnish employment for the people and provide the means of paying the taxation which is levied upon them." He was speaking in the session of 1878. Sir Leonard Tilley, the present Finance Minister, the gentleman who is especially responsible for the financial and fiscal policy of the Administration, addressing the constituents whose suffrages he was soliciting in the fall of 1878, just before the general election, used these words:

I am now going to touch upon a delicate question, and I am well aware that I will be held responsible in Parliament for any expression of opinion which I may now give. If I had been in Parliament I would not have voted to increase the duty on the unmanufactured articles from 15 to 17½ per cent. Government supporters have been spreading the report all through the Dominion that the policy of Sir John Macdonald and his followers is to increase the taxes of the country. It has been stated that Sir John Macdonald had even named the rate to which he proposes to increase the tariff—35 per cent. No such idea ever entered his head or that of any one of his followers. The tariff will always be governed by the necessities of the country. It requires about thirteen millions a year from customs duties and five millions from excise to carry on the ordinary public service of the country. How best and most judiciously to levy this is the question for the Government of the day to consider. I do not think that this amount is equitably levied at present; and therefore I am in favor of readjusting the tariff, which will render the taxation equitable to all classes of the people throughout the Dominion, but this kind of readjustment does not suit our opponents. If you support the Opposition you will vote for increased taxation they say; but it is re-arrangement that is needed and not increased taxation. This reminds me of an incident which occurred during the Confederation campaign. A gentleman opposed to Confederation went into a house during the canvass, and patting a fine boy on the head, said, 'You do not want this boy to fight the battles of Canada, do you?' and that settled the matter. We want no increase in the taxation, but we do want the taxes properly imposed.

Once again within a few days, speaking to the same people, he used these words:

He would now come to the question of taxation, which was an important one in the present election. If a supporter of his was met by a Government man he was told that the Opposition proposed to put a duty on flour, on coal, [illegible] When Mr. Burpee made the assertion he (the speaker) was in favor of a reciprocal tariff with the United States Mr. Burpee said what he had no right to say, as the speaker had never made any statement of the kind. And the Government of which he was a member been in power during the last five years he was satisfied that the average expenditure would not have exceeded twenty-two and a half millions where the Government had levied twenty-four millions. It would have been the duty of the Government before levying additional taxation to have ascertained what reductions could be made in the expenditure, and had the present Government acted on this principle they would only have carried out their declared policy while in Opposition, but they took no such course, and they consequently abandoned another plank in their platform. In fact, instead of decreasing they had largely increased the expenditure, for which [illegible] are justly censurable.

Now, Mr. Chairman, you have seen what the Minister says. You have seen what he says with reference to the increase of taxation—the distinct promise that it would not be increased. You have seen what he has said in the reference to expenditure—the distinct assertion that the expenditure had been too great. You have seen what he says with reference to what he would do: Tax coal! tax flour! increase the taxation of the people!

MONSTROUS CALUMNIES.

He says monstrous calumnies circulated through the country to damage the chances of a pure, patriotic, economical and retrenching party, who would never do such things. (Great laughter and cheers.) You have seen what he says as to the rate of taxation—that it ought to be levied—thirteen millions for customs and five millions for excise, or eighteen millions in all. (Hear, hear.) You have seen what he says that the late Government ought to have done, and what he says he would do. And now let us see what he has done. (Laughter.) In the first place, with reference to taxes, Sir Leonard Tilley, the other day in the House of Commons, took the consumption of imported goods of the year 1877 as a proper consumption to compare with the consumption of imported goods of the year which has just passed, 1881, and therefore I will take that year. It is as convenient as any other, and it is perhaps a little more convenient than any other for the reason which Sir Leonard Tilley himself stated, that the amounts are almost equal. It is true that the apparent consumption of these goods, by the Public Accounts for the year 1877, was as much as $95,400,000—I give you the round figures only—but a certain portion of these goods entered were wheat and flour, which passed through the country and were not consumed at home, and Sir Leonard Tilley properly strikes this out in order to make a comparison with last year, and reduces the consumption of these goods to the amount of 91 million and 6 or 7 hundred thousand dollars, while the consumption of these goods for the year 1881 was just $91,600,000 in round numbers. You will therefore see that in the year 1877 and in the year 1881 that you consumed of imported goods almost to a dollar, and within a very few dollars of the same amount—say $91,600,000 worth. Now, we taxed the goods which you brought into the country for consumption. He takes in free goods and dutiable goods, luxuries and necessaries, high taxed goods and low taxed goods, the materials for manufacture, and those which you consumed; it takes everything in which you bought in the one year and consumed, and which you bought in the last year and consumed—the same value of goods, $91,600,000 worth in each year. Now, that is impressed upon your mind. I have just one other feature to bring before you: What taxes did you pay in the first of these two years, 1877, on the same value in goods? You paid $13,550,000 in taxes. And what taxes did you pay in the year 1881, under these gentlemen's tariff, on the same value in goods? You paid $18,500,000 (hear, hear and applause), or within a trifle of six millions more. (Hear, hear.) You paid nearly

HALF AS MUCH AGAIN

to the very dollar of taxes on goods imported which you paid in the year 1877, and you paid within a shade of eighteen and a half million dollars in the year 1881 in this manner. (Hear, hear.) Now, these gentlemen boast of their surplus. (Hear, hear.) They tell you that they are wonderful statesmen and financiers because they have accumulated in the Treasury at Ottawa a certain amount of dollars. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) I have stated to their face, and I say to you—if they could show to you that they had made it by working over hours (laughter); that they had dug it out of the ground; that they had got it from the sky, or fished it from the sea—why, then they deserved your credit and your confidence, and I could not come before you and ask you to throw them out. (Hear, hear.) But where did they get it? Why, they simply got it where taxes generally come from. Here is where they got it (at this point the speaker touched his treasury pockets, amid cheering and laughter). And do you think that it was a great feat of statesmanship, when they had raised the tariff from 15 or 14 per cent., which was about the then average, to over 20 per cent.; when they had said to you, who buy the goods: "Sirs, for every dollar in taxes which you paid before you shall pay within a trifle of one and a half dollars now?" (hear, hear); and when they had screwed this money out of your pockets and into the treasury, do you think it is something which they are entitled to boast of as the end of the year that the money is there! (Applause and laughter.) As I said to my friends in the County of Peel the other day: "Suppose that your Municipal Councillors were to come to you at the end of the year, when they were seeking re-election and say to you: 'Please to re-elect us; see what good municipal financiers we have been; we show a county or municipal balance sheet of $6,000 or $6,000 in the treasury while there was not a dollar there and only a few dollars last year.' You would say to them: 'Is there anything in that? Where did you get so much money? Where did you get it from?' 'Why—why—the—truth—the—we doubled the taxes—(laughter and cheers)—you paid it yourselves.' (Laughter.) You would then say to these men: 'What in the world did you do that for? Why have you taken more money from us than you wanted? You have abstracted it from our own pockets, although we have enough uses for it for ourselves—(hear, hear)—and having put it down into the treasury, you ask for re-election again because you have done all that. Go home and manage your own business, and try to manage it a little better than you tried to manage ours.' (Laughter and applause.) That is the answer which you would give to municipal officers if they came before you with a story of this kind (applause), and yet it is the story which these men bring forward." (Hear, hear.) I have shown you where the

SURPLUS COMES FROM.

(Hear, hear.) It is not, as some would lead you to believe, because you were made so much richer that you bought a great many more goods in 1881 than you did in 1877, for you bought and consumed as many goods in 1877 as you did in 1881; but it is because, whereas in the year 1877 you paid only 13 per cent. into the Treasury on what you bought, you now pay 20 1-5 per cent. on what you buy. (Applause.) Now, gentlemen, let us understand a little what this means. I say to you as I have said elsewhere: I have often wished that my fellow-countrymen for one year only could know what it is that they do pay in this manner—(hear, hear, and applause)—not by paying any more money, but by paying the same money in a different way. You pay 18½ millions in customs taxes at the present time into the treasury, but not directly from yourselves. You pay it to the shopkeeper with whom you deal, who has already paid it into the treasury, and who demands from you another advantage that you shall pay to him beside, some interest or profit in his adventure as he must demand. You therefore pay that something more to the shopkeeper, but then you do not know how much the duty is because it is mixed up with the price. (Hear, hear.) He charges you one sum for the article you buy, and if you did know what it was that you paid in duty on the article which you buy from the dealer with whom you deal, then you could see about it, and you could show exactly where it is; or it could be done by this other process: Suppose that instead of your paying the dry goods merchant or the grocery merchant so much in the price of the goods which you buy, a tax collector came round, and you paid the same amount which you now pay, but paid it with the bill of particulars for the $20 or $30 per family which you pay, and suppose that the tax bill came round this year for $30, whereas a few years ago it was only for $20—you would say, four years ago the tax bill was only for $20, but now it is for $30. What does it all mean? You would then look at the particulars; and when I come a little later on probably we will obtain some of the particulars which appear in the bill. You would be sure to scrutinize the bill very anxiously and you would want to know why it was that your rulers were demanding from you such a large sum of money, and if their excuse was: First of all they wanted a sugar refiner to grow rich, and secondly, they wanted the Londonderry Iron Works to make a great deal of money; and thirdly, they wanted to make a good showing, by having a

BIG BALANCE OF MILLIONS

down at Ottawa in the Treasury, I think you would say, "These are very flimsy excuses. My good sir, this is no good reason for increasing our taxes nearly 50 per cent.; what we want is that you should take from us just as little as is necessary to carry on the public service as economically as you yourself promised it should be carried on." (Applause). You would scrutinize the bill of increased expenditure, and you must find the justification for their conduct very clear before you would allow these gentlemen to continue in office an instant longer than you had an opportunity of turning them out. Now, what does this mean? 1st. I have said what a shopkeeper would tell you, if he told you exactly what you were doing when you bought goods from him. In the old times it would average, as I have said, 12, 13 or 14 per cent.—we will say 14 per cent., taking the highest notch, that is 1 on 7, and what the shopkeeper would say to you under these circumstances. Would he, when you go to get seven yards of something, or seven pounds of something, say, "Yes, sir, I will be very happy to give it you, but you will have to pay

FOR EIGHT YARDS OR EIGHT POUNDS."

You would say, "Why must I pay for eight? I don't want eight and I cannot afford to pay for eight." "Well," he would say to you, "I am very glad that you do not want eight pounds or eight yards, because you are not going to get them." (Hear, hear.) "You will get only seven; and I am very sorry that you cannot afford to pay for it, for the truth of the matter is that I have to send the eighth pound or the eighth yard away down to Ottawa, and it is part of the surplus." (Hear, hear and applause.) Now, that would be the story in those old days; but in these days, if some of you happened to go to the shopkeeper and say to him, "My good sir, they tell me I am over so much better off than I was, and that I have ever so much money in my pocket, but somehow, when I put my hand into it, I do not find it, and the consequence is that I have got to mint my family in the necessaries of life, and whereas, in the year 1877, I bought seven pounds or seven yards, I have to confine myself on the same amount of purchase to five pounds or five yards now." (Hear, hear). Well, gentlemen, the shopkeeper would have to give the same answer, "My very good sir, when you buy five pounds or five yards now you have got to pay for six (hear, hear.) Instead of being one on seven, it is one on five that you have got to pay under this system of taxation." (Hear, hear). Let me now turn for a moment to another point: I think I have proved to you pretty clearly that the promise of these gentlemen was that the

TAXATION SHOULD NOT BE INCREASED, and that this promise they have broken.

A Voice—Correct.

Mr. Blake—And that irrespective of all their extravagant expenditures, that promise they have wantonly broken—because they admit themselves that they have not yet found a way in which to spend quite all the money which they have taken out of your pockets, and for which they claim credit. (Applause and laughter.) Now, what did they say? They said that 18 millions for customs and 5 millions for excise was the proper thing; that is what they said in 1878. But what were the taxes in the year 1882—what were they in the year 1881, I should say? They were 18½ millions for customs and nearly 5½ millions for excise, or nearly 24 million dollars in all, instead of the 18 millions which they told you was enough; or nearly one-third more of taxes than they told you ought to be levied from customs and excise. (Applause.) What are they to have this year? Why, the claim for the current year is that the receipts will be over 26 millions of dollars from customs and excise, and the calculation for the next year is that they will be over 25 millions from customs and excise; so that the taxation is enormously increased. (Applause.) Now let me turn to that other pledge about expenditure. I have told you that though they said that the late Government was extravagant, and that they should have spent no more than 22½ millions, which sum should be about the average expenditure—of course, expenditures increase—these gentlemen did not recognize that fact while they were in Opposition, but I am going to recognize it. While I am in Opposition I admit the fact that for a certain portion of the increase in the public expenditures there may be a justification in the increased wants of the country; and that a certain portion of them are due to the increased expenditure on public works which make some return; but taking the general scale of expenditure you will find that it far exceeds any such allowance as that. (Hear, hear, and applause.) The expenditure for the year 1878—Mackenzie's last year—was 23½ million dollars. The expenditure for the year 1691 was 25½ million dollars, or 2 millions more than 23½ millions, which was too large when these gentlemen were in Opposition, and for this year the Estimates are 28 millions, including Dominion lands, which item was included in Mackenzie's time, and the Estimates for the year to come, including in them certain other expenditures, which were agreed to under special Bills, but do not come down in the ordinary Estimates, will be between 29 and 30 millions of dollars as against 23½ millions in Mackenzie's last year. (Applause.) The truth is that the expenditures and, gentlemen, so long as you allow a Government to keep up high taxes, beyond the range which is necessary for the public service, so long, you may depend upon it, you will find that the expenditures will be increased. (Hear, hear.) Your greatest security for economical government lies in enforcing upon the Government of the day the impropriety of taking more money from your pockets than is necessary for the service of the day. If you allow them to raise more money than this, take my word for it they will cut the coat according to the cloth, and if you give them more cloth than they ought to have to go into the coat, depend upon it you will not get much cloth back; whether it all goes into the coat or not I cannot tell you. (Applause and laughter.) These doctrines about surpluses not being very proper things when they are raised out of the pockets of the people are now decried as old and antiquated notions not worthy of consideration, and you are asked to believe that a surplus which is wrung out of your pockets is a thing which you ought to be thankful for. But, Mr. Chairman, it was not so long ago that the men who now announce these doctrines took a very different view. I am fond of judging my adversaries out of their own mouths. I think it is the fairest way to them, and as I have shown you, or shall show you in several further instances this evening, it is quite sufficient for my occasion upon this campaign. Now, I will read you another little passage on the virtue of a surplus and on the duties of a Government with reference to a surplus, and this little passage, which is taken from a speech of Sir Charles Tupper, delivered in the year 1875 in the House of Commons, was with reference to a modest estimated surplus, not of three millions, not of four millions, not of five millions and not of seven millions, as we hear these gentlemen talking of, but of half a million dollars. Now let us hear what he says. On the 15th of February, 1875, he said: "The Finance Minister says that we have a surplus of half a million dollars; but I say that the Government have no right to have a surplus. (Laughter.) If they have one they should endeavor to get rid of it." (Laughter.) I should be sorry for that sentence to pause there, because I am afraid I am obliged to tell you that these gentlemen are endeavoring to get rid of the surplus. (Laughter.) But the gentleman did

HAVE BEEN ENORMOUSLY INCREASED,

NOT STOP THERE.

He continued: "And the best way to do that is that pursued by us, and by the Government of Great Britain—by lightening the taxes on the people (cheers), and when I tell you that the article of sugar pays in this country 50 per cent. on its cost, while in England the Government have swept this tax away altogether; I think that the House will agree with me that it would have been most opportune to have used this surplus in readjusting the tariff for sugars as proposed this year by such a decrease in the duty on the lower grades of sugar as will accomplish the object in view and which would be received as a boon by the poorer classes of this country." (Hear, hear.) Now, gentlemen, that was the indictment which was brought against Sir Richard Cartwright and the late Government, because they had a surplus, as they had, of half a million of money. With what intensified force, with what degree of arithmetical progression, will you apply that indictment in the case of a Government which glories in and boasts that they have a surplus, not of a modest half million, but of three, four, five or six millions, and which tells us it is a good thing for you that they have taken your money and stowed it away down there at Ottawa? (Laughter.) And, gentlemen, they sometimes tell you, "Oh, you don't feel these taxes as you felt the smaller taxes before." You must each of you judge, and the good wives of the household must judge, how you and they felt it in those old times as compared with how you and they feel it now; and for these gentlemen to tell you, without referring to certain obvious points to which I am now alluding, that they have promoted such a degree of prosperity throughout the country at large, blessed as it is by other parts of their policy, as enables you to pay these large taxes more easily than you paid the smaller ones, is something which is in my judgment of the case wholly uncandid. Town and country, Mr. Chairman, are, fortunately for us, indissolubly united in common bonds of interest. You cannot prosper in a great manufacturing and commercial city like this if you have the country in distress; nor can the country on its side thrive so well when the city is suffering. One of your first elements of success in these aggregates of population such as that I am now addressing, is the flourishing condition of the country at large; in a word, when there is plenty of money in the farmer's pocket, you will find that the town will thrive. (Applause.) Now, gentlemen, they say to you that they have made prosperity come by giving, as they claim, increased employment to

CERTAIN THOUSANDS OF SOULS,

but their figures are vague, their deductions are inaccurate and misleading, and their results are wholly inadequate to the propositions which they advance. I want to give you certain substantial figures, which will prove to you clearly where the money is that has made the country more prosperous, and whence it came. We exported in the year 1878 of the produce of the forest, of animals and their products and of agricultural products, a total of 51½ millions of dollars in value; in the year 1879, a total of 47 millions of dollars in value, making in these two years a total of 98½ millions of dollars in value. Well, you think that these are large figures; and these are the figures for the two years 1878 and 1879. But then we were badly off in the years 1878 and 1879. Let us see what turned the tide and made us feel richer. In the year 1880, we exported of the same commodities of the produce of the land and of the forest, of animals and of agricultural products, not 51½ millions, not 47 millions, but 56¾ millions, and in the year 1881 67½ millions and over, making an aggregate for these two years of nearly 124½ millions, or nearly 26 millions more in hard cash realized by the people of the Dominion of Canada in these last two years than they realized in the first two years from the products of their land. Now, it is from the Public Accounts and from the Trade and Navigation returns these figures are taken, and there is no disputing them; but I go still further—I take the last six months, because the Public Accounts come up to the 30th of June, and we have now the statement up to the 31st Dec.; and we find that in the last six months we exported of the same things to the value of more than $48,500,000, being more than—or $1,500,000 in excess of—the whole of these exports for the year 1879. This is in six months, mind you, not a year. During the last six months we got in more in value from these three sources than we got in during the whole of the year 1879. Now, gentlemen, I think I have shown you pretty clearly what it is that has made this country rich, and, as I have said, when the country is rich its riches go to the towns very largely. Well, how does this compare with the exports of

MANUFACTURED GOODS?

I will give you the export for the year 1878. It was $3,000,000 in value; and the export for the year 1881 was $2,500,000 in value, or $1,500,000 less than it was in the year 1878; and if you exclude from both accounts the article of ships, there remains a deficiency of $630,000 in the export of manufactured goods; so that both affirmatively and negatively, by showing you what the increase in the value of the articles which are the produce of the soil was, and by showing you the diminished value of the exports of manufactured goods—have I demonstrated to you whence it is that the increased prosperity of this country has substantially arisen. (Hear, hear.) Now, it seems to me that these considerations indicate that the gentlemen who are now seeking to retain your confidence do not choose to give proper weight to and to bring before the public fairly and candidly those great considerations which apply, first of all, to their pledges and promises; secondly, to their performances; thirdly, to the increased scale of expenditure, and fourthly, to the resources from which alone, up to this time, the people have been able to bear without suffering intolerably under the burthen. Now, one other observation: I have shown you how they have levied an increased scale of expenditure, and I warn you—and those amongst you who are elderly men if they run back their mind's eye over the events of the past will verify from their own experience my statement—I warn you that an increase, and a rapid increase, in the expenditure, based upon an abnormal development occurring through several

GOOD HARVESTS AND HIGH PRICES,

has been followed in the past, in different countries and in our own country, by severe distress when the time—the inevitable time—came of bad and short crops and low prices, one or both combined. I warn you that it is very much easier to increase the expenditure than to cut it down. We all know that when we feel a little better off, we buy better clothes and we live in a little better style, and we may have larger houses; and when bad times come again, how very much harder is it to cut expenses down than it was to get them up! (Hear, hear.) It is easy to raise them, when the pocket is a little full, but it is very hard to lower them again when bad times come; and what we find to be the case in our own experience—a thing, indeed, which we have wholly within our own control, which touches our own pockets, is very much harder when we come to deal with men who are dealing not with their own money, but who are dealing with the large machinery of the State as these men are. (Hear, hear.) But I have said to you that there was great extravagance. One of the items of extravagance for which Mackenzie was charged was with reference to the number of persons in the departments at Ottawa. I am not going into many topics, but will deal with this one alone on this subject. I dare say that you were told here—I know the men were told in different constituencies—that Mackenzie had filled up the public works and other offices with men from the ranks of party hacks, and with strong partisans of his, who were not wanted for the public service, and who were appointed because they were followers of his, and because they wanted the offices, not because the offices wanted them. I dare say that you were told—I know the men were told elsewhere—that not finding room in the existing departments for these persons, he spent half a million more to provide an addition or a department proper to house a number of these persons; and I dare say that you believed some portion of this reiterated statement, and I dare say you were told, as men were told elsewhere, that when the new broom came in it would sweep clean and decapitate and reduce the public service to its normal condition and save your money by the exercise of prudence, frugality and economy, and by the exercise of all the virtues whose absence they condemned in their opponents, but I am free to admit that the staff at Ottawa was a large staff in the year 1878—I do not say that it was too large—but still it was large. They complained that it was too large. How many was it at that time? 990. That was the number of men who were then paid at Ottawa to do your business. Well, what did these economical gentlemen who condemned that number as too large and said that they filled the buildings and a new building which was unnecessary too? Well, in the year 1880 how low had they got this number, 990 do you think? Can any Conservative give a guess how far it was below 990? (Laughter.) Well, if you manage to find out how much 422 is less than 990 you will answer that sum. (Cheers and laughter.) But perhaps you may suppose that they were fresh at their work then and had only had time to turn round a little—on the principle that the longest way round is the shortest way home—and had only put in a few hands for particular purposes, and that in this last year—the year before that in which they were going to appeal to the people, in order to get a lease of power for three or four years more, they would get everything into good order at any rate; that the men who said that 990 were a good deal too many by that time at any rate would cut the number of these persons down to the proper figure. I suppose that they did, but where was the number? I have a little book which tells me that instead of being 990, instead of being 422, it was 494 (applause), or 104 more than 990, which was too many in the year 1878. (Applause.) And as to the salaries: they were increased by the modest sum, on the net balance, of $92,912. And now, gentlemen, you know where some part of the surplus that has been spent is gone. (Laughter.) I have pointed out to you, I think with some measure of success, that the fiscal policy of the Government, in so far as it involves the raising of taxes, as to the amount, is a little different from what they promised you. I have now to consider their policy

THOSE USELESS EMPLOYEES,

SO MUCH

IN ANOTHER ASPECT,

and to deal with it in a point of view which is peculiarly interesting to the people of this community. Gentlemen, in the city of Montreal, which is a well-known manufacturing city, and in the city of Toronto, which is also a manufacturing city, I have had occasion to speak my sentiments with reference to that policy, and I have spoken in many places; but I observe that the mode is being now adopted of utilising my utterances which remind me a little—with reverence be it said—of the method by which somebody once proved out of the Bible that there is no God. He pointed to the portion of the verse which says: "There is no God;" and there he says, "I have proved it;" but if you read the rest of the verse, you will find it is "The fool hath said in his heart there is no God." (Laughter and applause.) I have stated there quite as frankly as I have stated in my address to my own constituents, and as frankly as I shall state to-night, that I am myself a believer in the principle of as little restriction upon the liberty of the subject as Governmental powers can avoid. I am a believer in freedom of opinion, in the freedom of the person and in freedom of property. I am a believer in the fiscal doctrines which favor the principle of every one amongst us being able to make the best use in the freest way of everything that he possesses, whether it be the labor of his hands (applause)—whether it be the labor of his hands, which is his capital, or whether it is the accumulated fruit of his own labors or of those who lived before him and who have left him their means; and I am a believer in the view that these principles are sound—that ultimately they will prevail—that these days of steam and of rail, of railway and of steamboats, of the telegraph and of the mail, of brief and easy communication, are more and more tending to make the whole world one in commercial matters, and that some time or other there will exist that happy time when we shall be able to take the freest advantage of the superior excellencies possessed by any quarter of the world, and give to any other quarter of the world the advantage of our superior excellencies, whatever they may be (cheers); but while, gentlemen, these are my general beliefs upon this subject, which I have never cancelled, which it would be disbonest and unmanful for me not to avow—I have also said in other portions of the same speeches to which these gentlemen refer—I have there stated the practical condition of this question; I have pointed out, first of all, that these abstract doctrines of free trade are not recognized generally throughout the world to-day. Protectionist United States, protectionist France, protectionist Germany, are all of the obstacles which exist to the adoption generally of these notions, and while I have referred to that, I have also pointed to the condition of our own country as one which rendered it in the past, which renders it in the present, and which will render it in the future impossible, while we have to raise as large a revenue as the expenditures which these gentlemen are placing upon you impose upon us—impossible for us to avoid raising all that revenue on a general fiscal system such as has been the settled fiscal system of Canada for a great many years. What is that fiscal system? It is the system of raising the revenue by indirect taxation. Now, as to direct taxation, it is needless to discuss its merits, on which I differ from a great many people; but it is for the Dominion of Canada, for reasons—which it would take, perhaps, too long to state—in my judgment, a practical impossibility. Indirect taxation must be the source of our revenue. Well then, can it be—as the indirect taxation of Britain is—levied in enormous sums upon one, two or three great articles of consumption? I say with equal confidence that also is impossible, when, in the first place, Britain, if she had to levy her whole revenue

GREAT AND SIGNAL INSTANCES

BY INDIRECT TAXATION,

could not do it. It is by a system of direct and indirect taxation that she does it. In the second place, where, in a different situation, other circumstances might obtain, I maintain that it is only by laying the taxes on a vast variety of articles of different kinds that we can raise the revenue which we require to raise; as it has been in times past, so it is in times present, and so it must continue to be, and that I say with emphasis.

THE INCREASED EXPENDITURE.

Owing to the increased expenditure which, as I have said these gentlemen imposed upon you—that being so in Mr. Mackenzie's time, in the time of those who preceded him and in the present time—taxes have been imposed to a considerable extent upon articles capable of being produced in this country; and no one doubts, although questions may be raised as to what is called the adequacy or inadequacy of the system, that to impose such taxation as according to this measure you are imposing, as the tax is greater or smaller, so is the advantage accordingly greater or smaller; and, as according to this measure, the advantage is in favor of the manufacturer who proceeds to manufacture the article for the home market; therefore it is what I say, that these who have contended that the practical issue before the people of this country on the tariff question was an issue between absolute free trade and this tariff are trying to raise a false issue altogether. (Hear, hear.) I say that no part of this country has ever raised the standard that would practically apply to our affairs the system of absolute free trade, or advocated the raising of our chief taxes upon a few articles only not capable of being produced here, and all that we differ upon at this time—but these differences are to my mind serious and important—but still all that we differ upon is, whether the present tariff, which raises the taxes upon articles upon which taxes are raised is perfect, or whether it is defective and unjust and improper. I maintain, and the Liberal party maintain, that this tariff is defective and unjust in several respects, and with the view of laying fairly before the country what we deemed to be its clear and serious defects, we laid before Parliament this session motions which pointed out where we thought that it was markedly wrong and where we desired that it should be corrected. To these motions I have referred in my address, and I crave your attention to them. I will shortly state them and the reasons for our belief. Now, before I pass to them I may say to you that one incidental advantage of such a fiscal system as that under which we are is this—that you between yourselves and a foreign country, and if that foreign country is also a protective country, and if it has built up like wall between itself and you, you have therefore the opportunity of saying to it: Gentlemen, we have built up a wall, which is an obstacle to your manufacturers; you have built up a wall which is an obstacle to our products. Come, let us see whether it would not be to our mutual advantage for each of us to pull the wall down a little. We will pull it down a little on our side if you will pull it down a little on your side. Let us go over this matter and see how far it will go. And thus you are able to deal in a manner in which England—I am not saying unwisely—but which England cannot deal with such countries, because she—I am not saying unwisely—has pulled down the wall already. In this point of view I have maintained that it is of the greatest possible consequence to our country that we should enlarge our commercial relations with foreign countries; and this is why it is of so much greater consequence to us than it is to the neighboring Republic, because we have, though we possess a large territory, a small and sparse population; because one of the greatest elements of success in manufacturing is a large demand, and because, with a small population, in certain classes of manufactures, where you can greatly diminish the cost of production if you are able to produce largely, one of the first elements of success in manufacturing, and of benefit to the public by reduction in the price, is to get a big market; and therefore it is, I say, important and of vital consequence, avowedly in the manufacturing point of view as well as in the point of view of the agriculturist, that we should use every exertion to enlarge the area of our trade, and to get good commercial relations with other countries

BUILD UP A WALL

TO ADVANCE.

Well, gentlemen, we have not advanced one step. We have not advanced this step (uniting the action to the word) from the year 1868 down to the present day. They have made efforts; they have gone here and they have gone there, through the medium of the Foreign Office and largely of British diplomacy, but nothing has been accomplished; and I maintain, and I think that you will agree with me, that if we had had the power to handle this matter ourselves through the medium of our own agents, conversant with our own wants aware of the character of our own business and affairs, and prepared to deal with them from our own people's point of view, which is a point of view essentially different from that which a country which has no taxes of this description imposed by itself entertains—we would meet with a greater measure of success; and I moved that we should take some steps to procure further powers, so as in a direct way, and not embarrassed by British diplomacy or fiscal or commercial

CONVERSANT WITH OUR RESOURCES,

EXPERIENCE OF CONVICTION IN LABOR.

You will doubtless all remember something of the Cedarbank contract in British Columbia. McDonald, Charlotte & Co. obtained of the Government—have to do with 35 thousand acres of timber berth, and applied for the right to cut it down and export it. Well, they got it, and they employed a lot of men to do the work at a figure that would have been about average wages. There was no trouble about it. Then the Government changed hands, and the new Government refused to allow the timber to be exported. Why? Because the contract had been awarded to the Cedarbank Lumber Company, which was composed entirely of Reformers. Then the Reformers were in a position to boss the job, and they did it. They made the men work ten hours a day instead of nine, and they cut down the wages from $2.50 to $2.25 a day. Then the men struck, and the Reformers had to import Chinamen to do the work. Then the Reformers had to build a railway to the timber limits, and they had to pay $1,500,000 for it. Then they had to build a wharf, and they had to pay $300,000 for it. Then they had to put up a mill, and they had to pay $200,000 for it. Then they had to put up a lot of machinery, and they had to pay $100,000 for it. Then they had to put up a lot of buildings, and they had to pay $100,000 for them. Then they had to pay $1,000,000 for the timber limits. Then they had to pay $1,000,000 for the timber limits. Then they had to pay $1,000,000 for the timber limits

SUPPLEMENT TO

THE PETERBORO' EXAMINER.

VOL. 27. THURSDAY, JUNE 8. NO. 28

A Few Plain Facts for the Electors of Ontario.

For many years Upper Canada was governed by Quebec, aided by a few so-called Upper Canadian representatives. To break loose from this domination by a minority, Representation by Population was called for by the majority. In the Parliament of Quebec, a dead-lock had arisen, to escape from which a coalition government was formed, and the scheme of Confederation was the result. In the British North American Act clauses were inserted, intended to give to each Province the unfettered control of its own local interests, by providing local legislatures, each of which was supposed to be supreme within its own jurisdiction, and great care was taken to point out the scope of their powers. Acting strictly within her right and in connection with one of the subjects relegated to her, the Ontario Legislature in the session of 1881 passed an Act entitled "An Act for Protecting the Public Interest in Rivers, Streams and Creeks." That Act was disallowed by the Government at Ottawa, in defiance of Ontario's acknowledged right, and in direct contravention of the line of action that had formerly been laid down by Sir John A. Macdonald. It was soon that this attack upon the rights of Ontario would probably arouse a strong feeling against the Ottawa Government, and it was therefore declared that the Act of Disallowance was in the public interest, thus taking the ground that the men who compose the Government at Ottawa were better judges of the interests of Ontario than the men whom she had elected by Ontario to manage her Provincial affairs. It could not be expected that such an interference with Provincial independence could pass unchallenged, and therefore in the session of Parliament of this year the matter was brought up for discussion and the action of the Government defended by Sir John A. Macdonald and other speakers on the Ministerial side. In making such defence certain statements were made that are not in accordance with the facts of the case, and as the centralization of power in Ottawa will prove one of the factors in the election contest now coming on, it is considered advisable to place before the electors of Ontario the true state of the case for their guidance. The statements above referred to may be divided thus: (1.) That the said Act was passed by the Ontario Government solely to benefit Messrs. Boyd Caldwell & Son. (2) That the passage of the Act was an attempt to confiscate private property, and ignored private rights. (3.) That the improvements made by Mr. McLaren had cost a fabulous sum, amounting, according to the statements of some, to hundreds of thousands of dollars. (4.) That without the improvements made by Mr. McLaren the stream could not be used. (5.) That the natural outlet for Mr. Caldwell's timber was the Madawaska.

(1.) That the said Act was passed by the Ontario Government solely to benefit Messrs. Boyd Caldwell & Son.—If the Act in question had been simply to benefit Messrs. Boyd Caldwell & Son it would have been confined to the stream in dispute, but the attention of the Government having been called to the claim set up by Mr. McLaren, and foreseeing the probability of the claim being repeated by others if Mr. McLaren was successful, they thought it best to pass an Act that should apply generally, and the question at once arises: "If the timber limits worked by each party were originally purchased from the Government, was it not their duty to take steps to prevent one party from using the accident of his position to the injury of the other party? When, then, their attention was called to the fact that McLaren had assumed the ownership of a water highway, and claimed to prohibit others from using the said highway it would have been a gross dereliction of duty if the Government had not interfered, and it is worthy of note that their right to interfere has not been called in question, but that the Act it was not in the public interest, McLaren and the public being one and the same in the view of the Dominion Government. If then Mr. McLaren's claim is allowed, it will be absolutely necessary in future to sell no timber limits on a stream requiring any improvement until all the timber has been cleared off the furthest limits. Once allow the claim and you place all the owners of timber limits on similar streams at the mercy of one man.

(2.) That the passage of the Act was an attempt to confiscate private property, and ignored private rights.—If the owner of property through which a public road passes thinks proper for his own convenience to improve the road, he would not be justified in denying to others the use of the road because it could not be used without also using his improvements. But it is false to say that any attempt at confiscation was made. Here is what the Act says: "The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may fix the amounts which any person entitled to tolls under this Act shall be at liberty to charge on the sawlogs and different kinds of timber, rafts or crafts, and may from time to time vary the same; and the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, in fixing such tolls shall have to regard and take into consideration the original cost of such construction and improvements, the amount required to maintain the same, and to cover interest upon the original cost, as well as such other matters as under all the circumstances may to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council seem just and equitable." A subsequent clause gave a lien on the timber for the tolls. Stress has been laid on the hardship imposed of keeping a man at the improvements to count the pieces going through, entirely ignoring the fact that the true return can always be procured from the Crown Timber Office. Had McLaren followed the usual course pursued by lumbermen on small streams, viz., that of giving and taking in the use of improvements, there would have been no ground for interference. It is also an element in the case that McLaren's dams have some of them been erected for the purpose of allowing square timber to pass through a slide on his own land, while sawlogs could be taken down the stream were his dam removed, and as a fact many thousands have actually been run down this spring, proving that the stream is floatable.

(3.) That the improvements made by McLaren had cost a fabulous sum, amounting, according to the statements of some, to hundreds of thousands of dollars.—Sometime about 1869 the then firm of Gillies & McLaren bought from Gilmour & Co. their limits on the Mississippi, for the sum of $60,000, and this sum carried with it the Farms, Real Estate and all improvements on the river, including High Falls, Flat Rapids, Miller's Gap, Ragged Chute, Island Chute, Otter Chute and King's Chute, Cross Lake Reserve Dam, Side Dam at head of Cross Lake, and Farm Slide. Some of those improvements have almost entirely disappeared, notably those at Flat Rapids, and nearly all are in a bad state of repair. The plant, provisions, horses, &c., was a sale outside of the farms, and for these they paid $12,000. The next improvement above the Farm Slide is at McDonald's Chute, for which McLaren paid $1,000, which included 400 acres of land and a mill. McLaren's next so-called improvement is at the head of the Mazinaw Lake, and the land, including a mill, cost him $10,000. The land was 500 acres, and the seller of the land on the trial at Perth valued the land, mill and houses at $9,000, thus leaving the cost of the dam and water power at $1,000. It will thus be seen that the timber limits above referred to, farms, horses, plant, provisions, mills, mill houses and dams cost the sum of $75,000, not one cent of which did the Act touch, but simply allowed others to use the improvements at a reasonable rate of remuneration. It is true McLaren has built a slide on his own land, and, to get sufficient water to pass his square timber through, has built a dam which interferes with other lumbermen bringing down their logs, and what they ask is not the use of McLaren's slide, but the use of the bed of the river, which McLaren denies them, and this the Act gives them, as well as the use of the slide by paying for it, upon the principle that if the water is taken for the slide they must have the use of it. All streams are public property when they are floatable, and that the stream in question is floatable is proved from the fact that Buck & Stewart drove their square timber down the stream, cutting away McLaren's dams when necessary. Two independent valuators (unknown to each other) have gone over the improvements and do not greatly vary, and the improvements from High Falls to the foot of Mazinaw Lake are estimated at less than $12,000! While for the boasted improvements on Mississippi Creek, and to prevent the use of which by Boyd Caldwell & Son McLaren obtained an injunction on the ground that they were very valuable, he paid the enormous sum of twelve dollars!!!

(4.) That without the improvements made by McLaren the stream could not be used.—After this contention will it be believed that McLaren is not the pioneer on this river, but that all the improvements from McDonald's Chute down were built by Gilmour & Co. about 1854, and formed part of the property purchased by Gillies & McLaren, and the exclusive right to the use of the river was never advanced until after McLaren had become possessed of the property, he having previously cut dams in the assertion of his right to use the same stream he now tries to prevent others from using. As has been already shown, Buck & Stewart took their drive of square timber down the whole length of the stream, and this spring, acting under the decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal, Boyd Caldwell & Son have driven several thousand logs down the same stream, and it must not be forgotten that McLaren claims as an improvement the slide on his own land for his square timber, to procure the water for which he has erected a dam that is an obstruction to other lumbermen in their legitimate use of the stream. For their timber limits Boyd Caldwell & Son paid over $65,000, and it cannot for a moment be supposed that these shrewd business men would buy a limit if the stream was not floatable, or being floatable was private property, and they had no way out, and all they ask is the use of the river as it is without McLaren's improvements.

(5.) That the natural outlet from Caldwell & Son's limits was the Madawaska.—Supposing a farmer purchased a farm which fronted on two roads, could anyone legally object to his use of one of the roads because the party from whom he purchased always used the other? The objection is an absurd one, and shows how utterly indefensible the action of McLaren is when his defenders are driven to such a plea. The fact is that the timber limits of Messrs. Caldwell & Son have the water-shed within them, and also the rise of the waters, one part going to the Madawaska and the other to the Mississippi, and therefore both streams are natural outlets. That taking timber from these limits to the Madawaska was not very profitable was proved by the former owner. That it is the undoubted right of any and every man to conduct his business in his own way will be admitted, and the fact of Caldwell & Son's mill being at Carleton Place, on the Mississippi, will be to every thinking man a reason sufficient for his use of the stream in question. About 1870 Gillies & McLaren bought through a third party from the estate of the Hon. Jas. Skead another limit on the Mississippi, and from this limit the previous owner sent his timber down the Madawaska, but McLaren now uses the Mississippi.

A perusal of the above facts will show the unfounded contentions of the upholders of the Dominion Government, and satisfy every unprejudiced reader that the Act in question was not enacted for the sole benefit of Messrs. Caldwell & Son, but it was disallowed solely in the interest of McLaren. That the Act did not confiscate property, or take away private rights, but made all just and reasonable provision for the payment of tolls where improvements are necessarily used. That the improvements made by McLaren did not cost anything near the amount stated, that $12,000 would cover the outlay, but that whatever the cost of the improvements were was to be taken into consideration by the Lieut.-Governor in Council in fixing the tolls. That the stream was and is still floatable, Messrs. Caldwell & Son at the present time bringing their logs down and floating them over McLaren's dams, to some of which he has not built an apron as required by law, but on some he has, and supposing the contention to be correct, then the fact of these improvements having been made in 1854 and only now put forward as forming a right to monopolize the stream would give the public a right of way down the stream. As to the natural outlet, it is shown that either stream may be taken, but if Caldwell & Son are to be confined to the Madawaska because the Hon. Jas. Skead, who formerly owned the limits, ran some timber down that river, then McLaren should be confined to the use of the same stream for the same reason. The action of McLaren cannot be defended, for it is simply an attempt to play a grab game for his own benefit, he having bought the land which he says gives him the stream on the plea of wanting it for mineral lands. It would be just as reasonable for a man who owned a farm on both sides of a road, and who had for his own benefit and comfort improved it, denying the use of it to parties on the other side of him because he had improved it, though in its previous condition it did for them. It must not be overlooked, either, that McLaren, or the original purchaser from the Government, paid a less price for the timber limits than they were worth because of the stream requiring some improvement, and it therefore follows that the first cost of the limits, and the improvements combined, is only the fair price for the timber, and McLaren is actually recouped his outlay in the price obtained for the timber. Let McLaren be successful in this attempt, and others will be found all over Ontario adopting the same discreditable means for the purpose of obtaining the timber of their competitors for less than its worth by preventing their access to a market, and this is just what McLaren has done by all he could frighten away. By a decision given some years ago McLaren conceived he had the law in his favor. In 1880 at Perth V. C. Proudfoot felt compelled by legal etiquette to follow the previous decision. Caldwell & Son appealed to the highest court in Ontario, and that court decided that the previous decision was given under a misapprehension of the law, and they therefore reversed it, giving Messrs. Caldwell & Son the right of the stream. In the meantime, seeing the injustice that was being done, and the consequent injury to trade and commerce, the Ontario Government grappled with the difficulty and enacted a law confirming the right of all parties to the use of rivers, streams and creeks, and also enacting that where private improvements were used by other than the parties who had made them, the owner should receive a fair compensation fixed by the Lieut.-Governor in Council. This is the Act disallowed by the Government at Ottawa, and that Act was disallowed for various reasons, amongst which are the following:

It was disallowed to gratify the personal ambition of two or three Tory M. P.'s who paid for the concession by slavish subserviency to the Government.

It was disallowed in order to put money in the pocket of an already wealthy supporter of the Government, with no doubt the full expectation of a liberal contribution for election purposes, even to the extent of "another ten thousand."

It was disallowed as part of the policy of the present Government of conciliating their followers from Quebec at the expense of Ontario.

It was disallowed as a snub to the Ontario Government because they refuse to bow down and worship the Image at Ottawa.

It was disallowed as a punishment to the men of Ontario for daring to exercise the privilege of freemen by their support of the Mowat Government.

It was disallowed in order to cripple Ontario by thus indirectly depriving her of a large portion of her revenues.

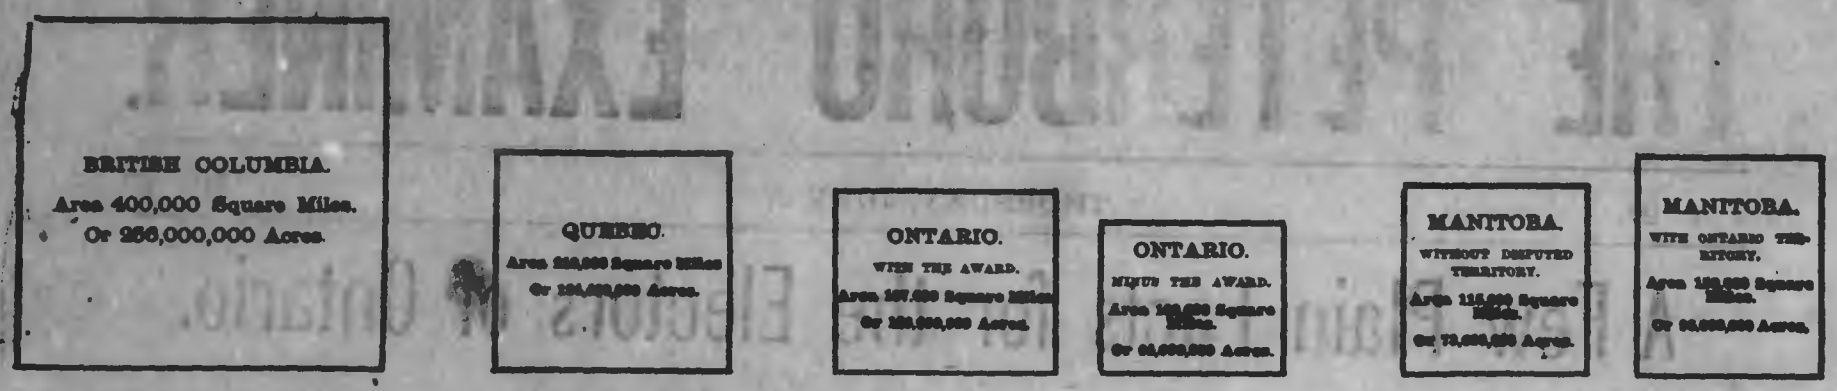
It was disallowed in pursuance of the centralization of power at Ottawa and the destruction of the independence of the Provinces.

At the elections now coming on you will be in a position to deal with every recreant representative from Ontario who by his vote assisted the Government at Ottawa in their assault upon the rights and liberties of this province. Let your election cry be "The Government of Ontario by Ontario's representatives." Let your weapon be the ballot, by which you can send back into their native obscurity the men who have aided in binding fetters upon Ontario and placing her at the feet and mercy of an unscrupulous Quebec majority.

MEN OF ONTARIO,

"Now is the time, and now is the hour,
See approach proud Quebec's power;
Quebec, chains and slavery."

COMPARATIVE SIZES OF THE LARGER PROVINCES.



The above "Squares," based upon a scale of 100,000 square miles to the inch, show at a glance the relative sizes of the four Provinces of British Columbia, Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba; of the Province of Ontario with and without the disputed territory; and lastly of the Province of Manitoba as enlarged (without disputed territory,) and with the disputed territory.

Ontario under the award is	197,000 square miles, or	126,080,000 acres
Ontario without the disputed territory	100,000 square miles, or	64,000,000 acres
Manitoba, as enlarged by part of the disputed territory	150,000 square miles, or	96,000,000 acres
Manitoba, without any disputed territory	115,000 square miles, or	73,600,000 acres
Quebec	210,000 square miles, or	134,400,000 acres
Repudiation of the award deprives Ontario of the region North of the height of land, which goes to no other Province	62,000 square miles, or	39,680,000 acres
And adds to Manitoba	35,000 square miles, or	22,400,000 acres
Amount of Lumber in the district added to Manitoba		25,000,000,000 feet
Value of this Lumber to Ontario		$125,000,000
Loss per head to the people of Ontario from Timber alone		65 cents
Total loss to each Ratepayer, not less than		$200
An Annual Tax forever on each taxpayer		15 cents

EAST PETERBORO'.

THE CONTEST AT KEENE.

Mr. Roxburgh Holds a Large and Encouraging Meeting.

On Wednesday night a meeting in Mr. Roxburgh's interest was held in the Town Hall, Keene. In spite of the steady drizzle of rain there was a large attendance of the honest yeomanry, of which about nine-tenths were Mr. Roxburgh's supporters.

The chair was occupied by Mr. John Laing, Reeve of Otonabee.

MR. ROXBURGH on coming forward was received with hearty cheers. He began by saying that the present contest marked a critical stage in the history of the country. The struggle, on one side at least was not for place and power but for an endorsation of the principles of the respective parties. He condemned the Northwest land policy of the government and the arrangements with the Pacific Railway Syndicate, which had been so favored by the government of the day that it possessed the power and exercised the functions of a crushing monopoly. It was a corporation endowed with immense power for evil and the governments were not free from its influence. Through its selfish and grasping policy the settlement of the Northwest would be retarded and the settler subjected to harrassing restrictions and impositions. He pointed out how Ontario at the dictation of the Bleu party of Quebec had been exposed to an attempt to deprive her of her rights. Referring to the fiscal policy of the government the speaker said that a country could not be considered a land of equality where distinctions are made in favor of the few against the interests of the mass of the people. The dissolution of parliament had taken place at an early date because the acts of the government were working against them—a bad crop would kill the vaunted benefit of the N. P., and to secure a verdict in their favor the government had attempted to crush out the influence of Ontario by the enactment of the iniquitous redistribution bill, in the framing of which the principle of representation had been utterly ignored, and he gave numerous instances to show that the equalization had not been made fairly and that the principle upon which Sir John unfairly claimed the redistribution had been made, had not been at all adhered to, even the county bounds had not been respected in framing the measure, which was so framed as to allow a minority in Ontario to give a nominal majority in parliament. The "Grits" had been so "hived" that nine constituencies were now so composed that they would give an aggregate majority equal to a majority of 100 in sixty-nine constituencies. In referring to the change in the appointment of Returning Officers he said his hearers would remember one instance in which a partizan returning officer had distinguished himself. The prosperous times in which we were and had been living were falsely attributed to the N. P. The N. P. had without doubt helped sugar refining and cotton spinning, etc., but there its benefits ceased and its burdens began. He showed that the increased prosperity of all classes was not due to the N. P. but to an increased foreign demand for the products of our fields and forests. The exports of lumber had so increased that since the N. P. came in force, the amount of money left in the country and representing our lumber export was nearly fourteen million dollars more in 1880-81 than before. This amount added to the money obtained for an exceptionally good crop, bringing extra prices in a foreign market, spent amongst our people would with other similar causes apart from the N. P. account for our greater prosperity, increasing the buying capacity of the people. He showed that no duty on grain can raise the price to the farmer, who produces more than the country needs. Canada farmers had not received the slightest advantage from the tariff because the average price of grains was higher before the imposition of the N. P. than at present. He believed in keeping Canada for the Canadians, but a few fattened manufacturing men, were by no means the whole of Canada, and the tariff so mischievously framed had decreased and crippled our own manufactures owing to the tax on raw material. The export of manufactured goods was decreasing. The tariff had increased the cost of living to the farmers who had received no corresponding benefit. The tariff pressed unequally and in effect discriminated against the poor man, especially in cotton and woollen goods. Referring to the Boundary Award matter, Mr. Roxburgh showed that the refusal of the Government to do Ontario justice, robbed this Province of 97,000 square miles of territory and timber to the value of 125 millions of dollars. Sir John had in this, as in other things, gone back on Ontario, at the threats of Quebec, which, through its jealousy of the growth of Ontario, rules Ontario. The disallowance of the Rivers and Streams bill was a high handed interference with local legislation, that implied an attack on the integrity of the Federal Union. The North-West land regulations, which promoted speculation, greatly retarded the settlement of that great territory, and permitted monopolists to enrich themselves and oppress the settler. After a telling speech of an hour, Mr. Roxburgh concluded by asking the audience if they would consent to unequal taxation, to assist in the encouragement of North-West land grabbers, to the detriment of the settler, to assist the return of Sir John and his Quebec masters to power, or would they cast their votes in favor of Canada's first and noblest statesman, Hon. Edward Blake? (Loud cheers.)

Mr. John Carnegie, of the Review, consumed an hour in reply to Mr. Roxburgh, using the stock arguments of the party—a little more fairly, perhaps, because he knew that he would be followed by Mr. John Bertram. He presented his case temperately and mildly, but made a bad trip in piling up his bunches of figures to prove that the N. P. had increased the price of spring wheat, only to have them tumbled down, greatly to the speaker's discomfiture, by a miller in the audience who asserted that the extra price of this grain was due to an improved mode of manufacture and not to the N. P., a statement that was received with loud cheers. The speaker took his seat, to give place to

Mr. John Bertram, who was glad that no personalties had been introduced. He felt that the last speaker felt he had a bad case to argue. He lacked the vim and vigor of 1878. He went over the ground traversed by Mr. Carnegie, showing up his fallacious and misleading deductions in a manner that brought out round after round of applause. He exploded the wool bubble and showed the greatness of the humbug of the wool duty by which a tax was imposed on wool grown in the country and eight millions of imported wool which we cannot produce in the country was allowed to come in scott free. The country was more prosperous because we raised more produce and had more to sell. Mr. Bertram referred in telling terms to the various political iniquities of the Government, and showed that Mr. Burnham was on hand with his support of their worst measures at every turn. Mr. B. made a splendid speech which was well received, and which will set many an elector to thinking in a way that will secure his vote for the cause of good government. The meeting was very orderly and good natured, and in fact was as pleasant a political gathering as one would wish to attend, but more pleasant for Mr. Roxburgh and his friends who were gratified by the evidence of its being overwhelmingly in his favor.

TAXATION AND INDEBTEDNESS.

Pregnant Facts For Consideration of Electors.

The Frightful Increase of Taxation.

Are Canadians aware of the frightful increase that has been made to their burdens and responsibilities during the last few years?

Are they aware that our taxation has increased 132 per cent. since Confederation, while our population has in the same time increased only 29 per. cent.?

Are they aware that our net debt has since Confederation increased from seventy five millions to more than double that huge sum?

Are they aware that the present Government in recklessly mortgaging our future is plunging daily into new extravagance, and is committing us to a scale of expenditure based on our revenue in prosperous times?

Let every Canadian ponder the facts given in the table below, and consider within himself whether it is not high time that this riotous extravagance should be stopped:—

TABLE SHOWING THE INCREASE OF TAXATION, AND THE RATE OF TAXATION PER HEAD.

Year ending June 30.	Assumed Population	Total Taxation Collected.	Rate of Taxation per head
1868	3,388,891	$13,687,928	$4 07
1869	3,460,721	14,379,174	4 23
1870	3,448,241	15,513,295	4 49
1871	3 485,761	19,220,520	5 55
1872	3,572,278	20,714,513	5 80
1873	3,668,795	20,813,469	5 70
1874	3,745,312	24,395,092	6 46
1875	3,831,829	24,648,715	6 43
1876	3,918,346	22,667,587	5 76
1877	4,004,863	24,688,274	5 59
1878	4,091,380	23,375,011	5 45
1879	4,177,897	22,517,382	5 39
1880	4,264,414	22,397,466	5 46
1881	4,294,810	29,636,297	6 88
1882	4,416,714	31,810,000	7 02

(Sir L. Tilley's estimate.)

[NOTE.—The "assumed population" is calculated by alloting to each year an equal proportion of the decennial rate of increase as shown by the census. The method of comparison is adopted, although it does not bring out the full measure of the extravagance of the Conservative Governments. It is an admitted fact—see late pamphlets issued by the Government on the Exodus question—that the Canadian population increased much faster in Mackenzie's time than before or since, owing to an influx which then occurred from the United States. If this influx were allowed for, the expenditure in Mackenzie's time, from 1873 to 1878, would be less per head than is shown in the above statement.]

From this statement the public will learn:—

That the taxation collected has increased in fifteen years from $13,687,928 to $31,810,000, an increase of $18,122,072 or 132 per cent.

That the rate of taxation per head has increased from $4.07 to $7.02, an increase of $2.95, or 74 per cent.

That the rate of taxation STEADILY INCREASED during the Conservative regime of 1868-74 (Mr. Mackenzie assumed office in November, 1874, but the rate of taxation for that year had already been settled by his predecessors in office.)

That with the entrance of a Reform Government A STEADY DIMINUTION began of the rate of taxation per head, and that this continued till 1879, the estimates for which year were prepared by Mr. Mackenzie's Government.

That with the access to office of the N. P. Government the taxation took a bound upward until it reached the present appalling figures.

Bad as these figures are, they do not show the real extent of the new burdens borne by the people. As well as the new taxation paid into the treasury, there is a vast sum of new taxation paid to protected monopolists under the N. P. From seven to ten millions is a very low estimate of these N. P. taxes diverted into monopolists' pockets. Take the smaller sum, $7,000,000, and add it to the $31,810,000, and it will be seen that the amount of taxation levied in this country

HAS BEEN TREBLED SINCE THE DATE OF CONFEDERATION.

Turn from this disturbing statement to a consideration of our indebtedness. We shall find that the situation is no less alarming in respect to our national debt than it is with respect to our national expenditure:—

TABLE SHOWING THE INCREASE OF THE NATIONAL DEBT.

1st July.	Net Debt.
1867	$ 75,732,641
1881	155,395,780
Increase	$79,663,139

Or 105 per cent.

1st July.	Gross Debt
1867	$ 93,848,651
1881	189,981,987
Increase	$166,815,486

Or 115 per cent.

It is no cause for wonder that the workingman should find his wages produce fewer comforts when he is burdened with such enormous taxes, which designedly are made to fall more heavily upon him than upon the rich.

Every person who votes for the present Government endorses the latter's extravagance and does his best to secure an increase of taxation and debt.

Every person who votes against the Government signifies his wish that this profligate expenditure should be checked before the nation is bankrupted.

SPAIN AND TARIFF TYRANNY.

Spain shows the utmost vigor at the most unexpected times. When all Europe including herself, was, with the exception of England, under Napoleon's feet and with little apparent hope of raising itself, Spain suddenly showed signs of national life and was so courageous that she won with the help of England and secured her freedom. Now when all Europe is being bound—all the more hopelessly because by its own hands—with the chains of protective tariffs, when France, Germany, Italy and Austria are all tightening the chains, Spain takes the lead once more, and with spirit begins to break the chains which fetter trade and commerce. She has decided, in spite of the rebellious attitude of Catalonia and some of the manufacturing provinces which have long fattened at the cost of the country as a whole, to reduce her tariff gradually for a space of ten years. We suppose that the gradual reduction is for the purpose of protecting, as far as possible, vested interests and of preventing fiscal disturbances, which would probably ensue if sudden and great reductions were made. It is intended, however, to require that the nations benefitting by the opening of Spain's gates to their products shall reciprocate by light duties upon Spanish goods. This movement of Spain calls to mind the fact that the word "tariff" is of Spanish origin, from the town of Tarifa, where the Moorish rulers of the country, during their domination, compelled all vessels passing through the Straits of Gibraltar to pay a tax.

The General Election.

The general election is now on the tapis. It may perhaps be a useful hint to intimate that an absolute need at the polls may be obtained by the judicious distribution to the electors of PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, the great remedy for corns. Every sufferer would be made happy, and would certainly vote for the person affording them relief. Safe, sure, painless. Beware of dangerous substitutes. 39

MR. HILLIARD'S MEETING.

Last Friday night Mr. Hilliard held his first town meeting of the campaign in the Opera House. There was a pretty large attendance, the party composition being about equally divided between Reformers and Conservatives, the former, if anything having the advantage in point of numbers. The Conservative element was largely represented by boys who performed the functions of claqueurs as vigorously and industriously as if they were working by the piece. The meeting was a very pleasant one and the best of feeling generally prevailed.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson occupied the chair and felt it his duty to puff the N. P. profusely and make the rather uncharitable assertion that the Tories supported the National Policy from patriotic motives while the Reformers opposed it for party ends.

Mr. Hilliard desired to give an account of his stewardship for the four years he had been in parliament—or at least, been a member of the House. He threw on the Grits the blame for the premature dissolution of the House. Their wicked opposition to the N. P. had discouraged the untold billions of capital that was boxed and ready for shipment to Canada, but was withheld till the people had endorsed the N. P. He was loud in praise of the surplus that the government he blindly supported had accumulated by burdening the people with taxation. He brought up the oft disproved argument that the N. P. had increased the price of spring wheat, the only instance and that a false one, the Tory canvassers have dared to bring out, of the farmers being benefitted by the present tariff. He next trotted out Dr. Orton's miserable claptrap committee report, trying to extract comfort for the farmer from its cooked compilation of figures.

Mr. Hilliard's explanation of the manner in which he shirked his parliamentary duties was one of the lamest exhibitions that a public man ever made on a public platform. He admitted having been at Ottawa twenty days out of a session of sixty-three days and that after deducting the cost of travelling expenses incurred in looking after his own business he netted the paltry sum of $437 or about $22.50 per day. As an example of his genius for financing he stated that he had made a computation and that that amount was exactly a tenth of a mill to each Canadian, and this puerile nonsense was received with cheers!

Referring to the Trent Valley Canal scheme, he felt positive, judging perhaps from the way Sir John always kept election promises that the government would build the canal and that the Grits had better keep mum over the matter. He will see how "mum" the government will be about it when it has served its purpose as an electioneering dodge.

Coming to the Disallowance matter, he entered into a profuse and rambling account of the origin of the vetoed legislation, ending the subject by gliding off into a narrative of his personal grievances about some boom or slides.

He disparaged Mr. Landy as a candidate, and said his address was insincere, because he had refused to subscribe to the stock of the Car-Works, and that he was a perfectly useless citizen.

Mr. John Bertram then followed, and in a rattling speech of an hour, let in a flood of common sense daylight on the specious statements, called arguments, that had been advanced. He said in commenting on Mr. Hilliard's disparaging remarks on Mr. Landy, that the latter gentleman was well-known to all the citizens, and that he had twice in succession secured the highest honor in the gift of the town. He had not subscribed to the Car-Works stock, because the scheme had not commended itself to his business judgment on account of the increased price of freight and raw material, caused by the unwise taxation policy of the present Government. He said the present fiscal policy of the Government was a mere machine for taxing the people, and he showed that in spite of the N. P. the country was enjoying prosperity through bountiful harvests and the increased demand abroad of the products of our fields and forests by which immense sums of money had been circulated in the country. He read letters from Messrs. Peter and William Hamilton, which asserted that by reason of the unwise and unfair duties on raw material the tariff had been an injury rather than a benefit to their business—statements which were received with hearty applause. These gentlemen had been defrauded by an unjust tariff, of the profit that they would have received naturally from a return of good times, consequent on an increased demand abroad for the farmers' grain and the lumberman's lumber. The speaker had more than once asked Mr. Hilliard if the N. P. had benefitted his business and he was silent, as the audience could see, he was silent then. He showed that the tariff, without readjustment, such as Mr. Blake proposed, imposed duties that discriminated unfairly against the poor man, both in the matter of cottons and woollens, quoting several pointed and pertinent examples, and clenching his arguments in a way that called out loud applause. The speaker showed that the cost of living was greater now than before the burden of an unjust and unequally-pressing tariff was imposed on the country. He showed the hollowness of the claim of the N. P. to raising the rate of wages. They were an invairable incident of seasons of prosperity. Wages were higher in 1875 than they were in 1881, and then no National Policy was to blame for that. He touched upon the Pacific Railway Syndicate, and the extortionate monopoly that the Government, assisted by Mr. Hilliard's vote, had put in the power of this company to exercise. He made several capital points on this subject, and his remarks had so great weight and produced so evident an effect, that after Mr. John Carnegie had got over his usual diatribe, delivered, perhaps, a little more fluently than usual, Mr. Hilliard thought it necessary to try to neutralize the good seed for thought that had been sown by Mr. Bertram, by giving a proxy reading of the whole of the Dominion land regulations, delivering its closing sections to an audience that comprised about one-tenth of the original gathering; the majority having left at the conclusion of Mr. Bertram's speech.

The meeting was a very satisfactory one, especially to the supporters of Mr. Landy, for Mr. Hilliard, by his lame explanations and those of his assistant, did little to strengthen his chances.

A NEW CATECHISM IN DRAYTON.

Q.—What is rheumatism?

A.—Rheumatism is a humorous sensation that causes men to rub their joints with St. Jacobs Oil, play practical jokes throw things around, wear crutches and stay indoors, swathed in red flannel.—Drayton (C.) New Era.

Q.—What is St. Jacobs Oil?

A.—A peculiar substance of a very penetrating nature, which causes rheumatism to leave the system astonishingly quick,—insuring evenness of temper thereby, and ability to do one's work satisfactorily. It bandishes crutches, attires flannels, produces happiness, and brings us down to a serene old age without the martyrdrom of pain.—Exchange.

THE PACIFIC SWINDLE.

THE PROVINCIAL TREASURER PUTS THE CASE IN A PRACTICAL FORM.

At his meeting in the Opera Hall, on Friday night, Mr. Hilliard was most enthusiastic in his praises of the Pacific Railway Syndicate contract, and declared a renewal of his allegiance to a Government that could make so grand and beneficial a bargain. We commend to the electors a careful reading of the following comparison made by Hon. S. C. Wood, one of the speakers at a meeting in Lindsay last week. On the surrender of the Northwest to the Syndicate he said:

Let us suppose that twenty men in the town of Lindsay form a syndicate to buy 50,000 acres of land in the Q'Appelle valley, for the purpose of selling to actual settlers. They decide that it would be necessary and advantageous to the settlement to build a grist mill to grind grain for the settlers, and that by so doing they would probably double the value of their lands. We'll suppose Mr. Hudspeth is appointed leading director to carry out the building of that mill. He goes on for awhile and buys material and commences construction; but finds the distance is so great and the expense so heavy that he says to his fellow directors, "I think we had better get contractors to build the mill." He accordingly negotiates with some contractors, who say, "we want $10,000 in cash, and 10,000 acres in land." And Mr. Hudspeth says, "we will give you that." He is ready to close the bargain but the contractor says, "Wait a moment. We want all our capital stock exempted from Dominion, municipal, and provincial taxation. We want you to pay the duty on our material and machinery—(laughter)—and after the mill is built we must own the mill." (Renewed laughter.) Mr. Hudspeth says, "I don't know but it is all right; it's a long way off there; and you had better go on and build the mill. Let us sign the contract." But the contractors reply. "No, not yet. These 10,000 acres of land must not be taxed for the next twenty years unless we sell or occupy it. You must not tax this mill for all time to come, and you must not allow any other mill to be built in competiton with this mill—(cheers and laughter)— you must let us build mills wherever we want to, and you must give us all the land we want for this purpose." (Renewed cheers and laughter.) Mr. Hudspeth says "this is a pretty hard bargain; but still after all we had better close it up." But the contractor says, "not just yet. (Laughter.) We must be allowed to charge all the tolls for grinding we please until we make ten per cent on the money we put in, ten per cent. on the $10,000 you put in, ten per cent. on the 10,000 acres of land you gave us, and ten per cent on the part of the mill you built for us." (Cheers and great laughter.) Mr. Hudspeth agrees to this; and we can fancy him coming home and telling his brother directors that he had made this bargain but it required their ratification. Then another contractor with plenty of money who had just heard of the bargain, comes along and offers to build the mill for $8,000 and 8,000 acres of land, with no exemption from taxes or duty, with no conditions securing a grinding monopoly. (Cheers). Were there twenty men in the town of Lindsay who would not accept the second offer? (Cheers.) It would not do to say that the men who made the second offer were not men of the highest character financial strength and position. The contract itself was so good that any sixteen men without a dollar of capital in the world could have carried it out. (Cheers) the fact was that every member of the syndicate had been made a millionaire by act of Parliament. Men can invest and lose or make money but there were things you could not get back unless you take action and guard them at the proper time, and one was the rights of a free people. (Loud Cheers.)

Vote for Lundy & Roxburgh, and a system of Taxation that will not make the poor man's burden greater than the rich man's.

THE FARMERS SNUBBED.

Farmers, mechanics and labouring men of this county, listen to the praises of Sir John Macdonald by those who are seeking office or emolument from him, by those who are working for themselves and not for you, and then read the following: "At Mr. Allison's meeting at Wilton, (Lennox) Mr. Slaven (dry-goods merchant of Napanee) narrated the following incident as having taken place in his presence. Upon Sir John's late visit to Napanee in company with Lady Macdonald they put up at the Huffman House. The gallant knight upon entering the dining-room found a respectable farmer of the county seated at the table, and requested him to withdraw, as Lady Macdonald would shortly come in. The farmer withdrew, and his good opinion of Sir John went out at the same time." And, if after the above you can vote for and support this man, who considers it a disgrace to himself and his wife to even allow one of you to be in the same room with them, then I say you deserve just such treatment as was given to the honest old farmer above. Every man in Canada is a freeman, and labour is honorable, and the man who makes his living by honest industry is better than the greatest political trickster that ever lived. Respect yourselves and then others will respect you also. Yours fraternally,

LABOURER.

ANOTHER TRICK EXPOSED.

The report having been circulated by the friends of Mr. Burnham, that Thos. Buck, Esq., had become a convert to the National Policy of the government, and was supporting the government candidate, the following explicit denial will set the matter in its true light.

NORWOOD, June 13th, 1882.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Having learned that some unscrupulous friend of Mr. Burnham has maliciously put in circulation, the statement that I am favourable to the National Policy and a supporter of Mr. Burnham, I take this the earliest opportunity of unqualifiedly contradicting the statement, and to say that I am opposed to the National Policy as being a direct injury both to the farmer and to the lumberman, and that I will vote for Mr. Roxburgh and use every influence I possess to secure his return as member for East Peterborough.

Yours, very truly,
THOMAS BUCK.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JNUE 15, 1882.

Hon. Edward Blake.

It is, perhaps, unnecessary to remind the public that on to-morrow afternoon (Friday) they will have the pleasure of hearing this great orator in the Drill Shed, Peterborough. The shed will be seated to a certain extent for ladies. Hon. Mr. Blake will arrive in town by special train at noon on Friday. He will be met at the station by a few of his friends, and after lunching at the Choate House, George Street, he will—at two o'clock—address the electors. We confidently expect the same fair and uninterrupted hearing for Mr. Blake that was accorded to Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Plumb on their recent appearance in the same place.

To the Rescue.

Mr. E. J. Toker, "joint" editor of the Review, is called, in last Monday's issue, from his usual employment—minding his own business—to the rescue of his associate, whose unsparing and liberally distributed abuse has recoiled on his own head in a drubbing—well-deserved on general principles, if not in the case in question—in a letter from an Irishman that appeared in the last number of THE EXAMINER. The editorial letter of Mr. T. attempts to explain away the odium attached to Mr. Carnegie on account of an article published in the Review, insulting and belittling the Irish immigrants who recently arrived in Peterborough, and to relieve Mr. C. from responsibility in the matter.

We should not have noticed the affair if Mr. Toker had not asserted that the letter complained of was concocted in THE EXAMINER office, an assertion which if he does not know to be false he certainly does not know to be true. It is, of course, utterly incorrect. The letter referred to was neither dictated, concocted nor suggested in this office; in fact, our first knowledge of the obnoxious nature of the insulting report that gave origin to the letter, was when our attention was called to it by several indignant Irishmen.

"As a matter of fact," says Mr. T., "Mr. C. did not see the report till the following morning," though how Mr. T. can honestly assert as a fact what did not necessarily come within his knowledge, one is at a loss to know. The next morning happened to be Sunday, yet the sacred and softening influences of the day did not induce Mr. C. to correct the report, repudiate the slander or apologise for it, in fact the management of the Review practically endorsed it, for though they were so much afraid of republishing it that it was not inserted in the weekly edition, yet from the day of its publication to the present not one word of apology for the insult has been made, in fact Mr. Toker's letter if anything justifies it.

It has been the steady aim and policy of the Review, steadily and persistently carried out, to visit upon the editor of THE EXAMINER and those Reformers who have been and are now taking an active part in politics all imaginable vilification and abuse in season and out of season, and we gravely doubt if such language as the Review has permitted itself to use toward THE EXAMINER and the Reform party, has ever disgraced the columns of any other journal. In the present contest it has never omitted an opportunity of attempting to stir up ill feeling between ourselves and Messrs. Burnham and Hilliard, and making them believe that we attacked them on personal grounds; it has abused the Reform candidates unsparingly, and it must not wince if the "chickens," to speak popularily, have returned "home to roost."

We have overlooked the abuse of the Review some time past, only noticing it incidentally as other themes suggested allusion to it, but if the Review continues to use the Billingsgate language it has employed toward us time after time for the past four weeks, we shall, if forced into the position, use its own weapons, and call a spade a spade with no fear of the result.

THE DOMINION ELECTIONS.

Peterboro Electors' Guide for the Coming Contest.

HOW TO MARK THE BALLOT

The Qualification and Disqualification of Voters—Farmers' Sons and Income Voters.

The following are specimens of marked Ballots, such as will be used at the coming General Elections for the Dominion House of Commons:—

ELECTION FOR THE ELECTORAL DISTRICT OF WEST PETERBORO'. 1882.

HILLIARD.

1. GEORGE HILLIARD, of the Town of Peterborough, Lumber Merchant. X

LUNDY.

2. JOHN JAMES LUNDY, of the Town of Peterborough, Esquire.

ELECTION FOR THE ELECTORAL DISTRICT OF EAST PETERBORO'. 1882.

BURNHAM.

1. JOHN BURNHAM, of the village of Ashburnham, Barrister-at-law. X

ROXBURGH.

2. W. E. ROXBURGH, of the village of Norwood, Merchant.

HOW TO MARK THE BALLOTS.

1. Be sure and mark your ballot for the Liberal candidate.

2. "The elector, on receiving the ballot-paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the apartments of the polling station, and there mark his ballot-paper, marking a cross with a pencil on any part of the ballot-paper within the division (or if there are more than one to be elected, within the divisions) containing the name (or names) of the candidate (or candidates) for whom he intends to vote, and shall then fold up such ballot-paper, so that the initials on the back can be seen without opening it, and hand it to the Deputy Returning-officer, who shall, without unfolding it, ascertain, by examining the initials and the number upon the counterfoil, that it is the same he furnished to the elector, and, shall first detach and destroy the counterfoil, and then immediately, and in the presence of the elector, place the ballot-paper in the ballot-box."—Ballot Act, Sec. 46.

3. No voters should mark on the ballot-paper save one cross on any part of the ballot-paper within the division containing the candidate's name for whom he intends to vote. If the voter writes his name or initials or any remarks he makes his ballot useless.

4. A simple cross upon the ballot for your candidate will assist in electing him. Any other mark or writing will contribute to his defeat.

5. No voter is allowed to take his ballot away from the polling booth to show how he voted, under a penalty of $200; and no person shall directly or indirectly induce him to show his ballot paper after he has marked it, under a penalty of $200.
